Air Business Of RCA Gains, Says Sarnoff

Increases Were General In All Branches

Increased volume of business in each of the radio fields in which it is engaged marked RCA's activity during 1937, according to its president, David Sarnoff.

In communications, the volume of messages transmitted showed a material increase over any previous year. In broadcasting, sales of network time by NBC were the largest in the company's history. In manufacturing, the sale of RCA-Victor products increased substantially over the preceding year.

Improvements during the year in its three fields included: in communications—an automatic SOS radio alarm for the greater safety of ships at sea, and new and improved radio direction-finders for aviation and marine use; broadcasting—the number of affiliated NBC stations was increased

Stanley Asks Views On Separate Quotas

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

London, Jan. 2.—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, has circularized all organizations in the film industry asking for their comments on the alternative of a separate quota proposal for incorporation in the Films Bill.

Producers are believed to favor the plan for a provisional adjustment of quotas. Labor is generally but unofficially favorable, withholding its decision pending a meeting with producers scheduled for tomorrow. Exhibitors, fearing that such a plan would bring about a reduction of the number of available films, are opposed.

NEW M-G-M PACT DETAILS GO OUT

Schenck Letter Explains Proposals to Company Stockholders

Details of the 11 proposed new profit-sharing contracts for M-G-M executives became known over the weekend with the receipt by stockholders of Nicholas M. Schenck's letter and accompanying summary. The letter asks for proxies to be voted at a meeting to be held Jan. 25.

The profits to be shared are not a percentage of the total net of the company, but are to be computed after a number of deductions have been made. These deductions include $2,612,424, which is now $2 per share on the outstanding common stock, annually. Stock issued as a stock dividend is exempted from this provision. A deduction of $2 per share also is to be made for stock issued in the future, including shares to be issued under stock options. A third deduction will be up to seven per cent annually for cumulative dividends on present and future preferred stock. A fourth deduction will be for all taxes, except taxes from profits where these profits are not included as income for the benefit of the employe.

In computing the profits the pro-

New "U" Men Take Posts Officially

E. K. O'Shea, who replaced Scully as eastern district manager of M-G-M, has occupied that post for the past two weeks. Major Leslie E. Thompson and John O'Connor take over the bulk of Blumberg's former duties as head of RKO theatres, with indications at this time that no operating head will be designated to succeed Blumberg for another month.

Firm Government Shakeup Of French Industry Certain

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, Jan. 2.—A drastic revision of the entire French film industry is in prospect, it was clearly indicated on Friday with the publication of the conclusions of the Government's official inquiry of the industry, which points will be incorporated in a new French film bill now in preparation.

Such stipulations as a move for single bill programs, control of theatre receipts by the Government and a new tax on dubbing are expected to be vigorously fought by exhibitors and distributors, especially the American companies, which would be severely hit.

The chief points which are expected to be incorporated in the new film legislation include: a moral cleanup, prohibiting any person involved in bankruptcy or convicted of an offense from engaging in production or distribution; protection of French production by a special tax on dubbing, and urging the State Dep't to consider such protection in negotiating foreign trade agreements; limitation of program length to encourage production of shorts, seen as a training ground for directors; the application of the measure by the Government if trade organizations do not do so; improve the financing of French production by nu-flash reports from the various district managers.

Because of the incomplete nature of the reports, no estimate of the percentage of decrease was available but indications are that the difference, on the whole, is slight.

Broadway business continued at capacity volume in most houses following a Friday and Saturday daytime letdown. Estimates placed Broadway business at approximately 10 per cent over last year's gross for the holiday week. Virtually all Broadway first runs remained open New Year's Eve for early morning shows, and the Capitol, Loew's State, Paramount, Strand and Roxy had their doors open at 4 A. M. and after, Saturday morning. Stage show houses ran six complete performances on Friday with the feature continuing after the last stage show.

"Tovarich" garnered $17,900 in the opening day at the Music Hall, indicating the week's take will approximate $125,000 or better. The picture is expected to stay three weeks with "Snow White" to follow.

posed contracts provide for other deductions from profits before the shares of the contract holders are computed.

Fixed compensation paid the contract holders will be deducted.

Profits or losses from 25 per cent owned subsidiaries will be included to the extent of the ownership. Dividends or receipts from other companies will be included only if actually earned and paid to Loew's. Dividends on preferred stock held by Loew's in other companies will be deducted in computing Loew's share of net profits. Only cash received from real estate sales will be included in profits. Reserves and depreciation will be deducted.

The compensation of David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer, remains the same as at present—$2,000 per week, plus one and one-half per cent of the profits. The new agreement extends his present contract from Jan. 1, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1943. His present stock option is not affected.

Hyman Pact to 1945

Bernard H. Hyman's contract as production supervisor at $3,250 per week is extended from March 4, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1945, and he will be entitled to seven-tenths of one per cent of the profits starting Jan. 1, 1939.

Samuel Katz, executive supervisor of production at $3,000 weekly, gets an extension from Oct. 7, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1945, with 1.4 per cent of the profits added starting Jan. 1, 1939.

Mervyn LeRoy's recently signed three-year contract as advisory executive, producer-director and producer, which is to be effective not later than March 15, 1938, at $3,500 weekly plus $29,500 quarterly, is to be changed, so that in lieu of the $29,500 quarterly he will receive seven-tenths of one per cent of the profits, starting Jan. 1, 1939.

Al Lichtman's present contract as an executive at $3,000 weekly expires Nov. 17, 1938. The proposed new contract extends this to Dec. 31, 1938, at the same terms and for seven years thereafter. From Jan. 1, 1939, he will receive in addition 1.05 per cent of the profits.

Extend Mannix Contract

Edgar J. Mannix now gets $2,500 weekly, plus $500 weekly for expenses. This contract expires Nov. 6, 1938. It will be extended to Dec. 31, 1938, and thereafter for seven years he will receive $3,000 weekly, plus 1.4 per cent of the profits.

Louis B. Mayer's new contract as an executive and managing director of production will run from Jan. 1, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1942, at $3,000 weekly, plus 6.77 per cent of the profits. If his contract is terminated during this period he will be entitled to 10 per cent of the net profits on further distribution of the pictures produced from April 7, 1924, to the date of the termination of the contract, and also on pictures half completed at the time of the termination, after deducting distribution expenses and production costs not previously charged off. Foreign receipts will not be included until actually received in the United States. He will get a percentage on reissues. His stock option agreement, made Dec. 15, 1932, will continue.

Harry Rapf's agreement as a production supervisor will be extended from April 8, 1939, at $2,200 weekly, to April 8, 1943, plus .0035 per cent of the profits starting Jan. 1, 1939.

J. Robert Rubin's proposed contract provides for continuance of his present pact from Jan. 1, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1943 at $2,000 weekly, plus 1.4 per cent. Upon termination of his new contract he will be entitled to 5.4 per cent of the net distribution profits from the further distribution of pictures produced from April 7, 1924 to the date of the termination.

Stromberg Gets Share

Hunt Stromberg's present contract as a supervisor runs to Dec. 5, 1942. It calls for $5,000 weekly, plus a bonus of $15,000 for each picture over eight produced in any one year. The new agreement extends his contract two years, except for the bonus provision, and adds 1.05 per cent of the profits starting Jan. 1, 1939.

Benjamin Thau receives $1,750 weekly under his present agreement until Dec. 1, 1938. Under the proposed new arrangement he will receive seven-tenths of one per cent of the profits with his present salary until Dec. 31, 1945.

L. A. Weingarten, production supervisor, is now under contract to Dec. 30, 1941, at $2,500, with yearly increases up to $3,250. The proposed agreement increases his salary to $3,250 weekly, starting Jan. 1, 1939, and adding .0035 per cent of the profits starting Jan. 1, 1939.

Thanks from Farley

Washington, Jan. 2.—Appreciation of the assistance rendered by Wilkes-Barre radio stations when it appeared possible that bombs had been sent through the mails, was voiced tonight by Postmaster General James A. Farley in his annual report.

Farley explained that on April 9, 1936, six bombs were mailed at Wilkes-Barre to as many persons in the vicinity of that city. On the following day, two of the bombs exploded when opened by the recipients, resulting in the death of three persons and the permanent injury of two others.

"The local radio stations were pressed into service and made repeated broadcasts at 15-minute intervals warning possible recipients against the opening of similar packages," he said. The stations are WBAX and WBRE.

The sender was apprehended, convicted and sentenced to death, it was stated.

merous means, among them Government control of theatre receipts and guarantees by producers, plus the application of the recent credit law large reduction in the special entertainment tax; application of the 40-hour week law to production; creation of a Government organization centralizing all film departments heretofore scattered through various Government ministries.

The whole industry unquestionably will welcome the 40-hour week law's application and the reduction of the special entertainment tax, but such drastic measures as limitation of programs, control of receipts and the dubbing tax certainly will meet with stubborn opposition.

Industry circles expressed considerable anxiety Friday when it was revealed that the plan on the entertainment tax had been adopted by the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies. According to the measure, the tax would be reduced 30 per cent for theatres with stage shows, vaudeville and orchestras, but would be increased 30 per cent for those houses without the stage attractions, when the net receipts of the previous month exceed 200,000 francs ($6,700)

The French Syndical Chamber, distributor and exhibitor associations are protesting vigorously, since they see in the measures a resulting increase by six per cent of the entertainment tax. The necessity for stage shows would mean single feature programs, which would cut heavily into the revenues of distributors and producers, and increase exhibitors' expense without a corresponding increase in receipts.

Sales of Loew And Warners Stocks Shown

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Dispos[illegible] of common stock holdings in Lo[illegible] Inc., and Warner Brothers by officers of both corporations were disclosed in the semi-monthly report of November of the S.E.C.

Arthur M. Loew disposed of 100 shares of Loew's, Inc., common, reducing his holdings to 195 shares, and J. Robert Rubin disposed of 800 common shares, reducing his holdings to 16,155 shares, and with the disposition of 350 shares, wiped out the interest of his holding company in the corporation's $6.50 cumulative preferred. Loew's, Inc., increased its holdings of Loew's Boston Theatres common to 97,818 shares, through the acquisition of 58 shares.

Disposition by gift of his total holdings of 500 shares of Warner Brothers common was reported by Joseph H. Hazen, officer. Albert Warner reported the disposition of 2,800 shares of common, reducing his holdings to 61,648 shares, and Jack L. Warner reported disposition of 80,000 optional six per cent convertible debentures, reducing his holdings to 1,208,000.

Two Warners Heavy Holders

At the close of the month, other holdings in Warner Brothers were 88,060 shares of common and 10,618 shares of $3.85 cumulative preferred by Jack L. Warner direct and 4,500 shares of preferred through a holding company; and 10,618 shares of preferred and 1,794,000 optional six per cent convertible debentures by Albert Warner direct and 4,500 shares of preferred and 5,460 debentures through holding companies.

The summary revealed the disposition, at various times throughout the month, of 5,100 common voting trust certificates of Columbia Pictures by Jack Cohn, which reduced his holdings to 32,607.

Reports from Edward L. Alperson and Timothy F. Murphy, both officers and directors in Grand National Films, showed that the former received 2,550 and the latter 250 shares of common stock in November as compensation; at the close of the period, Alperson held 38,496 shares of common and Murphy 250 shares. Kirk W. Todd, Pittsburgh, director, reported the sale of 2,000 shares of common, reducing his Grand National holdings to 3,050 shares.

Cagney Returns to Warners March 14

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3.—Ending the longest talent contract dispute in Hollywood history, James Cagney and Warners today completed an agreement under which the star who made two pictures for Grand National during his absence from Warners agreed to return to Warners March 14. Jack Warner and Cagney issued joint statements in which they said that all details finalizing consummation of the actor's early return to Warners are now in the hands of attorneys and will be completed shortly.

Agreement between Cagney and Warners had been rumored for months and, while the announcement is no real surprise here, conjecture exists over whether or not Cagney will make one more Grand National Picture be-

Broadway New Year Takes Go Over Quarter Million

Over a quarter of a million dollars was taken in by Broadway theatres over the long holiday weekend. Most houses on New Year's Eve kept open until almost dawn and standees were reported at practically all performances. The bad weather on Saturday and Sunday did not make much impression on the attendance.

The Music Hall, including Thursday, opening day, reported $82,000 with "Tovarich." At the Strand "Submarine D-1" grossed $26,241 for the weekend. The Rivoli reported that it was doing nicely with "Hitting a New High." The weekend figure for this house was not available, but the first week's take was estimated at $22,500.

"Love and Hisses" at the Roxy filled the theatre to capacity and there were standees at every performance. The take over the weekend was put at $55,000. There were seven performances at the Paramount on New Year's Day and six the following day. The attraction was "Wells Fargo" and Fred Waring's band on the stage. The combination rolled

Allied Will Await Theatre Law Test

Allied States will sponsor no new theatre "divorce" legislation until the constitutionality of the enacted North Dakota statute has been determined, it was stated yesterday by W. A. Steffes, Northwest Allied leader and a director of the national organization, who is in New York from Minneapolis for the week.

Steffes reported that the taking of depositions of branch managers at Minneapolis and officials of Minnesota and American Amusement companies was begun in Minneapolis yesterday as a preliminary to Paramount's test of the constitutionality of the North Dakota statute. The test case may be heard by a special statutory Federal court of three judges at Fargo in the spring. In accordance with the Allied decision of waiting for the outcome of the test case, the independent exhibitor organization which sponsored the North Dakota measure

MPTOA Will Press 10-Point Program

The M.P.T.O.A. will press for the acceptance and adoption by distributors of its 10-point trade practice program during 1938, Ed Kuykendall, president, stated in a general bulletin issued to members of the organization yesterday.

Citing the solid exhibitor support manifested for the trade program during his national tour of last fall, Kuykendall scores the "resistance of the distributors to these practical and reasonable proposals for improved trade relations" and fixes the responsibility for the failure of the M.P.T.O.A. move

20th-Fox Ahead of Schedule—Zanuck

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—The current season's production lineup of 20th Century-Fox will be completed in three and one-half months, considerably ahead of schedule, Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of production, declared here today, en route with his party to New York to attend the opening of "In Old Chicago" at the Astor there on Thursday night.

Zanuck said he has four "A" pictures starting now and that his next big production will be "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which will be followed next fall by "Stanley and Livingstone," also considered by the studio an unusually big attraction. He said the company plans to make 54 features again next year and that preparations for them are now being made. The same number will be made in each classification as this year, Zanuck declared. There are no important changes in studio personnel contemplated, he said.

"Chicago" Opening Draws Coast Group

A coast contingent headed by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox; Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of production; Col. Jason Joy and Alice Faye, who plays the feminine lead, will attend the opening of "In Old Chicago" at the Astor on Broadway Friday night. The film will have an indefinite run on a two-a-day policy, replacing "The Hurricane," which closed last week.

Sidney R. Kent, 20th Century-Fox president, will be host to Zanuck at a cocktail party at the Waldorf-Astoria today, to which the press and industry executives have been invited.

Film Stocks $251,198,750 Off in 1937

Total Market Value Put at $623,738,750

The advance in film stock issues that started late in 1932 and swept through the next four years was interrupted during 1937 by a general market decline. Market valuation of listed film company shares on the New York Stock Exchange dropped $251,198,750 to a total of $623,738,750, compared with $874,937,500 at the end of 1936.

Though point losses in the film stocks ranged from 1½ points to 87¾ points, their depreciation on a percentage basis, was less than most other stock groups on the board. Contributing factors in support of film stocks were a continued favorable earnings trend by leading producers, well-sustained box-office receipts in face of a general business recession and an undercurrent of optimism that the economic reversal would be of a temporary nature.

Favorable earnings reports by leading film units supported the contention that none of the factors chiefly responsible for the prolonged depression that was ushered in in 1929 is

Insiders' Outlook

By A-MIKE VOGEL

THE greatest film story last week was not on the screen. That designation went to the drama unfolded in the stirring account of the cameramen who got the Panay bombing.

The story wrote itself. It started in beseiged Nanking, continued on the deck of the U.S.S. Panay where Alley and Mayell stayed with it while the ship sank beneath them. Then days of wandering with their precious negatives to be picked up eventually by a searching American gunboat. In Shanghai, the Navy took custody of films, released them in time to make the China Clipper. Mayell remained, the wounded Alley is "advised" to leave.

At Alameda, a heavily-guarded plane picked up film, was forced down by storm. Movietone, using two lines to insure delivery, met same experience. New York home offices planned frantically, moved swiftly. Heavy insurance, armored cars, police escorts, photographers at Newark Airport, page one stories and photos finished the scenario.

Just eighteen days after the bombing some 12,500 miles away, the American public was made aware exactly of what actually had happened and how, by the newsreels' indelible recording and the courage of the men behind the cameras.

Discounting the high expectancies of Christmas Week, there remains something to be said about the unusual grosses gathered in the holiday period. Such instances of quarter-mile waiting lines at Radio City Music Hall, broken lobby doors caused by crowds at the Strand, sidewalks completely blocked at the Paramount, Capitol and Roxy, on Broadway, and comparable situations reported by other key cities say something more than just capacity attendance.

The condition indicates there is business to be had at all times from those eager to buy good entertainment.

The point that riveted this listener's interest during the Dept. of Commerce broadcast on the history of the motion picture arrived in one sentence spoken by Thomas Armat, inventor of the projector, who was interviewed during the program. Armat relating how he had studied the Edison kinetoscope penny slot machine said:

"The thought flashed into my mind that it would be a wonderful thing if the tiny pictures could be projected on a screen so that audiences instead of one person could see them."

No small part of NBC's spectacularly successful Toscanini broadcast publicity is due, we observe, to the ease with which the maestro's name is pronounced and remembered. Which is respectfully brought to Hollywood's attention in titling pictures.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Bad Man at Brimstone"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3.—"Bad Man at Brimstone" recalls the unforgettable westerns of Ince when William S. Hart rode the range for him and shot it out with tears in his eyes and in those of the customers. It is the beneficiary of all production refinements that have been achieved since then, including sepia tint, but is no less effective in the rugged crudity of the plot performance.

Wallace Beery gives his two-gun title role a characteristic reading, while Dennis O'Keefe hews out a niche for himself as a clean cut tenderfoot hero. Virginia Bruce, Lewis Stone, Joseph Calleia, Bruce Cabot, Guy Kibbee, Noah Beery, Cliff Edwards and Charley Grapewin are strong in the support.

The story by J. Walter Ruben and Maurice Rapf has to do with an illiterate bad man who is dominating a frontier town of about 1879. His son, believing his father dead, arrives as a barnstorming pugilist and remains after falling in love with a local belle to become a tax collector. When his calling places him in danger of trigger-disposal his unrecognized father finances a course at law school for the boy to get him out of town. When the boy returns three years later as a U. S. marshal the bad man has become the political boss of the community and finally has to kill some dozen men to protect the secret of his paternity, going to jail as the boy marries the girl.

The production by Harry Rapf is expensive and effective. The scenery is especially impressive. J. Walter Ruben's direction is powerful in the latter portion after stumbling awkwardly for the first half-hour, a section that could stand big repairing before release. Cyril Hume and Richard Maibaum did the screenplay, which is at its best when guns are roaring.

After a stumbling start in which credulity is stretched a good deal farther than is customary in upper bracket westerns, the picture levels off and picks up momentum. No doubt it will be satisfying to most of the public who are sure to be attracted by the name billing. The regrettable memory of the widely circulated story of Beery shooting himself accidentally while making the film keeps getting between the audience and the screen in such a way as to make his multiple marksmanship less convincing than is good for the picture. Maybe he will live that down.

Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

"Change of Heart"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3.—A family type picture, aimed at the neighborhood and smaller house patronage, "Change of Heart" is the story of a man who had to provoke almost everybody into disliking him before he discovered the error of his ways. A note of human interest is woven into the picture by having a boy and his dog become the instruments that changed a business automaton into a regular fellow.

Michael Whalen, advertising executive, not only is naturally gruff with his associates and employes, but believes that his wife, Gloria Stuart, is in love with another man, Lyle Talbot. His jealous nature making his company unbearable, Miss Stuart decides to leave him. Sick at heart because of this, Whalen, reacting to office conversation, begins to take more time from business. On a golf course where he gives vent to his temper, he is reprimanded by a caddy, Delmar Watson. Taking a liking to the boy, he tells him his troubles. The youngster, wise beyond his years, contrives to have Talbot shunted into the discard and Whalen and Miss Stuart happily reunited following a golf match in which the boy's dog is his master's ally.

The picture is well mounted. Omitting non-essentials, it sticks to its plot closely and the several players, Whalen, Miss Stuart, Talbot, Watson and Jane Darwell, act as though they had an interest in their work. Directed by James Tinling, the picture is based on a story by Frances Hyland and Albert Ray.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Cagney Returns to Warners March 14

fore returning to the Burbank studio where he gained stardom.

Grand National spokesmen say that Cagney is definitely under an option to do one more film with the starting date tentatively set later in January which would give ample time for Cagney reporting to Warners by March 14.

Edward L. Alperson and Phil Krasne left town quietly over the holiday weekend for New York presumably to arrange final details of new production finances. It is generally understood here that if the production money is not forthcoming soon the Cagney picture deal with Grand National will be off.

Warner said "We welcome Cagney back in the Warner fold. We have always held a warm spot for him and will go forward together in a greater effort to produce the finest picture we have ever made with this brilliant young artist. Our organization has been instructed to make every effort to secure for him the finest vehicle possible. We are now trying to arrange for one of the most important properties in the show business as his initial starring vehicle."

Cagney said, "My sole interest is, as it always has been, to make good pictures. I return to Warners confident that I shall be afforded every opportunity to realize this purpose."

'Twas a Record

Placerville, Cal., Jan. 3.—Citizens here, mindful of the fact that the Wells Fargo Express Co. took root in this area, jammed into the Empire where the picture "Wells Fargo" opened at a midnight showing yesterday, breaking all box-office records, Manager Frank Knacke reports.

The receipts, he adds, totalled $169, competing against rain. The film will be held over for three days.

New Erpi Laboratory Has Formal Opening

Erpi formally opened its new New York engineering laboratory downtown at 76 Varick St. yesterday, having moved down from the Bronx, and in conjunction with the opening demonstrated a number of devices, which, shorn of technical phraseology, served to indicate the continuing part played by scientists of electricity in providing devices for the improvement of film and other industry operations.

Most important of the new film devices displayed was the so-called negative playback amplifier, which permits the immediate reproduction of negative films, offering the oral advantages which would be provided by a device capable of permitting the viewing of a photographic negative as a finished positive print.

Another demonstration was that of the 16 mm. sound film recorder which is said to incorporate all the detailed engineering and planning which go into the 35 mm. apparatus. Remote volume controls for theatres, by which sound may be regulated in accordance with house conditions, apparatus for the elimination of flutter in 16 mm. reproduction, methods of developing measurement devices for sound, in order that acoustical treatment may be used to best advantage and similar devices were demonstrated.

It also was pointed out, with several demonstrations, how Erpi, in a consulting capacity, contributes to the advancement of mechanical operation in other commercial fields.

Tia Juana House Burned

TIA JUANA, Mexico, Jan. 3.—A fire, cause of which was attributed to a carelessly discarded cigarette butt, today destroyed the Cine Concordia, a 1,200-seat house here. Loss is estimated at $100,000. American firemen crossed the border at the request of the local authorities and helped to fight the blaze.

Cocalis Gets Ruling On Hudson Building

An application for an injunction to restrain the Cocalis Circuit from erecting a new theatre in Hudson, N. Y., was denied yesterday by Justice Bergan in N. Y. Supreme Court at Albany. The application was made by Frieder & Grossman, Hudson exhibitors, whose New York attorneys said yesterday they would appeal to the Appellate Division as soon as Justice Bergan's decision has been filed.

In their action, Frieder & Grossman contended that Cocalis had agreed not to enter theatre business in Hudson for one year following the termination several months ago of a contract between the two. The court held that this agreement had been invalidated by the plaintiffs, leaving Cocalis free to operate in Hudson immediately.

The two-men-in-a-booth bill is scheduled for reintroduction. This year it will have American Labor Party backing and A.F.L.

Also scheduled for introduction is an amendment to Section 18-B of the General City Law requiring a matron for each 35 children in a theatre, and the perennially hoppered bill prohibiting the sale of tickets when no seats are available.

Constance Bennett Sues Fidler, P&G

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3.—Marking the first time that a film star ever filed a libel action against a radio commentator, Constance Bennett today demanded in a Superior Court suit $250,000 damages from Jimmie Fidler and his sponsor, Procter and Gamble, because of alleged derogatory remarks made by him last Tuesday on an NBC program exploiting Drene Shampoo. Miss Bennett cited that portion of the broadcast which said she snubbed Patsy Kelly on the day following their introduction. The star said that the remarks held her up to ridicule and were untrue.

New Shows on the Air

"Mickey Mouse Air Theatre"

Walt Disney and much of his drawing board menagerie, including Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Clara Cluck and The Goof, opened on the air Sunday night in a new series for Pepsodent, "Mickey Mouse's Air Theatre." While it impressed as an ideal children's program, the Disney characters lost much of their charm in the transition from screen to radio. Bereft of the animation and coloring given them on the screen by Disney and his corps of assistants, the fantastic creatures, on the air, were mostly a noisesome troupe, just cackling and squealing away, at times unintelligibly. No matter what its drawbacks, the kids will eat this program whole, however.

On hand to introduce his characters, Disney frankly admitted that the radio effort was still an experiment. No matter what the results of the first few shows, he said, future efforts would be better.

Despite the fact that the show is dedicated to Mickey, Donald Duck—"Dear, Magnificent Duck," he self-styled himself in the script—was the whole works. Donald quacked away in that quite mad fashion of his, giving way at intervals while Clara Cluck clucked away in an aria from from the opera "Lakme." That's funny just thinking of it—a hiccuping scene by The Goof—and a few musical interludes supplied by the Felix Mills' Silly Symphony orchestra. There was also a delightful scene from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

It's delightful entertainment, and with a few improvements, as promised by Disney, the series should soon crowd all the other children's programs off the air.

"Mickey Mouse's Air Theatre" is presented Sundays on the NBC-Red network. Pepsodent Toothpaste and Powder sponsors.

"Armco Band" Series

American Rolling Mills Co. staged its annual return to the air Sunday, with Frank Simon's band again serving spirited band music as the principal offering.

The popular series opened with "The March of the Steelmen," carrying on with excerpts from Friml's light opera "Katinka," a lovely offering of "Carnival in Paris," a Victor Herbert medley and a trumpet solo by the youthful guest of honor, 13-year-old Billy Snyder, who gave an excellent rendition of the difficult "Napoli." For his appearance he received the Armco Gold Medal for Musical Merit. Talks by "the Ironmaster" again are a weekly feature.

The "Armco" band series is presented Sundays from 3:30 to 4 P. M. on the NBC-Blue.

IATSE Takes Over Equipment Union

The I.A.T.S.E. yesterday assumed jurisdiction over theatre sound equipment service men. Contracts signed with servicing companies last week became effective.

Under the terms of the new contracts service men will receive $80 per week and special inspectors $110. Erpi formerly paid service men $65 weekly and special inspectors received $80 to $85. RCA Photophone paid service men approximately $40 per week and special inspectors about $70. A maximum of 54 hours per week is established in the pacts.

L. W. Conrow, head of Altec Service Corp., which took over Erpi's sound service about one month ago, stated yesterday that the increase in wage scales would not bring about a rise in that company's servicing charges. He said that Altec had been paying the schedules established by Erpi and that the differential could be absorbed without an increase in rates.

Photophone Silent

RCA Photophone, for whom the wage differential is more marked, had no official statement to make yesterday on the possibility of an increase in its rates. Company sentiment, however, appeared to indicate that a raise is inevitable.

With the I.A.T.S.E. obtaining jurisdiction over the equipment service men, the regular employes of the service companies will be admitted to I. A. membership. This agreement disposes of earlier efforts of already established I. A. locals to enter the sound service field and displace service men with members of the locals. Such a move was threatened last fall by several of the large projectionists' unions which wanted their unemployed members absorbed by the new union service field.

Early efforts to organize the service men resulted last summer in Erpi and Photophone men being refused admittance to projection booths in several large midwestern cities by I. A. projectionists. About 250 to 400 service men are affected by the contracts with the union.

dent, stated, "I would like to see the time come when you in Hollywood sit in studios like we do in theatres." Browne left today for Washington.

A telegram from Louis Krouse, general secretary to William Bioff, personal representative to Browne, asked him to return to Washington for important organization work. The Krouse wire said, "Due to events transpiring that are of vital importance to labor in our industry and to our organization in particular, President Browne instructed me to advise you to arrange your affairs so as to be able to devote your entire time to these matters in our Washington office at the earliest possible moment." Bioff will leave in a few days with Harland Holmden, international vice-president in charge of the west coast office here.

The vote of locals here definitely ends as far as I. A. T. S. E. officers are concerned the campaign among certain member factions for autonomy inasmuch as the balloting so highly favors continuance of the present rule. Local 37 voted 3,446 for the present rule and 32 against. Bioff's recall to Washington apparently is made to further extensive plans for the continued organization of exchange and theatres workers to strengthen the alliance all over the nation in other departments than projectionists.

"We are determined to keep pressing the matter with all of the resources at our command," the bulletin declares. "Nothing else matters except the breaking down of the unyielding resistance of the major distributors to active cooperation with the exhibitors on these proposals."

In a section of the bulletin given over to a discussion of radio competition with the theatre Kuykendall advances the belief that the "situation ultimately will correct itself," pointing out that ineffective radio performances eventually will injure a star's popularity to such an extent that his or her earning power will be reduced and that the producing companies now sponsoring Hollywood broadcasts have theatres of their own to be injured in the event that the air programs compete in any way with theatre business.

Declines Are Shown In Film Securities

present in the current situation, particularly with respect to the film industry.

Prominent among these statements at the year end was the report of Loew's, Inc., for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1937, which showed net earnings of $14,426,062, or $8.62 a share on common stock, against $11,076,823, or $6.79 a share in the preceding year.

Other encouraging reports as 1937 drew to a close included one by Universal Pictures, which announced that the company had operated at a profit in the fourth quarter, ended on Nov. 1, for the first time since the last quarter of 1935.

The biggest drop in valuation among film shares for 1937 was shown by Warner common, which depreciated $45,825,000 in market value as the stock closed the year with a loss of 11¾ points at six. Early in the year, at which time all film shares were hitting new highs since 1932, the stock touched 18.

Paramount was heavily traded, touching a high of 28¾ in January, making its low of 8½ in October, and closing at 9⅝, off 9⅝, and $23,800,000 in market valuation, for the year. Loew's finished 1937 at 45, off 21¼, or $34,000,000 in market valuation, for the year.

Nearly all the 1937 lows made by picture stocks were touched on Oct. 19, when the general market suffered its most severe setback since the 1929 crash. The highs in most instances were made in January, when all groups of stocks were engaged in an extension of the 1936 uptrend.

Picture issues on the bond and curb markets also participated in the general decline. Most heavily traded film share on the curb was Grand National, which closed at ¾, off 2⅞. Technicolor was active, touching a high of 34, a low of 14, and closing at 16½ for a loss of five points from the 1936 final. On the bond market, losses ranged from four points in Loew's 3½s of 1946 to 38½ points in Rad[illegible] Keith-Orpheum 6s of 1941. E[illegible]tional steadiness was shown by [illegible]mount 3¼s of 1947.

CBS to Seek New Talent, Novel Ideas

W. D. Lewis Outlines His Plans for the Year

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—A search for new talent and ideas for CBS will take definite form soon with the entire network participating, said Wilbur D. Lewis, CBS vice-president in charge of programs, today.

Last year Lewis conceived the idea for the CBS Shakespearean cycle. During the coming spring and summer CBS key stations contributing broadcasts to the circuit will give undeveloped talent opportunities. Programs will not be limited to any definite type, Lewis said.

A special talent scout will make a nationwide tour. Stations will put on programs for unknown talent on Saturday afternoons.

"Meet America" programs are planned for use by any station that wants them, whether or not affiliated with CBS. Lewis also said that within a year CBS will expand its series

Fear Monopoly in Taking Over Small Concerns

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Music publishing activities of film producers are being watched by the Music Publishers Protective Ass'n and may be the subject of a complaint to the Dep't of Justice, if acquisitions of independent publishers progress to a point where monopoly is threatened, Joseph V. McKee, counsel for the association, told officials of the Federal Trade Commission today.

McKee, urging adoption of the proposed anti-plugging code for the popular music publishing industry at a hearing before Director McCorkle and Assistant Director Miller of the Trade Practice Conference Division of the F. T. C., declared that the activities of the producers threaten the continuance of the independent publishers. His views were supported by Edward B. Marks, one of the leading independ-

20th-FOX NET 10 MILLION—SCHENCK

Best Yet for Company, He Says; Theatres Will Contribute

Twentieth Century-Fox will show an estimated net profit of $10,000,000 for 1937, Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, stated yesterday on his arrival here from the coast.

The earnings statement will be the best in the company's history and while it will reflect for the first time the earnings of National Theatres, which has been in reorganization during prior years, the parent company will receive dividends on only 42 per cent of the theatre company's stock, as contrasted with the 100 per cent ownership of theatre subsidiaries by most other large companies, it was pointed out.

Schenck stated that negotiations for the purchase by 20th Century-Fox of Chase National Bank's 58 per cent interest in National Theatres, which were under way several months ago, have been suspended with little likelihood of their being resumed in the near future.

"This is neither a seller's nor a buyer's market," Schenck commented.

Replying to reports which have been in circulation for the past few weeks, Kent declared, "When I'm flat on my back I'll retire, and when I am I'll be dead. I would be if I quit work, too."

He expressed himself as highly gratified over the company's operating results for the year just closed, declaring he believed it to be the best in the company's history.

Legion Commends Decision of Graves

The National Legion of Decency, in a communication signed by Rev. John J. McClafferty and Mrs. James F. Looram, has commended Frank R. Graves, Commissioner of Education of New York State, for his action in upholding the decision of state censor banning the film, "Birth of a Baby."

The communication from the Legion of Decency declared the organization's belief that the endorsement of the film by several reputable medical organizations was based on the picture's scientific and technical merit, and not as theatre entertainment.

The latter points out that the film is a "definite violation of the Production Code which governs the film production of the companies signatory to the Code." The Legion's reviewers, according to the letter, "unanimously agreed with the decision" rendered by Graves, that the picture is "indecent, immoral and would tend to corrupt morals."

FTC Is Told Music Group Eyeing Films

ent producers. who asserted that unless the code serves to equalize competition, his group "hasn't a chance" to survive.

Presentation of the association's plea was made by John G. Paine, former M. P. P. A. executive, who told the commission the code will place all on an equal footing, as it was under the NRA, and that all publishers whom he has approached are heartily in favor of it.

Paine admitted that the producer-owned publishers have decided advantages over the independents, but contended that it would be impossible to eliminate those advantages, arguing, however, that once competition was based on the worth of the musical compositions offered the independents would have a better chance. Denial of the code, he said, would imply that the commission saw no objection to paid plugging, in which event the independent would have no chance against the almost unlimited funds of the producer companies.

No Opposition to Code

With only a half-dozen representatives of the industry present at the hearing, there was no argument over any provisions of the code to which, as a whole, no opposition whatever was voiced. Lack of heavier attendance was attributed to the fact that the whole question was thoroughly canvassed at the first hearing on the code last October.

The large producers already have acquired a number of leading independent houses and are making overtures to many others, the F. T. C. officials were told. Already they dominate the industry to large extent because of their ability to secure publicity over the radio to a much greater extent than their independent competitors. At the close of the hearing, Director McCorkle announced the commission would take the code proposals under consideration. Since they were largely written by commission experts, it is anticipated approval will be announced in the near future.

No Music Talks Yet, Declares Pat Casey

Pat Casey, major studio labor contact, is deferring his return to Hollywood, scheduled for this week, until some time next week. Casey stated yesterday that preliminary arrangements for conferences with Joseph M. Weber of the American Federation of Musicians on spreading employment among studio musicians remain unchanged and that no conferences on the subject will be held here.

Weber plans to leave here next week for a Florida vacation and will go from there to the coast where the conferences with Casey will be held some time in February.

The guild, at its annual meeting some time ago, threatened to boycott from active membership in the guild any new playwright who accepted an award from the bureau or had his play produced as a result of the bureau's competitions. Sherwood's reply to Miss Helburn's letter stated that this action had not been taken yet by the guild council but that the matter would be considered at a meeting in the near future.

Schenck Sees 20th-Fox Net Of 10 Million

Alexander Korda had been sought by [illegible]th Century-Fox to produce for that company in England, Schenck told Motion Picture Daily that it had been ascertained that Korda could not enter into an exclusive producing arrangement for 20th Century-Fox and that that was the only basis on which the company was willing to engage him for British production. Korda's United Artists commitments bar him from such a deal, it was pointed out. No discussions of a production deal are scheduled with Korda during Schenck's stay in New York, he said.

Schenck, who is also chairman of United Artists Theatre Circuit, expressed himself as satisfied with the 1937 earnings of that group. He said that no expansion of the circuit was planned at this time, but that desirable theatre properties would be added as the opportunity arose. He said that the stock partnership arrangement entered into with the Robb & Rowley Circuit in the southwest last year was "working out well" but that no similar alliances are in work at this time.

Arrived with Zanuck

No changes in the management-operating deals for United Artists Circuit first runs in Chicago and Detroit are in prospect in view of long term deals made last year, Schenck said.

Schenck arrived on the Century with Darryl Zanuck and a studio party to attend the opening of "In Old Chicago" at the Astor tomorrow night. With them were Mrs. Zanuck, Virginia Wertheimer, Alice Faye, Jay Paley, Gregory Ratoff, William Dover and Sid Grauman, Jr. At the station to meet them were Sidney R. Kent, Charles E. McCarthy, Harry Brand and Earl Wingart.

Zanuck described "In Old Chicago" as his "best picture to date." He said that no changes of importance were contemplated in the production staff, but confided that he was grooming a newcomer, David Hempstead, for an associate producer's berth. He said no changes in production schedules were contemplated and that the studio would make between 50 and 54 pictures for next season.

Producer Feted

Zanuck was guest of honor at a cocktail party given by Kent at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday and tonight will be guest of honor at a dinner being tendered him by Winthrop W. Aldrich and H. Donald Campbell, Chase National Bank heads, at the Union Club. The dinner, which will be attended by men outstanding in financial and professional life, was described by 20th Century-Fox officials yesterday as "a friendly gesture and without other significance."

The studio party plans to leave for the coast this weekend.

"Rosalie" Big Chicago Draw With $19,600

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Business took an upward swing with "Rosalie" riding the crest at $19,600 in the United Artists. This was $4,600 better than average.

Also well on the profit side were "Love and Hisses" at the Roosevelt, "Submarine D-1" at the Oriental, "Fit for a King" at the State-Lake and "True Confession" at the Chicago. The last named film, playing a second week at B. & K.'s, ace Loop theatre, did more business for the final seven days than for the week previous. The gross was $35,600 for the second week, which was $3,600 above average and $9,300 better than the opening week.

The Apollo with "The Awful Truth" in a fifth Loop week, did more the last week than for the previous seven days.

Terrific business was recorded for the Christmas weekend.

The weather was cold and fair. The Sonja Henie ice show at the Chicago Stadium hurt business a little as the Norwegian star played to a capacity house every night of her eight day engagement.

William Fox Trust Litigation Closed

The $397,500 Sherman anti-trust suit brought by William Fox, Isis Investment Co., William Fox Exhibition, Inc., Fox Variety Co., Flatbush Avenue & Nevins St. Corp., Colwood Co. and Theatre Realty Co. against A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi was marked settled and discontinued in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. The amount of the settlement was not revealed.

An A. T. & T. spokesman said that the settlement of the action was in line with the company's policy, adopted early in 1937, of disposing of all pending litigation involving the sound equipment patents of itself and subsidiaries concurrently with their withdrawal from active participation in the sound reproducing field. Five or six similar actions were settled last summer and fall, all for small amounts.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 33
(20th Century-Fox)

Among the best of the action shots of the China battlefront are included here. The concentrated attack of the Japanese fleet and land artillery smash the Nanking defenses and the sons of the Rising Sun swarm through the ancient walls. The bursting of the shells in midair is almost too realistic.

A martial note is also caught in that part of President Roosevelt's message to Congress in which he speaks about adequate national defense, which serves as a prelude to the Chinese war scenes and the Japanese celebration of the fall of Nanking. As the hordes of refugees are fed in Shanghai, U. S. Marines are shown marching on the China coast.

The rest is made up of the rescue of passengers from the storm-tossed President Hoover and a wrestling fracas lampooned by Lew Lehr, while Ed Thorgersen's sports department presents highlights from the New Year's Day "bowl" football games and other sports.

Running time, 9½ mins. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 231
(M-G-M)

Here is an average newsreel issue with run-of-the-mill material. But there is one sequence that gives a novel and fresh aspect to the presentation of its idea. It revolves around the celebration attendant with the ushering in of the new year. A new-born baby is shown in silhouette being slapped into life, a standard obstetrical practice.

There is also President Roosevelt addressing the opening of Congress, marines parading in Shanghai, the Pasadena Rose Festival with a plug for "Rosalie" on a float, floods in Oregon and Washington, the Rose Bowl football game, a jai-alai game in Miami with vivid sound recording and New Year's Eve on Times Square with the new-born baby clip worked in the documentation.

Running time, 9 mins. P.

Paramount News
No. 43
(Paramount)

The most important clip in this issue of the reel, of course, is that in which President Roosevelt is pictured delivering his address on the state of the nation before the reconvened Congress, with emphasis on the highlights of the speech.

But the most interesting sequence is that in which the accidental grounding of the liner President Hoover is fully caught by the camera as the passengers, perfectly calm, are seen on deck in life preservers, brought ashore on a small island off Formosa coast in lifeboats, and welcoming the approaching U. S. destroyers rushing to the rescue. It is excellent newsreel material, excellently photographed.

The rest of the reel is devoted to scenes of dog sled racing in New Hampshire, a skiiers mass at a church in North Conway, N. H., with effective photography; the gay and mad bedlam which was Times Square on New Year's Eve, and a group of New Year's Day football games in the country's bowls—Rose, Sugar, Orange and Cotton, involving, respectively, California - Alabama, Santa Clara - Louisiana State, Auburn-Michigan State and Colorado-Rice.

Running time, 9½ mins. A.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 48
(RKO)

A varied news and feature content gives this issue of the reel a full measure of zest and interest. Opening with President Roosevelt's message to the new session of Congress, the reel covers collegiate ski meets at Lake Placid, tryouts of model planes at Miami, the beginning of unemployment insurance registrations in 22 states, jai-alai games played to large audiences at Miami, New Year's Eve in Times Square, the annual Tournament of Roses at Pasadena and the accompanying Rose Bowl game between California and Alabama.

Photography, sound, narration and editing all contribute to an interesting and entertaining release.

Running time, 8½ mins. K.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 629
(Universal)

A regulation assortment of standard newsreel items is offered in this issue. The material is acceptable.

President Roosevelt's address opening the current session of Congress appropriately furnishes the lead. This initial clip is followed by flood scenes in Oregon, the demonstration of a new army tank at Fort Benning, Ga., a jai-alai match in Miami, the rose festival in Pasadena, Times Square atmosphere on New Year's Eve and the Alabama-California game at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, wherein the former fumbled the game away to the latter.

Running time, 9½ mins.

RKO Is Awarded Fees

An award of $750 for attorney's fees was granted to RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., RKO Distributing Corp. and RKO Studios, Inc., by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey in the U. S District Court here yesterday for the successful defense of a plagiarism suit brought against them by Samuel Shipman and Clara Lipman, authors.

Judge Woolsey ruled that the writers must pay the fees in addition to costs.

The suit was started in April, 1936, and charged infringement of the plaintiffs' play "Depends on the Woman" in "I Dream Too Much." Judge Woolsey dismissed the action in Sept., 1937.

Hearst Radio Sales Branch Is Realigned

Elliott Roosevelt, who was recent[illegible] named Hearst Radio, Inc., presi[illegible]t and general manager, yesterday instituted a drastic reorganization of the National Sales Division of the firm. With the reorganization follows a change in name from National Sales Division of Hearst Radio, Inc., to International Radio Sales. Under the new setup, Murray Grabhorn, newly elected vice-president of Hearst Radio, will head the new subsidiary.

Simultaneously with this development came news of the resignation of Oscar Tunnel, assistant treasurer of Hearst Radio and of the election of Albert H. Cormier as vice-president of Hearst Radio. Cormier was recently appointed manager of WINS. He will retain his station duties, adding them to his new duties as executive assistant to Roosevelt.

Willson Offered Post

Curt Willson, formerly manager of the National Sales Division, has been offered the managership of the new San Francisco office of International Radio Sales, but it is not known at this time whether he will accept.

An almost entirely new sales staff has been retained, supplanting the old. Lincoln P. Simonds and Frank Fenton, formerly with the New York staff of John Blair & Co., will become associated with the organization Monday, working with Ed Harvey, who has been retained as a salesman. These three will constitute the New York sales staff of the company.

International Sales, with Grabhorn at the helm, will introduce various new services in the field of station representation. According to the plans stations located in cities not now being served by a station in the Hearst group will be added to the list of stations represented by International Radio Sales, in order to provide advertisers with an increased selection of stations in key market areas.

Howard Essary in Charge

The organization of International Radio Productions, which will be a department of International Radio Sales, has already been formed and will provide complete transcription and production facilities to advertisers and stations. This will be under the direction of Howard Essary, formerly program manager of KEHE in Los Angeles. The headquarters for this department will be in Hollywood in order that it can avail itself of economies on the manufacture of transcriptions, and be centered in the midst of Hollywood talent.

In the new setup International Radio Sales is planning to relieve the stations which it represents of all responsibility of billing and credits, assuming this as a special accounting function of the organization. A number of further new developments are being planned, with announcements following shortly.

Told that Motion Picture Daily was in receipt of information that he planned a reorganization of KEHE, Hearst Los Angeles station, Grabhorn entered an "emphatic" denial of such an impending step.

Jack Smith to WCAU For Sustaining Show

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—WCAU has signed "Whispering" Jack Smith for a new series of sustaining programs to begin Jan. 10. Smith's show the first week will be aired Sunday through Saturday from 11 to 11:10 P.M., and thereafter Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the same time.

Katzman, Silver Rejoin WINS

Lou Katzman and orchestra, and Henry Silver, organist, whose contracts were not renewed by WINS when they expired some weeks ago, have rejoined the station. The Katzman unit now numbers 10 men, and he will again serve as musical director of the station.

The Borden Co. has extended the network for its new series starting on NBC Jan. 31 from 23 stations to a coast-to-coast hookup of 31 stations. The program will be broadcast five days a week, Mondays through Fridays from 4:30 to 4:45 P. M. Young & Rubicam is the agency.

No Comment on Fidler Suit

Cincinnati, Jan. 4.—Questioned regarding the $250,000 damage suit against Jimmy Fidler, whose program is sponsored by Procter & Gamble, company officials here stated: "We are just trying to find out what this suit is all about. We have no statement to make now."

New Licenses Add 51 Radio Units in Year

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, Jan. 4.—Fifty-one new broadcasting stations were licensed and seven were deleted during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, and a total of 704 stations were operating or under construction on that date, Congress was told today in the annual report of the F. C. C.

Because of the fact that Frank R. McNinch was not appointed chairman and the program for reorganization of the commission's work was not initiated until after the end of the fiscal year, the report gives no information as to what has been accomplished or what is planned by President Roosevelt's "clean-up" man.

A study of assignments, the report disclosed, shows that of the 376 American cities having populations in excess of 25,000, 143 have no radio station, while of the 606 cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population, 471 have no stations although, it was declared, all but 111 of the 614 cities having no stations of their own receive primary service from at least one outside broadcasting station. In 359 cities, 88 of which have a population in excess of 25,000, there is but one radio station for local service.

New Shows on the Air

"True or False"

"True or False" is still another variation of the audience participation idea, and like all of its kind it is a vastly amusing and entertaining show. Dr. Harry Hagen is the conductor.

The initial airing featured a battle of wits and luck between two teams, one comprising internes, the other Fanchon & Marco chorus girls. The internes made suckers of the chorus girls, proving the virtues of higher education—or something. The weekly prizes are $5 to each member of a team, and a grand prize of $25 to the individual with the best score.

Luck plays a predominant part in "True or False." Hagen reads a statement, and the participant answers that it is either true or false. Disqualification follows an incorrect answer. One of the girls almost broke this listener down when she answered "Oh, dear," to Hagen's question, "the plural of mongoose is mongeese." Such utter despair one never heard before. At any rate, she stabbed desperately and said it was false, saving her goose until the next round of questions.

"True or False" is sponsored by the J. B. Williams Co. Mondays from 10 to 10:30 P. M. over Mutual.

"Dick Tracy"

Dick Tracy, the comic strip detective who has more lives than even the screen serial heroes and heroines of old, which is indeed something, steps out of the ink and before the microphone in a new series for the Quaker Oats Co., Mondays through Fridays from 5 to 5:15 P. M. on the NBC-Blue. Aimed for the kids, it will prove to be a popular and well-liked feature with the juvenile listeners.

The story details are unimportant and just what might be expected, but for the record, here they are: Dick gets on the trail of an auto hijack gang, and at last report his life was in peril. The cast, comprising Ed Jerome, Howard Smith, Walter Kinsella, Andrew Donnelly and Ned Weaver in the title role, is good.

"Philadelphia Orchestra Series"

Continuing to afford listeners pluperfect musical and vocal entertainment, the Philadelphia Orchestra series, cooperatively sponsored coast-to-coast by a group of banks, Monday night presented Lucy Monroe, lyric soprano, as featured guest.

Miss Monroe, whose star has been in brilliant ascendancy during the two past seasons, contributed Mozart's "Hallelujah," Rimsky - Korsakoff's "Nightingale and the Rose" and Debussy's "Air de Lia." Labeled by competent music critics everywhere as the coming great American lyric soprano, Miss Monroe by her performance Monday enhanced her prospect of bearing out this collective critical prophecy.

The orchestra, ever excellent, rendered the "Overture to William Tell," "Dance of the Tumblers" and Ravel's "Daphnes and Cloe." Fritz Reiner conducted. The customary Washington News Letter by W. M. Kiplinger filled the intermission period. The series is presented Mondays from 9 to 10 P. M. on the NBC-Blue.

Discussing his bill, Bowker referred to the recent Mae West broadcast as "deplorable" and said adoption of his bill would prevent a recurrence of that "or similarly offensive broadcasts."

WLAK in Florida Sold to Publishers

Smiley and Ralph Nicholson of Tampa as the purchasers. Smiley and Richardson publish the Tampa Daily Times and operate WDAE in that city. Marchant said neither of the Tampa concerns was involved in the local deal and that he will retain a substantial interest in WLAK.

Quota Uncertainty Stymies Korda Moves on Production

Uncertainty as to the extent to which American companies will be required to engage in British production is stymieing all deals for Alexander Korda to handle the new British quota requirements of several leading companies, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

Korda, frankly dissatisfied with his present producing and releasing arrangements with United Artists, has discussed British producing deals with 20th Century-Fox, M-G-M and Paramount. Overtures have also been made by Korda to Columbia, but a high official of that company stated yesterday that no British producing arrangements would be made by Columbia until the new quota bill has been enacted. Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of 20th Century-Fox, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY this week that his company was not interested in a producing deal with Korda unless his services could be obtained exclusively. Korda's United Artists commitments prohibit such an arrangement and, moreover, an exclusive producing deal is contrary to

Joint Session Of Exhibitors Seems Nearer

Prospects for a trade practice meeting of exhibitor organization heads, which has been sought by Harry Brandt, president of the I. T. O. A., since last October, brightened yesterday when Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. head, wired Brandt, in reply to his query, that he could meet with him and Nathan Yamins, Allied States president, "any day after Jan. 17."

Brandt late yesterday wired Yamins asking him to set a date. Since Yamins will attend the Allied board meeting in Washington Jan. 18 and 19, it is presumed that the session will take place later that week or early the following week.

Kuykendall has advised the M. P.

Astor Spruced for "Chicago" Opening

A broadcast from the theatre lobby, a host of prominent persons from stage, screen, radio and society, grinding newsreel cameras and the usual flood of arc lights on Broadway will be a part of the opening tonight at the Astor of the 20th Century-Fox film, "In Old Chicago," which will play indefinitely on a two-a-day policy.

Striking lobby decorations in the atmosphere of the period of the film, the 1860's and 1870's, with an illuminated photomural of a street scene in the Chicago of the 19th Century, and general lobby fittings in keeping with the scene of the picture, have been designed for the opening. Letters, each 15 feet high, emblazon the

Slight Hope Held for End Of Giveaways

Little hope for the elimination of cash giveaways in Greater New York came from RKO yesterday with the assertion by John J. O'Connor, film buyer of that circuit, that it is up to the I. T. O. A. members to show their sincerity in making the first move.

O'Connor, who is handling the circuit's executive functions with Major L. E. Thompson pending appointment of a successor to Nate J. Blumberg, recalled that the independents did not fulfill their promise when RKO and Loew's abandoned giveaways a year ago.

Harry Brandt, president of the I. T. O., yesterday reiterated that "we would be more than glad to talk with

Columbia Revamps Exploitation Work

Columbia has completed reorganization of its field exploitation department and will concentrate more of the activities in the home office, Frank McGrann, exploitation manager, said yesterday.

Asserting that the field staff was not being disbanded, although three men have been dismissed, McGrann described the move as designed to provide "more personalized service" from New York whereby "each situation would be handled as separate units." The reorganization will eventually result in an augmented home office exploitation staff, McGrann declared.

In addition to New York, the work will be handled by three district rep-

Congress Rush May Sidetrack Picture Bills

Some Favor Merging All Pending Measures

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. — Heavy schedules which must be cleaned up before the end of the session and a general expectation that the projected monopoly legislation will be sufficiently strong to take care of the situation makes improbable serious consideration of any film legislation this session, it was said at the Capitol today.

Following a conference with Congressman Lea of California, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of the House, Congressman Boren of Oklahoma tonight indicated that he probably would not introduce his bill to divorce production from exhibition.

"There is no sense in introducing a bill if it is not going to be acted upon," Boren said, "and Chairman Lea expressed doubt whether the committee, which has a heavy schedule that must be disposed of, could find time to give the measure consideration at this session."

At the same time, the Congressman pointed out that the proposed anti-trust legislation may be sufficiently broad to take care of any monopoly situation in the film industry. In other

Schlesinger Named In Labor Complaint

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5. — Charges of failure to bargain collectively, in violation of the Wagner Act, today were filed against Leon Schlesinger Prod., Inc., and the Schlesinger Corp. by the Screen Cartoon Guild before the Regional Labor Relations Board.

The guild claims a majority of the workers at the Schlesinger plant, which produces cartoons for Warner release. Dr. Towne Nylander, Labor Relations Board director, said an informal conference between the producer and guild representatives on the complaint will be held Friday.

Monogram Gets Stay On "Limberlost" Use

A permanent injunction restraining Morris Kleinerman, who does business as Exhibitors Film Exchange, Star Safety Laboratory and Screen Attractions Corp., from further alleged infringement of "Girl of the Limberlost" was granted to Monogram by Judge Francis G. Caffey in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. The decree was entered on consent of both sides.

Monogram filed suit on December 10, charging copyright infringement by the defendants, who allegedly were engaged in the sale of home movies in the eight and 16 mm. sizes. Monogram sold the safety film rights to its pictures several days before the suit was brought. The decree does not contain any provision for damages or an accounting. The U. S. Marshal was ordered to seize all infringing prints of the picture for destruction.

"Ecstasy" Case Goes Up to Appeals Court

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—Samuel Cummins has taken his fight for removal of the censors' ban on "Ecstasy" to the Court of Appeals. His move is in the form of a plea for a review of the Appellate Division's refusal to permit him to take an appeal.

In view of the fact that the Appellate Division's decision was unanimous, the Court of Appeals does not have to grant either the review or an appeal. An early decision is expected.

Miss Kingsley Files Action on "Rosalie"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5. — Sylvia Kingsley today filed an action in Federal Court here demanding $100,000 damages and an accounting of "Rosalie" profits from M-G-M, William Anthony McGuire and Guy Bolton. Miss Kingsley claimed that she is the original author of "Rosalie" and that Bolton wrote the libretto [illegible] the Ziegfield-McGuire production under a contract whereby she was to receive 25 per cent of the profits of stage presentation while McGuire and Bolton were to get the other 75 per cent. She further claimed she did not authorize the use of "Rosalie" for films.

Miss Kingsley asks an injunction against further payments to Bolton and McGuire.

Caught by the Roving Cameraman at Darryl Zanuck Cocktail Party

Industry Leaders Turn Out in Force — Columnists, Critics, Writers Also There.

Industry leaders turned out in force or the cocktail party given by 20th Century-Fox in honor of Darryl Zanuck.

It was probably the biggest collection of names in years, with top ranking executives of all the major companies present. Also seen in the gathering were representatives of a number of magazines — the literary variety as well as fan; most of the columnists who happen to be in town; drama and film critics, and quite a number of well-known writers.

Among those present, other than those included in the accompanying photograph were: Sid Grauman, Ethel Merman, R. H. Cochrane, Harry Goetz, Truman Talley, Walter Winchell, Sidney Towell, W. C. Michel, Adela Rogers St. John, Thyra Samter Winslow, Louis Sobol, Whitney Bolton, Hal Horne, Jean Hersholt, oe Moscowitz, Charles E. McCarthy, ack Alicoate and Gregory Ratoff.

Einfeld Back Jan. 15

S. Charles Einfeld, Warner advertising and publicity director, is due back at the home office January 15 after an extended stay on the coast. While his future schedule is uncertain, he will probably spend more time on the coast than has been his custom in the past.

New Yorkers Leave For N. O. Premiere

The New York delegation to the Paramount two-day sales meeting in New Orleans left here yesterday afternoon and will arrive there this evening. The sales session at the Roosevelt, which will be attended by district managers from the field, will be held tomorrow and Saturday. In conjunction with it will be the opening of "The Buccaneer" at the Saenger tomorrow night, for which William Pine, from the coast, and Robert M. Gillham, director of advertising and publicity, from the home office, have been making arrangements.

The executives who are en route from here include: Neil Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution; J. J. Unger, Charles M. Reagan, G. B. J. Frawley, Alec Moss and Don Velde. The party will leave for New York on Saturday. Five trade paper representatives accompanied the delegates.

Following the opening of "The Buccaneer" here, Cecil B. DeMille, producer, will attend one-night previews in Atlanta, Jan. 12; Washington, Jan. 13; New York, Jan. 17; Boston, Jan. 18; Chicago, Jan. 19, and Kansas City, Jan. 20, after which he will return to the coast.

Paramount Claims New "Fargo" Mark

"Wells Fargo," now in its second week at the Paramount, is set for a third week. In its first seven days, ending Tuesday night, the picture, coupled with Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, set a new record with an attendance of 159,000 persons, according to the theatre.

The show drew $9,000 more than any since the start of the Paramount's combination policy two years ago, it was announced.

Another likely third week holdover is "Submarine D-1" at the Strand, where it began a second week yesterday.

Evelyn Keyes Cancels

Hollywood, Jan. 5.—Evelyn Keyes, featured in "The Buccaneer," has been forced to cancel her planned personal appearance at the New Orleans premiere of the film. The actress is ill with diphtheria.

Joint Session Of Exhibitors Seems Nearer

T. O. A.'s local office that he planned to attend the convention of the Southeast Theatre Owners' Ass'n in Atlanta next week. He is expected to leave for New York shortly afterwards.

Brandt last October initiated his move for a "united front" of exhibitor interests in formulating a trade practice program or "code" to which the major distributors would be asked to subscribe. Following a statement by Kuykendall that he would be willing that the M. P. T. O. A. cooperate with Allied toward "constructive measures," Brandt issued an "open letter" to the heads of both national exhibitor groups.

Brandt at the time declared "it is time to call a spade a spade and to admit that neither of the two national organizations is functioning on all cylinders." He said also that "whether the plan adopted" as a result of the proposed meeting would be the M. P. T. O. A. program of conciliation or Abram F. Myers' proposal for industry control along the lines of the Guffey Act "is of secondary importance." "The main point," Brandt asserted, "is that a united front would accomplish many benefits that are now unobtainable."

Other Meets Would Follow

The forthcoming conference would be only preliminary to further discussions, it was pointed out yesterday, and the extent to which the national organization's directorates and member units would be asked to participate depends on the outcome of the first three-way meeting.

It was pointed out also that neither Kuykendall nor Yamins can commit themselves to a program or policies without the authorization of their respective boards. While Yamins no doubt will discuss the matter at the Allied board meeting next week, the M. P. T. O. A. directors could be canvassed by mail.

Quota Uncertainty Stymies Korda Moves on Production

Korda's plans. He is seeking volume production to keep the Denham studio busy.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY was informed by a high official of Paramount yesterday that that company, too, would make no British producing arrangements until the new quota law has been enacted and it is definitely known what type and what amount of production will be necessary. Even at such a time, it was said, the deal would be handled by Paramount's office in London.

M-G-M's attitude toward a British producing deal with Korda could not be ascertained in the absence of high company officials from New York. Indications are, however, that Korda is remaining here for another week or 10 days to engage in final parleys with Metro officials on their return.

Meanwhile, Korda has been unable to obtain a release from United Artists on his exclusive producing contract with that company but, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY several weeks ago, he stands ready to relinquish his owner-partnership in United Artists to gain his release, either a complete severance from the company or a revision of his contract which would eliminate the exclusive producing feature. His producing contract with United Artists runs to 1940 and his partnership stock purchase commitment, which is payable out of dividends he receives from the company, is only one-sixth paid up.

Maurice Silverstone, United Artists British head, is remaining in New York with Korda.

Musso Closes Deal With "U" for Italy

A new five-year distributing deal for Universal product in Italy and the Italian colonies has been closed with Commendatore G. D. Musso prior to Musso's departure on the Rex yesterday.

The deal is retroactive to the European release date on "100 Men and a Girl" and will continue through 1942. It replaces a two-year agreement, just expired. No provision is made for the distribution in America of any Italian pictures, but the deal requires Musso to distribute the Universal product through his own organization, banning secondary deals with independent distributors in Italy, which have been made in the past. The distribution terms are subject to adjustment after the first two years of the contract life.

Spitz in current conferences there on the company's new studio setup. Rathvon was called west by Odlum after the former had concluded negotiations for the one-year extension of the Atlas-Lehman option to purchase the remainder of RCA's holdings of RKO securities. Indications are that the conferences may continue into next week as, up to yesterday, no decision had been reached on the designation of a successor to Sam Briskin as RKO studio head. Company officials have been desirous of having Pandro Berman assume charge of production, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY earlier, but Berman has demurred, advancing his preference to handle "A" productions only.

Some discussion may be held during the coast sessions on the naming of a successor to Nate Blumberg as RKO theatre operator, official quarters here believe, but the designation is not expected to be made until Spitz's return here some time in February. For the time being, theatre department heads are continuing their respective operations.

Slight Hope Is Held For Ending of Games

Thompson or O'Connor on a plan to abolish giveaways."

Failing an agreement between the circuits and the independents, the I. T. O., Brandt said, "is definitely going ahead with a series of mass giveaways that will astound the industry." This, he said, would be designed "to more than offset anything the circuits are going to do." Brandt at the same time did not express any hope for an early agreement.

United Artists Adds Two

Ed Fisher, formerly of Columbia publicity department, and Joe Longo, Boston theatre man, have joined the exploitation staff at United Artists. Fisher will cover "The Hurricane" in Cleveland, while Longo will handle "Nothing Sacred" in Boston.

Congress Rush May Sidetrack Picture Bills

Capitol quarters it was indicated th[illegible] if the committee undertakes a st[illegible] of film legislation which is pending, it would demand that all bills be merged into one general measure and, particularly, that Boren's divorce bill be joined with the block booking ban proposed by Congressman Pettengill of Indiana. There is considerable doubt whether all the authors of film legislation would be willing to waive their right to have their names at the tops of their bills, in which event the committee could not get anywhere.

Defense Pictures Prohibited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. — Legislation prohibiting the making of still or motion pictures, sketches or maps of military and naval defenses of the United States and its possessions was passed by the House of Representatives today. The bill was passed by the Senate last session.

Action on the bill was speeded by protests of the War Dept. that there have been numerous cases of photographing defenses on the Pacific Coast, the Panama Canal and Manila. It was pointed out that present law applies only to the continental United States and carries no penalty.

Estimates of expenditures in the budget are kept as close as possible to present levels or under. The figures for the two departments which segregate their film activities show that the Navy will provide the usual $85,000 for film service and the Dept. of Agriculture $79,000, both the same as for the current year.

The F.C.C. estimate is $1,752,820, about $9,000 less than the current appropriation.

Following his inspection, Scully also will decide whether or not an appointment will be made to the post of western sales manager for which Lou Weinberg, Columbia circuit sales manager, was slated prior to his decision to remain in his present capacity. Universal's sales organization has never had a western sales manager, the duties of the post having been handled by district managers.

CBS Serious Programs Hit 10-Year High in '37—Paley

CBS in 1937 presented more programs on serious music, education and cultural subjects than during any of its 10 previous years of broadcast service, according to William S. Paley, president of the network. The year too saw the network undertake a vast building program, new stations added, and the status of television advanced.

Impartial discussion of national issues in this and 28 other foreign countries accounted for 1,638 CBS programs occupying 378 hours of broadcast time. In 1936 the total for this category was 1,548 broadcasts and 351 hours. Not included are sports programs which accounted for 136 hours this year as against 103 hours the previous year. Sponsored and sustaining educational and cultural broadcasts, including serious music, numbered 5,845, or 2,089 hours, as compared with 5,716 broadcasts, or 1,934 hours, in 1936.

On national affairs and news, there were 1,300 broadcasts, sustaining only, representative of which were the opening of the 75th Congress and the second inauguration of President Roosevelt; 57 talks on the Supreme Court controversy; talks by the 10 members of the President's cabinet, the midwest floods, and the like. From abroad during 1937, CBS broadcast 290 times.

Featured Serious Music

During 1937 CBS made available to its listeners 1,250 broadcasts, sponsored and sustaining, of serious music. In addition to the increase in these broadcasts, CBS sponsored one of the notable developments of the year in the appointment of a second Columbia Composers' Commission. Presented during the year by the symphony under the direction of Howard Barlow were the works written specifically for radio by members of the first Columbia Composers' Commission. In addition to symphonic and instrumental music, CBS devoted some 300 broadcasts to performances of sacred music.

In drama as in music, CBS was active, presenting 70 broadcasts climaxed with the presentation of the cycle of eight Shakespearean plays.

Devoted to adult education during the year were 875 broadcasts, the subjects including government, economics, the social sciences, art, literature and history.

Childrens' programs during the year numbered 575 broadcasts. In accordance with a policy adopted by CBS in 1934, all broadcasts for children were prepared in consultation with a child psychologist of Columbia University and a staff of leaders in the children's field.

In all 21 new stations joined CBS during 1937. At present there are 108 stations in the chain. Concurrently, the network and its owned and affiliated stations undertook programs of construction and improvement of facilities. During the year, over half of the CBS outlets increased their power or installed new high fidelity equipment, vertical antennas, and other improved facilities. The installation in most CBS stations of a revolutionary "program amplifier" alone effected an increase in signal intensity equal to that which would be produced by a doubling of power.

Built in Hollywood

The chief item on Columbia's 1937 construction calendar was the new West Coast Broadcasting Center covering an entire city block in Hollywood. Ground-breaking ceremonies for the $2,000,000 project were held last spring, and the center will be ready for broadcasting by March.

A step forward in international short-wave broadcasting occurred this year when Columbia inaugurated a regular daily program service to Europe, the British Isles and South America over its new transmitter, W2XE.

In television CBS this year took three major steps. Work began on a new CBS transmitter, which is now being given final tests before installation in the Chrysler Tower. Plans were drawn and work scheduled on studios in the Grand Central Terminal Building nearby. To raise television program technique to entertainment levels already attained by the more mature arts of broadcasting and the screen, Gilbert Seldes, author and critic, was appointed to direct an experimental program department. Throughout the year, Columbia's television engineering staff worked on technical aspects of the art under the direction of Dr. Peter Goldmark.

"Hollywood Parade" Executives in Shift

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—The executive personnel of "Your Hollywood Parade," Warner program, today underwent minor changes when Robert Taplinger, studio publicity director, became coordinator between the studio and Lord & Thomas, producers of the Lucky Strike show. Taplinger will also handle all publicity for the program.

Don Becker of Transamerica, who had been handling studio contacts in the past, will leave for New York this week. George Bilson, formerly on the publicity staff, will join the writing group. Leo Forbstein, musical director, will drop this post to continue as head of the studio music department. Al Goodman will replace him on the air show. He will leave New York for the coast this week.

Cohn Hits at Radio Work of Film Names

and scripts on the radio, Cohn asserted that he would aid exhibitors in any move they undertook to gain industry control or elimination of such broadcasts.

Cohn was among the first to predict a serious competitive problem developing from the increasing appearances of Hollywood stars on the air. Early in 1936, in an interview with MOTION PICTURE DAILY, he described the radio situation as placing the industry in the position of having to sell what radio was giving away, and later described the lending of stars for air programs as "selling ammunition to the enemy."

Cohn cited resolutions adopted recently by the I.T.O. of Ohio and the Indiana T. O., calling upon the industry to end radio competition with theatres and stated that he believed the protests to be "well grounded" and "should be taken cognizance of by the industry."

WBEN & KRKO Ask Increases in Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Applications for increases of power have been filed with the F.C.C. by two stations.

WBEN, Buffalo, has asked for an increase from 1,000 to 5,000 watts for night operation, and KRKO, Everett, Wash., seeks an increase from 50 watts to 100 watts night, 250 watts day.

The commission announced approval of an application for an increase in power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts for WWL, New Orleans, and the granting of a construction permit to W. E. Whitmore, Hobbs, N. M., for a new 1,500-kilocycle, 100-watt, daytime station, and an operating license to C. A. Rowley, Ashtabula, O., for a new station, WICA, to operate on 940 kilocycles with 250 watts power, day only.

THERE IS A NEW NAME THAT MEANS "BOX OFFICE INSURANCE" TO EVERY EXHIBITOR

THIS page is an announcement—and a dedication.

It is addressed to the motion picture exhibitors of America.

It announces a new organization in the field of service to the nation's exhibitors.

It dedicates itself to a broader and more complete conception of technical service than the exhibitor has known in the past. It aims to be a vital element in "box office insurance"—"that your theatre may never be dark"....

Altec Service Corporation dares to make so sweeping a self-dedication because Altec, although a new and wholly independent organization, soundly organized, soundly financed and soundly manned, is at the same time a mature, seasoned organization, backed by ten years' experience in the field.

Altec embarks on its independent career with the integrated knowledge and capacity for team play of picked men from the engineering, sales and service staffs of Electrical Research Products, Inc., and still enjoys the co-operation of Bell Telephone Laboratories, as well as the full resources in the field, in men and materiel, established by Electrical Research Products, Inc.

Altec Service Corporation, alert, alive, aggressive, will do everything in its power to deserve, to secure and to maintain, the esteem and the good will of the exhibitors of America.

ASTOR THEATRE
IN OLD CHICAGO

TYSON THEATRE TICKETS

(Cosmo-Sileo Photo)

By J. M. JERAULD

It was a mixture of New Year's Eve and the American Legion convention, with a touch of the Rough Riders' charge up San Juan Hill around the Astor Theatre last night. It started out to be a premiere for "In Old Chicago" and wound up as the busiest evening the Times Square police have had since the Automat strike was settled.

All these openings seem to be different. This one started out quietly with a half dozen policemen keeping the north and south pedestrians moving and the usual crowd on the safety zone that separates Broadway from 7th Ave., but about 8:20 things began to pop. It couldn't have been the big electric sign. They've had big signs there before. And it obviously wasn't the quaint 1870 style wallpaper and other odd lobby decorations; it must have been the word-of-mouth advertising that Alice Faye and Gregory Ratoff and Darryl Zanuck and others were expected.

At 8:22 a pained look passed across

Mexico Censors "U" Reel on the Panay

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—The Mexican censor performed a wholesale cutting job on the Universal Newsreel scenes of the bombing of the American gunboat Panay, as taken by Norman Alley, before it went into the Cine Regis, where it currently is exciting considerable interest among cultured Mexicans and members of the Anglo-American and other foreign colonies.

It is understood that the drastic deletions in the newsreel were made at the request of the Japanese minister, who objected to the scenes of the bombing and the attempt to machine-gun survivors of the sinking. The showing was widely advertised here. The Cine Regis is running the film exclusively.

Majors Study Resumption of Japan Imports

Currency Withdrawals to Be Limited Under Plan

Major distributors are studying a proposal from a Japanese financial organization which proffers an opportunity for resuming film shipments to Japan under a plan of deferred currency withdrawals from the country, it was learned yesterday.

Submitted to the distributors recently by a private individual representing the Japanese concern, the proposal, nevertheless, has the approval of Tokyo officialdom, it was said. Under its provisions, the American companies would be permitted to resume film shipments to Japan, which were prohibited entirely several months ago for an indefinite period. The Tokyo financial interests would issue three-year promissory notes to the American companies for their cash balances, which would be impounded in Japan.

The deferred cash withdrawal would comply with Japan's emergency financial control regulations, which brought about the ban on film imports.

An industry spokesman stated that there were numerous supplementary considerations involved in the proposal which would require considerable time and study, and indicated that a decision on acceptance or rejection of the plan might not be possible for another month or more.

Midland Asks Court For Reorganization

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 6.—The Midland Investment Co., which controls the Midland theatre and office building here, has filed a petition with Judge Albert L. Reeves in U. S. District Court for permission to reorganize under 77B of the bankruptcy act.

Loew's, Inc., owns half of the 1,000 shares of no par value capital stock: the other half is held by the Woolford Investment Co. (Herbert Woof and M. B. Shanberg).

The original mortgage was for $2,500,000, and bonds were issued May 15, 1926, to cover. Outstanding principal on the bonds is $1,867,500, the petition sets out. On Nov. 15, 1937, $46,500 worth of bonds matured, but the company had only $38,760 deposited to that account. Consequently, trustees served notice of default. The investment company does have, however, $104,000 in cash on hand, and interest obligations have been met.

The ten-year lease on the theatre and office building, which was held by Loew's, Inc., expired Oct. 27, 1937, and was renewed on a short-time, one-year basis because the project was losing money. The new one-year lease calls for 15 per cent of box-office returns.

Milwaukee's Police Raid Seven Theatres

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 6.—Despite the refusal of the City Attorney to issue warrants against seven theatres previously charged with operating illegal lotteries in Bank Night, Bingo, Hollywood and similar games, the Police Dep't last night seized files and papers of the Oriental, Tower, Modjeska, Uptown, Savoy, Sherman, Garfield, Milwaukee, Parkway, Lake and Avalon where games were in progress.

Theatres previously raided included the Ritz, Varsity, Plaza, Atlas, Egyptian and Roosevelt.

City Attorney Walter J. Mattison maintains that none of the cases presents all the conditions of an illegal lottery necessary for a test case.

To Appeal Kentucky Verdict

PADUCAH, Ky., Jan. 6.—W. V. Eaton, counsel for the Columbia Amusement Co., operators of two theatres here whose Thrift Night and Bank Night awards were held to be a lottery by Judge Joe L. Price in an opinion handed down in McCracken Circuit Court, has declared that he will recommend that the case be taken to the Court of Appeals.

Meantime, the company has suspended the awards each Monday night.

Two Managers Sued

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Jan. 6. — The managers of the State and Mayfair, B. B. Holdridge and Charles Stewart, respectively, are defendants in a Bank Night suit for $150 filed in District Court here by Eddie Jarman, through his mother, Lena Jarman. The plaintiffs claim the boy attended one of the theatres on a Bank Night when his name was drawn as winner but the money was withheld by the managers. It is regarded as a test case.

Paramount to Talk Operation, Slogan

By A-MIKE VOGEL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6.—Discussion of operation and the adoption of a slogan for Paramount's three-month international sales drive, starting in March, will occupy a good part of the company's two-day meeting attended by division and district distrib[illegible]n heads starting tomorrow morning [illegible]t the Hotel Roosevelt here. In addition, according to Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager, the sales policy for the new season's product will be taken up as well as product still to be released on this season's program.

Awards will be offered for the best results in the spring drive which will take in every Paramount sales territory in all parts of the world. Agnew also will announce extra awards for theatre men playing Paramount during the competition who turn in the best selling job during the three months. Further details are to be worked out.

Friday's session will be a general one and it is expected that production and theatre executives in New Orleans for the world premiere of C. B. DeMille's "The Buccaneer" will address the gathering. Saturday will be given over to individual meetings called by the division heads.

Personnel Changes Due

To be announced Friday by Agnew are the following changes in distribution personnel:

Hugh Brawley, Salt Lake and Denver district manager, to the supervision of the Texas district, replacing Jack Dugger, recently deceased. No successor to Brawley will be appointed; the district will be transferred to Myke Lewis' west coast division. To assist Lewis in the operation of the enlarged territory will be George Smith, San Francisco branch manager, whose place will be taken by H. Neal East, Seattle branch manager. Morris Siegel, Paramount Seattle salesman, will succeed East.

Agnew will be in the chair at the meeting. From the home office will be J. J. Unger, C. M. Reagan, G. B. J. Frawley, R. M. Gillham, Alec Moss and Don Velde. The district men include: M. S. Kusell, New York; W. H. Erbb, Boston; P. A. Bloch, Philadelphia; H. H. Goldstein, Cleveland; A. Usher, Chicago; Oscar Morgan, Atlanta; R. C. LiBeau, Kansas City; H. W. Braly, Denver; M. H. Lewis, Los Angeles; B. Blotcky, Minneapolis; G. A. Smith, San Francisco, and M. A. Milligan, Toronto.

Columbia Awards Set

Cash prizes totaling to $50,000 will be distributed among Columbia branch employes at the end of the Montague Sales and Billing Campaign which will start Jan. 15. Details of the plan are to be sent out next week, according to Jack Cohn.

Awards will be computed on the basis of the improvement in each exchange over the business done last year.

sales manager, and Mathew Fox, assistant to the president, were elected vice presidents.

Ottavio Prochet, a member of the board of Universal Corp., was elected to the board of Universal Pictures Co., Inc.

Seidelman was given a long term contract by Universal. His Columbia contract had until Feb. 25 to run but amicable arrangements for his release to Universal at the beginning of next week were made, and are contingent only upon the availability of his successor, who has been decided upon already and whose appointment probably will be made known today. Seidelman has been with Columbia for the past three years and prior to that was foreign manager for Paramount. Gus Schaefer continues as export manager under Seidelman.

when in addition to other important matters officers will be elected for the ensuing year. Under these circumstances, I think it advisable to postpone the meeting until after the election. I am certain that the newly elected officers will attend any meeting held for the purpose of solving the important problems in our industry."

This statement would indicate that Yamins, who has held the presidency two years, does not consider himself a candidate fo re-election.

Kuykendall advised Brandt early this week that he would attend the proposed meeting here if it could be arranged after Jan. 17. No word has been received from him on when he expects to arrive in New York.

Allied of Michigan Asks Better Prints

Detroit, Jan. 6.—A campaign to assure subsequent run theatres of better prints and to protect them against liability for damaged film is being conducted by Allied of Michigan under the supervision of Ray Branch, president.

Most of the damage to prints is done in the earlier runs, Branch contends. If exhibitors in these situations will keep their machines clean and in proper adjustment, this damage will be reduced.

Branch said he was receiving cooperation from both exchanges and exhibitors as a result of a series of bulletins he is sending out concerning the matter.

Phila. Sees "Earth"

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—"Spanish Earth" opened today at the Europa as a result of the overruling of the censors' ban by Governor Earle.

"Spain in Flames" was to have been shown with the film, but the censor board has appealed from Judge Louis E. Levinthal's overriding of its ban and the case is still pending.

"Chicago" Opening a Blend Of New Year's and Legion

Charlie McCarthy's face when women began to scream and he told the theatre manager to send in a riot call. In no time at all a squad car arrived with a load of bluecoats. They might just as well have leaned up against the Mississippi during a flood. Another squad car arrived. A half dozen mounted men galloped up—up was right. They bounced their snorting steeds right into the middle of the sidewalk and let the horses clear a lane from the curb to the door.

Women came in gasping and pulling their evening wraps together. Men counted their shirt studs to make sure everything was intact. Harry Brand ran around in circles and suggested loudly that "they" should be brought in the side door, but nobody could figure out how to get word to "they." Once their cars got into the jam at the front door they had to stay there.

Ruth Waterbury popped into sight from under a horse without batting an eyelash. Thyra Samter Winslow screamed and looked down at one of her feet. It was a short look, though; the crowd was pushing. An indignant dowager sat down on the WHN electrical equipment to examine a run in her stocking, but discovered she was getting sunburned on the back of her neck in front of a spotlight.

Radie Harris, Larry Reid, Luella Gear, Louis Sobol, Billy Wilkerson, Joe Moscowitz, Sidney Towell and others followed each other in. The WHN announcer had just started talking into a microphone when Will H. Hays was catapulted through the door. Earl Wingart ushered him to the microphone, but what he had to say was lost in the shouts of cameraman, "Look this way Mr. Hays—a big smile—up here Mr. Hays."

By the time he had eased himself under a tape Ben Bernie "Howdyed" the folks on the ether waves.

Hope Hampton came in with her husband, Jules Brulatour, and one of the cameramen remarked: "The opening's official now." She refused to broadcast, but posed for pictures. Ethel Merman did both.

At 8:49 S. R. Kent and party arrived. Two minutes later Darry[illegible]anuck and Mrs. Zanuck were squ[illegible]ed into the narrow opening around the microphone and Earl Allvine tried to shoo-o-o- a crowd of still photographers from in front of the Movietone camera lens.

By that time the flash bulbs were popping like machine guns, the crowd outside was shouting. Police, both afoot and mounted, were wishing they were some other place.

Beatrice Lillie's tricky Scotch highlander's cap caught the eye of the multitude. She tried to introduce a "Mr. Dannenburg" to somebody just inside the door, but "Mr. Dannenburg" was bounced out of voice range so fast he heard no more. Martin and Mrs. Quigley squeezed by about that time.

Hersholt and Tenor Arrive

Lauritz Melchior, the Metropolitan Opera singer, and Jean Hersholt arrived at about the same time. It was a tactical error. The crowd wanted to see them both, and did.

The big moment came when Gregory Ratoff, Alice Faye, Joseph M. Schenck, Sid Grauman and others appeared at 8:58.

Harry Brand looked them over for injuries. He found none and relaxed. Charlie McCarthy leaned up against the wall.

"They wanted an opening and they got it," he murmured in a daze.

The crowd thinned out in the lobby. Boys with toy brushes examined a pile of flashlight bulbs and decided to get a shovel.

"In Old Chicago" was on its way.

"Delightful Film"

London, Jan. 6.—Alexander Korda's "The Divorce of Lady X," which will be released by United Artists in the United States next month, and which opened at the Odeon here tonight, is delightfully polished entertainment, and a triumph for Tim Whelan, director. It is a demonstration of British ability to reach Hollywood standards in smoothness.

The romantic teamwork of Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier is outstanding in a witty story of mistaken identity and the attorney's romance with a girl believed to be the wife of a divorce-seeking client. The settings and costumes are of high quality and the Technicolor extremely effective. FLANAGAN

"Swing Your Lady"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Jan. 6.—Professional wrestling and hill billyisms are combined in "Swing Your Lady" to produce a hilarious Ozark mountain piece which provides exhibitors and showmen, outside of Missouri at least, with a veritable fount of ideas for attracting the public to this musical film. It is made from start to finish for laughs and it obtained them at a Hollywood preview from the opening action to the final fade-out.

The picture treads dangerously on the civic pride of rural communities, but it nevertheless has a scapegoat at which small-town residents may emit chuckles—professional wrestling. The picture is based on the play by Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson. The screenplay by Joseph Schrank and Maurice Leo is a swift moving piece of screen fun which Ray Enright paces neatly with his direction. The story is slowed down, however, by an over-long, incongruous dance number in which swing is introduced to Ozark folk. The cast provides competent names for marquee embellishment—Humphrey Bogart, Frank McHugh, Louise Fazenda, Nat Pendleton, Allen Jenkins and the Weaver Brothers and Elviry.

Bogart is the manager of Pendleton, a feeble-minded wrestler who is barnstorming with him and Frank McHugh and Jenkins. He gets the idea of matching Pendleton with Miss Fazenda, a woman blacksmith in the Ozarks. Pendleton falls in love with his opponent to the disgust of the crew. There comes menace in the form of Daniel Boone Savage, a well known figure in the Pacific coast wrestling field. He is the hill billy lover of Miss Fazenda. Bogart arranges a grudge match which Pendleton wins. Bogart then plans for a match in the big time and he goes awry as his wrestler claims his prize—Miss Fazenda—and elects to stay in the Ozarks.

There are five songs by M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl in keeping with the hillbilly theme, and they offer added exploitation angles. Sam Bischoff produced.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Hurricane" $108,186 In 8 Weeks at Astor

$14,787. The last week's spurt is attributed to holiday business, including New Year's. The picture proved a strong matinee attraction, with the nights off, it was reported.

Broadway business generally continued at a rallying pace under the holiday impetus. "Tovarich" gave the Music Hall $115,800 for the week ending Wednesday, with about $82,000 for the first four days, ending Sunday, contributing materially. Now in a second stanza, the picture may go a third.

"Wells Fargo" and Fred Waring and his band on the stage grossed $72,000 in the week ending Tuesday night at the Paramount. This was reported as a two-year record. The picture is holding up strongly and a third week is scheduled.

The Roxy estimated $58,000 as the take for "Love and Hisses" for the week ending last night. The picture will go a second week.

"Submarine D-1" at the Strand ended its first week Tuesday with $38,162, warranting a second-week holdover.

"Rosalie," the Capitol's current holdover, was another big grosser the first week, although figures were not available. Business was up also at the Criterion with "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round."

The newsreels' pictures of the Panay sinking, which were heavily advertised, were generally credited as a box-office draw.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 34
(20th Century-Fox)

An average issue that presents regulation newsreel material in an acceptable form. It is the usual compilation of national politics, contests, fashions, aviation, sports and the light dialect touch by Lew Lehr.

Portrait shots of Justice Sutherland and Van Devanter in a Supreme Court sequence open the reel. It is followed by 80-year old Senator Glass being congratulated on his birthday and Alfred E. Smith as he observes his 64th year.

Then there are scenes of a poultry show with many prize fowl strutting before the camera, swimming and snow activities at Sun Valley, advance summer and spring fashions on fair models, a new European glider, skiing in New England, a speedboat trial in Florida, training huskies in New Hampshire and Lew Lehr commenting in his usual fashion while attractive camera compositions of girl sun-tanners in Florida are screened.

Running time, 8½ mins. P.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 232
(M-G-M)

The makeup of this issue indicates a scarcity of acceptable newsreel material. But with the material on hand the editors have gotten up an interesting collection of items.

The lead is a bit of documentation revolving around the current legislation in Washington for additional defense appropriations. It is followed by Senator Glass on his 80th birthday, King Carol of Rumania revealed as an "Iron Man," and Secretary of State Roper and Colby M. Chester of the National Ass'n of Manufacturers in short speeches on methods to solve the current recession. The Woman's Page offer fashions in women's shoes, modes in dress for dogs, and sunbathing girls in Florida having their tans scientifically regulated. Horace Dodge races his Delphine in the sporting division which also includes a skiing sequence and sled-dog racing.

Running time, 8 mins. P.

Paramount News
No. 45
(Paramount)

This issue of the Paramount reel may be described as composed of interesting routine material, with a flash or two in keeping with the season, news of current importance, one feature type clip, and an intelligent use of the opportunity for fast action newsreel fare in a clip on a New York basketball game.

The current rage for skiing is viewed in a blizzard on Mt. Ranier, Wash., while in good contrast is pictured a number of celebrities basking in Florida's winter sunshine. The drama of death at sea is retold as the police and Government agents investigate the mysterious slaying of two aboard a pleasure yacht when it returns to Los Angeles.

Unusual timeliness in a news "break" is afforded with glimpses of Supreme Court Justice George Sutherland, just resigned, and of former Justice Van Devanter presiding as a visiting judge in a lower Federal Court in New York. There is interest in the scenes of an entire orchestra using Stradivarius violins in a concert commemorating the 200th anniversary of the death of the great violin maker, and Germany offers an impressive tribute to the memory of Gen. Erich Ludendorff at his funeral in Munich.

Long Island University shows the way to Southern Methodist in a fast basketball game at Madison Square Garden to end the reel.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 49
(RKO)

Pathe's editors have attempted to take an interpretive slant on the recent news developments in this week's issue. The results are interesting.

In presenting Justice Sutherland's retirement with comment by Andrew Baruch the pictures of a number of possible successors are introduced. Another Washington shot showing the Senate Unemployment Investigation Committee has closeups of the chairman, Senator Byrnes, explaining the purposes of the probe.

A behind-the-scenes slant on the Chinese situation shows how the Nanking Government gets enormous quantities of war supplies through Hong Kong, a British-controlled port. The same technique of presenting an illuminating sidelight has been used in showing activity at the Brooklyn Navy Yard in building up sea defenses.

A neat trick has been pulled on the fashion subjects by presenting a series of hats on girls in a fancy frame. The backgrounds are perfectly flat, but the lighting has been arranged to focus attention on the subjects in a smart manner.

Two subjects have been cut to lend a note of excitement. One gives varied angles on a bobsled descent and another shows how airplanes are tested for the Navy Dept.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 630
(Universal)

This collection is fairly interesting chiefly because of the wide range of subjects.

A glimpse of Justice Sutherland, second conservative member of the Supreme Court to retire, starts off the reel, followed by a shot of Senator Carter Glass in connection with Congressional doings. Seasonal notes are the "skiers' mass" at North Conway, N. H., and young malamutes getting their first taste of sled harness at Wonalancet, N. H. A wrestling match in a muddy field will get a laugh. Chicago's shoe show and a "back watcher" guarding bathing beauties against sunburn at Miami are notable for their display of the feminine form.

There is also a shot of the U. S. National Guard's polo victory over the Cuban Army, with Col. Fulgencio Battista, Cuba's dictator, as a spectator; poultry show specimens and the Rangers-American hockey tilt in New York City.

House Budget Slashes Fund For the FCC

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Jan. 6.—An appropriation of $1,742,000, exclusive of $20,000 for a study of radio requirements for the Great Lakes was today recommended for the F. C. C. by the House Appropriations Committee in reporting the independent offices supply bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The sum recommended is $17,000 under the appropriation for the current year.

Consideration of the F. C. C. budget by the committee was marked by sharp questioning of Commissioner T. A. M. Craven, both as to his personal interest in broadcasting stations with which he was connected before joining the commission, and the Mae West broadcast, which occurred just prior to the hearing.

While frankly explaining his relationship with broadcasting stations before joining the commission and the steps he took to sever his connections, Craven parried the committee's questions regarding the Mae West episode, saying that the question of censorship is one for Congress to work out.

To Study Medical Programs

"We don't undertake any censorship," he commented.

Craven disclosed, however, that the commission plans to make a study of patent medicine advertising over the air, on which complaint was voiced by committee members, but pointed out "there is a very grave question of constitutional rights with respect to censorship which we must regard as well as everybody else."

Members of the committee evinced interest in the possibility of charging fees for broadcasting licenses, regarding which Craven said he had no suggestions to make other than that a very complete study should be made before anything is done, particularly from the point of providing an implication of property rights in the future to licensees.

Bill Aims to Limit Radio Libel Actions

Albany, Jan. 6.—A bill aimed to limit libel suits against radio stations is to be introduced Monday night by Assemblyman Phelps Phelps, commentator over WMCA and WNEW. Many recent suits have developed out of quizzes and uncensored speeches.

Pettengill Seeks Action on Booking

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Block booking legislation will be brought before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee at the earliest opportunity, it was declared today by Representative Samuel B. Pettengill (Dem., Ind.), who denied reports recently published that he would not press the measure this session.

Pettengill said delay in seeking action on the bill has been due to the fact that the committee has not met to consider its calendar for the session. When it does meet, he will seek prompt hearings on his legislation.

"More mail on the subject of block booking is coming in from all over the country than ever before," the Congressman said.

"While undoubtedly the mere introduction of the legislation has accomplished something toward eliminating unfair practices, I am not satisfied with the situation and intend to ask the committee to consider the bill at the first meeting called to discuss its program."

Zanuck Threatens to Close Door to Radio

Even a mild repetition of an affair such as the recent Mae West broadcast automatically will close the doors of his company to radio, according to Darryl Zanuck, production head of 20th Century-Fox, in New York yesterday.

Discussing the background of the program on which Miss West appeared, Zanuck described how Don Ameche, who is a 20th Century-Fox player and a regular member of the Chase & Sanborn program, balked at appearing on the show at his first reading of the script. Whereupon the lines were toned down, but shortly before air time the original script was again submitted, and under pressure from agency officials, Ameche agreed under protest to participate.

British-U.S. Trade Talk to Include Films

Kennedy as Ambassador Interests Industry

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—That films will figure in the negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement with the United Kingdom was made known tonight by the State Dept. in a formal announcement.

Only a short time before this announcement President Roosevelt stated at his press conference that he intended to name Joseph P. Kennedy as Ambassador to Great Britain. This was official confirmation of a report current for some time. It is of especial interest to the film industry because of Kennedy's familiarity with the details of its workings and the advanced stage of discussion of a new quota law in the House of Commons. Confirmation of Kennedy's appointment is expected by most Washington observers.

Included among the several hundred items which the United States is prepared to discuss are motion picture negatives, both undeveloped and developed, on which the tariff now is 2 cents per linear foot for the former

"Buccaneer" Opens at N.O. With Hollywood's Fanfare

By A-MIKE VOGEL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—Paramount opened Cecil B. DeMille's "The Buccaneer" here tonight at the Saenger with top grade Hollywood technique from arc lamps to microphones—and all the way between—with the addition of Louisiana's leading lights of official and social circles.

New Orleans had long known about the picture. From the time the idea was conceived, through the prolonged period of local research, filming of backgrounds in the bayou country, Louisianans had anticipated tonight's opening, which coincided with the city's observance of the Battle of New Orleans—one of the picture's highlights.

As was expected, the opening was

"The Buccaneer"

(DeMille-Paramount)

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—Cecil B. DeMille's second production expedition into the early American scene, "The Buccaneer," emerges upon the screen as an attraction of hit quality.

Admitting the Louisiana enthusiasm for a Louisiana classic, the picture nevertheless looks like big merchandise for the big world screen. The prime elements are Fredric March and romantic piracy. They offer twin appeal for both sides of the house and, of course, all the offspring. Against the background of the War of 1812 and the early days of New Orleans, the producer tells the story of Jean LaFitte, called at various times, America's first racketeer, the nation's savior and Nature's Nobleman. In the telling, DeMille remains reasonably close to history, compressing, adapting and changing to fit the needs of story, all strictly in keeping with the retention of drama values.

Dealing substantially with the part played in history by LaFitte and his notorious crew, the production highlights, and engagingly, the episodic career of the buccaneer which keeps pace with the efforts of Governor Claiborne, of Louisiana Territory, and General Andrew Jackson to defeat the British. Into the narrative are interwoven pirate attacks, walking the plank, the pirate's rendezvous in the bayous where all New Orleans comes to buy their captured wares, the battle of New Orleans, and the gala ball to celebrate the victory.

Told romantically through it all is the triangular love story of LaFitte, Anette De Remy and Gretchen. Though it might be expected that the picture would end with the victory ball, DeMille devises further suspense and drama by an ensuing sequence which serves to decide for the pirate chief the woman of his choice.

Performances for the most part are excellent. As LaFitte, Fredric March is handsomely at home in the role of the swashbuckling and nerveless buccaneer. Running March a close second and supplying the comic relief is Akim Tamiroff, the fabulous Dominique. In his first big part Hugh Southern is the story book Andy Jackson. His portrayal keeps easy pace with the skillful delineations of the other male leads. The women leads, Margot Grahame, as Anette, and Franciska Gaal, as Gretchen, handle their assignments well, and the rest of the casting is in keeping with the high degree of production found throughout the picture.

Based on the story "LaFitte the Pirate," by Lyle Saxon, Jeanie MacPherson turns in a workmanlike job of adapting and the screenplay by Edwin Justus Mayer, Harold Lamb and C. Gardner Sullivan follows through commendably. The musical score by George Antheil and the musical direction by Boris Morros sharpen the moment of high drama and the many pictorial values are skillfully realized by Victor Milner's photography.

With the premier of "The Buccaneer" come the knighting of a new figure in the Hollywood production roster with screen credit to William H. Pine as associate producer.

swank—all the way. The state's proudest families, together with visiting industry executives, stars of the film and other guests pushed their way through throngs which blocked gala Canal St. and caused the local gendarmerie many an anxious moment. It was a press agent's dream come true.

Everything was white tie and ermine. The studio's arc lamps were in full bloom, and celebrities broadcast. At the close of the performance DeMille received an ovation from the assembled Louisianians.

With cooperation from state and local officials, the forces of Paramount, DeMille and E. V. Richards, theatre operator, executed an advance campaign of no mean proportions. On hand to lead the procession, DeMille was run ragged by the efforts of Robert Gillham, from the home office; Bill Pine, from the studio, and Robert Blair, Saenger Theatre publicity head. No less than 10 downtown 24-sheet stands were used for welcoming signs to DeMille and the picture.

The board of curators of the Louisiana State Museum gave a Creole breakfast for the producer, and DeMille, in turn, gave the museum screen credit for research aid on the story. There were numerous luncheons and all proceedings were broadcast by WSMB, WWL and WDSU, while cocktail parties took their share of the visitors' time.

The evening ended with still another party after the performance, at which Richards played host at the Hotel Roosevelt, and that went on into the small hours.

Broadcasting Study Urged In Congress

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Anti-Trust activities of the Administration should be directed first to conditions in the broadcasting industry, where there is a monopoly "directly fostered" by the Government, according to Representative Wigglesworth (Rep., Mass.).

Taking advantage of a House "field day" devoted to general debate, Wigglesworth yesterday launched a long attack against the F.C.C., criticizing it for its failure to "clean up" programs and asserting that 1,140 separate complaints against programs were received by the commission last year. But, he added, "No licenses have been revoked and no renewal applications have been refused as a result of any of these complaints."

An appeal for time for Chairman Frank R. McNinch to carry out the President's plan for reorganization of commission policies was made by Representative Woodrum (Dem., Va.), who, while admitting that conditions in the F.C.C. call for study, expressed the belief McNinch will be able to handle the matter satisfactorily.

The appointment of T. A. M. Craven as a member of the commission in view of his connection with broadcasting stations also was criticized by Wigglesworth and defended by Woodrum, who declared the situation had been thoroughly gone into by the Senate when the appointment was up for ratification.

Those who will attend for I.R.N.A. are Samuel F. Rosenbaum and Emile Gough, of the negotiating committee.

Meanwhile, Mark Woods, NBC executive, visited Weber at the latter's home yesterday, presumably to discuss the contract for the key stations.

New Shows on the Air

"Those We Love"

There is an odd mixture of excellent and hokey writing in the new dramatic script series "Those We Love," which made its debut very recently on the NBC-Blue network, replacing "Husbands and Wives" for Pond's facial creams. As we interpret it, Agnes Ridgeway, who writes the script, obviously is sacrificing some of her ability for the sake of sure-fire, audience-tested hokum, which is too bad, for portions of the show sparkled with the best dialogue which has been heard on the air.

Even in its off moments, however, the program was never really bad, for it is blessed with a thoroughly competent cast. Incidentally, the players are all from the screen—Nan Grey, Owen Davis, Jr., Richard Cromwell, Alma Kreuger, Pedro de Cordoba and Virginia Sale.

The story is somewhat complicated, having several sets of central characters. One set has to do with boy and girl twins, Cathey and Kit, and another lad, Allen, the latter in love with Kit. Then there is Aunt Emmy; her brother John, who is the father of the twins; and a character as yet not introduced, Jerry, who was engaged to Aunt Emmy prior to the war. Emotionally shattered by his experience at the front he broke his engagement to Emmy upon his return, and there the situation rests, although Emmy is still devoted to him. Despite the story within a story, Miss Ridgeway keeps the script running smoothly, so that at no time is the listener confused. The show should prove popular. BANNER

Prevents Retaliation on Majors' Programs

Contractual commitments are now believed by I. T. O. A. spokesmen to prevent any effective measures by exhibitors in retaliation for major producers' sponsorship of radio programs.

Committees representing the New York group and Allied of N. J. are to meet shortly to adopt a joint program of "drastic action" in an attempt to force the studios to discontinue film star appearances on the air. The chief targets, of course, would be Warners and M-G-M.

What steps the organizations propose have been kept under cover until the committee authorizes action. Mo-

Monogram Predicts $750,000 for "Boy"

A gross of $750,000 has been set by Monogram in sales quotas apportioned to the company's distribution offices for "Boy of the Streets," W. Ray Johnston, Monogram president, said on Saturday. The figure is probably the highest to be set on an independent production in modern industry records.

The Jackie Cooper picture opened its most important engagements during the Christmas-New Year's holiday week and with that business impetus promises to reach the designated goal, Johnston said. The Monogram head exhibited sheaves of wires from circuit operators and exhibitors in all parts of the country which have been received during the past few days hailing the business being done by the picture.

Gerhardi was with the station for five years, and his broadcasts had been under fire of a citizens' Anti-Nazi Committee.

DeMille in Plea For Big Pictures

By A-MIKE VOGEL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—Production should not be asked to carry the entire load of increased costs of making pictures, said Cecil B. DeMille before Paramount's distribution heads meeting here at the Hotel Roosevelt. He contended that big pictures form the backbone of the industry and that unless means could be devised to bring in more revenue for this type of product the studios would be forced to discontinue making them.

Exhibitors may cooperate, DeMille said, by playing big pictures weekends. By doing otherwise, he contended, the exhibitor is using the producer's investment to bolster his midweek grosses and is not giving the producer the chance to get proper returns on the big productions.

"We feel," said DeMille, "that theatres should be prepared to share some of the burden at this time as an investment in their own future."

RKO Backers Seek Accord On New Setup

Also Aim to Pick Studio And Theatre Heads

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9.—Agreements on a new board of directors and management for reorganized RKO are being sought by representatives of the leading financial interests associated with the company who have been conferring here for the past week, it was learned authoritatively today.

Although the conferences may continue another week and will be of vital import to the company's eventual setup prior to or upon its reorganization, any agreements which may be reached probably would not become effective immediately, always excepting, of course, the designation of a new RKO studio head and RKO theatre operator, which posts are scheduled to be filled at the earliest possible moment. Agreements on board and over-all management of the company, however, are subject in large part to court approval prior to RKO's final emergence from reorganization, and as such will be of a conditional nature.

The fact, however, that the company's principal financial interests are engaged in the conferences tends to Lane's brief contends that all film contracts involved were made in New York and that the defendant companies have their offices in New York.

The conditional extension of the tion for another year leaves RCA th a stake in RKO approximately ly $500,000, less than that of Atlashman. Thus, it may be assumed it RCA will have equal representan on the initial board of reorgand RKO and as influential a voice the designation of new management.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The House of Mystery"

(Larry Darmour-Columbia)

Hollywood, Jan. 9.—Exhibitors who like to feature melodramatic mysteries and patrons who like to see them have a very pleasing treat in store for them in Larry Darmour's "House of Mystery." It is an intelligent combination of intriguing story, good acting, intelligent direction and quality production. Possessed of the necessary quota of chills and thrills, its comedy content is surprisingly ample and the dash of romance that has been included serves to round the entertainment value of the film out nicely.

Fast-moving, devoid of all non-essentials with dialogue, situations, characterizations and action so blended that interest is continually held at high pitch, preview audience reaction to the show indicated that film would have no difficulty satisfying whenever and wherever it is played.

For efficiency in preventing crime, Police Officer Jack Holt is promoted down stairs to the sticks. His newspaper pal, Craig Reynolds, goes along with him to see if he can devise some stunts that will keep Holt's name in the headlines. As Craig's plan to attract attention to Holt backfires, both find themselves in the center of a real murder mystery. As avail is made of all the melodramatic trappings including a stolen necklace, a mystery house, full of sliding doors, an erratic will and the "missing papers," all of which entail a couple of murders which cast suspicion on many people, Holt solves the crime. His reward is promotion to a commissionership and the promise that Reynolds will devote more time in the future to Beverly Roberts.

It is based on a story by Howard J. Green which Jefferson Parker and Green adapted, and was directed by Lewis D. Collins.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Everybody's Doing It"

(RKO)

Hollywood, Jan. 9.—It was more or less inevitable that the hullabaloo stirred up by the Old Gold cartoon puzzle contest would be echoed on the screen and this is the echo. It is a story by George Beck, screen play by J. Robert Bren, Edmund Joseph and Harry Segall, and it is a William Sistrom production directed by Christy Cabanne. Preston Foster, Sally Eilers, Guinn Williams, Cecil Kellaway and Lorraine Kreuger have the principal roles. It starts out as a comedy, turns melodramatic for a spell, then winds up with all hands knocking each other about the screen in the more or less approved manner of certain recent box-office hits, but quite a bit more so. It is an inexpensive fabrication that may be unusual enough to satisfy the moderate taste moderately.

Foster is an alcoholic artist commissioned to draw puzzle cartoons for an advertising campaign that clicks. Miss Eilers is the girl friend who hires Williams to abduct him with a view to keeping him sober until he has finished the series of drawings. Richard Lane, Williams' employer, is a gangster, who sells answers to the puzzles. The abduction turns real when Williams decides to hold Foster and win the first prize, but at this point proceedings degenerate into slapstick comedy with mobsters, police and principals lambasting each other until exhausted. Then comes the end.

The picture contains a song, "Put Your Heart Into Your Feet and Dance," by Hal Borne and Mort Greene, which Miss Krueger sings and dances slightly in the routine of a dumb dame role.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

tion Picture Daily learned over the weekend that the playing of a company's percentage pictures on the nights of the broadcasts was strongly favored and stood a good chance of being recommended to the memberships.

The I. T. O. A. has discovered, however, that this procedure could not be adopted since the bigger pictures of both Warners and M-G-M are designated for weekend playdates. Playdates on Wednesday and Thursday, the nights of the companies' broadcasts, therefore are impossible. This measure was originally proposed by Pete Wood of the Ohio I. T. O. A.

Meanwhile Jack Cohn's call to the industry to initiate measures "to end film star competition with motion picture theatres" was hailed by the I. T. O. A. as significant.

The organization believes Cohn's statement might "start the ball rolling" on the part of the major companies if other distribution executives felt likewise.

Spokesmen for the exhibitor group say there is evidence that the major companies, especially those controlling theatres, are becoming concerned over the situation. They indicated that the organization probably would defer any contemplated action until the attitude of the majors is more clearly defined.

Mantha Injured Again

Detroit, Jan. 9.—Gus Mantha of the Saville is beginning to consider himself the unluckiest exhibitor in the state.

Recently he was blackjacked by three men whom he attempted to put out of the theatre for annoying women patrons and his head was badly cut.

Just recovered from that injury, he is now on crutches with a broken knee cap, sustained in an automobile collision on New Year's day on the road from Detroit to Ann Arbor.

Reopen Albany Eagle

Albany, Jan. 9.—Abraham Stone has reopened the Eagle after a renovation job that cost $40,000. His scale remains at 15 and 20 cents.

Looking 'Em Over

"I Met My Love Again"

(Wanger-United Artists)

From the novel by Allene Corless, "Summer Lighting," which, it might be well for the exhibitor to remember, was published serially before appearing in book form, Walter Wanger has devised a production which has moments of strength and of weakness, and on the whole may be considered good entertainment with a measure of popular appeal.

"I Met My Love Again," a title which gives more than a slight indication of the theme, is a drama of a young romance which was rudely shattered, and which came to a final reconciliation, but only in sequel to a series of bitter experiences. The film is well mounted and is characterized by strong performances, the quietly restrained work of Henry Fonda being particularly outstanding. Matching his work with an equally capable portrayal is that of Joan Bennett, while Dame May Whitty offers an excellently-turned character role, young Louise Platt shows promise as the spoiled child in love with her college professor, and Alan Marshal is properly objectionable as the worthless author who blights the romance originally.

The screenplay of David Hertz and Arthur Ripley has imparted probably no greater depths to the story than it originally possessed, but their script, under the directional hand of Joshua Logen, contrives to keep the story alive and moving. Fonda and Miss Bennett, in a small town, are engaged, and he plans to become a college professor like his father, now dead. Miss Bennett meets Marshal, and marries him. The marriage is a disappointment, Marshal is killed and Miss Bennett, 10 years later, returns to her aunt, Miss Whitty. Fonda refuses to return to their old basis, while complications enter as Miss Platt falls in love with him. When finally he does become reconciled with Miss Bennett, Fonda's mother stands in the way of their marriage as well as the girl, until Miss Bennett, in a highly melodramatic sequence, proves to the girl that her love for Fonda is not real, while he defies his unsympathetic mother.

Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

"The Old Barn Dance"

(Republic)

Gene Autry fans will find "The Old Barn Dance" satisfying western entertainment with excitement and musical treatment. The film was produced in good style and the story is spaced to insert comedy by Smiley Burnette and the Autry vocals.

Autry and his troupe are horse dealers who move from one town to another auctioning horses. The tractor industry puts a crimp in the business. He meets Helen Valkis when his selling is low and she deceives him into signing a radio contract whereby he will do his act for the benefit of a tractor company. A great deal of story unfolds and it eventually gets around to the point where the tractor dealer is shown up as an unscrupulous crook. Autry and the enraged farmers who have already lost their shirts, set out to beat the racket with horses, as the time for harvest draws near. Intermixed in the narrative are a number of misunderstandings between Autry, the irate farmers and Miss Valkis. But in good time the whole affair is ironed out.

The screenplay is by Bernard McConville and Charles Francis Royal. Joseph Kane directed. The support utilizes the talents of Sammy McKim, the Stafford Sisters, the Maple City Four, Karl Dwire, Carleton Young, Earle Hodgins and Walter Shrum and his Colorado Hillbillies. The musical acts are well turned.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Paroled to Die"

(Republic)

Most of the essentials that make westerns popular are found in this Bob Steele production. Steele rides hard, fights, shoots and finds time for a little romance. The background is picturesque.

Steele is a sort of cow-town cutup who annoys Karl Hackett, his rival in love, to distraction. This takes the form of a bit of dirty work. Hackett frames Steele with a bank robbery and Steele is eventually convicted. But in the ensuing riding and generally active culmination of the plot, Horace Murphy, who plays a dim-witted drifter, solves the mystery that has surrounded Hackett's skullduggery and with the aid of Steele arrests the culprit. Murphy, it is later shown, is an agent working out of the Governor's office. Of course the piece has an appropriate romantic finish with Steele and Kathleen Eliot.

Sam Newfield contributed lively direction. Miss Eliot rides better than most horse opera heroines. Her acting is convincing. The support includes Steve Clark, Budd Buster, Sherry Tansey and Frank Ball.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"The River"

(Paramount)

Produced under the supervision and sponsorship of the Farm Security Administration and the U. S. Dep't of Agriculture, this picture is presented with a definite purpose in view, that of impressing upon the public the national necessity of conservatio[illegible] natural resources, chiefly with res[illegible] to forests and farm land.

Actually directed and written by Pare Lorentz, and definitely characteristic of his symbolic technique, the film, excellent in dramatic and pictorial quality, probably is the most telling argument yet devised for pressing home the Government's point that such conservation is important to the country's welfare. The photography of Stacey Woodward, Floyd Crosby and Willard Alexander is notable, the musical score of Virgil Thomas, as rendered by the New York Philharmonic orchestra does much to enhance the effectiveness of the whole subject, and the voice of Thomas Chalmers is good. However, again peculiarly Lorentz' style, there is too much repetition of phrase in the accompanying dialogue.

The film tells the story of the great Mississippi, points to the forest and farm land devastation, and the resulting floods. Then is pictured the measures undertaken to curb the river, and its tributaries and the means devised for reforestation and reviving the fertitility of the soil.

Although designed for a purpose, the subject is at the same time good theatrical material.

Running time, 31 mins. "G."

"Script Girl"

(Vitaphone)

A two-reel musical that will appeal in every situation and leave the audience well satisfied. The slight story is set in a studio where Cross and Dunn are ready to make a picture. The director cannot start unless he has a script girl. The pair get him a naive blonde. The show resumes with surefire song numbers by the well known team, snappy routines by Gae Foster girls, including the Big Apple and more singing by Joan Abbott. Cross and Dunn also do a hilarious sketch called "A Hamburger for Madame." The short could stand advance billing. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Hollywood Picnic"

(Columbia)

The audience's sense of humor will determine the value of this cartoon. It is one of those caricatures featuring many film players in their more familiar actions. The manner of presenting the personalities is overdone and the film has the semblance of a daffy circus. It is in Technicolor. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Zula Hula"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

In this cartoon Betty Boop and her Gramp wreck their airplane on a desert island. Gramp puts his ingenuity to work and soon the place is as livable as home. But natives menace the place. Gramp solves the problem with a swing concert that diverts the savages. The pair depart in a cleverly improvised flying machine. It's acceptable cartoon fare. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Love Is a Headache"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Jan. 9.—Authors Lou Heifetz and Herbert Klein thought up a unique and intriguing human interest story idea in "Love Is a Headache." Scenarists Marion Parsonnet, Harry Ruskin and William R. Lipman shot it through with smart down-to-earth humor in the dialogue, situations and characterizations. Producer Frederick Stephani assigned Gladys George, Franchot Tone, the late Ted Healy, Mickey Rooney, Frank Jenks, Ralph Morgan, Virginia Weidler, Jessie Ralph, Fay Holden, Barnett Parker and Julius Tannen to bring the story to the screen with all its realism. The film was given good production. Director Richard Thorpe was given a free rein to inject a maximum of showmanship values. All the above named turned out a romantic farce comedy that should rank with M-G-M's recent batch of entertaining successes.

The plot is a story of a vendetta that backfired. Tone, a columnist-broadcaster, is Miss George's greatest admirer and severest critic. Seeking a home for Rooney and Miss Weidler, a pair of orphans, Healy, Miss George's press agent, and Jenks, Tone's contact man, adopt the children for Miss George with appropriate fanfare. A feud flames up as Tone claims Miss George is no fit guardian and he plans to take the youngsters from her. But Miss George loves the kids despite the headaches they cause her and she wants to keep them. With things getting hot Jenks and Healy heighten the comedy by staging a fake kidnapping which threatens to dynamite the actress and columnist. But a pseudo shotgun wedding with Jessie Ralph performing the ceremony at pistol point obliterates all worries in a cyclone of fun.

Tone gives one of those performances in which people like to see him. Healy, Rooney, little Miss Weidler, Jenks and Ralph keep the comedy whirling at a giddy pace. Morgan pleases as the wealthy suitor who loved, tried and lost.

"Love Is a Headache" may be the title, but it should prove anything but a headache for the patrons preferring refreshing and clean comedy.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Love on a Budget"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Jan. 9.—Those exhibitors who specialize in presenting the "Jones Family" series have a worthwhile attraction to offer their patrons in "Love on a Budget." Also, those to whom the series is unfamiliar should find the production worthy of investigation. In character "Love on a Budget" is the essence of family entertainment. Clean, wholesome, humorous and mildly exciting, the picture is well produced, directed and acted. The familiar personalities, Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Russell Gleason, Kenneth Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan are again presented. Alan Dinehart is introduced in a characterization that gives the story a refreshing note and Marvin Stephens, seen in "Borrowing Trouble," has a couple of scenes that add much to the film's comedy nature.

As the family characters are identified, conflicting economic theories upset the happiness of Miss Deane a bride, and Gleason, the bridegroom. The kindly counsels of the entire family go for naught when "Uncle Charlie," Alan Dinehart, a windblown promoter, makes his appearance. By fast talking Dinehart convinces the timid Gleason how he can make a lot of money quickly and Miss Deane that there is nothing wrong in furnishing her house on the installment plan. The family party celebrating the furnishing is a comic tragedy when the dinner goes the way of all brides' dinners and frightened Gleason orders the furniture returned. Next Dinehart involves Mayor Prouty in a potential political scandal, but the lucky blowing up of an exposition hall which Prouty had condemned as a result of Dinehart's skullduggery saves the situation. When another lucky break pays off financially, as Dinehart had promised it would, the young couple are happily reunited and the rest of the family settles down to peace and quiet.

A high class all-family attraction, "Love on a Budget" is not lacking in the necessary exploitation availability.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

In his swan-song to the membership, retiring chief barker Carter T. Barron declared that the installation "is a most important function. It not only means that by your presence you are extending a vote of confidence in your new administration, but that you are prepared to launch the new year's activities with the proverbial bang. . . . I know that if you extend, the same helpful spirit in 1938 that you did in 1937, the continued progress of Variety is assured."

about the death of indecent burlesque, that "because of the public outcry they would get in bad," he said. The managers promised to "clean up" the fronts.

Moss said the hearing resulted from the complaint of Rev. Joseph McCaffery, Police Dep't chaplain, who is pastor of the Holy Cross Church at 42nd St. and 8th Ave. The theatres complained against are in the parish. Father McCaffery was instrumental in bringing the burlesque "strip tease" situation to the fore.

The practice of using "exploitation fronts" of the type now banned was inaugurated several years ago by the former operator of the George M. Cohan in Times Square, Moss said. In addition to their indecency, such advertising displays are misleading, Moss charged.

CBS Selects Board to Aid Air Teaching

CBS has formed an Adult Education Board under the guidance of which it will launch in the near future a series of educational programs in evening hours definitely reserved for that purpose.

The board is headed by Dr. Lyman Bryson, professor of education at Teachers' College, Columbia University. Other members are: Springfellow Barr, president of St. John's College; William Bentorn, vice-president, Chicago University; Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor, New York University; Robert I. Gannon, president, Fordham University; Alvin S. Johnson, director of the New School for Social Research; Henry R. Luce, president of Time, Inc.; Ruth Bryan Rohde, former U. S. Minister to Denmark; Thomas V. Smith, professor of philosophy, University of Chicago; George Edgar Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation; William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette; Ray Lyman Wilbur, president, Leland Stanford University; and Joseph H. Willits, Dean of the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania.

To Meet January 17

The board will meet for the first time in New York on Jan. 17 and 18 to reach a practical decision as to the purpose and scope of adult education over the air. Thereafter the board and the network's own staff will cooperate in production.

Discussing the development, William S. Paley, president of CBS, said: "Adult education has been one of the most vexed and controversial questions in radio. A great deal that has been constructive already has been done . . . but the time appears to have come, however, when broadcasting should come more definitely to grips with the whole problem. After a long study we at CBS decided that a rightly constituted board of men and women . . . working with us would help to a degree to take the whole subject out of the realm of discussion and into the field of practical achievement."

Jennings Sales Head For WLW and WSAI

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9. — James D. Shouse, vice-president and general manager of the broadcast activities of the Crosley Radio Corp., yesterday appointed Robert G. Jennings as general sales manager of WLW and WSAI and assistant general manager of the station. Jennings for some time has been a vice-president of the organization.

Coupled with the recent appointment of Trans-American Radio & Television Corp. as exclusive national representative of the stations, this realignment in the Crosley broadcast division presages the future sales policy of WLW and WSAI. By consolidating sales activities the stations will be in a position to offer broader merchandising and sales service to sponsors.

Royal Tells Exhibitors to Stop Fussing About Radio

one that did business, we used to sit back and say, 'what a great manager am I.' But when we played a picture that did not do business we blamed everyone but ourselves or the picture.

"In my day we used to blame the newspapers and the critics, or the weather, or possibly a carnival or circus may have been playing the town that week, and we blamed that.

"Exhibitors today have found something else on which to pin their complaints. Today they blame radio."

He does not place all exhibitors in this class of "fussers," he said. Smart exhibitors, Royal is convinced, do not look upon radio as a foe. Rather, they like radio, appreciate all that it has done and can do for them. They know how to derive benefits from radio, especially from the local stations in their own cities. They recognize the fact that radio and pictures are linked by an inseparable bond, with a common aim, to entertain, and instead of fighting it, make it serve their ends.

Asks Showmanship

The "fussy" exhibitors, those who have been raising the issue of unfair competition, should take stock of themselves, Royal insists. Instead of merely shouting that radio is ruining them, they should get busy and develop new ideas of showmanship, get to know the people who operate radio stations in their cities, learn of the valuable tieups that may be made at no, or hardly any, cost to them.

"Radio sells yeast, toothpaste, automobiles, and automotive byproducts. It sells almost every product that can be tastefully advertised on the air, and sells it in greater bulk than any other advertising medium has ever been able to do. It is inconceivable, then, that radio cannot sell picture entertainment."

People are in the habit of going to the theatre, said Royal, and nothing can "unsell" them, he feels.

Asked if he did not see some justice in exhibitor complaints that most of the major programs using film players and picture dramatizations were presented during the best box-office hours, Royal said, "No."

If the picture is a good one, and the public has heard that it is good, nothing will keep customers out of the theatre, he said. Admittedly they may remain home to listen to a radio dramatization of a picture they are interested in during its air presentation, but they will be at the theatre the next night, or at least they will buy an admission before the run is up, he feels.

"Saying that a particular night is a bad one for theatres is an old gag," he said. "It existed long before radio. Nowadays exhibitors say that Sunday and Thursday nights, in particular, are bad nights, because of the competition that radio gives them. In my day as an exhibitor Monday night used to be the 'turkey'. In order to stimulate the Monday business we ceased opening playdates on Mondays, and opened our runs Sundays, then Saturdays, Wednesdays, and finally Thursdays. We invariably succeeded in pepping up the business on nights which were bad by juggling the playdates—but always at the expense of another evening."

Royal spoke bluntly when reminded that another great complaint among exhibitors was that the picture stars were poorly presented on the air waves.

"The stars themselves, and their producers, should be the best judges of that," he said. "Certainly no star would willingly, or for any amount of money, go on the air feeling that he was to be poorly presented, with poor material. And if he did, it is inconceivable that the producers, who have more at stake than anyone else, would permit such a thing to happen consistently, as exhibitors have complained."

Digressing, Royal commented on the exhibitor complaint that radio competition was killing off attendance, reminding that at one time it was said that screen competition had ruined vaudeville and the live theatre. Producers and exhibitors bitterly resented this implication, he said.

Cites Depression Responsibility

And they were right. Film competition did not ruin vaudeville and the legitimate theatre. The depression had a great deal to do with it, but its downfall was due even more to the fact that vaudeville and the legitimate theatre had lost all sense of showmanship. The same names, the same acts, the same plots, the same vehicles played the same theatres year in and year out. Audiences knew beforehand just what they were going to see, what they were going to hear. So they ceased going to the theatre, they ceased patronizing the vaudeville houses, they started to go to the film houses."

Asked to comment about the recent Mae West broadcast, Royal said he preferred to let the matter die. One thing he did say, however, and that was that the network no longer would permit players to "get away with" walk-on rehearsals, or to broadcast without benefit of rehearsal, indicating that he believed the blame rested primarily with Miss West's reading, and not with the script itself.

McClinton Is Ayer Chief of Programs

Confirming recent reports of impending changes in the radio department of the New York division of N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., H. A. Batten, president of the agency, on Saturday made known the appointment of H. L. McClinton as director of program creation and production, and the appointment of C. Halstead Cottington as director of radio plans, merchandising and station contacts.

Fred P. Fielding, who has been acting manager of the agency's radio activities, returns to general advertising service in an executive capacity and will be associated with Edward R. Dunning, manager of the New York office.

Prentice Winchell, who has been serving as program director, will move to Philadelphia to be associated with Gerald M. Lauck, executive vice-president, in radio promotion.

McClinton, the new director, has been an executive in the radio department for the past few years. Cottingham has been with the agency since 1925.

McFarlane Demands Quick Radio Probe

took advantage of general debate in the House to outline a violent attack on the industry and the F.C.C.

"Nothing will be done until Congress makes its own study," McFarlane asserted, in reference to p[illegible] made on the floor the preceding [illegible] for opportunity for Chairman McNinch to clean up the situation.

"They (McNinch and Craven), appointed to the commission last fall, knew these evils and conditions existed at the time of their appointment, and yet have taken no action and have offered no recommendation to protect the American people and the American home."

Charging that RCA "has taken the people for a ride," he referred to the purchase of more than a 65 per cent interest in RKO and its later sale at a substantial loss "at a time when it was not only unnecessary to sell it, but when the motion picture industry itself was beginning, if it had not already actually started a definite upswing."

Joscelyn Is Eastern Sales Head for CBS

Effective today, A. E. Joscelyn will become eastern sales manager of the radio sales division of CBS. He is succeeding Arthur Hayes, who has relinquished this post in order to devote his full time to the development of local business on WABC, the CBS key station in New York.

Joscelyn recently entered the Chicago office of CBS. Before joining CBS he was western sales manager of Free and Peters, Inc., special representatives.

AGRAP Talks Merger With ACA or ARTA

National delegates of A.G.R.A.P. discussed the advisability of joining A.C.A. or A.R.T.A., both of which have tendered invitations to absorb the announcers' and producers' unions, at a special meeting held on Saturday.

The decision in the matter probably will be forthcoming at the next national meeting to be held here Feb. 4. Delegates upon returning to their chapters will ascertain the preferences of the members in their respective locals and will vote accordingly at next month's meeting.

Farmer Best Market For Radio—Ramsdell

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—The farmer is the biggest potential market for radio today, according to Sayre M. Ramsdell, vice-president of Philco Radio & Television Corp.

Ramsdell pointed out that, according to a survey made recently by the American Institute of Public Opinion, 77 out of every 100 American families have radios in their homes. However, the farm families' average is far below that, according to Ramsdell.

Quoting from facts compiled by Philco, Ramsdell said: "The farm

Regents Board Will Take Over Appeals from N.Y. State Censor

Albany, Jan. 10.—The N. Y. State Board of Regents will take over the work of reviewing films denied licenses by the state censor and on which an appeal is filed, a high official in the Dep't of Education revealed to Motion Picture Daily today.

This action, taken at a meeting of the Board of Regents in New York City in December, is immediately applicable and will remove the burden from the shoulders of Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves, whose educational duties occupy his entire time.

A subcommittee of either three or five members of the regents is expected to be set up shortly for this purpose. It is known that following the December meeting, the film, "The Birth of a Baby" was reviewed by them preparatory to upholding or differing with Commissioner Graves' denial of an appeal based on rejection of the picture by the censor. It is understood that the Board of Regents formally adopted this new rule at the December meeting, but that methods of procedure will be ironed out in Albany within a few weeks.

GB Sues RCA, Erpi on Sound Speed Device

Claim Poulsen - Petersen Device Infringed

Two actions charging RCA Mfg. Co. and Erpi with infringements of patents purported to be owned by British Acoustic Films, Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of Gaumont British, were filed in U. S. District Court at Wilmington, Del., yesterday, according to Arthur Lee, vice-president and general manager of G. B.

The actions, according to the G. B. office here, are based on devices for feeding film through sound heads at a constant speed, which the defendants allegedly use only in their latest types of reproducing equipment. The British company, charging that these devices infringe patents owned by it, ask that RCA and Erpi be enjoined from manufacturing and distributing sound equipment employing the mechanism. The company also asks an accounting of profits and damages estimated at "between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000."

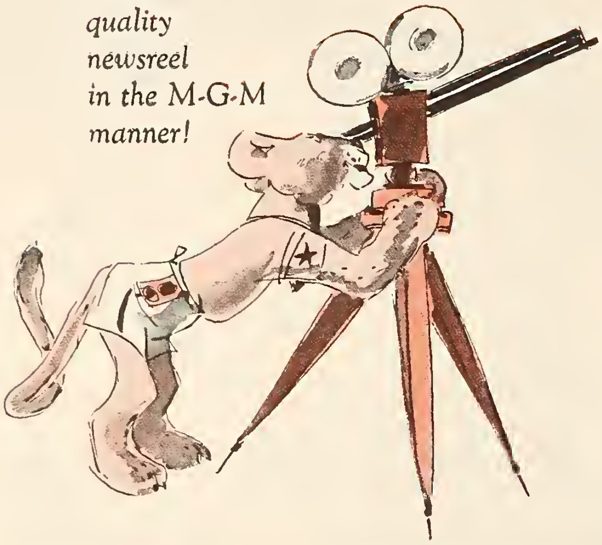
ON THE NEWS FRONT AND BEHIND THE SCENES WITH M-G-M's

"NEWS OF THE DAY"



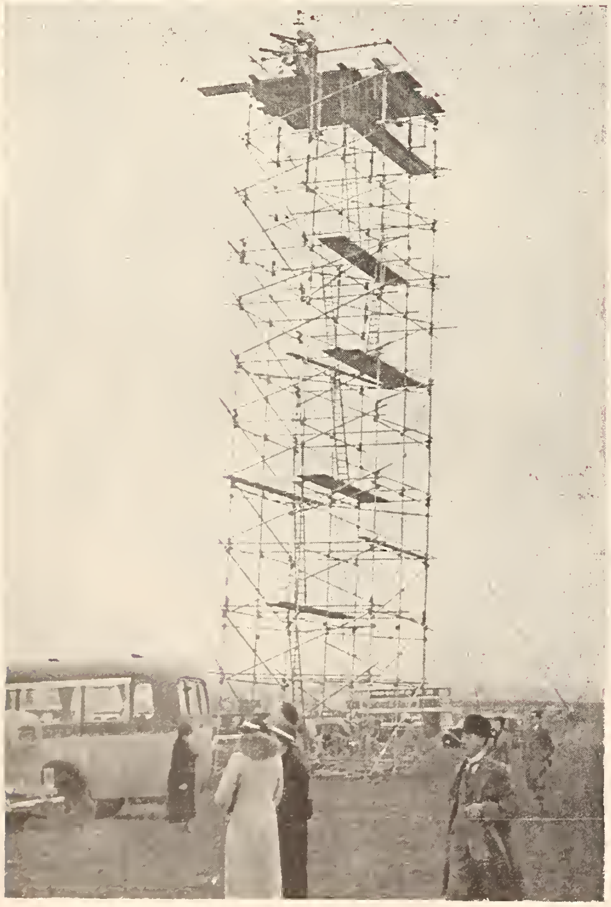
"It's the quality newsreel in the M-G-M manner!"

The Newsreel that won industry approval when it gave each of its accounts without extra charge the complete pictorial story of the Bombing and Sinking of the U.S.S. PANAY!

Resources without stint are behind M-G-M's great newsreel. No day passes without additional expansion, new coverage, new ideas. Worldwide is the scope of the organization which brings to 30,000,000 people each week in motion picture theatres in all parts of the globe great, significant news—almost as quickly as it takes place.

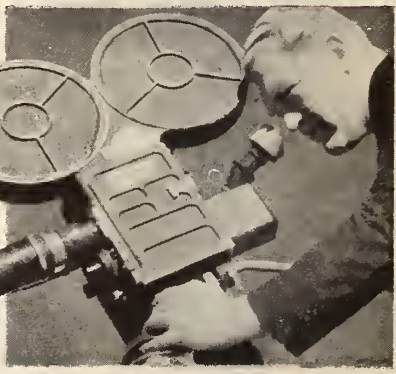
From its bureaus in the great key cities of the world—New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Shanghai, Tokyo, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Los Angeles, and San Francisco—come each week to news of the day's laboratory in Manhattan 100,000 feet of film. Out of this vast collection of news transferred to film, 2,000 feet of the more timely and spectacular subjects are selected for the bi-weekly releases. Of this selection, a total of 1,000,000 feet of film are shipped weekly to theatres throughout the world. It is a breath-taking and stupendous enterprise

On these pages are shown a few behind-the-scenes glimpses of the personalities who make NEWS OF THE DAY the thrilling, arresting screen experience it is.

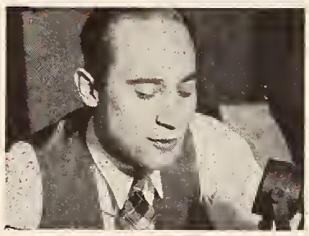


Newsreel cameramen have a field day at the English Derby, using a special tower (above) for long-range shots as well as several batteries of sound trucks and cameras (below).

President Roosevelt, of all public figures, is most at ease before the newsreel cameras, say editors of News of the Day. Also he has been the most photographed.



Charles J. Mack, of the newsreel's Washington staff, usually has the assignment of filming F. D. R. The President knows the cameramen—and calls them—by their first names.



Jean Paul King, of radio fame, vividly describes News of the Day events.

The Woman's Page brings not only real human interest stories, but a glowing interpretation of them by fashion expert Adelaide Hawley.

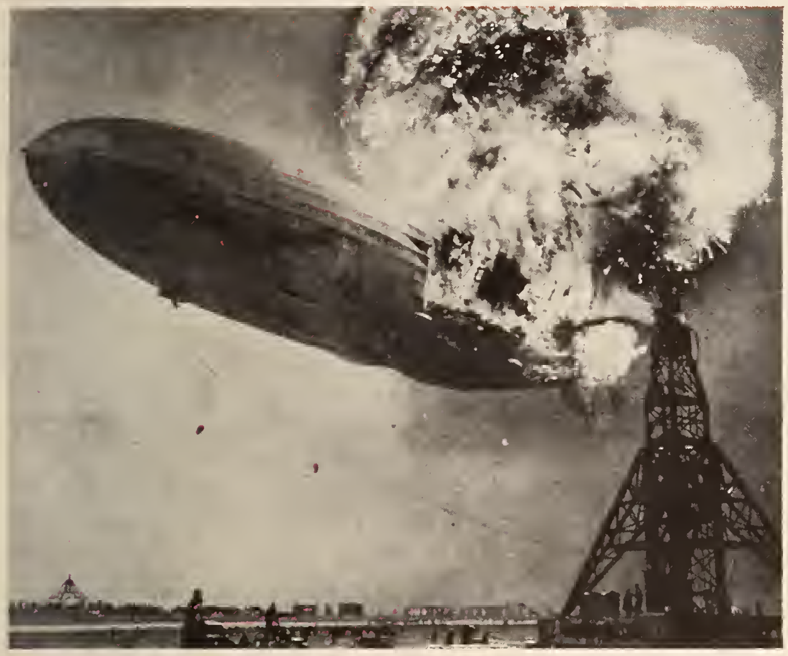
Umberto Romagnoli, head of News of the Day in Rome, is kept on the jump filming Mussolini's spectacular activities.

H. S. "Newsreel" Wong, ace Chinese cameraman of News of the Day, risks his life daily filming the havoc of war in China.



The greatest newsreel picture of recent years was that of the airship Hindenburg in flames, at Lakehurst, N. J. Cameraman James Seeley, appalled by the sudden spectacle before him, kept grinding and caught the scene in all its horror.

A cameraman films Jessie Simpson, famous beauty, who, despite the loss of both legs, bravely works as model for Bradshaw Crandall's Cosmopolitan Magazine cover.

Cameraman Jack Whipple dons high boots and helmet to film "sand hogs" digging a new subway under New York's Sixth Ave.

The business of editing News of the Day is an exacting but always absorbing one, requiring expert news judgment. In their own Projection Room at all hours, Editor Mike Clofine and staff look at news-rushes from all over the world.

Sinking of the U. S. S. Panay gave opportunity for News of the Day to serve its customers promptly and as part of their regular service with complete and stirring pictures of the disaster.

News of the Day gives complete coverage to the most exciting newsreel arena of them all, the football stadium. Rody Green is shown shooting the Fordham-Purdue game.

U. S. Patent Office in 1926 and the second issued to Poulsen in 1935. Both were assigned subsequently to British Acoustic.

Lee said that the actions are aimed only at the constant speed film feeding devices introduced by RCA Mfg. Co. in its Super High Fidelity reproducers about May, 1936, and by Erpi in its Mirrophonic reproducer a few months later.

The complaint alleges, Lee said, that subsequent to the issuance of the first patent to the two inventors demonstrations were furnished Erpi engineers and apparatus submitted to them for purposes of examination and experiment.

Western Electric and Erpi spokesmen stated yesterday that they had no comment to make on the British Acoustic action, as they had not seen the bill of complaint and were unaware of its filing. RCA Mfg. Co. officials could not be reached for comment.

Erpi, several months ago, licensed International Projector Corp. and Motiograph to manufacture reproducing sound equipment under patents held by Erpi and its affiliates and since has been inactive in the manufacture and distribution of such equipment. It is understood, however, that Erpi assumes full liability for all patents covered by its license agreements.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Jury's Secret"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—Showmen determined to make the most of "The Jury's Secret" face a difficult task to attract more than the usual amount of attention given program pictures, but this Universal film deserves a much better fate than to be thrust at the bottom of a dual bill and foisted upon an unsuspecting public. The picture fairly reeks of great possibilities for exploitation as a "problem film" and can be advertised in a manner to create word-of-mouth publicity.

It is a well made film which shows the whims of circumstantial evidence, contains a vague preachment against mass hysteria, and an indictment of a powerful overlord of modern days, yet at the same time it has the elements of entertainment, suspense, characterization and human emotions soundly embodied.

A highly competent cast composed of Kent Taylor, Fay Wray, Jane Darwell, Nancy Grey, Larry Blake, Fritz Leiber and others delivers under the well placed directions of Edward Sloman. The meaty original story was written by Lester Cole, who collaborated with Newman Levy on the crisp screenplay. Edmund Grainger produced.

Taylor, "ghost editorial writer" for Samuel S. Hinds, newspaper publisher, murders him because Hinds was to wreck the company in which Taylor, as well as thousands of others, had invested. Larry Blake, young stevedore, and one of thousands of flood victims, visits Hinds in an effort to convince him that the flood control measure which Hinds opposed should be passed, and is discovered with the body. On trial for the murder, Blake is defended by Leiber, noted criminal attorney, and by chance Taylor is on the jury. He and another juror, motivated by a desire to get the $3 a day and good food given the talesmen, deadlock the jury. In the meantime, assigned to cover the trial is Fay Wray, his former sweetheart, and they agree to get married. She inadvertently discovers that he is the murderer, scores a beat for her newspaper, but returns to the city to comfort him.

"Penrod and His Twin Brother"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—Aimed primarily at attracting children, "Penrod and His Twin Brother," from the Penrod stories of Booth Tarkington, is an ideal show for neighborhood houses. While not meriting medals for great artistry, is is a pleasing concoction of juvenile activity, a case of mistaken identity, and a new twist to the "cops and robbers" game in which virtually every American boy has at some time engaged.

The screen play of William Jacobs and Hugh Cummings makes the most of its opportunities to bring the Tarkington Americana up to date and Billy and Bobby Mauch again deliver excellent performances as the heroes in this contemporary story. Director William McGann guided the action restrainedly, drawing the most out of the performances of the Mauch boys, Jackie Morrow, Frank Craven, Spring Byington, and a host of young actors, most amusing of which was little Philip Hurlic, minute colored lad, in the Tarkingtonian character of "Vermin." This is the second of the "Penrod" story series being produced by Bryan Foy.

Jackie Morrow, as "Rodney Butts," gets Billy Mauch, "Penrod," and his dog, in trouble with police authorities because of mistaken identity "Vermin" frees the dog from the pound, and the "Junior G-Men," of which "Penrod" is chief, conspire to hide the animal. The "double," Bobby Mauch, is found. Sent away on a ruse, "Rodney" is kidnapped by gangsters but the "Junior G-Men," with the aid of the dog, a Scottie which really does an excellent array of gymnastics, facial and otherwise, for the camera, lead police to the gang's hideout.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

N. Y. Critics May Give Service Award

An award for "distinguished service to the motion picture industry," with emphasis on production, is planned for 1938 by the New York film critics in addition to the annual awards made for film "bests." The proposal was made by Frank C. Nugent, chairman of the group.

Robert Benchley acted as master of ceremonies in the presentation of the 1937 citations in a half-hour broadcast over NBC Sunday night. Jack L. Warner, speaking from Hollywood, accepted the award for "The Life of Emile Zola" for Warners while Paul Muni spoke from Budapest in acknowledging his award for the best male performance of the year, in "Zola." Anatole Litvak, in person, acknowledged the citation of "Mayerling," which he directed, as the best foreign film shown here during the year. Hollywood was again hooked in for the acceptance by Gregory La Cava of the "best direction" award, made for "Stage Door." A radio connection with Sweden could not be arranged for the presentation of the award to Greta Garbo for her work in "Camille."

Among those present at a cocktail party in the Rainbow Room, Rockefeller Center, in connection with the presentations were: Martin Quigley, Mary Pickford, Charles E. McCarthy, S. Barret McCormick, Monroe Greenthal, Hope Hampton, John Barrymore, Frank Lawton, Si Seadler, Mort Blumenstock, Lou Lifton, Mel Heymann, Myer Beck, Jean Hersholt, Arthur Mayer, Arch Reeve, Earl Wingart, Morris Kinzler, Al Wilkie, Bill Jaffe and Mrs. James F. Looram.

Magazines' Critics Vote "Zola" Leader

"The Life of Emile Zola" has been chosen as the best film of the year by the newly organized Magazine Film Critics, a group consisting of reviewers on national weekly and monthly publications. The Warner Picture also was the 1937 "best" selection of the New York Film Critics.

Organization of the Magazine Film Critics has not been entirely completed and the consensus on the film choice may be taken among new members when they are added. Frederick James Smith of Liberty is president. Other members are John Mosher, New Yorker; Donita Ferguson, Literary Digest; Tom Wenning, Newsweek; Peter Ellis, New Masses; Katherine Best, Stage; Mark Van Doren, Nation; Otis Ferguson, New Republic; Jesse Zunser, Cue.

It is expected that the membership eventually will total about 15. Annual awards are planned.

As in every other business, progress in the motion picture industry means more for the same money. The only way to hold patronage is by continuous improvement of the product you are selling.

Color is an example. Patrons will demand more and more of it. But good color projection means high intensity snow white light.

With High Intensity projection already installed in approximately one third of the country's leading motion picture houses, with a majority of the total seating capacity, patrons are accustomed to modern high grade projection. They expect it everywhere.

And why shouldn't they have it? Simplified High Intensity projection is not a luxury. It actually costs less per light unit on the screen than old style low intensity. Because this is so, you can have two to three times as much light on the screen and cover its cost with one more admission per show. Write for new, free, illustrated booklet, "The Eternal Triangle in Picture Projection."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Tarzan's Revenge"

(Principal-20th-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—Compared with earlier "Tarzan" pictures "Tarzan's Revenge" is inferior in entertainment and commercial quality. Aimed primarily, as all "Tarzans" have been, at juveniles, this one underwent the experience of having the youths in the preview audience indulging in quite a bit of kidding. The naturally fantastic story is fantastically produced. As it details the romance of the jungle man and the girl from white civilization, it works in a lot of highly theatrical and melodramatic situations. Tarzan, of course, rescues the girl from many predicaments, culminating his exploits by saving her from the wiles of an Oriental potentate whose jungle castle, filled with a harem of dancing girls, looks like the Taj Mahal. As usual, the girl elects to eschew civilization to become her rescuer's jungle mate.

The film presents Glenn Morris and Eleanor Holm as Tarzan and the girl. More familiar names in the cast are George Barbier, C. Henry Gordon, Hedda Hopper, George Meeker, Corbet Morris and Joseph Sawyer.

Based on an Edgar Rice Burroughs story, the screenplay was done by Robert Lee Johnson and Jay Vann. D. Ross Lederman directed. It is a Sol Lesser production.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

LaVarre-Warner Suit Testimony Is Begun

Trial of the $50,000 plagiarism suit brought by William LaVarre, a screen writer, against Warners, started yesterday in N. Y. Supreme Court before Justice Timothy A. Leary and a jury.

LaVarre alleges that he wrote "The Bedside Manner" for Warren William, and that after rejection it was produced by Warners under the title "Bedside."

He also claims authorship of "The Fated Woman," which he says he wrote for Ruth Chatterton, and later revised for Barbara Stanwyck. LaVarre contends that the defendant later produced "Gambling Lady" with Miss Stanwyck in the leading role, and that it was based on his story.

A number of depositions were read at the opening of the trial and LaVarre testified in his own behalf. The trial will continue today.

He Explains It

Pictures with colored casts are no go in South Africa, according to Stuart F. Doyle, former Australia circuit head, who is here with plans to enter exhibition on the Dark Continent. He told why.

"The only people in Africa who would see pictures with Negro actors are the Negroes," he explained. "And they don't go to picture shows because they haven't the money. Whenever they do get enough money together they buy a cow. When they have the cow they trade it in for a wife."

The exhibitors will determine on their reply at a meeting of the General Council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n on Wednesday, at which time the group is expected to question the need for the alternative quota proposal, pointing out the probable resulting limitation in the number of available films.

American distributors will meet tomorrow. It is expected that they will take no action, and will be advised that their best policy will be to refrain from all comment.

Sabotage Blamed for Soviet Film Failure

Moscow, Jan. 10.—Sabotage is blamed for the virtual collapse of the Soviet state-controlled film industry, according to yesterday's issue of Pravda, Communist party organ. The work of "wreckers" is named by the paper as the cause of the steady decline of production and the failure to fulfill production schedules during the past several years.

It was pointed out that only 43 films were produced in 1935 out of a quota of 120, 46 in 1936 of a quota of 165, and only 25 of the greatly reduced quota of 62 for 1937. The responsibility for the slump was placed by the paper chiefly on Boris Z. Shumiatsky, general manager of the Soviet film trust. It is said that he has scrapped a total of 39 films since 1935, at a cost to the Soviet Government of 20,000,000 rubles.

Milwaukee Theatres Continue Games Use

Milwaukee, Jan. 10.—In view of the fact that neither the District nor City Attorney has been willing to issue warrants against managers of any of the 18 houses raided by police in their drive to ban Bingo, Hollywood, Bank Night and similar games, local exhibitors are continuing to feature the games.

Chief of Police Joseph Kluchesky declared that his department would continue to raid theatres where the games are played, despite the officials' refusal to issue warrants.

City Attorney Walter Mattison has declared that he wants police to "bring us a case in which all conditions of an illegal lottery are present," while District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes stated that he would not take action until he had received an opinion from the attorney general on the applicability of the state gambling and lottery statutes to games in theatres.

A. F. M. Pact With IRNA Is Concluded which declared some time ago that they would not accept the plan.

The plan is operative for two years, and will add $1,500,000 yearly to the payrolls of the I.R.N.A. stations when all have accepted. In the present state of the plan the sum represented is believed to approximate $1,250,000.

Following the successful termination of Saturday's meeting, Gough and Rosenbaum notified the I.R.N.A. membership of the developments. The notice follows:

"The Federation has decided to declare the plan of settlement effective as of Jan. 17, 1938. All contracts and quotas of expenditures will commence as of that date for the purposes of the plan. There are still some few stations not signed up. We shall endeavor to obtain for them a short period of grace but this committee will shortly dissolve and will thereafter be unable to assist any further.

"We advise prompt efforts to conclude remaining contracts. We are unable at this time to forecast what measure the Federation may propose regarding holdouts.

"The foregoing is based on the assumption that the New York key stations will have completed contracts with the New York local on or before Jan. 17 covering the two-year period of the national plan of settlement, so that network service will be assured to cooperating stations."

No Statement from Weber

Weber, who has been ill at home the past week, was not available for comment yesterday as to what action the Federation will take to deal with recalcitrant stations, if any exist when and after the plan of settlement becomes operative.

Meanwhile, it could not be ascertained if the contracts covering the key stations had been handed over to Local 802. These contracts were signed some weeks ago. The additional key stations' expenditures, amounting to approximately $450,000, will bring the increased total for staff musicians' salaries to almost $2,000,000. Stations' outlay for musicians' salaries prior to the negotiation just closed amounted to approximately $3,500,000 annually. With the plan completed, the outlay now will be approximately $5,500,000 per annum.

The networks will contribute $200,000 annually to the I.R.N.A. settlement as their contribution to help the stations carry the added burden. This figures roughly as a contribution of 16 per cent of the increased expenditure and is in addition to the expenditures for the key stations which, as noted above, amounts to $450,000.

Plan Congress Drive for Air Investigation

May Launch Campaign in Both Houses Feb. 15

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Proponents of a Congressional investigation of the broadcasting situation have completed plans for a determined drive, possibly to be launched simultaneously in both House and Senate about Feb. 15, it was learned here today.

By that date, it was explained, it is expected the first rush of business will be over. At present, the Senate s tied up with the anti-lynching bill and the House is trying to work off the annual appropriation measures.

Speeches on the subject in the House last week by Representatives Wigglesworth (Rep., Mass.) and McFarne (Dem., Tex.), it was said, were merely "skirmishes" involved in a plan to keep the matter steadily

No Theatre Recession in Middle West, Says Blank

Theatre business in the middle west is holding to an even level and has shown little or no recession from gross figures of a year ago, A. H. Blank, Tri-States circuit head, who is here from Des Moines, said yesterday.

Blank said that business in the agricultural states was less affected by the conditions which have prevailed in industrial centers for the past six months and that, as a result, operations in the middle west were as good during 1937 as they were in 1936. The Tri-States head said that his circuit was not planning any important expansion at this time, and that the only new theatres being added were several small suburban houses in the area in and around Des Moines.

Blank will leave New York for Des Moines today and next Monday will leave there for San Francisco. He sails Jan. 21 on a six-week vacation in Hawaii. Ralph Branton, general manager of Tri-States, who accompanied Blank east, is remaining in New York for Paramount home office conferences this week.

Expect No British Film Man in Group

Since it is not customary, when negotiating trade treaties, to give any particular commodity involved special consideration, Hays office sources yesterday did not believe that the British trade commission due here early in February would have a representative of the film industry as a member.

While films are a consideration in the current Anglo-American trade pact negotiations, the extent of the attention to be given them still remains to be determined, it was pointed out.

Furthermore, it was said, there has been no special consideration devoted to films in commercial treaties already negotiated, and the same rule probably would apply to the agreement which the British commission will seek to further.

Mexican Plan Would Double Theatre Tax

Resumption of U.A. - Selznick Talks Awaited

RKO Also Likely to Bid For His Services

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Official indications that United Artists would resume negotiations with David O. Selznick on a new producing contract were given here today.

There were indications also that RKO officials, gathered here with the problem of selecting a studio head among others confronting them, also might renew negotiations with Selznick. Preliminary conferences with the producer were held in New York last fall, but resulted in an early disagreement. Paramount also conferred with Selznick in the east on a producing tie, but those negotiations, too, were discontinued following a few meetings. It is known officially that Paramount will not renew overtures to Selznick and, with this in mind, local opinion inclines to the belief that a new deal between Selznick and United Artists is the most probable of the current possibilities.

It was learned from authoritative

Fox Theatres Cash Placed at $301,656

A total of $301,656 was revealed as the consolidated cash position of the Fox Theatres Corp. by Milton C. Weisman, receiver, in his latest six-month report, filed in the U. S. District Court yesterday. Weisman's receivership was extended to July 12 by Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton.

Cash on hand Jan. 1 was $291,461, as compared with $541,747 on June 30.

Weisman reported receipts during the period of $62,300 and disbursements of $312,585. The disbursement figure included $267,693 paid as a second dividend of three per cent to creditors and brought total dividends paid to date up to $559,622, which is eight per cent of allowed claims.

The report stated that the sale of the Art Theatre, Springfield, Mass., "is imminent." Weisman is seeking purchasers for the Liberty, in Englewood, N. J., and the Isis in Denver. The only dividends of subsidiaries reported were $11,000 from the Fox Elizabeth Theatre Co., Inc., and $10,000 from the William Fox Isis Investment Co.

Claims Listed

Total claims allowed against the estate are $6,988,294, with $8,588,054 still in litigation. Disputed claims are the $7,176,627 claim by William Fox, $1,159,380 by Chicago Title and Trust Co., $248,047 by Alfred E. Fiegel, and $4,000 by G. H. and V. M. Grant.

The breakdown of the consolidated cash position reveals $291,462 in the receivership estate: William Fox Isis Investment Co., $6,472; William Fox Play Co., Inc., $2,406; Fox Elizabeth Theatre Co., Inc., $1,258, and Trepark Realty Co., Inc., $56.

Principal items of receipts were a $21,000 dividend from subsidiaries and $11,656 net received from the settlement of the Sherman anti-trust suits against Erpi. Dividends paid to creditors, $28,380 for receivership expenses and $7,145 for office salaries were the major disbursements.

Weisman reported that liquidation of the estate was proceeding as rapidly as possible, but additional time was required in order to avoid forced sale at low prices.

Change "3 Men" Title

Hollywood, Jan. 11.—"Paradise for Three" has been selected by M-G-M as the final title for the film which originally had been called "Three Men in the Snow."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Black Doll"

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—One of the Universal "Crime Club" series of mystery films, "Black Doll," offers no unusual attraction for audiences other than the fact that it is a mystery film, and that it is part of a series with which numerous patrons are unquestionably familiar.

The solution of the murder plot is not too obscure, but there is typical entertainment in watching Donald Woods, as the young private detective in love with the victim's daughter, unravel the skein and finally point to one of the numerous persons present with a motive for the crime. There are actually three murders, as the perpetrator of the first crime is forced to hide his tracks with more deaths. The romance is inconsequential.

Nan Grey plays the daughter and fiancee of Woods, while C. Henry Gordon is good as the first victim, and Edgar Kennedy, as the usual stupid detective, is not more boring than such characters generally are. It appears axiomatic that they be made a part of every mystery film, but it is extremely doubtful that anyone responsible could supply a plausible reason for the inclusion.

Irving Starr produced and Otis Garrett directed from an original story by William E. Hayes and which was woven into a screenplay by Harold Buckley.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Hawaiian Buckaroo"

(20th-Fox-Lesser)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Sol Lesser, producer; Don Jarrett, writer of the original story and screenplay, and Ray Taylor, director, had a novel idea this time when they took their western star, in this instance Smith Ballew, and transported him in one jump from an Arizona ranch to one in Hawaii. There, we are told, they raise plenty of cattle, and even have rustlers, crooked land grabbers, and all the "fixin's."

The result is good western material, which should please the devotees of that form of screen fare, by virtue of the expected quota of fistic and gun battles, a stampeding herd, vocal efforts by Ballew which are pleasant and do not retard the action too greatly, and the anticipated romance, with Evalyn Knapp. Benny Burt and Harry Woods are chiefly concerned in the support.

When dust writes finis to the Arizona ranch on which he works, Ballew is persuaded by the cook to join him in Hawaiian pineapple growing. En route, Ballew incurs the displeasure of Miss Knapp, a fellow passenger. When they find themselves swindled the two apply for a job at the ranch of Miss Knapp, where menial tasks are Ballew's portion. Eventually romance blossoms and he comes to the rescue of the ranch via effective action.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Friend Indeed"

(M-G-M)

Pete Smith has a serious topic in "Friend Indeed" and also a vehicle with compelling drama. It concerns the plight of a doctor who goes blind from an explosion. The man is urged to get one of those "Seeing Eye" police dogs and he does so after some persuasion. The animal proves a godsend, saving the doctor's life even though injured. The dog recovers and accompanies the medico to Washington where the latter is honored by the government for his heroism in a hospital fire. The man and dog are also responsible for legislation which allows the blind and their four-footed guide to ride in railroad passenger cars instead of confining the animals to baggage cars. It is good. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Unusual Occupations L 7-3"

(Paramount)

Although this idea has been played to its utmost each offering always manages to create interest. This one is done in color. It starts off with shots of a woman who fashions clothes from rattlesnake skins and as it unreels there are successively seen a man who cleans swimming pools, a facial contortionist, the owner and operator of a one man railroad, a fellow who makes caricatures from burnt toast and a circus whose performers are all recruited from a small town. It is filmed to advantage in Cinecolor. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Ski Flight"

(Vitaphone)

Here is a seasonal gem and probably the best film on the subject to date. It has a ready made audience in the thousands who are interested in the sport. There should even be an advance campaign on it. The skiing technique laid down by Hannes Schneider is demonstrated by Otto Lang. But that is not all. The stuff is vividly and beautifully filmed against attractive settings and the narration explains the various maneuvers. It has moments of breath-taking movement. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Sweet Shoe"

(Nu-Atlas-RKO)

The activities in a shoe repairing shop are given musical enhancement here and manage to be fairly diverting. Rita Rio and her orchestra are featured and there is singing and dancing by The Four Norsemen, The Four Specs and Anita Jacobi. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Termites of 1938"

(Columbia)

If the audience is composed of dyed-in-the-wool Three Stooges fans, this latest of their adventures will go over. It is not quite up to their other films. Here they seem to have gone in for comedy on a higher plane which fails to click. Only in the knockabout slapstick sequences are the laughs found. The boys are exterminators and descend on a dinner party in a mistaken identity plot. They generally raise a rumpus as they pursue various species of household pests and are ultimately bounced out. It is just fair comedy. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Little Lamby"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

A color cartoon fantasy, cleverly animated and well drawn. The plot offers a wily fox who descends on a peaceful woodland village whose inhabitants are various species of timid animals. He stages a baby contest and makes off with a lamb. The townsfolk give chase, catch up with the culprit and rescue the sheep's offspring. It should have a pleasant reception all around. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

'Scrappy's News Flashes'

(Columbia)

A repetition of the cartoon idea produced by this company last year, but not quite as clever. It burlesques a prominent newsreel, going so far as to even play the opening bars of music which identify the reel. The news and novelties seem strained for their comic effect and will depend on a questionable humorous reaction. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

"My Little Buckaroo"

(Vitaphone)

These Merrie Melodies get better and better. Humor is cleverly injected into the animation and the entire cartoon is delightfully entertaining from start to finish. This is a parody on western films and basically concerns a Mexican bandit who eventually is captured by a dreamy sort of cowboy character. The coloring and presentation are highly effective. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots 17-5"

(Columbia)

A trick horseshoe pitching game, a night club opening and a swimming pool provide the settings for this array of film players in their off-the-set moments. As usual, the reel manages to hold interest and the audience should eat it up. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"Music Will Tell"

(RKO)

Since the new idea in presenting well known orchestras has lately been entailing the use of a slight plot in which to center the main attraction, a clever twist is given this presentation of Ted Fio Rito's music by the impersonation device. There is plenty of an entertaining nature worked [illegible] the doings, however, and it has several really pleasant moments. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Porky at the Crocadero"

(Vitaphone)

Leon Schlesinger's porcine creation grows better with each new production. Here Porky has a diploma from a correspondence school which certifies that he is a band leader. He gets into a night club and pinch hits for a variety of prominent band leaders who are good naturedly caricatured. He proves a success, but not before many comic twists are worked out. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"The Land of the Maple Leaf"

(20th Century-Fox)

A beautifully done travel and scenic vignette of Canada. It has all the elements that make for pleasing acceptance in any situation. Starting with scenes of Toronto, Quebec and Vancouver, the film also includes breath-taking views of mountain scenery in the Canadian Rockies. The camera compositions are almost works of art. There is also a sequence showing moose in their natural state. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Water, Water Everywhere"

(Rice-Paramount)

Top flight entertainment that will be highly appreciated and enjoyed by every audience. Water sports are the theme and Ted Husing gets in some of his cleverest comment while the scene constantly changes from one form of exciting aquatic diversion to another. The locales range from Florida to City Island and Hawaii. The photography, backgrounds and participants in the action are exceptionally well filmed. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Unreal Newsreel"

(Vitaphone)

An assorted collection of scenes are offered in this short. The material is alternately funny, thrilling and humorously forced, but in any case it is novel. They are straight photographic scenes seemingly culled from a stock-shot library and includes wrecks, daredevil stunts, a magician's convention and a trick egg that hatches into a duckling. The audience should find it different. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"The Lion Hunt"

This cartoon does not quite measure up with the average output of other studios. The old fable of the lion and the mouse is given modern dress and the animation is just routine stuff, untouched by any imaginative novelty. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

G.N. Added Finances Still Unset—Krasne

character, would be announced within a few days.

Krasne said that Grand National's selling season closed with 5,000 accounts on the books, these accounts to take an average of 30 pictures out of the 52 announced at the last convention. While Krasne stated that this business represents an increase over last year, he could not specify the ratio since, he said, spot booking was permitted last year when the sales season started later than the selling periods of other companies.

Discusses Cagney Film

Krasne refused direct answers to questions put to him concerning the future financial plans but did say, however, that a deal will not be made unless Alperson and the present officers continue in their posts. Thus he put the quietus to rumors that an executive shakeup is due with new money.

Krasne also admitted that no definite date for the resumption of production has been set nor an actual date for starting "Angels with Dirty Faces," James Cagney starrer. It is said that the Cagney picture is all set to go with a 30-day shooting schedule, which means that the film must start by Feb. 1 to permit Cagney to return to Warners by Mar. 14, as the Warner pact specifies.

Krasne promised a definite statement of status for Friday.

New York Dec. 29, where he had gone ostensibly to arrange pre-release showings of "Every Day's a Holiday," Mae West vehicle. Cohen, upon his return, announced through his publicity office that five pictures were ready for immediate production, but failed to state the product was for Paramount release, the usual procedure in stories of this kind. Several days later Paramount publicity department repeated the story, but inserted the phrase "Pictures for Paramount release." Under Cohen's deal Paramount pays all production expenses, approving story, director and cast, and Cohen, in addition to a salary, gets a percentage of the profits.

can well afford to pay increased taxes.

It is argued that present taxes are out of proportion to the exhibitors' receipts and that the system of fixing the theatre's tax on the average intake for a three-month period is all wrong. It is charged that the exhibitors show the poorest and cheapest pictures during the three months that fixes their tax for the entire year. A system of a levy on the daily revenues of the cinemas is proposed.

Government Approve Canadian Music Fees

Toronto, Jan. 11.—The schedule of proposed fees for public performance of musical compositions to be collected by the Canadian Performing Rights Society, Ltd., Toronto, during 1938, providing for substantial increases in royalties, has been formally approved by the Copyright Appeal Board of the Dominion Government which was set up in the amendments to the Copyright Act which were passed one year ago.

Theatres which pay a flat annual license fee to the society on a seat basis are not affected by the new schedule, which was submitted to the Canadian Government for approval late in 1937 but this possible move was evidently forestalled by protests from organized exhibitors against any prospective increases.

Fees expected from radio broadcasters will jump, however, the levies expected by the society from this course being listed at $83,081 in the total, as compared with total collections of approximately $71,000 in 1937. The exact nature of the increases for radio performing rights was not disclosed in the official announcement, however.

Foresee New Finance To Baird Television

LONDON, Jan. 1.—New finance to assist the development of large screen television in color is foreshadowed for Baird Television, associates of the Gaumont British circuit, and pioneers of the new type of entertainment designed for British picture theatres.

A plan is now before the board and will be put before the shareholders shortly, it was indicated at the company's annual meeting.

The company, as already recorded, had a deficit to report for the last trading year, explained by expenditure on development schemes and partly by the disastrous Crystal Palace fire which affected some of the material assets. The color device is exclusively controlled by Baird.

WFIL Sets Program Month

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11. — Donald Withycomb, general manager of WFIL, has set aside the month of January as "new program" month, and according to present plans at least 25 new shows will ride the airlanes in the next three weeks. At the moment 11 new programs are in rehearsal.

sources here that the reported threat of Samuel Goldwyn to discontinue all production unless he was granted the right by United Artists to engage in production for other companies is given little credence by high company officials. It was pointed out that while there is nothing in Goldwyn's contract with United Artists which requires him to make pictures, the company could enjoin him from producing for others. As a result, it is held, there is little likelihood that Goldwyn, even if he were so inclined, would cease all production for any length of time and permit the overhead of his producing organization to consume capital indefinitely.

Deal Collapse Unexpected

The collapse of the negotiations for a deal between Selznick and M-G-M occasioned surprise in most quarters here and is generally analyzed as indicating that the Selznick terms probably were considered prohibitive. It is rumored that Selznick may try to purchase control of United Artists but many feel that such a development is unlikely at a price which would be agreeable to John Hay Whitney.

"Quiet," Says Miss Pickford

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Mary Pickford, leaving here for Hollywood tonight, said that United Artists' affairs are "quiet, so far as I know," and "no sales of partnership interests or other changes are planned." Her comment was addressed to printed reports that she would dispose of her partnership holdings to David Selznick and John Hay Whitney. She asserted that she had not been approached by Selznick interests on such a deal.

Miss Pickford said that her meeting with Alexander Korda in New York was "strictly social and not of a business nature." She plans to return here in about three weeks.

Assets of Mayfair Sold On the Coast

Los Angeles, Jan. 11.—Assets of Mayfair Prod., listed at $20,471, today were purchased for $17,000 at a sale conducted by Leslie Bowden, trustee, before Benno Brink, referee in bankruptcy. Liabilities of Mayfair totalled $32,857.

Exempted in the sale were the Mayfair rights to "Skippy" for cartoon use. This was granted on plea of United Artists counsel because of the fact that two comedies are currently under contract for delivery with one of them now in the hands of Technicolor for finishing.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 35
(20th Century-Fox)

This newsreel continues to feature Eric Mayell's outstanding camera contributions to the history of the China-Japan war, the current release depicting the invaders' advance as General Matsui formally takes over Nanking and the Japanese sponsored government takes control at Peiping. Meanwhile at Hong Kong the British sailors are shown on parade as word comes that invasion threatens.

Other highlights are President Roosevelt's Jackson Day dinner address; Governor Hoffman of New Jersey distributing the Lindbergh kidnap reward money; Hugh R. Wilson, the new ambassador to Germany; Lieut. Col. Olds breaking the speed record for military planes; Gene Tunney as chairman of a distilling company; Lloyd George writing his World War memoirs on the Riviera, and Max Baer as a proud papa.

There are three or four other routine clips, and, of course, Lew Lehr, this time in a Miami bathing beauty bit.

Running time, 9½ mins. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 233
(M-G-M)

Topical stuff keynotes this release, with President Roosevelt in rare form making his Jackson Day dinner speech and Vice-President Garner having his after-dinner fun leading it off.

Queen Elena of Italy is shown presenting cash awards to mothers who have had the most babies in the last 10 years. The Mummers' Parade in Philadelphia is colorful and a display of British sailors in Hong Kong strikes a military note. Governor Hoffman of New Jersey again speaks his convictions that the Lindbergh crime has not been solved, in connection with the distribution of the reward money. Outdoor shots are Denny Shute in stunt golf practice, ski fashions in California and ski sailing in New Jersey. There is also a shot of Max Baer and his new baby and a fashion show of gowns worn by ladies of history, with Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt as a spectator.

Running time, 10 mins. F.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

The dramatic nature and geographical assortment of the clips in the makeup of this issue will make this reel welcome. The editors have assembled a diversified news film which manages to break the lull that followed the turn of the year.

The Mummers' parade in Philadelphia occupies first place. It is followed by shots of the damage wrought by an explosion in a subway in Tokyo. There are graphic scenes of the broken up streets, fire and the injured being taken away in ambulances. The recent fall of Teruel in the Spanish civil war is documented in an ensuing sequence, the first scenes to come out of Spain in a long time. Street fighting, airplane attack, troop movements and other related scenes furnish the material.

A bit on headliners in sport offers Dizzy Dean celebrating his 27th birthday, Bitsy Grant upsetting Robert Riggs for the Miami Biltmore Open Tennis title and Max Baer, Mrs. Baer and Donald Novis in a cuddly bit revolving around Baby Baer. Then there are excellent shots of seven men who fled from Devil's Island in a small boat. They are shown arriving in Port of Spain, Trinidad, quite exhausted. There are closeups and then they are again seen sailing off to Panama. The President's humorous Jackson Day blast at utilties closes the pictorial doings.

Running time, 9 mins. P.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 50
(RKO)

The material in this issue, excepting the President's Jackson Day dinner talk, is not as snappy as the captions. But it does make the grade as acceptable newsreel.

Bitsy Grant taking the Miami Biltmore tennis title is the lead. The motorboat show at Grand Central Palace follows and in the following order are seen Hugh R. Wilson, the newly appointed ambassador to Germany, a brief talk by the retiring Reich envoy, William E. Dodd; the Velvet Ball in Washington, the launching of a new steel freighter at Detroit with a lot of spectacular splashing, the Queen of Italy congratulating women who are the mothers of eight or more children, window cleaners on the Empire State Bldg., and for a wow finish, President Roosevelt's speech.

Running time, 8 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 631
(Universal)

Reliably interesting material that forms a familiar cross-section of national life and activities went into the makeup of this issue. An idea of the items included may be had from the fact that they range from President Roosevelt's Jackson Day dinner speech to shot of bathing girls in Miami pulling a stunt with a fellow who froze himself in ice cakes. They thaw him out.

The reel opens with scenes of the Senate body investigating unemployment. They are clips of General Motors' William Knudson and other industry leaders. The Roosevelt sequence follows and audiences should get a kick out of his comparison of utility investments. The annual Mummer's parade in Philadelphia, a Boston bulldog with a litter of 10 pups, the local motorboat show, society women in Washington modeling clothes worn by former First Ladies, a number of girls in Burbank, Cal., posing as they embark on a ski-plane, and Mama and Papa Max Baer exhibiting their one-month old offspring. The last is cleverly presented and should draw smiles.

Running time, 8½ mins. P.

Korda Sails; No Plans for U. S. Releases

Expected to Start Work At Denham at Once

Alexander Korda sailed for England on the Aquitania yesterday with no definite commitments to produce abroad for American companies other than United Artists.

Although non-committal concerning his plans prior to his departure, indications are that Korda completed arrangements for financing new London Films production while here and is expected to resume production activities at Denham immediately upon his return. Whether the new financing is being supplied by private investment sources or will be advanced by United Artists in the form of loans against new negatives, as has been done on occasion in the past, could not be learned officially.

Korda held informal conferences

Only one picture, "Artists and Models," has gone four weeks at the theatre in the last 12 months. The current attraction is coupled with Fred Waring and his band.

Four other holdovers turned in good grosses the past week. "Tovarich" drew $77,000 in its second week at the Music Hall, against $115,000 for the

M-G-M's Roster Is Set, States Rubin

M-G-M's producer roster is now set and the studio does not contemplate any additions, at least not in the near future, J. Robert Rubin, Loew's vice-president, declared yesterday on his return from a three-week stay on the coast.

Rubin's assertion follows on the heels of the collapse of M-G-M's negotiations with David O. Selznick and indicates that the company has no plans to negotiate with other producers in the absence of a deal with Selznick.

Rubin had no comment on the sudden termination of the negotiations, but it was learned that the "fundamental differences" which wrecked the deal involved Selznick's demands that each of his pictures be sold on an individual basis and that the Music Hall remain his first run outlet in New York. Al Lichtman and others representing M-G-M contended that these demands would seriously disrupt M-G-M's policy of selling the output as a whole. Furthermore, it was

Cohen, Para. Releasing Ties Are Severed

Producer Charges Lack Of Co-operation

Hollywood, Jan. 12.—Paramount and Emanuel Cohen came to their second parting of the ways today. The president of Major Pictures charged tonight that Paramount breached its contract with Major which called for stipulated product to be delivered up to June 8, 1939. Cohen served notice terminating the contract effective immediately. In a statement, he said:

"Major Pictures has had an exceedingly difficult time in making its motion pictures ever since Adolph Zukor assumed control of Paramount production. Notwithstanding the fact that Paramount has invested large sums of money in our pictures there has been an utter lack of cooperation and, in fact, it has seemed to us that there has been a studied effort to place every possible obstacle in our way so as to prevent us from successfully producing pictures. We have, of course, placed the entire matter in the hands of our

Schenck Says Profit Estimate Before Tax

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—Twentieth Century-Fox's estimated net profit of $10,000,000 for 1937 is before provision for Federal taxes, Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, stated today. Earnings for the year after provision for taxes will be approximately $8,500,000, Schenck said.

Insiders' Outlook

By A-MIKE VOGEL

AMONG the doubtful inheritances handed down by the legitimate stage to the screen, none strikes more jarringly than the increasing use of the term "steals the picture" in referring to the performance of a lesser player. Employed somewhat in trade reviews and lavishly by newspaper critics, the current instance that disturbs this reporter comes about with the great to-do made by the New Orleans press over the job turned in by Akim Tamiroff in "The Buccaneer."

There is no carping here of the most excellent portrayal by Mr. Tamiroff of the fabulous Dominique You. By it, his screen stature increases, and justly. But it so happens that the lines given him to speak and the manner of their delivery were shrewdly devised and carefully directed. It is to Mr. Tamiroff's credit that his handling of the difficult role was in keeping.

Hit pictures are for the most part directors' pictures put together with a great measure of patience and craftsmanship. In the case of "Buccaneer," the comic Dominique role was built up to complement that of the swashbuckling, romantic Lafitte of Fredric March, the prime box-office name, and to exhibitors, the most profitable sales argument.

That David Selznick has decided not to throw in his lot with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, as reported by Motion Picture Daily, is not so important as where he will finally settle and resume making pictures.

This is a business of 52 weeks a year, every year—a business that depends only upon an unbroken succession of pictures turned out by picture makers.

Mr. Selznick has demonstrated a facility for producing attractions that bring long lines to the ticket windows. He is needed—back at work.

The heroic struggle being waged by Grand National is one that engages interest. Starting with seasoned man-power, production facilities in good order, and independent distributing system, the company's pace has lately been slackened because of increasing capital required. Despite this, Edward Alperson and Edward Peskay refuse to take even the semblance of a count. If they appear at this writing to be outpointed, the two Eddies will assure you they've just begun to fight. And it well may be they have, what with operating costs cut down to bedrock and outstanding obligations under control.

It's been some time since the industry has witnessed a similar struggle for survival. In the field, there is in evidence much of the same merited sympathy and encouragement for Grand National that marked the earlier struggles of the Warners, Mayers and Selznicks.

Those concerned at all with the health of the industry will be in complete accord with the action of New York State Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves in denying the appeal from the rejection by the New York State Board of Censors of the film, "The Birth of a Baby."

There is no more reason for a picture of this nature for theatrical exhibition than there would be for hospitals to allow paid admissions for the purpose of exhibiting maternity ward deliveries.

On viewing "Snow White" for the first time (there shall be a second and a third), one is torn between two influences—the perfection of technical detail and the fascination of the story.

Mr. Disney has pioneered with signal success to build pen sketches into an engrossing feature-length motion picture. In the telling, he has breathed life into his tiny figures.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Duke Comes Back"

(Republic)

The prizefighter and his lady again but refreshingly different from the ordinary treatment. Here the pug becomes involved with his wife's family and saves their good name from disgrace when he returns to the ring. The film is based on a story by Lucian Cary and has been snappily directed by Irving Pichel. It is good entertainment. The serious, romantic and comedy aspects of the yarn should provide good emotional exercise for the average audience.

Allan Lane is the retired champion who marries Heather Angel and quits the ring. He joins Genevieve Tobin, Miss Heather's sister in the publishing business. He becomes quite successful and contented with his family which shortly includes young Johnny Russell, an ingratiating youngster. But Miss Heather's father, Frederick Burton, a broker, is threatened with jail due to his speculating with other people's money, and to save his face Lane signs for a championship bout that will net the required sum. He sends Miss Heather off to Peru to keep her ignorant of the bout. But Miss Heather gets wind of the fight and returns. She creates tension and becomes enmeshed with gangsters who intend to throw the fight their way. Young Russell eludes the racketeers and saves the day all around. His daddy wins the fight and the family rejoice in having a pugilist around the place.

Miss Tobin gives an excellent performance. Miss Heather and Lane are also good as the romantic interest. The Russell child should interest a large audience. Ben Welden supplies a few laughs. Adele Buffington and Edmund Seward did the screenplay.

Running time, 64 mintes. "G."

Studio Pace Still Slow; 28 in Work

Short Subjects

"Date and Nuts"

There is a lot of snappy and youthful comedy in this Pat Rooney, Jr. Herman Timberg, Jr., opus. There i also plenty of modern dancing in addition to the familiar routines of th featured players. The film is set i a college. Timberg and Rooney ar freshmen. Rooney poses as a girl t please Timberg who is after a [illegible] nity pin. They get into all [illegible] o humorous situations at a dance a the slam bang action is introduced in to the various scenes and the fil eventually closes after much merriment has unreeled. It should go ove very well. Running time, 19 mins "G."

"Man Bites Lovebug"

(Columbia)

A standard domestic discord farc heightened by bedroom comedy and, i this case, featuring Charley Chase Chase, an author, visits his colleg chum. The two conspire to fram the lady of the house in an innocen romantic interlude. However, th woman gets on to their stunt and turn the tables, making it uncomfortable al around. Chase misses the last trai to town and spends the night there. Then there are the bedroom shenanigans and ultimately Chase i driven out by Frank Lackteen who plays a murderous butler. Not much to it. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"The Man in the Barn"

(M-G-M)

This M-G-M short contributes to the mystery of the disappearance and the doubts about the death of John Wilkes Booth after he shot Abraham Lincoln. Carey Wilson relates the story and it brings out a curious parallel between two men who bore a remarkable resemblance to the actor. The events revolving around the assassin's escape and the coincidental facts which arose in Washington are also reenacted. It is engrossing and should find a good audience. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

A brief but rather thorough survey of the Indian scene. Basil Ruysdael comments successively on religion, architecture, the caste system, modern improvements, history and the daily life of the natives. It is an E. M. Newman "Colortour Adventure." The material is well photographed and the subject is good travel fare. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

The processes and materials that go into the making of cosmetics and perfumes are shown in this short. It should have a distinct appeal to women and go over well with the rest of the audience. It is tastefully mounted and well done. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

labor was more expensive, that more 'bigger' pictures were going to be duced and more money was to be ht on each individual film. The exhibitors saw the logic and agreed to the raise.

"Since Hollywood is reducing its contract lists of writers, directors and players, as well as decreasing budgets on pictures, the product thus emanating from Hollywood will bear marks of economy."

The membership was advised that if they have already signed contracts they should demand adjustments, and if they have not yet made deals for product, not to pay increases over 1936-'37.

Progress toward obtaining lower premiums for liability insurance for members was reported by the I. T. O. A.'s insurance committee at the organization's meeting yesterday. Fewer accidents to patrons have been occurring and therefore the coverage should cost less, it was reported.

U. S. Firms Take No Stanley Plan Action

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Jan. 12.—American distributors here plan to take no action on the alternative quota proposal offered by Oliver Stanley, president of the British Board of Trade, for incorporation in the Films Bill now pending. At a poorly attended meeting yesterday it was decided to take no further steps until some time next month, when it is expected a full meeting will consider the matter.

The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association finally rejected the Stanley proposals yesterday, taking a similar view to the British distributors, that the Stanley plan is merely a compromise on the separate quota proposal which was rejected by the House of Commons standing committee on the Films Bill some time ago. Writing to Stanley, the C.E.A. objected to the plan, which divides films into classes according to quality. It is contended that if one class of film receives unusual advantage, producers will place in that category receiving the greatest assistance those films which are most difficult to sell the exhibitors. They also contend that the alternative quota would make a reserve supply of films uncertain.

The C.E.A. expressed the view that it would be unwise to increase the exhibitor quota to any extent, and that the initial figure should be 12½ per cent.

Sunday Move in Miss.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 12.—A move to legalize Sunday shows in Mississippi seemed to be gaining ground today as it became known that two newspapers here might back the idea and that exhibitors might increase public sentiment to the point that such a law, if introduced in the legislature, would pass. North Mississippi now enforces the Sunday laws, while the Gulf States areas allow violations.

attorneys and we expect to use every available remedy to protect our rights. We believe there will be some very interesting facts brought to light when this matter gets into court."

"Every Day's a Holiday" and "Doctor Rhythm" are the last two of nine pictures completed by Major for Paramount since the foundation of the company by Cohen as a Paramount-financed production organization under the Otterson regime following Cohen's retirement from the general managership of the Paramount studio. Five additional pictures to be produced under the contract were announced a week ago. The status of these properties purchased by Major for Paramount together with that of various other commitments made under the contract are to be determined by litigation.

Cohen Closes Studio

Cohen today closed down his studio and paid off the 86 persons on the payroll, assertedly advancing their salaries for a week and half out of his own funds.

Cohen's formation of Major Pictures, it will be recalled, followed upon sharp differences arising in the turbulent period in Paramount history which brought John Otterson to the presidency and relegated Zukor to what seemed a background position. Cohen was succeeded in command of Paramount production by Ernst Lubitsch who withdrew subsequently in favor of William LeBaron with Zukor moving ultimately into studio high command.

Cohen's personal contracts with Mae West, Bing Crosby and Gary Cooper were fundamental considerations in working out details of contract whereby Paramount provided working capital of Major and distributed product.

Officials of Paramount would not comment tonight on Cohen's statement.

Ohio Producing Picture

Williams of the Safety Coordinating Bureau as production manager.

Ad Films Show Gain

A total of approximately $1,079,645 was paid 7,500 exhibitor accounts of the Alexander Film Co. during 1937 for showing commercial films running one minute or less, the company states.

This represents an increase of more than 23 per cent over 1936, the company said.

Alexander, which has its headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., increased its branch offices to 13 and the field staff to 176 during the year.

Backstage Performance

Oklahoma City, Jan. 12.—A backstage production was unfolded before a packed house at the Criterion here recently. The patrons watched stage hands prepare the stage for a presentation in connection with the film.

A misunderstanding resulted in the tangle. The stage presentation, originally slated for 1:45 P.M., was postponed by the management for an hour when it became apparent that it would not be ready.

"We explained the situation to the customers," said Bert Stern, Standard Theatres public relations man, "but they purchased their tickets, took their seats and watched stagehands and baggage men scurrying about with the curtain drawn back." Interest was high as the revolving stage and other intricate devices were being assembled.

here and on the coast with several major companies concerning the possibility of his handling whatever British production may be required of those companies by the impending new quota law. However, it is learned authoritatively that Korda is returning to England without a formal commission from any company other than United Artists. No deal could be made, it was said, because of Korda's inability to obtain a release from United Artists which would permit him to produce for outside companies and, even if such a release had been obtained, American companies could not contract with Korda for their British quota requirements while they are still in the dark as to the number and cost of the pictures to be made abroad, it was pointed out.

Came on Option Deal

Korda arrived here from London on Oct. 26 to participate in the final negotiations for the exercise of the option, held by himself and Samuel Goldwyn, for the purchase of the United Artists stock held by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin. An agreement to exercise that option was reached in New York and shortly afterward Korda left for Hollywood where the deal was to be formally consummated. In the interim, however, obstacles to closing the deal presented themselves, and eventually proved insurmountable. The option was permitted to lapse and Korda, after several weeks in Hollywood, returned to New York on Dec. 30.

With indications now pointing to the continuance of David O. Selznick as a United Artists producer, and with the company ownership still in the same hands, it would appear that United Artists will continue without any vital change in its ownership, executive or producer setup.

Murray Silverstone, United Artists British head, will remain in New York for another 10 days.

Status of Cohen Contract Talent Is Now Uncertain

Hollywood, Jan. 13.—The contract status of Mae West, Gary Cooper and Bing Crosby is uncertain as a result of the termination of the Paramount contract by Major Pictures, questioning of officials of both companies revealed today.

Emanuel Cohen, head of Major Pictures, reportedly holds a personal contract for Miss West's services. Liability under the contract may have to be determined during the litigation which Cohen has stated he will institute at once. Meanwhile, some hold that Miss West's commitments with Cohen ended with her last film. Crosby was with Major on a loanout from Paramount and consequently, is expected to return to that studio.

Cooper had a conditional one-picture-per-year deal with Cohen. The status of this contract is vague now.

Hollywood waters tossed by breaks between Paramount and Cohen were more quiet today as Loyd Wright, attorney for Cohen, began preparations for the producer's suit against the distributing company for alleged breach of contract and Paramount gave assurances that the split would not affect the release of "Every Day's

Justice Dep't Denies Films Under Attack

No Anti-Trust Moves in Offing, It Is Stated

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Jan. 13.—Reports that an anti-trust drive against the film industry was planned were flatly denied today at the Dep't of Justice, where it was indicated conditions in certain other industries were more in need of prompt action.

In all probability, it was intimated, no action will be taken with respect to films for six months.

It was explained that the bulk of complaints against the film industry are based on block booking charges rather than contentions of monopoly, and it was suggested that department officials would be pleased if divorce legislation, such as that talked of by Representative Boren (Dem., Okla.) were enacted.

Officials of the Anti-Trust Division denied rumors, also widely circulated, that they were preparing to submit reports on conditions in the film and certain other industries to Congress. No such reports are being undertaken, it was said. However, it is understood, a report outlining monopoly conditions will be submitted if and when Congressional committees undertake the consideration of monopoly law modernization, shortly to be requested by President Roosevelt.

English Labor In Drive for Wages, Hours

London, Jan. 4. — Following the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n decision to recognize the National Ass'n of Theatrical and Kine Employes, the organization for labor negotiations in the industry, the latter body has launched a campaign for improved working conditions.

There are between 95,000 and 100,000 employed in British theatres and the union claims that at least 50 per cent of this total work under unsatisfactory conditions. They have cited instances of projectionists working 72 hours a week for approximately $5, girls cleaning halls in the mornings and working as usherettes until 10 P.M. for $2.25 a week, and a chief of staff paid $14.50 for more than 80 hours a week.

Issue Booklet on Subject

A 32-page booklet emphasizing such points has been circulated throughout the industry. An appeal has been made for a 12-point program which includes higher wages, overtime payments and a shorter working week.

Although the C.E.A. has recognized the union there is no obligation upon local bodies or branches to observe any particular agreement. Nonetheless exhibitor headquarters are known to favor adjustment of the situation.

Arrest Ohio Managers

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
(20th Century-Fox)
Vol. 20, No. 36

The story of the Samoan Clipper disaster, adequately covered with available picture material and amplified by last-minute news reports, furnishes the lead subject in this release, rewarding the editors' alertness with a link with today's headlines.

The balance of the reel is given over to feature material covering a wide field of interest. Included is a picture "obituary" for the Leviathan, which is being prepared in Hoboken for her last transatlantic voyage—this time to a junk heap in Scotland. The camera and Lowell Thomas present an interesting story of a Broadway picture premiere, that of "In Old Chicago." A demonstration of a non-breakable, transparent glass door to be used in N. Y. World's Fair buildings is well staged for a subject of this kind.

Movietone departments complete the release. They consist of Vyvyan Donner's and Helen Claire's fashions, Lew Lehr's demonstrations of new inventions, and Ed Thorgersen's and Tom Cummiskey's sports. The latter includes golf, a girls' basketball team on roller skates and wrestling.

Running time, 10 minutes. K.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 234
(M-G-M)

The South Pacific crash of the Samoan Clipper is featured in this mid-week release with pictures of the officers and crew, of the ship in flight over San Francisco and at anchorage.

Of current news interest, too, are shots of the Spanish armies' struggle for control of Teruel and Barcelona. Loyalists celebrating after reports of a federal victory in that battle. The "rescue" trip of a Lake Michigan ice-breaker to a lighthouse crew, shut off from supplies is of general interest. New Jersey's safety tests for automobiles fall into the "filler" class of material.

Feature material includes a girls' basketball team on roller skates; Big Apple dancers in an exhibition at the Miami Biltmore; ice skating races and action shots from the Los Angeles Open Golf tournament.

Running time, 10 mins. K.

Paramount News
No. 47
(Paramount)

There's nothing particularly exciting in this issue. It starts with shots of British army recruits doing calisthenics, and they're pretty much like all other calisthenics and just about as interesting.

Shots of the Leviathan, exterior and interior, and workmen cutting down the stacks so the big ship can get under a Scottish bridge on the way to the wreckers are arresting. Ships seem to develop personalities and become surrounded by memories—this one especially so. Watching the film unreel is like saying farewell to a friend.

Clips showing the Samoan Clipper in flight and on the water are timely in view of the Pago Pago catastrophe. King Carol of Rumania and his new premier, Octavian Goga, are presented in costumes that will stir the envy of Hollywood musical comedy producers. A palatial residence in California mentioned as a possible future residence for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor is just filler.

Chicago's new ferris wheel parking apparatus is good as pictorial material. Distribution of the Lindbergh kidnapping award money is preceded by air shots of the Lindberghs' former home. Some of those who received the money are shown. The Governor repeats his assertion that the crime has not been solved.

The sport scenes are pretty mild—girls playing basketball on roller skates at Miami Beach, Jimmy Thompson driving in the Los Angeles open tournament, and Joe DiMaggio juggling spaghetti.

Running time, 9 mins. J.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 51
(RKO)

By means of a cleverly-edited "re-enactment," the crash at sea of the Samoan Clipper is dramatically told in the leading clip in this issue of Pathe reel. Flashes of the crew at the plane's controls are interspersed with the descriptive vocal material, preceded by shots of the whole crew recently taken.

Significant material is included in the highlights of Mayor Frank Hague's sharp denunciation of the C. I. O. and his promise to keep its unions out of Jersey City, which is answered by Morris Ernst, attorney. Of the same nature is the presentation by J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, of the railroads' side of the request for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Beyond that the reel has routine material, including shots of an artists' party in London, while the sporting division is represented with a frosty yachting race at Larchmont, N. Y.; a fast session in a squash championship match in New York, and the skiing contingent having its fun at Payette Lakes, Idaho, and in Buffalo.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 632
(Universal)

Disaster in the air takes the leading place in this issue, with pictures of Capt. Edwin Musick of the Samoan Clipper, which went down in flames off Pago Pago, and of the beautiful ship in recent flight. Also there are shots of the wreckage and rescue party at the scene of the fatal crash of an airliner in Montana.

A New York badminton match and a basketball game involving girls on roller skates in Miami Beach provide considerable action, well photographed, in the sports division, as well as impressive scenic effects as skiers take advantage of the snows on Mt. Baker, Wash., and the last round of the Los Angeles open golf tournament.

The rest of the reel, not outstanding, includes scenes of the melting down of confiscated gambling machines in Portland, Ore.; pictures of the Leviathan before its final transatlantic trip—to the junkyard; new bathing suit styles in Miami Beach, a huge bonfire of all the discarded Christmas trees in Portland, Ore., and the annual flower parade and "battle of flowers" in Cannes, France. In general, it is an interesting reel.

Running time, 9½ mins. A.

Toronto Plan Would Merge Independents

O. R. Hanson, general manager of Associated Theatres, Ltd., and Allied Exhibitors of Ontario, the latter a cooperative organization dealing with legislative matters. Closely allied with the Hanson group is Associated Theatres, Ltd., of which H. T. Long is general manager.

The socalled real independents are anxious to solidify their position and the next move is the proposed incorported merger for self-maintenance and protection.

"The Divorce of Lady X"

(Korda-United Artists)

This sophisticated comedy romance in Technicolor from Alexander Korda's London Films reduces the divorce theme to a common denominator of comedy, gyrating against a smart and elaborate background of English drawing, court and hotel rooms, an attorney's sumptuous office and a flash at the English countryside. The Technicolor is at times a hinderance in indoor sequences in which it blares out at the audience too sharply, and a decided help in others, as in the beautiful reproduction of the English fox hunt. Its theme is concerned with misunderstanding and mistaken identity.

The story may perhaps be thought in some quarters in this country to treat the divorce theme too widely, and likewise the hotel room sequences, which, however, are done cleanly and with considerable amusement. It is altogether an enjoyable piece, expertly played, albeit with a definite trace of British English by certain of the players. The leads are more than competently taken care of by Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier, while Binnie Barnes is cast in a minor role, and Ralph Richardson and elderly Morton Selten are good for a cheer each.

Tim Whelan, in his direction from the play, "Counsel's Opinion," by Lajos Biro, and a screenplay by Biro and Robert E. Sherwood, has concentrated on comedy, which was a fortunate idea, since the material partakes largely of the characteristic of the stage play, depending largely on dialogue for its pace. At the same time it must be said that, with the exception of a slow start, a good pace is maintained.

The story revolves about the belief of a young attorney that the wife involved in a divorce action sought by a friend is actually a girl with whom he had shared a hotel suite by accident, and that he himself is the man in the case. The girl deliberately adds to his bewilderment until the expected conclusion.

Running time, 92 minutes. "A."

"The Cantor's Son"

(Eron)

With its proper audience "The Cantor's Son" should be found stimulating entertainment—the sort of film that agreeably combines the elements of comedy, drama and romantic conflict with emphasis on the lighter side of the story. An audience at the Square Theatre found much to move it to laughter. It is an all-Yiddish dialogue film with adequate sub-titling in English.

The story opens in a Rumanian hamlet where a young boy, the son of the local cantor, is interested in a traveling theatre troupe. His father dislikes his enthusiasm for the stage and the youngster runs away with the players. Touring with the actors, he eventually comes to America and grows up there. Later, he is down on his luck until an East Side cabaret singer takes him under her wing and gives him a chance to sing. He proves a hit and goes on to greater success in radio and as a featured singer in the synagogues of the country. But a letter from his parents takes him back to Rumania to attend their golden wedding anniversary. Back home he meets his childhood sweetheart, now grown up and beautiful, and he decides to marry her. Meanwhile his sponsor in New York, who is also in love with him, decides to follow him to Europe. She arrives on his wedding day. There is a tearful scene but she decides to give him up to his first love.

The title role is played by Moishe Oysher, who sings the Yiddish airs pleasantly. The musical arrangement of both the solos and the accompaniment is excellent.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Goesta Ekman Is Dead

Goesta Ekman, 48, Swedish film star, featured in "Intermezzo," which is now showing at the Cinema de Paris, is dead in Sweden, according to advices from Stockholm. He was noted on the Continent for his portrayal of Shakespearean roles.

Short Subjects

"Getting An Eyeful"

This short will keep the audience in a state of constant and boisterous uproar. There are many laughs as Charles Kemper applies his comic talents to the story of trials and tribulations of an eye doctor. There [illegible] also a funny characterization of a Russian by Danny Kaye. Kemper is a correspondence school graduate and has a hard time making a go of his adopted profession. These and other elements of the yarn are played for all their comic worth and the comedy always manages to hit home. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Sin-Copation"

(Vitaphone)

Another band offering that is cleverly produced. Leon Navara and his orchestra are featured. The action is set in a night club that resembles Hades. The music is appropriate to the scene. There are entertaining specialties by Ruth Brent, Delmar Poppen and Honey and Weldon. The film has many entertainment values that will be readily appreciated. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Grey Owl's Little Brother"

(Educational)

An entertaining bit of natural history that should be favorably received. The scenario tells of the rare companionship of a beaver and a Canadian northwoods Indian. The photography could have been better, but novel action makes up for that defect. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Boy Who Saved a Nation"

(Columbia)

The screen version of how the Marquis de Lafayette gave his aid to George Washington and the American Revolution. It is one of the "Strange As It May Seem" series. The action is amateurish and merely offers a few dramatic moments portraying incidents in the life of the Frenchman. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Oh Kay, Rhythm"

(Paramount)

A thoroughly satisfactory band offering featuring Herbie Kay and his band augmented by a few good vocal numbers. Kay's music is smooth and modern and the singing is handled in a novel manner. The audience will like it. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Love Goes West"

There is a fairly diverting story that serves as adequate background for Louise Massey and The Westerners in this short. It is one of those dude ranch affairs. Girl patrons are ready to leave because of the absence of male partners. Miss Massey has her boys shave and clean up. She stages an impromptu party and more or less saves the day. The music is typically western and is done in good style. It manages to be pleasant. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

Milwaukee Talks Ban On Suggestive Films

Milwaukee, Jan. 13.—An ordinance to ban all suggestive films, presented to the Common Council's Judiciary Committee by Alderman John E. Kalupa, has been laid over by that body with the recommendation that exhibitors confer with Alderman Kalupa before it is again brought before the committee.

The proposed ordinance would bar minors under 18 from seeing socalled educational sex films unless accompanied by parent, guardian "or other adult."

Frank B. Metcalfe, chairman of the city's film commission, declared that the commission checks all pictures and that enforcement of the proposed measure was impractical.

Monopoly Report On MGM Started

ment's scrutiny in a lengthy probe. Law heads a staff of more than 30 persons, including Dep't of Justice investigators and accountants, which has been going into the books of the M-G-M exchange here and the company's relations with Fox West Coast Theatres. "We are pulling no punches in this investigation," Law told Motion Picture Daily, "and we are going into every company's activities here and elsewhere where charges of monopoly are made."

Law has been here several months following his recent return from Washington with a summary of reports made earlier in the investigation. He said the report on M-G-M would be forwarded to Attorney General Cummings for perusal and determination whether the Federal Grand Jury here should be requested to act in the matter.

F. W. C. Probe Next

The next step in the probe will be a complete examination of F.W.C. dealings in answer to monopolist charges of independent exhibitors. This will determine whether or not F.W.C. violated the terms of two consent decrees entered against it in Federal Court here several years ago. Action in this matter can take the form of contempt citation of F.W.C. by Federal court if the charges are substantiated.

Law, who heads the Federal film probers under Cummings, has been on the case about a year. It will be recalled that the law office of Senator McAdoo, Democrat, of California, handled the recent filing of independent exhibitors' suit against Paramount here and has been active in many film cases, the most notable of which was the Freddie Bartholomew suit against M-G-M which William Neblett, a McAdoo law partner, handled for the star. Whether political implications are behind the scenes is a moot question but the current investigation by the Government apparently is in line with the "trust-busting" policy of the Administration in Washington.

A Holiday," Mae West vehicle, and 'Doctor Rhythm," Bing Crosby Picture last two which Cohen produced. The West vehicle already is out and the negative of "Dr. Rhythm" already is delivered and a release date set for Feb 8.

Meantime Paramount executives remained silent today on the Cohen statement which criticised Adolph Zukor. It appears that Cohen will remain inactive at least until the contemplated suit is filed against the distributor. He is expected to be sued in friendly actions by persons under contract personally to him, including Kitty Clancy, Beatrice Lillie and Katherine Kane, to seek redress from the planned cancellation of their personal service contracts.

Beats Newspapers

Kansas City, Jan. 13.—An airplane crashed into a house in Kansas City, Kans., the other afternoon, tearing off a part of the building.

No one was injured—the two naval reserve fliers had parachuted to safety—but it was quite a scene, and George Baker, manager of the Electric, was on hand almost immediately after the accident with a 16mm. camera. His theatre was showing the 100 feet of film George got before the Kansas City newspaper had the story published. The films went on the screen early in the evening.

Denver, Jan. 13.—A possible boost in license fees from $120 to $300 a year is faced by theatres in Sheridan, Wyo.

Plan Bellevue House

Bellevue, O., Jan. 13.—A 1,000-seat theatre will be built here by Schines in connection with local interests. The building will cost $75,000, with an additional $25,000 to be spent on equipment. Completion is scheduled for early summer.

Massachusetts Has New Sales Tax Bill

Boston, Jan. 13.—Passage of a bill establishing a two per cent Massachusetts sales tax estimated to raise 45 millions yearly will be recommended to the legislature next week by the special 1937 Commission on Taxation and Public Expenditure. If the bill is passed it will go into effect with "no exemptions" about July 1. The money would be used for relief and the tax would fluctuate with relief needs.

It is not yet known whether theatres are involved. Theatre men are strenuously opposed to the measure. They have been instrumental in defeating similar bills at recent sessions.

Bill Would Legalize Fight Films in D. C.

Washington, Jan. 13.—A bill to legalize exhibition of prize fight films in the District of Columbia is being prepared for introduction in Congress at the request of Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen. Local exhibitors have been attempting for some time to obtain repeal of the Federal ban.

Quash LaVarre-W.B. Suit

Justice Timothy A. Leary dismissed the $50,000 breach of contract suit brought by William LaVarre, writer, against Warners in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. Justice Leary ruled that the testimony offered by LaVarre failed to prove a cause of action and refused to permit the case to go to the jury. Before the dismissal, Justice Leary and the jury had seen special screenings of the two pictures in the suit.

LaVarre testified that he had been employed in 1932 by Warners to write scripts for Warren William, Ruth Chatterton and Barbara Stanwyck. He claimed that his story, "Bedside Manner," had been produced as "Bedside" and his script, "Fated Woman," had been produced as "Gambling Lady."

The 3 - time leader ...twice!

For the second consecutive year, Columbia continues its leadership in all three major phases of network advertising:

> Columbia, in 1937, carried the greatest dollar-volume of advertising of any network in the history of radio.★
> Columbia, in 1937, was the choice of more of the country's leading advertisers than any other network.★★
> Columbia, in 1937, continued as the world's largest radio network.★★★

This record, of course, is not Columbia's alone. It was made by the most careful buyers of advertising in the world — who increased their average expenditure for Columbia Network facilities this year over last by 25.9%.

★★★And has been for five consecutive years.

In the detailed record of these CBS advertisers is the answer to every basic question you can ask about radio advertising: Does radio sell slow turn-over products? Does radio sell quick turn-over products? Is the institutional campaign effective on the air? Must it be a 'big' radio program to be successful? The answers to these questions at Columbia are not theoretical or academic. They are written by the advertisers themselves; advertisers who, in a single medium, bring everything to the nation — from banking to beans; bread to abrasives; cigars, cigarettes, candy and cars!

But this record tells less than half the story!

Throughout the year, some 22,475 Columbia programs were broadcast to the nation. Less than half of these were sponsored. The rest were programs 'by Columbia'—produced by the network in the living and challenging fields of Public Affairs, Education, Serious Music, Religion, Special Events and Sports. These programs round out the schedule of the world's largest network, bringing the world's voice home to the nation every day of the year—wherever home may be.

COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM

Canadian Press, Radio Call Halt To Hostilities

Montreal, Jan. 13. — Canada's press and radio have buried the hatchet and are tossing peace wreaths at each other. "Greater cooperation between the press and the national broadcasting system" was needed, it was decided Tuesday when directors and members of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association, The Canadian Press and the Canadian National Newspapers and Periodicals Association met at Toronto and talked with Major Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

The two public services have decided they can't do without one another and have called off animosity which at one time reached a point where dailies limited their radio column comments to two inches of type.

To effect this "closer cooperation" a standing committee had been appointed representing the several news organizations, for discussion of matters of common interest with directors of the CBS. The committee includes: Col. R. F. Parkinson, chairman; Representing C.D.N.A.—F. I. Kerr, Hamilton Spectator; Victor Sifton, Winnipeg Free press; T. F. Drummie, St. John Telegraph-Journal; Representing the C.N.N.P.A.—N. H. Perry, McLean's; E. R. Milling, Consolidated Press, Ltd.; T. J. Tobin, Canadian Countryman; Representing C.W.N.A.—George James, Barrie Examiner; Alex McLaren and C. V. Charters.

New Shows on the Air

"Ben Bernie and All the Lads"

Ben Bernie and a bevy of new lads and lassies made a highlight debut over CBS Wednesday evening in a new series for the U. S. Tire Co. The sponsor will get an ample return for his money, for the program, borrowing a word used by Simone Simon in the Bernie-Winchell picture, "Love and Hisses," has plenty of "oomph."

The "ole maestro" was his usual slangy, wise-cracking self. All the old Bernieisms were offered, but somehow one never tires of his flow of repititious catch phrases. It's the way Bernie says things, not what he says, that tickles one's funnybone.

The supporting players are Jane Pickens, Buddy Clark and nutty Lew Lehr. A swell cast they make. Miss Pickens, a delightful singer, offered "I'll Take Romance," and a duet with Clark, "How Many Rhymes?" Buddy's solo number was "Sweet Someone." Almost everyone has enjoyed hearing Lehr in the newsreels; he's just as enjoyable on the air, and with good material this program should serve as a springboard for air stardom for him.

"Ben Bernie and All the Lads" are presented Wednesdays at 9:30 P. M. over CBS. Campbell-Ewald is the agency.

"Manhattan After Dark"

Something really new in radio is the "Manhattan After Dark" program, which on Wednesday took the place of Sid Skolsky's Hollywood chatter for the Emerson Drug Co.

This program each week will go into New York night clubs for its talent, presenting on the air the entertainers currently appearing in each club. Eddie Garr, mimic and comedian, serves as the em cee and guide.

Wednesday, Garr took the listeners and his mike to the International Casino, where he interviewed several of the chorus girls and the Caligary Brothers, and presented the music of Yascha Bunchuk. All this in addition, of course, to his own chatter and songs.

Listeners, particularly those in the hinterlands, should take to "Manhattan After Dark." It is novel, is ably presented, and brings true New York night life to an audience, the greater part of which knows it only by what it reads in the papers or by what it sees on the screen.

"Manhattan After Dark" is presented Wednesdays from 8:30 to 8:45 P. M. on the NBC-Blue. J. Walter Thompson is the agency.

Boice Book on Radio Is Called Comprehensive

A new comprehensive study and analysis of radio, written by Hugh K. Boice, CBS vice-president in charge of sales, has been published by [illegible] network and is awaiting distribu[illegible] to the industry.

Titled "Radio," it discusses 14 questions commonly asked about radio advertising. Chapters are devoted to the listening habits and preferences of the public, an analysis of what makes a program popular, the responsiveness of the radio audience, uses of spot broadcasting, a study of television and chapters on various other subjects.

Boice writes that there are 7,000,000 more radios in the U. S. than automobiles; more than twice as many homes in the U. S. are equipped with radios than telephones; that the total radio families in the nation last year numbered 24,500,000. Last year the radio audience paid $440,000,000 for new sets; $150,000,000 for electric power to operate the sets; and $151,000,000 for tubes.

Writing of television, Boice predicts that the first television audiences will be people of the upper income class. Continuing, he writes: "We know from television tests of recent years that even the present movies are too slowly paced to hold a television audience for long. Television programs will be subtly built, subtly enacted." He concludes that practical television is a reality and commercial television is a future certainty.

The book is fully documented and thoughtfully written and covers practically all phases of radio from an advertising standpoint. ·B.

Outlawing of Holding Firms Roosevelt Aim

Says He Will Seek New Law This Session

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Personal and other types of holding companies, and investment trusts which vote their stock holdings, are to be eliminated by legislation which may be asked of Congress during the current session, it was disclosed today by President Roosevelt.

At his semi-weekly press conference, the President declared his purpose of having such companies outlawed. Personal holding companies of film executives and actors were among those investigated last year by the House Ways and Means Committee during its inquiry into Treasury charges of tax evasion and avoidance.

The President made it clear that his opposition to holding companies was not confined to those in the public utilities field, but extended to all, of whatever type. He did not disclose whether he would ask Congress for legislation on the subject immediately.

Screen Greatest Medium of Public Opinion—Butler

The screen is the greatest instrumentality in the world today for the molding of public opinion, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, declared yesterday in an address at the Waldorf-Astoria. The occasion was a luncheon in the Empire Room of the hotel, at which the Division of Film Study of the university honored Cecil B. DeMille on his 25th year in the film industry.

Dr. Butler, who made the principal address, said that the screen is even more important in fashioning public opinion than the radio, since it combines appeal to both the eye and ear. "It is more important than ever that the administration of the industry be continued on the same high plane that it has attained," Dr. Butler declared.

The speaker paid high tribute to the industry, following a brief introduction by Will H. Hays, president of the M.P.P.D.A., who acted as toast-

20th-Fox to Produce Own One-Reel Shorts

Twentieth Century-Fox will produce its own shorts for distribution beginning with the 1938-39 season. John D. Clark, general manager of distribution, said yesterday. Only one-reelers will be made, he stated.

Educational's five-year releasing contract will not be renewed upon its expiration next August, he said. There are various reasons for disconti[illegible]ng the Educational association, he pointed out, the chief one being that there is no market for two-reelers, since 80 per cent of the country is double bill territory.

Twentieth Century-Fox plans 52 one-reel subjects, some in color. Truman Talley will head production, according to present plans. He has been producing the "Magic Carpet" and "Newsreel Cameraman" series of one-reelers.

Production will be in New York, probably in a new structure to go up in the rear of the Movietone building on 54th St. at 10th Ave.

E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, yesterday had no comment other than to say that the contract with 20th Century-Fox does not expire until Aug. 31, and that Educational will deliver product to that date. It will take about two years for liquidation of accounts, he said. Hammons has been considering the production of feature-length pictures.

master. Hays noted the fact that Butler attended an industry luncheon 11 years ago at which consideration was given to the improvement of the quality of the screen's product.

The part played by the screen in the formation of public opinion is an aspect of its work which is neither appreciated nor understood by the general public. Today world opinion carries more importance and authority than ever before, Butler' said. "The public must be educated and kept educated," he declared, and contended that the public must be reached in maturity, must be stimulated and informed, and great happenings must be interpreted in understandable terms.

"It is a mistake to look on the film as a source of entertainment and amusement alone," Butler said. "Of course it is entertainment," but it is important in its use as a door to the intelligence. He foresaw the screen as of value in rousing the public intelligence from "its slumber," declaring that the world today talks without limit, but does not act.

Hays, in replying, declared that the screen recognizes its responsibility. He praised DeMille's work in the production of historical films, and read a letter from Richard E. Byrd congratulating DeMille, one of many such telegrams and letters received.

DeMille expressed appreciation for the tribute, and declared it "thrilling" that universities are becoming interested in the screen. The purposes of the screen, he declared, are to entertain, instruct and reflect the life of the period it depicts, but its first function is to entertain. He called the screen the greatest teacher in the world today, "a painless form of acquiring knowledge and information." He told of the painstaking research that goes into the making of historical films.

DeMille presented the working script of his latest production, "The Buccaneer," to the New York Public Library, and it was accepted by Dr. H. M. Lydenberg, director of the library.

Among those attending were A. W. Smith and George J. Schaefer, United Artists; William DeMille, Arthur DeBra and Kenneth Clark of the M.P.P.D.A., Colvin Brown, general manager of Quigley Publishing Co,; Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald; Robert W. Gillham, Al Wilkie and Alec Moss, Paramount.

Find U. S. Films Not Inside Academy Rule

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14.—If the Government wants to compete for an award in the short subjects division of the Academy, the Academy will have to create a new classification for documentary and educational films, a committee representing short subjects producers has decided.

Meeting for the first time to smooth out procedure for this year's short subjects awards, the producers, with Frank Capra, Jane Murfin and Howard Estabrook, of the general awards committee, decided to recommend to the awards committee that "The River," Government-made documentary film, be placed in a new classification for educational and documentary film, and not be allowed to compete in the regular short subjects award classifications.

The present classifications are: Animated cartoons; one-reel black and white; two-reel black and white; color shorts, 3,000 feet or under.

It has been decided at the meeting to hold the nominations showing for the four divisions at RKO studios Jan. 26 and 27, with the final showing to be judged Feb. 23 by a committee of 50 at the Filmarte Theatre.

Air Programs Coming Up at Allied Meet

cussed. Allied of N. J. representatives will push for the adoption of a plan which, according to Irving Dollinger, president, is "startling in its originality." While he refused to divulge details, he said it entailed bringing pressure on interests responsible for the alleged competition. Dollinger and Sidney Samuelson, former national Allied president, will represent the New Jersey unit.

The plan differs from those previously proposed by exhibitors in that the pressure campaign would not be directed against producers or distributors, but, through the public, against commercial sponsors of broadcasts, it was learned. The proposal was to have been put into effect in New Jersey jointly with the I. T. O. A. of N. Y., but since the meetings of the two committees have been deferred, N. J. Allied decided to present it at Washington for national adoption.

"Guffey Act" Reaction Due

Results of the poll of Allied units on the proposal of Abram F. Myers, general counsel, for a "Guffey Act" for the industry will be disclosed at the session. Myers' idea, first submitted at the Allied of N. J. convention in Atlantic City last September, is to establish regulation of the industry by a commission similar to that supervising trade practices and labor relations in the soft coal industry.

It was reported here yesterday that the results of the canvass among the units on this question are confusing and an attempt will be made at the board meeting to obtain definite expressions of sentiment.

Since Allied leaders have different ideas on what the national legislative policy should be, an attempt will be made to crystallize a plan of action. Under this head are the perennial proposal to abolish block booking, moves for Federal investigation and regulation, Federal and state measures to divorce production and distribution from exhibition, state taxes aimed to break up circuits and state legislation against designated playdates. There is no unanimity of opinion on all of these proposals.

Meeting Places Suggested

Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Atlantic City have been proposed as the place of the next national convention.

There is sentiment for the re-election of Nathan Yamins as president for a third term, but he has not indicated that he will accept. Booms have also developed in behalf of two former presidents.

Allied Theatres of Connecticut has designated Abe Fishman of New Haven as its representative at the board meeting. He will substitute for J. B. Fishman, a regular board member, who is unable to attend.

In Pittsburgh Show

Pittsburgh, Jan. 14.—Stephanie Diamond of the WCAE dramatic staff and Charles Roe, announcer at the same station, have been signed to play the leading roles in the Pittsburgh Playhouse's next show, "Accent on Youth." It will open a three-week run Jan. 25.

FCC Sends Rebuke to NBC For Mae West's Broadcast

Washington, Jan. 14.—A sharp reprimand for carrying the Mae West "Adam and Eve" skit was issued to NBC by the Federal Communications Commission today, with warning that NBC must have due regard to the proprieties in the writing and production of its programs.

Individual stations carrying the program also were rebuked by the commission, and were warned that the public interest, convenience and necessity were paramount to any contracts they might have with sponsors, and that, in considering applications for renewal of license, thought would be given to violations such as involved in the Chase and Sanborn program.

The commission's views were made known in a letter to Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, in which commendation was given for the apologies over the radio and through the press and to the commission by letter, but the excuse that the production was only a "human error in judgment" was not accepted.

"While the primary responsibility for this program rests on your company," the commision wrote, "the stations that carried it cannot be excused for carrying this program on the ground that such program was received over the network under a contract for program service. Each licensee carries his own definite responsibility for the character of programs broadcast and he must be and will be held to account regardless of the origin of the program. All who are interested should, therefore, take notice that trespasses against the public interest will be charged against every station engaging in such trespass."

In view of the company's recognition of the objectional character of the program and the assurance that greater care will be exercised in the future, no further action will be taken in the matter.

Chairman Frank R. McNinch said plans are under consideration for the calling of a more or less general conference of broadcasters to discuss what can be done about programs.

FCC Ruling Hits Local Monopolies By Air Stations

Washington, Jan. 14.—Administration opposition to monopolistic tendencies in industry today reached the Federal Communications Commission, which adopted a policy of refusing to any person or organization already holding a broadcasting license the authority to construct a second station in the same area unless it is shown conclusively that there is need for another station and that no other interests are prepared to erect it.

The commission's policy was enunciated in a decision denying to WSMB, Inc., operators of WSMB, New Orleans, authority to construct a second station in that city.

Local Operators Not Affected

The purpose of the ruling, it was explained by Chairman Frank R. McNinch, is to prevent the development of local monopolies in broadcasting. The rule is not to be applied to the acquisition by one interest of two or more stations in different areas, nor will it have any effect upon persons or companies which already operate two or more stations in the same area.

"The available frequencies in the broadcast band are limited," it was pointed out in the WSMB decision, "and the commission is loath to grant facilities for an additional broadcast station to one who already holds a license for a station in the same community unless it is clearly shown that the public interest, convenience or necessity would be served thereby."

The basic stations of the network, WHBY, Green Bay; KFIZ, Fond du Lac, and WIBU, Poynette, have been operating under the network setup since Sept. 1, 1937.

Report NBC Shifting Junction

Kansas City, Jan. 14.—Reports here are to the effect that NBC will move its junction point from this city to Oklahoma City because of bad weather conditions over the Rocky Mountains, a condition which has been giving trouble here for some time. It is said that the new line will run from Chicago by the southern route. A. T. & T. is believed to be ready to start work on the making of the change.

Euripides Or—

Ed Wynn, who is doing yeoman work in the amusement division of the New York-Brooklyn Jewish Charities drive, recalls that some years ago when asked why he gave so much of his money to charity instead of saving it, he "accidentally" replied: "I have no desire to be the richest man in the cemetery."

"That remark has since been translated into 53 languages," he declared, "and I suppose in the history books Euripides or someone will get credit for it."

French Trade Is Disturbed By Tax Change

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The French film industry is seriously disturbed by the law, passed by the Chamber of Deputies, and effective Feb. 2, which reduces the state tax by 25 per cent on those film houses only which have orchestras and vaudeville in conjunction with the film program, while at the same time it increases by 25 per cent the state tax on film houses not using vaudeville and orchestras, whose monthly receipts exceed $6,700.

The measure is believed to have the effect of causing considerable losses to producers and distributors, in the event that exhibitors are faced with

Sears Attacks Giveaways; Showmanship a "Lost Art"

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—The first major distribution executive to blast chance games, Gradwell L. Sears, upon leaving Hollywood for New York, said exhibitors should stop running gambling halls and instead run legitimate houses.

"Showmanship is fast becoming a lost art in the film business because of exhibitors degrading their theatres with Country Stores, Turkey Nights and other destructive giveaways when they should be plugging pictures instead," he said.

"How can exhibitors expect studios to give them great productions made at substantial costs if theatres fail to make these pictures bring the revenue they should? If exhibitors would devote as much time to merchandising these great shows to customers as they

with Merle Oberon, Laurence Olivier, Ralph Richardson

United Artists 90 Mins.

DELIGHTFUL, SOPHISTICATED COMEDY PLAYED CHARMINGLY BY BRILLIANT CAST.

This is a major achievement for Alexander Korda that will rank with the best work he has done. Several important factors were expertly moulded together to produce as brilliant and sparkling a light comedy as can be recalled on stage or screen. These include a screen play by Robert Sherwood, adapting the play, "Counsel's Opinion," by Lajos Biro. Korda gave it that smart production treatment for which he is noted, more particularly a perfect cast that played every scene to the hilt. Merle Oberon has never appeared more enchanting, and certainly has never given a performance that rang such deft changes in a single characterization. Laurence Olivier is a constant delight as the young barrister driven frantic by this strange charmer who catapults herself into his orderly existence and has him running around in dizzy circles. Then we come to Ralph Richardson, the titled Lord Mere who has his doubts about the integrity of his wife when she stays out all night and gives the heavy fog as an excuse. Lord Mere places the case in the hands of Olivier to sue for a divorce. Olivier is sure the wife is the lady who has jimmied her way into his suite at the hotel the night of the fog, and thus is placed in the position of being the co-respondent in the case of his client. Merle Oberon is the minx who lets him think she is Lady Mere, and almost drives him out of his wits, until all matters are straightened out in the finale. Ralph Richardson's performance is one of the finest comedy contributions we can recall. He scored laugh after laugh in a cold projection room showing. The Technicolor work is excellent, with one sequence of a fox hunt standing out among many fine scenes. Binnie Barnes is perfect as Lady Mere whose befuddled husband is in a dither all the time, wondering whether she is true to him or not. Direction of Tim Whelan is of the first order, and he has paced the production with a fine tempo.

by exhibitors in addition to the directors, will get under way here Tues[illegible] at the Carlton Hotel.

Pittsburgh, in addition to Indianapolis and Atlantic City, have been proposed as the place of the next national convention. The time and place of the meeting will be decided Tuesday.

Abram F. Myers, chairman and general counsel, will divulge the results of his recent correspondence with Procter & Gamble involving Jimmy Fidler's Hollywood broadcast, which has been attacked as injurious to the industry. The board will then consider the proposal of Allied of N. J. to combat film star broadcasts.

Other highlights of the Tuesday agenda are a report by P. J. Wood of Columbus, on the Federal admission tax and the possibility of its modification and consideration of a legislative program and "protective measures under the anti-trust laws" with discussion led by Col. H. A. Cole of Texas.

On Wednesday there will be discussion of an insurance proposal at the request of the M.P.T.O. of Maryland and consideration of the product situation as it shapes up to date and a proposal to extend sales surveys. Inter-organization cooperation will be discussed.

In addition to officers, the board will elect an executive committee consisting of not more than five and not less than three directors. The committee now consists of Nathan Yamins, president; Sidney Samuelson of New Jersey and Arthur B. Price of Maryland.

The annual dinner for directors and visiting exhibitors will be held Tuesday night at the Shoreham Hotel.

July and August reports filed by the Chase National Bank disclosed that in the former month it disposed of 600 subscription warrants for General Theatres Equipment Corp. common stock and in August disposed of 2,365, entirely disposing of its holdings. At the close of August, however, the bank still held 181,213 shares of the company's common stock.

Term Pact for Lane

do in putting over audience games which drive away business the entire industry would be better off. Hollywood isn't falling down," he continued, citing new and novel story material, "it's the exhibitor."

"Motion picture theatres are built for motion pictures, not constructed for the purpose of being used as gambling halls or for lotteries. Hollywood obviously can't step into theatres and sell the fine product it makes. That is up to the exhibitor. He must cooperate to the utmost extent or suffer along with the producer. Studios can't maintain their present terrific pace unless the theatres of the country get behind them with showmanship which actually sells. Unless theatres wake up and go to work, producers will be compelled to cut production budgets. The public must be made conscious of the enormous entertainment values or all the splendid efforts and skill of the studios will fail to get the results they merit.

Calls Cooperation Lacking

"Hollywood delivers great attractions and the distributors do all they can to help exhibitors put them across. But the theatres themselves fail to come through with the follow-up which is vital to both the producer and themselves. Turkey Nights, Country Stores and such industry ailments are like hypodermics. After you give the patient a lot of shots in the arm he can't live without them. And then what happens when the hypo doesn't help the patient any more? That question is for the theatres to study and decide before it is too late.

"Theatres are not playing fair with Hollywood by not getting all the money they should from its product. It's certainly time the theatremen became smart and got back into the show business. If they don't junk Turkey Nights and all the other trash which is ruining the industry and discouraging producers they will end up in financial suicide. The industry is based on showmanship, which is its life blood. Unless exhibitors infuse showmanship into their operations it is going to be a tragic thing for the entire film business."

To Fight Bank Nights

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 16.—Prosecutor John J. Breslin of Bergen County has announced that he will take steps to prosecute theatre owners using Bank Night or any other game after Jan. 17.

Continue Games in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—San Francisco theatres are continuing operation of chance games despite the recent ruling of State's Attorney General U. S. Webb that all such devices violate the state anti-lottery law.

Spokane to Pay Quarterly

SPOKANE, Jan. 16.—Upon plea to the City Council, independent exhibitors won the right to pay their annual license fees on a quarterly basis instead of a year in advance. Theatres pay flat fees of $50 for 500 seats or less and $80 for over 500.

Meredith Plans to Drop Equity Office

Burgess Meredith, acting president of Actors' Equity Association, will not continue as head of the stage performers' union after next June, he states in an article in the current issue of Equity Magazine, in which he sets forth a 10-point policy program which he proposes to follow during his tenure in office.

The program consists of Equity support for the Coffee Bill, WPA Theatre Projects and Arts Union Conference; active participation of the theatre in World's Fair plans; support of the American Theatre Council; cooperation with the Four A's; reorganization of Equity Magazine; drafting of a new Equity contract; efficiency and economy programs for Equity administration; assistance for cooperative producing ventures; liquidation of investigating committees, and final organization of night club and cabaret workers.

Meredith also states that unless managers take immediate steps to curb ticket speculation Equity will intercede to stop the practices with "drastic" measures of its own.

Academy Ballots Go Out to Actor Guild

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—Under the revised awards procedure of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, the Screen Actors' Guild tomorrow will mail out to senior members ballots for the determination of nominees for the four acting awards—best performances by male star, feminine star, male supporting player, feminine supporting player. Also included on the ballot will be nominations for 10 outstanding productions of the year.

After tabulation of the nominations by an accounting firm, the Guild will report its five nominees for each of the acting awards, and the Academy will send out final ballots to both junior and senior members of the guild, and all directors and all writers, regardless of organization affiliation, under the revamped plan proposed by the Actor's Guild.

In turn, the Actors' Guild members will be asked to vote on the finals for writer and direction awards.

Blank to Build Another

DES MOINES, Jan. 16.—Tri-State Theatre Corp. has leased a location for a second new house. When completed this will make nine Tri-State theatres in Des Moines. A. H. Blank recently purchased the Hiland, this will be closed when the new theatre to be built in that vicinity has been completed.

Henry Plude, assistant manager of the Des Moines, has been made manager of the Hiland; I. E. Peterson, former owner and manager of the Hiland, is at the Paramount. Bruce Shelton, assistant manager of the Paramount, has been made assistant manager of the Des Moines and Dell McDermott, chief of service at the Paramount, has been made acting assistant manager.

Motor Plants' Cuts Hit Michigan Takes

DETROIT, Jan. 16.—With automobile production cut to the bone and thousands of workers either idle or working but a few hours a week, grosses in subsequent runs have dropped.

Woodward avenue, street of Detroit's all-night houses, the Roxy, Colonial, Majestic, Fine Arts and Forest, are hard hit.

Out-state the situation is much the same. Ford, General Motors and other plants have parts factories in the smaller towns and with these closed, small town theatres are struggling along on 50 per cent of average takes.

Flint is particularly hard hit with the big General Motors plants there practically shut down. Most of the houses in Flint that have been playing three changes a week have gone to two to cut down film rentals.

First runs have not been hit so hard.

Republic Meet Set For Coast in Spring

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Republic's sales forces started a two-day conference here today and agreed, among other things, to hold the annual convention in Los Angeles in the spring.

Next year's schedule will be the same as this year.

Several of those attending will leave for the coast tomorrow.

Republic on Saturday let out 10 clerks in the contract department. It was explained by Grover C. Schaefer, comptroller of the company, that the dismissals were the result of the altered sales setup in the company, following the meeting of Republic's franchise holders here last week.

Schaefer explained that in view of the fact that the company is operating without a general sales manager, all contract activity is handled through the district sales managers at the exchanges in the field, and not at the home office as heretofore. Consequently, Schaefer said, considerable detail work on contracts has been eliminated in the home office and the dismissals followed. He said there are no immediate plans for filling the post of general sales manager.

U. S. Protests New Uruguay Film Limit

The State Department, at the request of major film companies, has entered a protest against the law scheduled to go into effect Feb. 2 in Uruguay limiting the importation of prints to seven a month with a total gross value of $500. This amount, it is specified, will include trailers and accessories.

Foreign department heads yesterday expressed fear that the drastic regulations would dry up the country as a revenue producer. There are about 1-0 theatres in Uruguay.

It is estimated that on the basis of the statutory valuation of the import prints, the law would curtail distribution in that country by almost 50 per cent. The act is a currency restriction and applies to a number of commodities. Uruguay finds itself in the same exchange position as Brazil and some other South American countries, as well as Germany, Italy and Japan, from which it is virtually impossible to withdraw money.

Most of the major companies service Uruguay from Buenos Aires, it was said.

U. S. Films Unharmed By Buenos Aires Law

The Buenos Aires law exempting the 180 theatres in the city from taxation if they show locally produced pictures is not expected by foreign department heads here to prove harmful to American companies.

The measure is aimed to stimulate production of Spanish language pictures at Argentine studios. About 50 films were Argentine-made last year.

No steps are being taken to counteract the ordinance, since, it was pointed out at the Hays office on Friday, the domestic films are of a grade that is acceptable only to the smaller provincial theatres, while the more important houses prefer American product with Spanish subtitles.

A more serious problem for American distributors, it was declared, is the law in Buenos Aires which forbids the attendance of children under 12 years at film theatres and provides that parents or guardians shall accompany children under 16.

Exporters Urged to Abide by New Rules

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The U. S. Dept. of Commerce has placed in effect the revised edition of Schedule B, the statistical classification of domestic commodities exported from the United States. It is pointed out by N. D. Golden, chief of the Motion Picture Division of the Dept. of Commerce, that it is vitally important that foreign heads of film companies take note of the revisions.

Under the regulations, customs officers will not accept declarations which are not filled out with a typewriter or in ink or indelible pencil, unless all the required information is shown and will not accept documents when the details are not in full accord with the provisions of Schedule B.

Security Films Go To Various States

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Methods followed in the various states in the application of the Social Security Act are outlined in a series of 10 films prepared by Pathe for the Social Security Board as a supplement to four pictures heretofore released.

The pictures were prepared under a contract providing for a price of $3,000 per picture.

The production of films for states was undertaken at the request of some of the state authorities who wished to acquaint their citizens more fully with the Act. A national picture was prepared, and in the making of copies for each state inserts were made at appropriate points to show state officials and give local atmosphere.

Only 10 states so far have requested the film and that number have been prepared and are now being released. A contract with Pathe, it was said, is sufficiently flexible to permit the production of copies for other states which may make requests, so that the eventual production might run as high as 48, although it is not expected to reach half that number.

Films previously issued by the Social Security Board dealt with the workings of the Act, old age assistance, and unemployment relief.

Protest Child Ban At Argentine Films

By N. BRUSKI

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 29.—The new Argentine law regulating the attendance of children at theatres has aroused a storm of protest from the public over the country, aided by the press. Some protests declare the regulations to be a violation of individual rights.

Children under five are prohibited from attending films at all times except when special programs are put on for them at matinees. Children between five and 12 may attend only matinees, provided the films shown have been approved by the new Government department as suitable for children. Exhibitors are loudly voicing their protests over the regulations, fearing substantial losses at the box-office, particularly among suburban theatres.

contract for key stations, the networks will spend approximately $500,000 per year for staff musicians, and the delivery of the key station pact is virtually assured today.

About 90 per cent of the 273 I. R. N. A. stations have forwarded contracts guaranteeing participation in the agreement, and the others are expected to follow within a few weeks.

Contracts are now being photostated by the Federation and Ernst & Ernst, the latter handling the pact for the I.R.N.A., and will be exchanged for filing some time next week. Stations have been forwarding their signed contracts to Ernst & Ernst, while the locals have been filing their station contracts with the Federation.

In a wire addressed to all I.R.N.A. members, sent Saturday, Samuel R. Rosenbaum and Emile J. Gough of the I.R.N.A. negotiating committee, notified the stations that the national plan of settlement is to become effective today, and urged all members who have not yet entered into agreements with the union to do so under the terms of "a short period of grace" which has been alloted them by the federation. Rosenbaum and Gough, who signed the wire asked to be discharged from further responsibility not later than the N.A.B. convention in February.

Contracts Retroactive

All contracts signed within this period, however, must be made retroactive to Jan. 17, Rosenbaum & Gough said.

Thus, the negotiations to bring about a more equitable employment of musicians, inaugurated last August, have been completed, without recourse to the national strike which the federation threatened to invoke shortly after the negotiations were begun.

Under the terms of the contracts already in, more than 100 stations which have had no musical staffs will provide jobs for musicians. In no case will the outlay for musicians' wages be reduced at stations which have employed musicians.

To aid I.R.N.A. stations in carrying the added financial burden, the networks have guaranteed to contribute $200,000 annually. This sum is in addition to the $500,000 the networks will spend for their key stations.

F. C. C. Forbids Sale Of WAAW in Lincoln

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 16.—The anti-monopoly attitude of the Administration in Washington was reflected here yesterday in the collapse of the second deal for the sale of WAAW by the Omaha Grain Exchange. The F.C.C. rejected a proposal that Central States Broadcasting Co. be licensed to operate it, saying that no new stations could be granted to an organization already having one stand in the city.

The deal for the Omaha World-Herald to buy the station for $150,000 was quashed a year ago and now the Journal and Star offer of $55,000 goes by the board.

Congress Not Satisfied by NBC Rebuke

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Jan. 16.—The reprimand of NBC by the Federal Communications Commission will not satisfy Congressional critics of the F.C.C., it was indicated yesterday at the Capitol.

Speaking on the floor of the House yesterday just before issuance of the commission's letter, Representative Laurence J. Connery (Dem. Mass.), brother of the late Congressman William P. Connery, who led the agitation for a broadcasting investigation last session, predicted the incident would be whitewashed, and indicated such action would not be accepted as properly meeting the situation.

"I have no hesitancy in predicting that the punishment meted out, if any, will be a slight reprimand with the allegation or promise on the part of NBC officials that it will not happen again," Connery said.

Members of Congress yesterday were critical of the commission's action, particularly the threat that, while the incident is closed so far as NBC is concerned, the 59 stations which carried the broadcast face loss of their licenses as a result, if other complaints are received against them before the time comes for application for renewal.

It was flatly stated that the incident is not closed, so far as Congress is concerned, and that the action of the commission demonstrates the need for a Congressional investigation of broadcasting.

Cancel Drug Show; Started Last Week

"Manhattan After Dark," the series for the Emerson Drug Co., which made its debut on NBC last Wednesday, has been cancelled because of "production reasons," it is said by J. Walter Thompson, the agency handling the account.

Beginning next Wednesday, the period will be occupied by Harriet Parsons, daughter of Louella. She will be heard in Hollywood gossip, for a period of three weeks. Plans beyond that are indefinite.

Eddie Garr, who was the "em cee" on "Manhattan After Dark" had a short term contract, and it is believed the agency has settled his contract.

Broadway business was reported good at most of the first runs Saturday. Matinee business was unusually heavy on "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the Music Hall, attendance being swelled by a large children patronage.

"Hurricane," in its first popular price run at the Rivoli, opened strongly Saturday, and the theatre reported biggest business since "Dead End."

"Hollywood Hotel" at the Strand was another stand-out, and "Wells Fargo" at the Paramount, "Man-Proof" at the Capitol and "I Met My Love Again" at the Roxy also did well.

"In Old Chicago" garnered $19,793 in the first week of its two-a-day run ended Thursday at the Astor. The advance sale is reported heavy. The second week of "Love and Hisses" gave the Roxy $33,000 and "It's All Yours" grossed $10,000 at the Criterion.

There were 1,177 sound theatres, of which 96 were closed on Jan. 1, and 23 silent theatres, all dark. This represents a gain of 33 sound theatres and three silent theatres during 1937.

French Trade Is Disturbed By Tax Change

the necessity of replacing the usual two features with programs of one feature and a stage show. However, this move is seen in some quarters as unlikely, since the tax reduction is not deemed sufficient to warrant the expense of providing stage shows and orchestras.

The increase in the state tax will affect the 100 largest French theatres, diminishing by 25 per cent the revenues for producers and distributors, and consequently bite deeply into French production.

At a meeting of exhibitors here, at which producer and distributor representatives were present, full power was given the managing boards of the three industry branches to urge the new Government, when the cabinet is formed, to repeal the new tax law, to take steps, often promised, to reduce the existing entertainment taxes, and to consult with the industry in plans for new film legislation.

It is indicated that if negotiations fail before the effective date of the new law, all film houses in Paris may be closed in protest, with the possibility also that if that move fails, all exchanges, studios, laboratories and theatres throughout the country will close.

of L. union, the Associated Actors and Artistes of America.

George Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president and a member of the executive council of the A. F. of L., is here for the meeting. So far as could be learned today neither the Four A's nor the Screen Actors' Guild will send a representative here to contest the I.A.T.S.E. jurisdictional claim. Informal opinion among A. F. of L. officials indicates, however, that this may be due more to lack of concern on the part of the latter two organizations over the I. A.'s claim than to any unwillingness on their part to oppose it.

Although the jurisdictional claim is on the A. F. of L. agenda, it was indicated that it may be disposed of without formal hearing.

Reopen Detroit House

DERTOIT, Jan. 16.—The much opened and closed Downtown turned on its lights again Saturday. This time it's Sam Carver who will give it a try. ALBANY, Jan. 17.—George Meany, president of the State Federation of Labor, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY tonight that the full crews bill, requiring two operators in the projection room at all times, would be pushed for passage within the next few weeks.

In view of labor's strong position in the present legislature, such support by the A.F.L. makes the bill's passage loom nearer. It was also learned tonight that the American Labor Party bloc in the assembly is committed to the bill and may make an active fight for its enactment.

17,000 Active Theatres, Hays Announces

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Approximately 740 more theatres were opened during 1937, bringing the total for the nation to 17,000, or a gain of approximately five per cent over 1936, Will H. Hays revealed in his address to the Poor Richard Club at the Bellevue-Stratford here tonight.

The estimated gain for 1937 compares with an increase of 880 theatres during 1936, which brought the total of theatres in operation at the end of that year to 16,258. The seating capacity of the 17,000 open theatres is estimated at 10,720,400, compared with the 10,440,600 seats available at the end of 1936. The total of both open and closed theatres in the United States at the end of 1937 is estimated at just under 19,000.

Theatre attendance for 1937 was estimated by Hays at "12,000,000 daily," or 84,000,000 per week. This

Dallas Appeal Is Filed with Supreme Court

Fixed Admission Price, Dual Issues Involved

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Appeal of the distributors from the decision of the Dallas Federal District Court in the Government's anti-trust suit involving license restrictions on admission prices and double features was formally filed with the Supreme Court today by George Wright, of counsel for the defendants.

The Government's suit charged that the defendants, including, in addition to the large producers and distributors, the Interstate Circuit and the Texas Consolidated Theatres, had conspired to control exhibition in Texas by requiring second and subsequent run houses to adopt a minimum night admission price of 25 cents when showing any picture which had first run in any city for a night at an admission price of 40 cents or more, and by prohibiting the showing of their pictures on any double bill.

In bringing the case to Washington, the defendants contended that they had

"Snow White" Pulls $65,066 on Weekend

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the Music Hall grossed $65,066 in the first four days ending Sunday night. Speculators took advantage of the heavy demand for reserved mezzanine seats and asked fancy prices.

One difficulty experienced by the management is that many children sit through a second showing, preventing a larger seat turnover. The picture will go a second week, with a third to be decided upon.

Insiders' Outlook

By A-MIKE VOGEL

GRADWELL SEARS says that showmanship is a lost art. The Warner sales head blames it on chance games and giveaways. There are other factors.

Mr. Sears makes no sudden discovery. The neglect of showmanship is not precisely new. It represents a condition long developing.

Showmanship can be remembered as having a conspicuous part in the progress of the business. There was a period made memorable by the exploiteers. Intensive and consistent selling at the box-office had lots to do with the industry's progress. But with the waning of this same showmanship, production has crowded more and more into the picture.

Now Hollywood has on hand an unprecedented listing of high cost productions. There is more put into the film can than ever before. The trend may be traced back to the time in the early days when the exhibitor picked up his show at the express office, hung up a one-sheet announcing "Biograph Day" and opened the box-office. But that doesn't work as well today.

When there was plenty of money in circulation in the pre-depression days, any lack of high-power retail showmanship was not quite so apparent. Now it becomes obvious.

And what to do about it?

The quickest answer and the best is to arouse latent enthusiasm among theatremen who have ability to pick up the slack. There are smart showmen still about. They are aching to go. They must be allowed to go if we are to accept Mr. Sears' opinion that "unless exhibitors infuse showmanship into their operations, it is going to be a tragic thing for the entire show business."

But showmanship cannot function while it bears the step-child classification. Showmanship will not return dividends so long as promotional departments are the first to feel the retrenchment axe. Showmen in the field will not respond to urging while their ideas are ignored, their efforts discouraged.

There might be added incentive for theatremen to extend their efforts. And this incentive might come through an adaptation for exhibition of the quota plan used successfully in sales and gross drives. It seems a suitable time for some company to consider such an expedient.

Chance games and giveaways, as discussed by Mr. Sears in Monday's MOTION PICTURE DAILY, do not belong in the theatre. But let the industry take heed that comprehensive showmanship in the theatre is, was, and always will be the keystone of the motion picture structure. With that thoroughly understood, lotteries and other destructive methods will disappear automatically.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S recently completed poll among four hundred newspaper radio editors to determine the radio champions for 1937 disclosed a definite first for Charlie McCarthy. Conducted by the New York Daily News in cooperation with fifty leading newspapers, another poll was sponsored in which readers alone were asked to vote for their radio favorites of 1937. Again, Charlie McCarthy finished in front.

It appears that in this instance newspaper critics and their readers were in perfect accord.

"Paradise for Three"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Jan. 17.—"Paradise For Three," a light comedy romance, is played by an expert troupe of actors with zip and zest. With fun the keynote of all dialogue, situations and characterizations, the film was smartly staged by Producer Sam Zimbalist and Edward Buzzell's direction was pointed to keep things moving in intriguing style.

Although based on a continental story by Erich Kaestner, with most of the locale in the Alps, the screenplay by George Oppenheimer and Harry Ruskin is familiarly American in nature. A rich manufacturer, appearing incognito, joins up with a poor young man who has won a contest he has conducted; the prize is an Alpine vacation. The winner, mistaken by the hotel management for the millionaire, is treated regally, while the manufacturer is considered an undesirable guest.

The action moves from one farce situation to another, with Frank Morgan, the manufacturer, accepting his lot with good grace even when he is forced to wash dishes and almost gets himself involved in a breach of promise suit. Robert Young, the prizewinner, does his best to assist his new found friend whom he believes will be influential in getting him a job. The arrival of Morgan's daughter, Florence Rice, to rescue her father from indignities which she has heard he is being subjected to brings on romance, which, when all mistaken identities have been cleared up eventuates in Young's going to work for Morgan and the promise of Miss Rice's hand in marriage in the near future.

It is a good supporting picture for any program. It offers the names of Reginald Owen, Edna May Oliver, Mary Astor, Herman Bing, Sid Rumann, Henry Hull and Walter Kingsford in addition to the leading trio and the value of a rollicking comedy for exploitation purposes.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

M-G-M Shorts Sales To Remain on Coast

M-G-M will keep its short subject sales department on the coast because it has been found helpful in advising with the production department on the types of shorts to be made, said Jack Chertok, head of shorts production, who arrived here yesterday.

Chertok plans to be here four weeks or more during which he will make four Robert Benchley one-reelers and three or four Pete Smiths. He said he is seeking material for the latter. Smith will dub them on the coast after their completion here. All work will be done at the General Service Studios at Astoria, L. I.

Novelty one-reelers and two-reel musicals and comedies are the best from a sales standpoint, the musicals having the greatest appeal in foreign countries and hence return the greatest revenue, Chertok declared.

Fred Quimby, M-G-M's short subject general manager, is to remain permanently on the coast.

in December for a general conference of department heads of the All-Union Motion Picture Trust. The industry's representatives in London and Paris were also asked to attend.

At this meeting, Shumiatsky was severely criticized for maladministration, these charges resulting in his dismissal, according to information received by Amkino. The charges were made public in the Russian press.

Napoli stressed that as far as the American relations with the Soviet industry were concerned, there had never been any criticism of Shumiatsky by Amkino and the local office has always received good service and prompt delivery of prints from Moscow.

Verlinsky has made no mention of the current situation in daily cables he sends to Amkino, these being confined to details on productions, Napoli said. Because of the reorganization of the industry now under way, Verlinsky's return from Moscow, scheduled for next month, may be delayed. Napoli said he had received no information on the appointment of Shumiatsky's successor.

Among the pictures scheduled for American distribution shortly are "Lenin in October," on which Stalin ordered the ending remade because he thought it weak; "Lonely White Sail," based on a play by Katayeff, with child actors, and a film on the Far East.

Theatre Total Up to 17,000, Declares Hays

is a gain of only 1,000,000 per week over 1936, when industry estimates placed attendance at an average of 83,000,000 weekly.

Hays, who was presented the Poor Richard Club's annual gold medal achievement award for outstanding leadership in industry during 1937, cited the growth and significance of the film industry as an outstanding example of the fundamental advantages of the American system in his address on "What's Right With America?" Citing the industry's business history and economic significance, Hays pointed out that it has a capital investment of approximately two billion dollars.

Sees Bright Future

Stressing an optimistic note both as to the future of the nation and the future of the industry, Hays referred to the "bitter factionalism and trade practice confusion" which he said were met with and overcome by "conciliatory and restraining influences" during industry's years of growth.

"Our association, the M.P.P.D.A., came into being as an outward expression of the industry's public responsibility," Hays said. "The largest task was the great experiment in public relations in a field in which 130,000,000 potential customers exist."

Seeks Highest Standards

The association, Hays said, subscribes to two basic purposes—"voluntarily to agree upon and enforce accepted standards in relation to good taste and wholesomeness, and to initiate and maintain processes of public education designed to encourage attendance for the higher types of pictures—that is, to raise the standard of demand as well as to raise the standard of supply."

More than 1,200 guests, including representatives of all film companies, were present at the dinner. Hays spent considerable time during the day posing for newsreel shots and press stills. Entertainment was furnished by Ted Husing and the CBS artists' bureau. The Hays address was broadcast over Station KYW.

Photophone, IATSE Reach an Agreement

RCA Photophone signed a contract with the I. A. T. S. E. late last week covering all of its sound equipment service men, it was learned yesterday. The pact had been in negotiation for many weeks.

The agreement establishes a minimum of $80 per week for service men and $110 for special inspectors and road men. RCA Photophone officials stated recently that the new wage scales would not bring about an increase in the company's service charges to theatres.

Altec Service Corp., which took over Erpi's theatre sound equipment service division in December, signed with the I. A. T. S. E. as of Jan. 1. It has made no change in service charges as a result.

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—CHARLIE GEHRINGER, Detroit Tiger second baseman, was the headliner guest for the Variety Club luncheon yesterday. NORMAN DURKIN, Michigan badminton champion, and JIMMIE STEVENSON, WJR news and sports commentator, also spoke.

Next week the club will honor ANN O'DONNELL, the only woman owner of an exchange in the country, with Miss O'DONNELL, FRED NUGENT, HARRY HONDORF and JACK ZIDE as the honor guests.

The club is making plans for a "Beefsteak Blowout" to be held in February with J. OLIVER BROOKS of the Butterfield circuit in charge. The annual frolic will be held March 5, the club having reserved the entire ballroom floor of the Book-Cadillac.

Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17. — Federal, district and municipal court judges and city officials tonight attended a dinner given by Variety Club in the Hotel Nicollet. JOHN P. DEVANEY, former chief justice of Minnesota, was the toastmaster.

The dinner was the first social affair staged by the organization since W. A. STEFFES was elected its Chief Barker. In having the judges and city officials as guests, STEFFES states that, under his leadership, he hopes to have the club take a more active part in local civic affairs and that this "get acquainted" dinner is designed as a step in that direction.

Later in the winter, a similar dinner will be tendered to St. Paul judges and officials to permit St. Paul theatre men to know their officials better.

Whitehead also withdrew his organization's claims to jurisdiction over the burlesque field, which is held now by the Burlesque Artists' Association, an affiliate of the Four A's.

The A.F.A.'s withdrawal from the night club and cabaret field leaves Chorus Equity Association with uncontested jurisdiction. A committee comprising representatives of all Four A unions was designated yesterday to work out plans for the further organization of the field and report back to the Four A board of directors next Monday.

New Shows On the Air

"Stepmother"

The first chapter in the new Colgate-Palmolive-Peet series, "Stepmother," was presented over CBS at 5:30 last evening. The story, as one may gather from the title, concerns the effort of a woman to raise another woman's children.

John Fairchild, a widower with two children, Peggy, 18, and Bob, 12, marries Kay, a newspaper woman. The story opens at the close of the honeymoon period, with the newlyweds on the way home.

The author pursues the obvious theme of having Kay greeted in a friendly manner by the youngster, Bob. Peggy's greeting of the unwelcome stepmother is confined to a frigid "Hello." Peggy will not even condescend to call her stepmother by her given name. She refers to her as "Mrs. Fairchild."

The episode closed with a hysterical outburst by Peggy, who upbraided her father for marrying without consulting her.

"Stepmother" is presented daily except Saturdays and Sundays from 5:30 to 5:45 P. M. BANNER

German Consul Seeks 'Time' Nazi Reel Cuts

Maker Rebuffs Demand To Alter Uncensored Films on Hitler

By CHARLES S. AARONSON

Dr. Georg F. Kraufe-Wichmann, German Vice-Consul in New York, nd Fritz Kuhn, head of the German American Bund, Nazi organization in his country, have demanded that March of Time make eliminations in he latest issue of the reel, which is evoted exclusively to Nazi Germany, nd is titled, "Inside Nazi Germany."

The issue will be generally released omorrow, and will open on that day t the Embassy on Broadway.

Louis De Rochemont, producer of he reel, in answer to the request that ertain scenes and sequences be eliminated from the release, on the ground hat they were "prejudicial to the best nterests of Germany and likely to be misunderstood by the American public," was that there would be no eliminations whatever.

De Rochemont declared: "The films which the March of Time will show re the first uncensored motion pictures to come from Germany since Hitler came into power. Every statement made in the commentary has been thoroughly checked and rechecked. After escaping Nazi censorship in Germany, we have no intention of submitting to Nazi censorship n this country."

The films, which totaled 25,000 eet, were taken by Julian Bryan, March of Time cameraman, in Germany, and brought out by way of Latvia, escaping all German censorship.

The March of Time invited Kraufe-Wichmann and Kuhn to look at the release on Monday evening, following the usual practice of inviting those

Not Backing GN-Goldstone

Phil Goldstone, independent producer and active in financing independents on the coast for many years, has "no personal interest" in the current negotiations looking toward reorganization of Grand National and its financial rehabilitation, he said yesterday.

Conferences have not shaped up to a point where anything definite is apparent, he said, but the discussions may develop something concrete "in two or three days."

Goldstone said he was here "on a confidential mission."

"I am representing mutual friends in the negotiations," he declared, indicating them as Edward L. Alperson, president of Grand National, and financial interests on the coast. He hinted that the money needed by G. N. to resume production would be forthcoming if other factors are favorable.

Since Goldstone's arrival here from the coast on Monday with Phil Krasne, head of G. N.'s studio, the two have been in almost continuous conference with Edward Peskay, vice-president in charge of sales, and other distribution executives.

Goldstone expects to have a plan pretty well shaped up before he and Krasne return to the coast in a few days. He is financially interested in "Damaged Goods," which G. N. is releasing.

WHITNEY OFFERS TO BUY 60% OF UNITED ARTISTS

He and Selznick Ready to Acquire Shares of Pickford, Fairbanks and Chaplin, It Is Learned Authoritatively

A definite offer for the purchase of the 60 per cent stock interest in United Artists held by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin has been made by John Hay Whitney and David O. Selznick to the three United Artists partners, it was learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

The purchase negotiations, under way in Hollywood now, are described as being still in the conversation stage despite the fact that an official offer has been tendered by Whitney and Selznick. The progress of the deal has been retarded momentarily by the absence of Chaplin from Hollywood, but all three partners are described as being genuinely interested in the Whitney-Selznick proposal, which is also said on excellent authority to be regarded favorably by other important United Artists officials.

The Whitney-Selznick plan additionally, it is stated on good authority, contemplates the acquisition of all of the outstanding United Artists stock if such a move becomes advisable and if acceptable terms could be negotiated. This, presumably, is regarded as a secondary consideration which might develop from the attitude of Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda to acquisition of a controlling interest by Selznick International.

If a deal is consummated, Selznick would be in charge of production, new producers would be added and the company's production schedule would be increased considerably.

Well informed sources are confident that Miss Pickford, Chaplin and Fairbanks are inclined to dispose of their interests on a basis acceptable to the prospective purchasers in the event that suitable assurances can be set up. It is also believed that Goldwyn, Korda and Walter Wanger could be induced to continue with the company under an adjusted production status.

Hollywood, Jan. 18.—Approximately $3,000,000 in cash plus preferred stock in a financially revamped United Artists is being offered by John Hay Whitney and David O. Selznick for the 60 per cent stock interest in United Artists held by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin, it was learned today.

Although the negotiations have reached the point at which terms are being discussed, they are described in informed quarters as still in a very

Small to Produce Six Films Yearly For United Artists

Hollywood, Jan. 18. — Edward Small today signed a contract with United Artists to produce six pictures annually over a long period, thus renewing his association with U. A. which started when he and Harry Goetz organized Reliance Pictures in 1932. Under this trademark he made "Monte Christo" and other films.

In 1936 Small joined RKO as associate producer, leaving last summer to travel abroad. Under his new deal he will produce as Edward Small Prod. and will start in 60 days.

Allied Directors Turn Down Plan for Talks with MPTOA

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Jan. 18.—Proposals for a fair trade practice conference between the leaders of the M. P. T. O. A., I. T. O. A. and Allied States were rejected today by Allied's board of directors in favor of Congressional block booking or divorce legislation.

Convening for their annual meeting, the members of the board reviewed the situation and came to the conclusion that since Allied's acceptance of the several tentative dates which have been suggested did not result in the meeting being held, the prospect of a conference at this late date might seriously jeopardize plans which the association has been formulating over a period of months and give Congress the impression that the independents' problems were on the way to solution.

It was accordingly voted that the conference not be held until present plans for seeking relief in Congress are carried to a conclusion.

Ontario Censors Get Legion Approbation

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—No organized action with regard to films is required in the Province of Ontario because of the co-operative attitude of the Ontario Censors, states Rev. M. J. McGrath, secretary of the Toronto Council of the Legion of Decency. Occasional objectionable detail slips through in the examination of films, he declared, but censorship in Ontario is quite satisfactory on the whole. This comment was made following announcement that representatives of the Catholic Church in the Province of Quebec had threatened a boycott of theatres because of an alleged lowered standard of censoring in that Province.

Hear "Children" Appeal

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Arguments on the litigation by Fov Prod., Inc., and Principal Film Exchange, Inc., which seek to obtain a license for "Tomorrow's Children," were heard today in the Appellate Division, Third Department. The film, based on a sterilization theme, has been refused an exhibition permit by Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves. The picture was shown in court. Decision was reserved.

"March of Time, No. 6"

(RKO)

For the first time since its inception, March of Time producers have devoted an entire issue to one subject, "Inside Nazi Germany," and it is compelling and highly significant material. Done in the expectedly direct and clean-cut fashion of these releases, it pictures Germany today, the manner in which Hitler has ruthlessly regimented and completely dominated the German people in every phase of their lives, and the spread of the Nazi doctrine into the United States through the so-called German Bund, headed by Fritz Kuhn. It is a notable film document, which may well attain historical importance.

The film was brought out of Germany despite the ban on such material, and it gives every evidence of complete authenticity. Pictured clearly, and with the support of a careful, well-spoken narrative, the issue shows the operation of the Nazi propaganda machine, the vicious and uncompromising attack on the Jews and on other churches, and the attempt to lure American tourists.

Behind the prosperous looking front which Berlin presents, is revealed the dictatorship which virtually tells Germans what they can and cannot eat, that they must save the refuse for pig fodder, the complete supervision of all German children, training them for war, the restrictions on German workmen, who are told how much they shall be paid and are forbidden to strike. Incisely is portrayed the organization which claims the allegiance of 200,000 Americans, the German Bund, under the leadership of the naturalized American citizen, Fritz Kuhn, which is attempting to spread Naziism across the United States, and the sharp rebuff it received at the hands of the residents of Southbury, Conn., when it attempted to establish a Nazi camp in that town.

Clearly shown is the strength of the Nazi war machine, on parade and in maneuver, and the alliance with Fascist Italy's Mussolini, with a verbal indication of its probable consequences to the world.

Sailors Picketing

The National Maritime Union began picketing the Music Hall yesterday in a protest against the showing of March of Time's sequence on the problems of the American merchant marine. Placards carried by the pickets urged a boycott of March of Time and described the subject as "slanderous to seamen."

The reel employed members of the union in making the sequence.

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Efforts are being made here, it is understood, to persuade the Ulster Government to introduce a film quota bill similar to that of England.

The Minister of Commerce is conducting a statistical investigation relative to the showing of British films in Ireland. The exhibitors of Ulster are supposed to be operating under a gentlemen's agreement whereby they are to give preferential treatment to British product.

Board Asks Producer Labor Clause Views

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Board of Trade has asked for comment from the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries (producers) on a labor cost clause in the Films Bill now under House of Commons consideration. The clause sets a minimum of £75 paid to British subjects employed in production and permits the employment of one foreigner only on a film.

The producers are expected to ask for an increase of the minimum to two foreigners, permitting the employment of either two foreign players or one player and one director or technician. Labor is believed certain to insist on the retention of the clause permitting only one foreigner.

Reich Consul Asks Slashes In Time Reel

concerned to see any reel in which they might be interested.

The German Vice-Consul, after the showing, objected to the American side of the Nazi activities as shown, and pictures of the persecution practiced by the Nazi Government in Germany. Kuhn particularly objected to the American phase of the issue. Both demanded eliminations in the reel of the particular sequences to which they objected.

Kuhn denied any connection between the Nazi Government in Germany and the German American Bund which he heads in this country. He declared the only purpose of the organization is to fight Communism in the United States.

Kuhn was heard to explain, following the screening on Monday, "If Hitler sees this film the German American Bund is ruined."

A second showing of the reel was arranged for Kraufe-Wichmann yesterday afternoon by De Rochemont. The vice-consul failed to appear for that showing, and characterized the reel as "misuse of the press." It was admitted by the German representatives that there were no errors of fact in the picture.

Chicago Bans Reel

Yesterday afternoon the Chicago censor board banned the picture in that city on the ground that it reflects on the Hitler Government, with which the United States is now friendly. De Rochemont said yesterday the reel will remain as it was completed and that a protest probably will be lodged with the Chicago authorities.

The Immigration and Naturalization Committee of the House at Washington yesterday asked for a print of the reel for immediate screening. The staff of the German embassy there saw the issue yesterday.

William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, said yesterday that "every member of every American family who believes in liberty and democracy should by all means see" the film. He declared it "tells the truth about the Hitler Government." Congressman Dickstein of New York also lauded the film, declaring every American should see it.

Moskowitz Has Anniversary

Tomorrow friends and business associates of Charles C. Moskowitz, vice-president of Loew's, Inc., will congratulate him on completing 25 years with the organization. They have been felicitating him all week, and "C. C." has modestly acknowledged the greetings.

His colleagues of Loew's executive staff called on him a few days ago and asked him if he would permit a celebration. His answer was "No." He doesn't think the occasion calls for any to-do. For him it will be another working day, and there's quite a job in supervising the circuit's 100 theatres in the metropolitan area. However, some of his friends probably will inveigle him out to lunch, merely for the sake of talking over old times.

The talk most likely will begin with the days when "C. C.," a stripling of 20 fresh from N. Y. U. answered a want ad in the Morning World and was given a job as bookkeeper by David Bernstein, treasurer of People's Vaudeville Co. The salary was $12 a week. Marcus Loew was president; Nicholas M. Schenck, general manager; Joseph M. Schenck was in charge of booking and Leopold Friedman the legal head.

It wasn't long before the young bookkeeper who wanted to learn the theatre business came to the notice of the company heads. One afternoon Moskowitz was relieving the doorman at the American Theatre. Nicholas Schenck saw him and placed him permanently in the theatre department. Moskowitz rose steadily with the organization.

"Nicholas M. Schenck was my inspiration and still is," Moskowitz said yesterday. "The best insight into his character is the way he has built and held the loyalty of his associates."

Moskowitz recalled that Loew's was the first theatre circuit to give prominence to films, while others featured vaudeville; the first to display concrete faith in the entertainment value of the then new medium.

"C. C." refused to give his rules for success.

"It would sound too much like boasting" he declared.

Review Board Meet To Open Tomorrow

The 14th annual conference of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures will open tomorrow at the Hotel Pennsylvania. It will continue through Saturday, when the 23rd annual luncheon of the organization will be held. Wilton A. Barrett, executive secretary of the National Board, will preside at the conference.

The major topic of discussion at the meetings scheduled will be "The Film Equation in People's Lives," with addresses to be made at sessions on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning and afternoon. Numerous film celebrities are expected to attend as guests of the organization at the luncheon on Saturday.

Loew's had been considering the purchase of a small number of theatres in Australia, outside of Brisbane, where the Metro was opened last month, but the deals fell through, it was learned yesterday.

A theatre going up in Sao Paulo, Brazil, will be opened the middle of March and will seat 1,800. The others will seat 1,500. These are under construction in Bombay, India, to open the middle of May; in Milan, Italy, and Amsterdam, Holland, to open the end of the year, and in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Canada Warns Of a Rise in Receiver Tax

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Official warning has been issued by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. that its license fee for operation of a private receiving set in the Dominion will be raised 50 per cent at the close of the present fiscal year, March 31, when operators' licenses are automatically renewable for the next 12 months. Pointing out that the revenue of $2,000,000 in licenses for receiving sets at the rate of $2 per annum is insufficient to make up for the loss in commercial broadcasting returns to maintain the Canadian Government network, the corporation has advised that the fee will be raised to $3 starting with next fiscal year. This amount, it is stated, is still below the impost required by other countries.

In order to bolster revenue, the Canadian corporation recently sold time on the Dominion's network to radio users of the United States at bargain rates for new or extended contracts to the amount of $600,000. These programs already go out over national webs in the States and, accordingly, are already available to Canadian radio listeners. Further, when the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., got under way in September, 1936, it borrowed $500,000 from the Dominion Government which has not been repaid. In spite of this assistance, the company finds itself on the spot because 13 of the 16 hours of daily broadcasting in Canada are non-productive of revenue.

Crisis Seen Near

A crisis is considered imminent because complaints are already being heard from Canadian radio users over the prospective increase in license fees, the lack of improvement in quality of Canadian programs and the increased use of broadcasts from the United States at popular periods each evening. It is significant that the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, made up of industries and other commercial enterprises, will shortly hold a meeting in Ottawa, to discuss the situation and it is expected that a showdown will develop. It is pointed out that less than 100 out of a total of 500 national advertisers in the Dominion are using the radio with any degree of frequency because of the alleged unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Other new stations added to the group carrying the broadcast include WLW, Cincinnati; WLAW, Lawrence, and WGAL, Lancaster.

File Suit Over Picture Use of Hollywood Hotel

Judge Peter Schmuck in N. Y County Supreme Court yesterday se Jan. 25 for a hearing on an application for a temporary injunction in a action brought by Hollywood [illegible]tel Revue, Inc., to restrain Warners [illegible]om the use of "Hollywood Hotel" as the title of its current release. Damages of $50,000 are sought.

The plaintiff contends that the use of the title for the film is "unfair competition" since Hollywood Hotel Revue, a stage show unit, has been showing in theatres for the last year and a half. It bases its claim for damages on the allegation that film theatres which have contractual commitments to play the Warner picture refuse to book the stage show on the ground the titles conflict.

Radio Use a Factor

One of the questions to be decided, according to I. Robert Broder, the plaintiff's attorney, is whether the use of the title is competitive as employed in Campbell Soup's program on CBS and in the stage show, since Warner's contention will be that "Hollywood Hotel Revue" infringes on "Hollywood Hotel," the title of the broadcast. This charge was made in correspondence sent by Warners' counsel to Broder during negotiations preceding the suit.

The plaintiff, on the other hand, contends that radio is not competition to film theatres and the titles, as used on the air and by its unit, are not conflicting.

Warners obtained permission from the Campbell Soup Co. to use the title for its picture, it is revealed in correspondence filed in court. Morris Ebenstein, Warners' attorney, wrote Brody: "The content of our picture will be such that it will be intended to promote the good will and good name of both the Hollywood Hotel in Los Angeles and of the Campbell Soup Co.'s radio program, to the end that the use of this title for our photoplay will result to the general advantage of all parties concerned."

"Hotel" to Go Over Canadian Stations

"Hollywood Hotel" will be heard over the coast-to-coast network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. as well as over CBS beginning with the program of Jan. 28. This new hookup will increase the network for "Hollywood Hotel" to 97 stations. F. Wallis Armstrong is the agency handling the program.

Other committees appointed today were finance and radio, the latter to deal with the problem arising through the broadcasting activities of producers, which the exhibitors complain competes with peak night business.

Heading the Finance Committee was Herman A. Blum, other members being H. M. Richey, Aaron Saperstein, M. A. Rosenberg, Irving Dollinger, Max L. Levenson, Maurice Rubin, M. B. Horwitz and J. B. Fishman.

The Radio Committee will be headed by Irving Dollinger, with Charles H. Olive, Ray Tesch, Arthur Howard and Frank Horning as members.

Sees No Law Enactment

Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., in an affable mood when questioned by MOTION PICTURE DAILY, stated that his report of the Allied meet was that "the minutes will look no different from those of meetings held during the last six years." Asked what he thought of legislation to be introduced at "the propitious time" by Rep. Lyle H. Boren, providing for divorcement of the production distribution and exhibition phases of the industry, the M.P.T.O.A. head gave it "no better chance than any other bills of that kind."

In addition to the election of officers tomorrow's sessions are expected to feature a discussion of the radio competition problem and the presence of members of Congress interested in legislation affecting the industry.

improved in recent weeks as a result of retrenchments and its operations are understood to be in the black. It has a pressing need, however, for finances with which to continue production. The players under contract to G. N. are Tex Ritter, Evelyn Daw and Jimmy Newell.

While E. W. Hammons refused to comment on reports placing him in the picture, it is learned on excellent authority that he fails to take any overtures made on behalf of G. N. seriously. He is negotiating with two major companies for a release of Educational's shorts at the expiration of its contract with 20th Century-Fox next August and is not inclined to discuss any outside deals until Educational's distribution is assured, it is learned.

Master Contract for "Back Rooms" Asked

I. A. T. S. E. officials in Washington are considering proposals for a master contract covering "back room" employes at 31 exchanges which were made by representatives of the distributors after the union had submitted its own recommendations.

The next move is up to the union, either to ask for a revision in the distributors' proposals or for a joint meeting at which the matter will be discussed.

The master contract will cover general conditions for inspectors, shippers and poster clerks throughout the country. Specific conditions and wage scales are to be inserted for each locality as determined in the negotiations which were concluded last August. The local conditions vary. No period has been set for the duration of the agreements, it having been agreed that the time limit will be left open, according to Frank Phelps of Warners, who is representing the distributors.

Informed quarters here are of the opinion that Fairbanks is more than willing to dispose of his interest and probably would prefer to withdraw from all stock ownership, although this is not viewed as a bar to his consideration of part payment in a new preferred stock. Miss Pickford is believed to desire a continuing link with the company, as is Chaplin, who probably would insist upon a continuing releasing agreement with the company.

Canada to Consider Film Bill Protests

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18.—The Provincial Government has agreed to throw its weight behind efforts of producers in Victoria, B. C., to retain their place in the British film market.

Executives of Central Films, Ltd., have informed W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Trade and Commerce, that new British film legislation would remove Canadian films from the existing quotas and confine them to films made in the British Isles or British colonies. Asselstine has agreed to make immediate representations to the Canadian Government, asking the Federal cabinet to bring the matter to the attention of the British Government.

Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 37

(20th Century-Fox)

This issue is an average assemblage of news events. The items are all national. However, there is a lot of pictorial appeal in the material.

The reel opens with spectacular shots of an oil well in Texas going up in flames. The burning liquid is an excellent subject for the camera and the compositions are excellent. There are shorts of two Indian chiefs who visited New York to get a number of relics which, custom has it, will bring water to the "dust bowl." The sailfishing fleet under way at Miami and prize winners at a dog show conclude the News of the Nation department.

Names in the News shows Stanley Reed, the White House parleys on the business recession, Herbert Hoover talking on preparedness and Sonja Henie receiving the cross of St. Olaf. Lew Lehr has a time with The Big Apple done by youngsters on ice skates in Atlantic City. The industry sequence shows a model city made by a native of Racine, Wis. Sport offers the opening of Hialeah, Joe Stripp's baseball school and thrilling ski-jumping at Cary, Ill.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 235

(M-G-M)

There is the usual assortment of news and novelties of national and international appeal in this issue. It is generally satisfactory.

The material includes the return of the honor convicts to the Kirby, Ala., prison. They were given liberty over the holidays. The inspection of prisoners' mattresses in Joliet prison for hidden implements, the political crisis in France, marines and regular army troops leaving for maneuvers in Puerto Rico, Supreme Court appointee Stanley Reed posing with Mrs. Reed, John L. Lewis speaking in front of the White House after a conference with the President and industry leaders and the air crash near Bozeman, Mont. The Woman's Page has some clever material in a female blacksmith and the strange hats conceived by co-eds at the University of Alabama. Sport offers scenes of a mass wrestling match in the south and skiing activities of the Norge Club in Cary, Ill. The last has a number of exciting shots.

(Paramount)

Lacking outstanding news breaks, the week's newsreel grist is routine. Turf interest switches to Miami and the inaugural handicap at Hialeah Park, with shots of War Admiral in training for the feature race and Clocks, a 30-to-1 shot, winning the opener. Another sports event is the international ski championships held in the U. S. for the first time. There are plenty of spills.

Interesting is the slash pine plant shown being dedicated by the Governors of Florida and Georgia, heralding a new paper manufacturing industry. Herbert Hoover speaks on peace while, in contrast, U. S. Marines leave for secret maneuvers in the Caribbean. There are flashes of Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed, nominated for the Supreme Court; sail fishing in a $10,000 anglers' tourney at Miami; the razing of a million dollar dirigible mooring mast at St. Hubert, Quebec.

Skiing is a favorite topic of the newsreels at this time of the year, and for those that like the sport the coverage in this issue will fill the bill Birger Ruud, world champion ski jumper, and his brother, Sigmund, are caught in an exhibition in New Hampshire that has generous action.

Two other Pathe "'exclusives" are the harvesting of ice on the Penobscot River in Maine for next summer's consumption and some fancy pin whacking at the N. Y. bowling tournament. There's also "America's only woman horseshoer" and clips of Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed, who will soon be on the U. S. Supreme Court Bench, Herbert Hoover pleading for peace, troops embarking for naval maneuvers, representatives of capital and labor who conferred with President Roosevelt, and the annual fishing tourney off the Florida coast Pathe gives the routine stuff some distinctive touches.

Winter's handiwork in freezing Niagara Falls and the return of a "sacred rain bundle" to the Indians are picturesque clips highlighting this release. The Indian tribes blamed the Museum of the American Indian's custody of the talisman for the drought and Uncle Sam decided to give it back to the aborigines after 30 years. The grateful redskins presented a 200-year-old buffalo horn in return.

There are also: Solicitor General Reed, who is to be the next Supreme Court justice; the Hialeah Park inaugural handicap at Miami; N. Y. Kennel Club awards to canine champs; U. S. Marines leaving for war maneuvers; Joe DiMaggio's smiling phiz in recognition of his being chosen "player of the year"; six beef heavers in a free-for-all wrestling bout; Miss Palm Beach of 1938 (very shapely); the international ski meet at Cary, Ill.

"Happy Landing"

Hollywood, Jan. 18.—If a producer made a picture just as an excuse for Sonja Henie to don a pair of skates and display her skill, it probably would be sufficient for any showman's purpose. But when, as in "Happy Landing," the producer throws behind Miss Henie an elaborate production with spectacular dancing scenes on skates, a competent "name" supporting cast, catchy melodies and an entertaining yarn of a double romance, with plenty of accent on comedy, the theatre man has something really worth selling.

"Happy Landing" is loaded with popular appeal, its weakness—if such it be—lying in the fact of too great length. The film might have been tightened a bit in spots to considerable advantage, but no audience will complain, if it affords additional opportunity to see Miss Henie on skates. Her superlative grace and speed on the ice is amazing, and is without question the film's and the showman's greatest asset.

Don Ameche, Cesar Romero, Ethel Merman, Wally Vernon and Jean Hersholt are of considerable assistance, with Romero, Vernon and Miss Merman pressing the comedy factor, and under the guidance of Roy Del Ruth, director, extracting a large measure of humor out of it. Romero is slightly awkard as a band leader, but makes up for it in expended energy. Jack Yellen and Sam Pokrass contributed lively and melodic tunes. The highlights are the moments when Sonja touches the ice, with spectacular dance routines on skates behind her.

Ameche pilots the flighty, romantic band leader on a trans-Atlantic flight as his manager, they land in Norway by accident, and meet Miss Henie. She falls for the Romero "line" and follows to New York, where she realizes it is only part of his technique. Ameche befriends her, suddenly discovers her skating ability and she attains skating stardom under his management. Meanwhile Miss Merman conducts an active campaign to capture Romero, Ameche is led to believe Sonja still loves the band leader, and a series of romantic complications, laugh-studded, result in a double marriage.

Running time, 101 minutes. "G."

Mass Entertainment First, Says Steffe

Minneapolis, Jan. 18.—Entertainment that may be distasteful to a smal minority may be exactly what the masses of the people want, W. A Steffes, chief barker of Variety Club told members of the district and municipal benches and members of the City Council at a dinner given in honor of the judges and councilme[illegible]y local theatre men.

Steffes also told the guests that Minneapolis is greatly overseated and that theatre owners objected to the issuance of more theatre licenses until the city had reached a population of at least 600,000. "Grant more licenses and the standards of entertainment will necessarily be lowered," he said. "With additional theatres, many managers will be forced to play pictures of dubious moral value. If anyone really wants to get into the theatre business, there are plenty of theatres that can be bought at a reasonable figure," he insisted.

Demand Brings Cancellation

Only a few days ago, the council, after a spirited session, by a vote of 13 to 12 voted to revoke a license previously granted to H. L. Griffith. Independent exhibitors circuit owners and churches joined in persuading the council to revoke action.

Henry Bank and John Swanson, representing the council, Municipal Judge Fred Wright, Edmund Montgomery and Theodore Hays of the Minnesota Amusement Co., were among the speakers. Former Chief Justice of Minnesota John P. Devaney was toastmaster. Approximately 150 attended the dinner at the Hotel Nicollet.

On Bail for Bango

Lyndhurst, N. J., Jan. 18.—Following the edict of Prosecutor John J. Breslin of Bergen County that theatre games are lotteries, Maurice T. Katz, local theatre manager, was arrested and subsequently released in $500 bail for holding a Bango game.

Nathan Yamins Is Renamed as Allied's Head

Arthur K. Howard Picked As Richey Successor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — Nathan Yamins was reelected president of Allied at today's session of its board of directors here today. The choice came as a surprise, the pre-meeting consensus being that Yamins would decline to serve and would not be drafted again. Abram F. Myers was retained as general counsel and Herman A. Blum remains in the secretary-treasurer post.

Selection of Arthur K. Howard as recording secretary was the only change in the slate of officers. He replaced H. M. Richey.

Approval of the efforts of P. J. Wood to gain an increase in the Federal admissions tax exemption to include 50 cents also was voted by the board.

Paramount's entire roster of theatre partners and operators will convene in Hollywood in the late spring, with home office and studio executives participating in a week of discussions on theatre operations and product requirements, Y. A date for the meeting has not been set, but it will not be held before May 15, and probably as late as the first week in June, Freeman said. A similar conference of the Paramount theatre partners was held in Miami last spring and proved to be of sufficient value to the men to warrant a repetition. The Hollywood meeting is expected to attract about 50 theatre

Korda Denies He Will Start Suit On His U.A. Pact

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Alexander Korda, head of London Films, denied that he has any plans to sue United Artists for alleged misrepresentation in the signing of the original U.A. contract, on his arrival today on the Aquitania from New York.

The producer declared that his relations with United Artists are exactly as they were when he left England to further the deal, since collapsed, whereby he and Samuel Goldwyn were to have acquired control of United Artists.

He indicated that he might produce for other American distributors, and admitted that conversations had been held with Paramount, but declared that nothing has been settled as yet.

Korda stated that London Films production will start in March and that he plans to make 15 films in 1938, three of them in Technicolor. He refused to divulge the source of new financing for production, but indicated that it would be of diverse

New Plant Head May Not Be Named Until Court Reorganization

Leo Spitz, RKO president, will continue in charge of the company's studio as head of its production for an indefinite period, it was learned on excellent authority yesterday.

Three weeks of conferences participated in by heads of the principal financial interests identified with the company decided that, insofar as the studio is concerned, no new production head will be designated at this time and that Spitz would remain in Hollywood in direct charge of the studio indefinitely. Under the plan the company's producer lineup remains as is.

Indications are that Spitz will continue in Hollywood until the company's reorganization is on the verge of completion. At the moment, this appears to be months away. A first general hearing of objections to the RKO reorganization plan by the U. S. District Court here is scheduled for Monday, but a postponement will be sought by reorganization principals at that time. The postponement date has not been decided, but indications are that it will be at least two weeks and, possibly, a month away. A one-month postponement of the first scheduled hearing on the plan was taken late in December.

Moreover, due to the postponements of the reorganization hearing, the coast conferences resulted in no definite

Telephone for Combination

Bradenton, Fla., Jan. 19.—Local thieves reached the height of something or other this week when they telephoned to Manager Harry Botto of the Palace demanding the combination of a safe which they had stolen two nights earlier.

Botto reported to the police that he had found a note on his front porch threatening death and the destruction of his home unless he furnished the combination when a telephone call should come through. The call came and he refused the information.

The safe contained about $1,000, Botto told Sheriff C. J. Hutches.

Weather conditions since last week-end are blamed for reducing grosses to some extent, but have not hurt the stronger attractions appreciably.

was the appointment of Col. H. A. [illegible] to the chairmanship of a legislative committee with Max Levenson, Maurice Rubin and Sidney Samuelson the other members. The statement released declared that Allied's plan of action on Capitol Hill would not be revealed until after further conferences with legislators, but the admission of close cooperation on the part of Myers in preparation of his "divorcement" bill made by Representative Lyle H. Boren made it appear evident that the measure would be concentrated on, with possible revisions before the bill is introduced. Boren conferred with the board this afternoon.

It was learned from the Capitol that Representative Sam Hobbs of Alabama visited the directors this morning and was questioned at length on the chances of passage of his proposal to investigate the film industry.

Several informal conferences were held this evening.

The annual convention will be held at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh, May 17, 18 and 19.

Joint Meeting Idea Dropped–Kuykendall

The refusal of Allied to participate in the joint exhibitor organization conference projected by Harry Brandt, I.T.O.A. president, for the purpose of agreeing upon a trade practice program frustrates the move and brings the proposal to an end, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, said yesterday on his arrival here from Washington.

"A meeting between the I.T.O.A. and the M.P.T.O.A. would be pointless," Kuykendall said. "The M.P.-T.O.A. has its own trade practice program which it developed at great cost of time and effort and has never ceased working for its acceptance by distributors. We are still working for that acceptance and hope eventually to obtain it. There is no point in our abandoning it at this stage without national exhibitor support for an alternative program."

Allied's rejection of the invitation to meet with the other distributor organizations was decided upon at its national directors' meeting in Washington on Tuesday in order to concentrate on "legislative relief" for its members.

Kuykendall will be in New York for about a week.

I.T.O.A. Men Are Surprised

Considerable surprise was expressed by I.T.O.A. officials yesterday that Allied's national board, meeting in Washington, had turned down the projected joint practice conference sponsored by Harry Brandt, I.T.O.A. president.

The local organization's officers fail to understand the rejection in view of the fact that Nathan Yamins, Allied president, had declared himself ready to attend a meeting with Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. head.

men from the field, 15 or more home office executives and studio officials. It is expected that the conferences will afford the theatre men an opportunity of getting the exhibitor viewpoint written into Paramount's 1938-'39 production schedule, which will be in process of planning at that time.

pictures other than through the public printer, has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Thomas (Dem., Okla.). A similar bill was introduced in the House last year by Representative Schulte (Dem., Ind.).

The central agency would be manned by practical film experts, and would not only save the Government money by concentrating all motion picture work at one point, but would give Congress a check on the film publicity activities of the various agencies which it now lacks, it is claimed.

added that "the time has come when the Government's war on business must end and rules for the future safety of business made."

Pettingill's talk indicated that his opinions concerning Federal control of business may have undergone a slight change.

Delay F. H. A. Film Bids

Washington, Jan. 19.—Opening of bids for the production of films on the Government's housing activities, originally set for Jan. 18, was postponed by the Federal Housing Administration today until Jan. 27. The postponement, it was explained, was at the request of film companies which wanted more time to figure costs under the F. H. A. specifications.

Will Rogers Drive To Start April 29

The week beginning Friday, April 29, has been selected by Major L. E. Thompson for the annual Will Rogers National Theatre Week. Arrangements are being completed for the fund-raising campaign in which all theatres in the country will be asked to participate.

Exhibitors will be asked to run a one-reel subject featuring stars from various studios making appeals for the fund, which will be provided without charge, or make a contribution based on seating capacity.

The United States will be grouped into eight zones, with the general sales managers of the eight major companies in command. Zone heads will have as their 100 per cent quota the enrollment of every theatre in the respective territories. A branch manager in each distribution center will be chosen to head the local drive, and he in turn will be responsible to the zone director.

Major Thompson's staff in the campaign will consist of the following general sales managers: W. F. Rodgers, M-G-M; Gradwell L. Sears, Warners; Jules Levy, RKO; A. W. Smith, Jr., U.A.; John D. Clark, 20th Century-Fox; William A. Scully, Universal; Abe Montague, Columbia, and Neil F. Agnew, Paramount.

Harold Rodner of Warners and A. P. Waxman will act as liaison officers.

Pledges of cooperation have been received from the major circuits, including those operated by or affiliated with Paramount, Warners, 20th Century-Fox (Skouras), Loew and RKO.

London, Jan. 19.—The stockholders of Capital and Provincial News Theatres, Ltd., circuit of newsreel houses in England, agreed that the new board of directors should conduct an investigation into the affairs of the company.

The meeting was featured by a stormy discussion of the proposal that a committee of shareholders be appointed to inquire thoroughly into the activities of the company, which was finally resolved with the decision to permit the new directorate to act.

Jack Chertok Entertains

Representatives of the trade press were guests of Jack Chertok, head of M-G-M's short subject department, at a cocktail party at the Sherry Netherlands Hotel yesterday. Chertok will remain here several weeks for production.

progress having been made on the preliminary designation of a board of directors and management for the reorganized company. Members of the initial board of nine are subject to approval by the court and, with no definite reorganization date in view, the necessity for nominating an initial directorate at this time was dissipated.

With the continuing studio arrangement decided upon, Floyd B. Odlum, head of Atlas Corp., and Peter Rathvon, his financial associate, will leave the coast at once and are expected in New York late tomorrow or on Saturday. Andrew Christiansen, RKO trustee's representative, and O. C. Doering, Jr., of trustee's counsel, who have participated in the studio conferences, are remaining in Hollywood for several additional days.

Ned E. Depinet, vice-president and distribution head of RKO, will leave for the coast Friday for conferences with Spitz.

origin. He admitted that additional financing is necessary, and said that he has financing arrangements in mind, but declared that adequate money is available to launch his new production program. The pictures will cost approximately £120,000 each, he said.

He declared that he has invitations to make British films for practically all American distributors. He has no intention of reducing costs, he said, expressing the belief that the only way to reach the American market is to make films for the world market. He said there is no feeling among American audiences against British films, and that the real enemies of successful penetration of the American market are the British producers who send bad British films to the United States.

The first film he plans on his new program will be "Four Feathers," to be followed by a Russian ballet story in color. Others will be an R. C. Sheriff story, titled, "The King's Messenger"; a Robert Sherwood musical, probably with a musical score by Irving Berlin, and "A Bicycle Made for Two."

U. A. Drive May Set Record

The returns on the first two weeks of the United Artists Better Business Drive indicate that sales and rentals are headed for a new all-time high, it was stated yesterday by A. W. Smith, Jr., general sales manager. The drive was launched on Jan. 2 to run for 13 weeks, ending April 2.

Foremost among the reasons for the success of the drive, said Smith, is the wide public acceptance accorded "The Hurricane," which is receiving more playing time than any film previously released by the company.

Mae West, Para. Sued by M. Linder

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—Suit for $1,000,000 was filed today in Superior Court against Mae West and Paramount by Mark Linder, writer, who alleged breach of asserted contract under which he was to have split profits of "She Done Him Wrong," which was made in 1933.

Linder alleged the film "She Done Him Wrong" was taken from his play, "Diamond Lil," which in 1928 was written from his original play, "Chatham Square," produced in 1915. Linder claims that under the alleged agreement Linder and Mae West were to split profits from the picture evenly and that he has information Miss West derived $2,000,000 from the picture.

Darmour Sues 20th-Fox

Larry Darmour, an independent producer, filed suit in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday against 20th Century-Fox to prevent use of the title "The Second Honeymoon" in the recent picture of that name.

The defendant was ordered to show cause today before Justice Peter A. Schmuck why a temporary injunction, pending trial, should not be granted.

Darmour alleged that he obtained the film rights to the novel of that name by Ruby M. Ayres and that his company, Continental Talking Pictures Corp., produced it in 1930. He stated in his affidavit that he protested to 20th Century-Fox in September, when he learned that the title was to be used.

George Seeks Testimony

An examination before trial of Joseph C. Shea, former story editor of 20th Century-Fox, or William C. Michel, executive vice-president, will be sought before Justice Richard P. Lydon in N. Y. Supreme Court today by Crosby George, author, in connection with his $50,000 suit.

George claims that the title of his story, "Little Miss Nobody," which was printed in the Feb., 1931, issue of Modern Romances, was infringed by 20th Century-Fox.

Dolan Wins Court Order

U. S. District Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday ordered that the testimony of Frank Dolan, author of the screenplay for the M-G-M picture "Man of the People"; Lucien Hubbard, producer, and Edwin Marin, director, be taken by deposition before trial in the plagiarism suit brought by Henry Rose, author, against M-G-M.

Orders Depositions for Clancy

An order to take the deposition before trial of Robert Pirosh, George Seaton and George Oppenheimer, authors of the screenplay for "A Day at the Races," Sam Wood, Max Siegal and Groucho, Chico and Harpo Marx, was granted by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in the U. S. District Court here yesterday.

Philip T. Clancy, a playwright, is suing M-G-M and Pirosh for alleged infringement of his play "Nuts to You" in "A Day at the Races."

"Follies" to the Rivoli

"The Goldwyn Follies" will be dated into the Rivoli following the completion of the current run of "The Hurricane." Preparations are being made for a gala opening night celebration.

Hollywood Preview

"Gold Is Where You Find It"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Jan. 19.—This Samuel Bischoff production directed by Michael Curtiz with the throttle wide open for plenty of elbow room jibes nicely with the current upswing in popularity of pictures in the historical manner. Although plentifully supplied with front-line box-office names the film is primarily documentary American. It is done in full color and mostly outdoors, always on a grand scale, and save in Florida, where the chambers of commerce no doubt will charge California propaganda, it ought to do itself proud at the box-office.

The screenplay by Warren Duff and Robert Buckner from the Cosmopolitan serial story by Clements Ripley paints in sweeping strokes on an immense canvas the situation which gripped California in the '70s when agrarian plainsmen rose up against hydraulic miners whose washings swept down the mountain sides to destroy their fertile acres. Claude Rains plays the farmer leader who restrains his comrades from violent action pending a Federal Court decision and George Brent is the honest engineer in love with his daughter but employed by the miners. Violence breaks out and after a deal of shooting Brent saves the situation by blowing up a dam, winning the girl of course. She is Olivia DeHavilland. Others of note in the big cast are John Litel, Tim Holt, Barton MacLane, Sidney Toler, Robert McWade and Russell Simpson.

A novel technical departure is made at the start of the film when an unidentified offscreen narrator sketches the period and the historical background while the camera clicks off accompanying montage. A similar enterprise at the close of the picture is less effective. The material between these is admirably contrived and often spectacular. It includes a number of sweeping exteriors and certain indoor shots in the 'Frisco of the day eliciting audience acclaim on sight.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Everybody Sing"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Jan. 19.—The hilarious adventures of a scatter-brained theatrical family and entourage are detailed in this artful blending of madcap comedy and melodious music. The picture has appeal for all audiences. The elements of entertainment flow easily. Allan Jones, Judy Garland, Fanny Brice, Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, Lynne Carver, Henry Armetta and Reginald Gardiner give finely etched characterizations.

The story, with musical interludes intelligently spotted, tells the plight of Miss Garland, the black sheep of the family, against the background of her dizzy, theatrically-inclined parents, Miss Burke and Owen. Miss Carver as her sister is not quite able to understand what it is all about. She even misunderstands Jones' romantic attentions. He is a cook-singer. Miss Garland joins Jones' troupe preparing a stage show in order to escape a trip to Europe. Her parents at this time are driving each other daffy trying to prepare a play of their own. Preceded by a fake kidnap scare, Miss Burke and Owen are the first to take bows for their child as Jones' glamorous musical which stars Miss Garland proves to be a hit. Miss Brice's consistent comedy during the family squabbles and a specialty in the show is outstanding in the film's many amusing highlights.

Producer Harry Rapf assembled a capable corps of assistants to create and handle the show. The original screenplay is by Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allen Woolf. Leo Arnaud, Murry Cutler and Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby contributed the song numbers. Dave Gould concocted the ensemble dances. Edwin L. Marin directed. The efforts of all proved highly satisfactory to the preview crowd and the showmanship quality which the company put into the film should make the exhibitor's job marketing "Everybody Sing" an easy one.

Tax Change in Louisiana

New Orleans, Jan. 19.—With the abolition of the luxury taxes announced today by Lieutenant Governor Long, it is believed here that the legislature may substitute a straight one per cent levy on film rentals and admissions, untaxed at present. Such a move would make a total of three per cent in this city where a two per cent municipal tax is now in effect.

It is further predicted that the state censor board will charge fees for inspection.

No Ampa Meeting

There will be no Ampa meeting tomorrow, a schedule of open meetings every other Thursday having been inaugurated. A closed membership meeting will be held at intervals on alternate Thursdays, according to present plans, the first one probably to be held on Feb. 3. With the return this week of Ralph Rolan, Ampa president, who has been out of town in connection with RKO business, Ampa officers expect to get together to plan future programs.

Theatre Unions Ask W.P.A. Employment

An effort to have theatrical workers included in the increases in W.P.A. rolls recently authorized by the Administration will be made in Washington today by representatives of more than 20 theatrical workers' unions who are scheduled to meet with Aubrey Williams, assistant to Harry Hopkins, W.P.A. Administrator.

In the group are Burgess Mered[illegible] Actors' Equity president; Frank Gillmore, Four A's president; Fred Marshall, United Scenic Artists; David Freed, Local 802, A. F. M.; Martin Popper, Federal Arts Committee; Kenneth Evergood, Artists' Union, Irving Mendell, Federal Theatre Supervisors; Rita Hassam, Arts Union Conference, and Willis Morgan, City Projects Council. The groups represented are now excluded from the authorized increase in the W.P.A. rolls.

Union Talks Go Over Until Next Tuesday

A meeting between major distributor representatives and spokesmen for the I.A.T.S.E. produced no results yesterday on an agreement for a master contract covering employes in 31 exchange cities. Another conference has been scheduled for next Tuesday. Lou Krouse, assistant president of the union, was detained in Washington and in his stead Richard Walsh, local union official, represented the union with John Gatelee, of New England.

The conferences seek to reconcile the conditions requested by the union and counter-proposals made by the distributors. The master contract will embody general principles for "back room" workers.

N. L. R. B. Hears CBS Controversy With Radio Union

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Counsel for CBS and the American Radio Telegraphers' Association, a C.I.O. affiliate, today presented to the National Labor Relations Board the controversy between the network and the union as to the appropriate bargaining agency for technicians of WABC, New York.

The controversy originated last year, when Columbia, which heretofore had made its union agreements for its stations individually, entered into an agreement for all stations with the Association of Columbia Broadcasting Technicians, alleged to be a company union. In the negotiation of that agreement, the WABC technicians broke away and joined the A.R.T.A.

It was argued by Sidney Cohen, counsel for the A.R.T.A., that Columbia should bargain locally, characterizing the blanket agreement of last year as a "remarkable document" in that it gave a closed shop to a company union, and charging that Columbia had adopted it to strengthen the position of its own union organization.

Rosenblatt Defends Network

On behalf of the network, Sol Rosenblatt declared Columbia had always been willing to negotiate with its employes and had consistently maintained a fair attitude. He explained that prior to last year all of the stations which it owned were separate subsidiary corporations and the unions had insisted that individual contracts be signed so that there might be no technical difficulties, but when they were taken into the parent company the need for separate contracts was eliminated. He charged that the A.R.T.A. deliberately broke off negotiations that were going on under the CBS union auspices.

Broadcasting in Australia Will Undergo Changes

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, Dec. 29. (By Air Mail via London)—Changes in the control of the national broadcasting service are expected as the outcome of an early review of the present system by the Federal Ministry.

Particular attention is expected to be given by the Ministry to the future of the Australian Broadcasting Commission, which now comprises a chairman and four other members. The term of office of the present members will expire in June.

There is a feeling among Ministers that the present system of a commission of five members giving part-time service and receiving a small remuneration is not satisfactory. They are aware that there is at times a difficulty in defining the responsibilities of the commission and of the general manager of the commission, who is a full-time officer.

Suggest Size Reduction

One of the proposals which will be considered is that the size of the commission should be reduced, probably to three members. The remuneration of the three members would then be increased above the present level so that they would be expected to devote more time to broadcasting affairs.

The Ministry is likely to insist that the commission should appoint honorary advisory committees in each state so that it can be kept in touch with public opinion.

Where there are two class A stations in capital cities, the Ministry may ask the commission to consider reserving one station for programs of more popular appeal and the other for programs which might cater to listeners who seek high-class music and drama.

Rees Starts Own Program

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—Barton Rees Pogue, Hoosier poet, featured on the Saturday night program, "Truly American," from WLW, is inaugurating his own program under title of "Baryon Rees Pogue's Scrapbook," from WLW.

New Shows on the Air

"Alias Jimmy Valentine"

"Alias Jimmy Valentine," the redoubtable gentleman thief whose checkered career has provided absorbing relaxation to book readers, film and theatre goers, and more recently to radio listeners via the transcription route, is now a network feature and may be heard Tuesdays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. on the NBC-Blue.

The first installment of the new series proved that Valentine, after all these seasons of popularity, still is an entertaining figure, especiallv as portrayed by Bert Lytell. The latter has played Valentine often and well on the stage, screen and before the mike, so that it is almost second nature with him to make the character not only believable but realistic.

Compactly told, Tuesday's episode showed Valentine as reformed and working in a bank, with marriage in prospect to the bank president's daughter. Following a series of robberies, suspicion fastens on Valentine. To prove his innocence and to bring the thieves to justice, Valentine throws in with the gang, after first warning a pal to call the police at a given hour. Two of the thieves, however, spoil things when, in planning a double cross on their confederates, they call the police themselves. Valentine is thus nabbed with the mob at the scene of a robbery and is unable to convince the police that his presence there is due to a trap laid by him to capture the thieves. Jail again stared Valentine in the face as the episode closed.

Time Appeals Chicago's Ban On Nazi Film

subject, RKO is in no case forcing the subject, it was indicated at the distributor's office yesterday. No official word with respect to a decision not to book the subject had been received, it was said, and none was expected until audience reactions to the reel had been ascertained by circuit officials. The film opened yesterday at the Carthay Circle in Los Angeles, will open today at the Embassy on Broadway and tomorrow at the Golden Gate in San Francisco.

The Music Hall, which usually runs the reel the first week of release, is continuing with the previous issue as long as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will run, in the belief that the German subject would not fit on the program with the feature. RKO, anxious to get the reel on screens, booked it into the Embassy instead, and the Music Hall probably will not play it.

Osserman Handling Case

De Rochemont said yesterday that action with respect to the ban by the Chicago censor was being left in the hands of Jack Osserman, RKO exchange manager there, cooperating with Balaban & Katz officials. An appeal has been taken from the Chicago board's ban. If that fails, March of Time will step in, De Rochemont said, and probably institute legal action seeking a reversal of the board's decision.

Lieut. Joseph Healy, acting head of the police censor board in Chicago, said yesterday, "I expected protests might result from the ban on the picture, so I called in an expert on that sort of film. I called in Lieut. Mike Mills of the bomb squad. He said he thought the showing of such a picture would have an ill effect."

Since the board was unanimous in its decision, a permit now must come from Police Commissioner James Allman.

Ban Illegality Claimed

The Chicago Civil Liberties Committee has taken action to have the film released, and is seeking permission to ask for an injunction to force showing of the film, which had been scheduled for showing in the Loop on Friday. The organization claims the ban is illegal.

The Chicago Times is leading a protest against the banning of the film. It is understood a protest meeting of civic groups, led by the newspaper, has been called for today, at which a screening will be held, such a screening being permissible as a "private" showing.

De Rochemont's statement of yesterday, answering that of Dr. Hans Borchers, German Consul General here, declared that Dr. Draeger of the political department of the consulate was invited to see the issue. In his place appeared Dr. Georg F. Krause-Wichmann, German Vice-Consul, who, after seeing the reel, said that it was in error in saying that Nazi propaganda extended outside Germany, and that the presentation should be changed in several other particulars, especially in reference to the Nazi anti-church campaign.

Later, according to De Rochemont's statement, Dr. Borchers called, stated that he had seen Krause-Wichmann's report, and that "there were changes to make." After March of Time declared it would make no changes, having established the alleged "errors" to be authenticated news facts, Dr. Borchers advised that the vice-consul's visit was "in an unofficial capacity" and later issued a statement charging the producers with "deliberate misrepresentation," in saying changes had been asked.

De Rochemont said yesterday he had received no word of any kind from the German consulate officials yesterday, and nothing was forthcoming from the German embassy in Washington with regard to the production.

Seamen Would Extend Picketing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The National Maritime Union of America today sought the support of the C.I.O. in a proposed national picketing of March of Time's film showing pictures of the Merchant Marine, and officials of the Lewis organization said they would aid the union in its effort, but did not disclose what steps they would take to signify their objection to the picture.

Maritime union officials said the picture was "unfair" and did not show conditions as they actually exist.

Earle Asks Advice Upon Foreign Films

HARRISBURG, Jan. 19.—Gov. George H. Earle is studying the problem of adopting an official attitude toward exhibition of foreign films in Pennsylvania, but has reached no decisions, he told 40 newspaper executives at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association here. He asked publishers to advise him what to do about it.

"When I make a decision on any important policy," he said, "I usually adhere to it, but I frankly admit that I have been unable to reach a decision on foreign-made films which may be reeking with harmful Fascisti or Communist propaganda. It is very difficult to detect, because censorship of a free press and free speech in such countries as Germany and Russia makes it impossible for us in America to know the truth about their affairs."

Garbo's Next to Be Comedy, Says Hyman

Garbo's next for M-G-M will be a comedy, much lighter in vein than her recent vehicles, Bernard H. Hyman, who will produce the film, said yesterday on arrival from a European vacation on the Berengaria.

Hyman, who made "Conquest," Garbo's latest, worked on the script with Charles MacArthur, while en route to Europe. MacArthur returned Christmas, while Hyman, with Mrs. Hyman, continued on a three-month tour, visiting London, Paris, Italy, Budapest, Greece and Palestine.

The Hymans will remain here a day or two before returning to the coast. Their arrival was delayed 24 hours or more when the ship ran into stormy weather.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The distribution ranch of the French film industry de- ded yesterday to join with the exhib- ors in their determination to close ll the film houses in the country if ne Government does not relax the roposed new theatre tax law, which ne industry considers will force the osing of many theatres.

The new law, which was passed by he Chamber of Deputies recently and scheduled to become effective on eb. 2, reduces the state tax by 25 er cent on film houses which play audeville and have orchestras, but ncreases the same tax by 25 per cent n film houses not using vaudeville nd orchestras, whose monthly re- eipts exceed $6,700.

Chicago Lifts Ban on Time's Reel on Nazis

Warners Not Booking It; Other Circuits Wait

The Chicago board of censors yesterday reversed its decision to ban the latest issue of March of Time, "Inside Nazi Germany—1938."

The decision to permit the reel to be shown in Chicago theatres was taken at a special meeting of the Chicago censor board, after a storm of public protest, led by the Chicago Times, had followed immediately upon the decision of the board, which is under police jurisdiction, to ban the reel.

Meanwhile, March of Time had dispatched an attorney connected with the law firm of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine and Wood to Chicago

Fish New Division Head for G. Natl.

Bradley Fish, San Francisco exchange manager for Grand National, has been appointed division manager on the coast with headquarters in the same city, and for the time being will continue also to handle that branch, the company's home office said yesterday.

Fish succeeds Mel Hulling, who resigned to take a part interest in the Monogram franchise held on the coast by Howard Stubbins and Ray Olmstead. Hulling will make San Francisco his headquarters, while Stubbins and Olmstead will continue in the Los Angeles office.

Freeman, Jr., Starts

Y. Frank Freeman, Jr., husky 22-year-old son of the Paramount theatre chieftain, has begun a four-months course of instruction in all phases of theatre work under the tutelage of the New York office.

Payless, he is working only to acquaint himself with theatre routine before deciding whether to make a career of it. This was insisted upon by Freeman, Sr., who also recommended starting at the bottom. The neophyte's first assignment is doorman at the New York Paramount.

Trans-Lux Has Plans for 25 New Theatres

Trans-Lux plans to open about 25 theatres in the next 12 months, authorization having been made recently by the board of directors.

The company is planning a unit in downtown Manhattan and is seriously considering a theatre in Newark as well as Chicago and San Francisco, it is learned. The Trans-Lux in Boston which is being converted from the Hub, recently taken over from Loew's, and another to be built in Cleveland, are scheduled for opening around March 1.

The company decided to proceed with expansion because its present houses, all showing newsreels and shorts, are doing well. The only bad experience Trans-Lux has had has been in Brooklyn, according to a company spokesman, and there the house

Service of Moskowitz Guests With Loew Totals 435 Years

Four hundred and thirty-five years of service with Loew's, Inc., and predecessor companies were represented by 22 executives at a luncheon to C. C. Moskowitz, vice-president, at the Hotel Astor yesterday in observance of his 25 years with the company.

The gathering was informal, made gay by the ribbing that went back and forth across the table, in which the chief participants were David Bernstein and Si Seadler. Bernstein also took occasion to remark on the company's stability through the years and that "Loew's never lost an executive," the exception being, of course, Joseph M. Schenck, who left Loew Theatrical Enterprises years ago to organize his own business.

The guests wore white carnations, which grace Moskowitz's buttonhole every day, in respect to the guest of honor. The length of service of the men present ranged from 12 to 33 years, in addition to two "youngsters," Oscar A. Doob, who has been with the company eight years, and Herbert Pettey of WHN, whose tenure has been two years.

The "old timers" present have av-

Para. to Ask Injunction in North Dakota

"Divorce" Hearing Will Be Asked by Feb. 15

An application for a temporary injunction to restrain the state of North Dakota from enforcing its circuit theatre "divorce" law, which is scheduled to become effective on March 15 will be made by Paramount at Fargo on or about Feb. 1, it was learned yesterday. A hearing on the application is expected to be had about Feb. 15.

A court decision on the temporary injunction, which is to be sought in order to stay the enforcement of the law pending the outcome of the suit to test the constitutionality of the "divorce" measure, is expected within one week following the mid-February hearing.

Legal papers petitioning the interlocutory injunction may be completed today or tomorrow by Paramount's New York attorneys and will be taken to St. Paul by Joseph W. Finley, resident attorney there for the company, who is in New York conferring on the application papers. Finley will leave on Sunday or Monday.

"Snow White" Gets $108,000 1st Week

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" grossed $108,000 in its first week at the Music Hall. On the basis of current business, the picture may go three weeks, according to Gus Eyssell of the theatre's executive management.

Eyssell said the report that ticket speculators had secured large blocks of reserved seats and were asking as high as $5 for them was not true, but the advance sale is heavy.

"In Old Chicago," in its second week of the two-a-day run at the Astor, netted $17,546. 20th Century-Fox considers this very good considering the bad weather of the last few days.

"Man-Proof" grossed $26,000 at the Capitol, while the Rialto did $7,000, an average business, with "Spy Ring."

DeMille in Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Cecil B. DeMille arrived here today for a luncheon at the Blackstone Hotel and made a personal appearance at the Chicago tonight at the opening of "The Buccaneer." William Pine, Akim Tamiroff and Margot Grahame accompanied him.

Insiders' Outlook

By A-MIKE VOGEL

A PROBLEM that confronts the Music Hall on "Snow White" is that patrons refuse to leave after they have sat through one showing. That goes for the grownups as well as the juveniles. Children obviously are fascinated by the entertainment and see no reason why they should not be allowed to view it again. The youngsters refuse to leave. Their elders stand by, it appears, not unwillingly. The situation is one to consider, as those with an eye to the boxoffice will tell you.

Thus exhibitors who have booked the attraction are now studying what to do about it. A number of plans are presented.

Among these is an increase in children's prices, a cause of deep debate on the part of those disinclined to disturb their boxoffice scale for one engagement. Another plan would raise children's admissions to the adult minimum prices. Further suggestion is to hold special shows at usual prices for the youngsters during certain morning hours. RKO has wisely kept out of it, preferring that exhibitors make their own decisions.

Considering the strength and importance of "Snow White," this reporter sees no reason why theatremen should hesitate to protect themselves against "attendance jams" on further dates the picture will bring about.

Twice in a row is too much. The banning of "March of Time" from public showings by the Chicago forces of law and order was a call for action, and action was immediately forthcoming. The ban was lifted last night.

Some months back, the Chicago police department ordered elimination of certain strike pictures from a Paramount newsreel. Within a week the action was rescinded but not before indignation lifted from many quarters. Whether or not theatres will play the subject is a matter of individual policy. At this writing, there is no general agreement. But there should be agreement that all industry forces combine to bring to a quick stop the over-reaching Chicago police attempt to dictate what newsreel material shall be shown on Chicago screens.

With the return here of Harry M. Warner and S. Charles Einfeld, it is established that the Great Trek to Hollywood by the industry's New York offices, is not immediate. There will be some balancing of the Warner publicity forces by a personnel move to the coast, but Mr. Einfeld will continue to divide his time between the business and production headquarters.

Executives of major companies in New York see no reason for any such resettlement of the industry. There might have been more reason for the change before New York became the financial center of the world, the sales center of the business; before Hollywood and New York were a plane sleeper-jump apart and the journey between the two points an accepted routine.

For the best interests of the industry, it can be accepted that the distance between production and other branches is not too far.

While not always in accord with the editor of Motion Picture Herald, Terry Ramsaye's approval of the move to send C. B. DeMille to the United States Senate is hereby seconded.

Mr. DeMille is a long time and well thought of citizen of California. His concern with civic projects indicates an ability to deal adequately with Federal problems. His knowledge of motion pictures fully qualifies the Paramount producer to stand by in the industry's behalf on Capitol Hill.

Andrew Miller of Fargo, who is con[illegible]escing in Florida, Finley will be obliged to obtain a Federal judge from the St. Paul district to accompany him to Fargo to hear the application.

Paramount is the only company having theatre affiliations in North Dakota, and with its operating subsidiaries, Minnesota and American Amusement companies of Minneapolis, it is the only company affected by the law. Its suit to test the constitutionality of the statute was filed in Fargo recently and will be heard by a special statutory court of three Federal judges probably in the late spring. Paramount's immediate move is designed to prevent enforcement of the law until its constitutionality has been determined.

Michel's Testimony Sought Before Trial

Bruce Gould, scenario writer, will ask N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon today for an examination before trial of W. C. Michel, executive vice-president of 20th Century - Fox Film Corp., in connection with his $30,000 infringement suit against 20th Century - Fox, Adela Rogers St. John, NEA Service, Inc., and the New York World-Telegram.

Gould alleges that he sold the film rights to his unpublished story, "Reunion," and that the contract provided for novelization for fan magazines and publicity purposes. However, according to the complaint, 20th Century - Fox engaged Miss St. John to novelize the story and it subsequently appeared as a syndicated article in the World-Telegram.

Gould contends that the contract did not provide for such publication. 20th Century - Fox filed an answer in which it set forth that the story was published as part of a publicity campaign.

Quittner Son Heard In Anti-Trust Case

The deposition of Joseph Quittner, attorney and son of the late Edward Quittner, former Middletown, N. Y., theatre operator, was taken here yesterday for the anti-trust action brought by Morse & Rothenberg, Boston independent circuit, against major distributors, the Maine & New Hampshire and M. A. Shea circuits. The suit charges inability to obtain product for the plaintiff's houses.

Quittner recounted details of his father's product buying difficulties of the late 1920's, which ended in an anti-trust action being filed against Paramount. The case was ultimately decided in Paramount's favor. Quittner was the only witness to appear before the attorneys in the Morse & Rothenberg case who have been here all week on legal work preliminary to actual trial of the case in Federal court at Boston at some later date.

The local sessions were adjourned yesterday until some time in February, a definite date not having been set.

Kuykendall is not scheduled to speak before the committee and is attending the hearings primarily as an observer. He is expected back in New York the first of next week.

Eddie Dowling, stage producer, will argue against an increase in the tax exemption level on behalf of the legitimate theatre. The committee's schedule may delay hearing of the theatre men until tomorrow or Monday, it was learned.

Management of the publicity department will be transferred immediately and S. Charles Einfeld, publicity and advertising head, who returned with Warner and acted as his spokesman at Grand Central Station, said that he, too, would spend half of each year in the west.

Warner said he would be in New York five weeks. He was accompanied by Mrs. Warner and Sam Schneider, his assistant.

Albert Warner is due to return from Florida on Monday for home office conferences.

Steffes Replies to Sears on Giveaways

Minneapolis, Jan. 20.—Gradwell Sears' recent criticisms of giveaways and prize games and his call for a return to showmanship drew a sharp retort from Al Steffes today. If it had not been for certain bad pictures, he said, giveaways, country store and turkey nights would not be necessary to draw business to theatres.

"The double feature menace is ten times as bad as giveaways and I will certainly recommend at our coming convention that no theatre in this territory play any Warner pictures giveaway nights, especially if they have bought them on percentage."

Hollywood Preview

"Girls on Probation"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—A story of a child who appears incorrigible, but whose apparent fault really is the result of complete neglect by her wealthy and "too busy" parents, "Girls on Probation" is unpretentious screen fare, but produced with care and actually is effective. It is not too obvious in the pointing of its lesson that children require parental understanding and continual help.

Despite top billing to Dolores Costello, the leading role is taken by young Bonita Granville, who plays an ill-tempered child with skill. In support are Natalie Moorehead as the mother; Donald Crisp as the father, and Donald Briggs as the family secretary, who alone realizes that the fault lies with the parents and not the child, and who finds romance with Miss Costello, superintendent of the girls' school to which the child is sent.

Arthur Lubin, who directed, permitted the child to carry the burden of the work, and she handles it quite capably. Left entirely alone, the child rebels, and when she causes the family butler to crash into another car, when he is carrying her back from one of her frequent attempts at escape, a man is killed. She is sent to the school, where her rebellious nature and feeling that the world is against her is gradually broken down under the skillful tactics of Miss Costello. Eventually, when her mother is ill, she is reunited with her parents.

"Generals Without Buttons"

(Mayer-Burstyn)

The little cinema and houses where French film enthusiasts are to be found will probably do well with "Generals Without Buttons." It is one of those French importations that are agreeably different in narrative and generally good entertainment.

The action is set in two provincial French towns. A prologue in English sets the stage and the ensuing story is a satirical treatment of the foibles and petty hatreds of simple country folk. The English subtitling makes the Gallic wit understandable.

The villages of Longeverne and Valrans have been carrying on a minor and rather harmless feud through the centuries. The film takes up its thread in the present day strife which is kept alive by young school children. They engage in battle and strip the buttons from the clothes of the conquered. This goes on with various twists. The problem comes to a head when the leader of one faction is stripped of his pants. The mayors of both towns and also the faculties of the schools decide to do something. They arrange a big dinner for the combined populations. The affair is carried off well until the peasants discuss the weather. The old feud starts again, with the elders brawling in the square.

The photography is excellent. Jacques Daroy directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

"Saleslady"

(Monogram)

Falling into the B classification by reason of story development, cast and performances, "Saleslady" probably will prove reasonably satisfactory to the lesser spot on the theatre program.

Anne Nagel plays the lead as the wealthy girl who leaves her grandfather's home, he being the head of a mattress factory, to seek a job and a husband who will "love her for herself alone," and not for her money. Weldon Heyburn, who bears a physical resemblance—but no other—to Clark Gable, is the young man she meets in her job.

They fall in love and are married, but she does not reveal her real identity or the extent of her pocketbook. They are happy, but Heyburn buys a great deal of furniture on the installment plan, leaves his job for a venture which proves unsuccessful, and as a last resort, she insists that they go to her grandfather' home. He rebels at a ready-made executive job and returns to town alone.

All too accidentally—and that is the basic fault with most of the situations—he meets a manufacturer of mattresses, and with him builds real competition for his wife's grandfather. She returns to town to find him successful and the two factories are merged for general happiness.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Twenty Girls and a Band"

(RKO)

Nick Stuart and his band, Betty Jane Rhodes, and a bevy of charmers give this musical fresh and youthful entertainment values. It is simple musical comedy stuff, but the audience could find it diverting. Stuart and his orchestra make a date to play at a dance in a girls' school. A house rule forbids men around the place. They dress as girls and carry on tunefully. The dean attempts to make it hard by dismissing the bus that would take them back to a night club in time to broadcast. They circumvent this by hitch hiking. Miss Rhodes sings delightfully. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Paramount Pictorial P 7-6"

(Paramount)

A tastefully arranged and presented trio of interesting subjects is offered here. There are scenes of new buildings in Washington, a cave in Arizona where the atmosphere turns various objects to stone and a vividly filmed bit on greyhound racing. The last easily outshines the others. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Schlesinger Quitting Brings Capra Rebuke

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—Leon Schlesinger, cartoon producer, who resigned from the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences because of his dissatisfaction with the method of permitting entries in the cartoon awards divisions, today drew a sharp rebuke from Frank Capra, president of the Academy, who discloses that Schlesinger took part in the setting of the awards rules by a vote of 17 for and two against the set procedure.

Schlesinger objected to the rules which permit producers to enter one short for each series they made. Schlesinger produces two series of Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies. Walt Disney under the rules is permitted four entrants when Donald Ducks and Pluto shorts are designated as individual series in addition to Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphonies. Schlesinger's Looney Tunes are in black and white and he declared no black-white product could fairly compete with color product in competition and his request to submit two Merrie Melodies was turned down.

Letter Details Procedure

Capra, in a letter to the producer, said, "Problems of defining the production series involved not only cartoons but also one and two-reel subjects. It was discussed for nearly two hours before a vote was taken. You took part in both discussion and vote. The vote by secret ballot of short subject producers was decided seventeen to two against your interpretation of the rules. It was assumed that this settled the matter and the meeting went on to other business in which you also took part. The Academy has done everything possible in this case to maintain good feeling and if, under these circumstances, you wish to resign there is no alternative but accept your resignation."

"En Saga"

(Gustave Schwab)

There are many moments of stirring drama among primitive peoples and a fresh treatment of a rather standard theme in this Swedish production. It was produced by Nordisk Films in Lapland and is said to be the first picture to be made in that country. The dialogue is in Swedish and there are English titles. The direction and editing along with the performances are in good European style. It is a suitable film for the art cinemas and where there is a Swedish patronage.

The story is played against beautiful outdoor scenery. A baby girl of Swedish parents is lost when her parents are attacked by wolves. She is found and brought up by a wealthy Lap family as their child. Eventually she is lovelessly betrothed to a young Lap and their marriage date is set. But she meets and falls in love with the son of a minister who is of her race. The night before her marriage she attempts to run off with her lover, but he is attacked by wolves and injured. Thinking he has failed her, the girl, Laila, resigns herself to a Lap husband. But her guardian, Jampo, finds the minister's son and brings him in. The tangled state of affairs is soon settled, Laila's identity is revealed and she marries the man of her choice.

The role of Laila is played by Aino Taube, who has Hollywood possibilities. It is based on a novel by Jon Friis. George Schneevoight directed.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Future Unpromising For Austrian Trade

By HANS LORANT

VIENNA, Jan. 8.—With no change in the situation with respect to the German market, and small hope of establishing a substantial domestic production industry, the Austrian film situation in 1937 showed little more promise than a year ago.

Under the German regulation—and the German market is the only outlet for Austrian-produced films—only 14 features may be imported into Germany each season, they must conform to German Aryan regulations, and the Austrian producer receives only 50 per cent of his money, the rest having to be spent in Germany.

The 14 films yearly are not enough to keep the three Austrian studios, Selenophon and two Tobis Sascha plants, busy throughout the year. The studios have been closed for several months. Ten of the 14 for 1938 are already completed and the others are in work now. Attempts during the past year to clarify the German situation were fruitless.

Austrian producers are willing to produce without the German market only if the Government will guarantee financing, but there seems little likelihood of that development. There has been little change with respect to foreign product. A total of 160 American, 130 German and about 15 French films were imported last year, but the American product did not yield particularly satisfactory results. The audience for American product is limited largely to patrons of the de luxe Vienna houses. There has been a decided increase in the number of French films imported.

American Releases 61% of Danish Total

By KRIS WINTHER

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 8.—A total of 193 American pictures were released in Denmark during the past season, accounting for 61 per cent of the total number of features released, which amounted to 316, as compared to 336 during the previous season..

More competition from Danish producers is anticipated this season, as is indicated by the fact that eight domestic films have been released thus far this season, comparing with nine in the entire 1936-'37 season. At least 10 more are scheduled for the rest of the current season.

There are at present six Danish producing companies in operation. A total of 13 new houses are in the course of construction or are planned for the near future. Four will be first run theatres. During the past season there has been a marked decline in public interest in both French and German product, which for a time enjoyed considerable popularity here.

Return of Ontario Tax Is Discounted

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—The menace of a reintroduction in the amusements tax for theatres in Ontario has been removed, in the opinion of the trade, by the abolishment by Premier M. F. Hepburn of the post of director of the amusements revenue branch of the Provincial Treasurer's Department. With the elimination of this position and the transfer of the incumbent, R. C. Buckley, to the Attorney General's Department as associate accountant, the reason given was that the abolishment of the amusements tax in Ontario last summer had made the office no longer necessary.

The duties of chief inspector of theatres have been assigned to O. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the Ontario censor board, and various officials of the inspecting staff are being placed under the jurisdiction of the chief censor.

to take such action as he deemed advisable to bring about the lifting of the ban. The Pennsylvania state board of censors had already approved the film.

Warners definitely decided yesterday that they would not book the release in any of their theatres over the country.

It was said at the theatre department that the reel, which reveals the operations of the Nazi propaganda machine and the regimentation of German citizens, is "too controversial" to be played in the circuit's theatres. Approximately 275 Warner theatres, which normally play March of Time releases, will be without this issue of the reel as a result.

Warners was the only circuit to take a definite stand. The others remained non-committal. At RKO it was said the reel will not be available to the circuit for several weeks, in any case, and that no decision has been made as yet. The Skouras office pointed out that in the metropolitan area the circuit plays subsequent to Loew's and RKO in all situations, and therefore the lead of those two major circuits probably will be followed in deciding whether or not to play the reel.

Loew's Undecided

Loew's declared the matter has not been decided, but may be today, and at Paramount it was said that such decisions are entirely up to individual Paramount theatre partners in the various territories.

The German consulate in San Francisco yesterday registered official protest against the March of Time reel, which is showing at the Golden Gate there.

Fritz Kuhn, head of the German American Bund, whose activities in this country are portrayed in the reel, has declared that he is conferring with attorneys with a possible view to filing actions for an injunction against the showing of the film and to seek damages.

Reel Banned in N. O.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 38

There is a high note of tragedy and timely news interest in the most effective clip in this issue of the reel, the stark ruins of the Quebec boys' school, in which approximately 50 lost their lives. The camera work is highly effective, indicating the complete ruin of the building and picturing the rescue workers digging in the wreckage.

For the rest the reel is little out of the routine, leading with the enrollment of President Roosevelt in the drive on infantile paralysis, and the promise of stars of the entertainment world to help, as voiced by Eddie Cantor. "Royalty in the News" pictures the wedding of Prince Paul of Greece and a granddaughter of the ex-Kaiser, young Peter II of Yugoslavia engaged in an annual Christmas ceremony, and Nicholas of Rumania.

The fashion department is cleverly handled in conversational style between Lowell Thomas and a feminine commentator in a discussion of men's styles, engagingly handled. Lew Lehr, viewing the usual bathing girls at a southern grapefruit fiesta, is amusing as always. The sporting division moves from fast ice-boat racing on a lake in Maine, to youngsters in the Alps having their skiing lessons at school, and ending with an Australian adaptation of the surf board, with exhilarating results, to judge by the participants.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

Paramount News

Number 49

(Paramount)

Acceptable but otherwise average screen journalism is furnished in this issue. It's the usual assemblage of fires, the President's activities, sport, invention, a news-personality and a bit on the Navy's recent flight to Hawaii.

The nine items in the makeup include iceboating in Maine, the fire at a school in St. Hyacinthe, Que.; a baseball school in Orlando, Fla.; the President and Mrs. Roosevelt opening the infantile paralysis drive, the testing of a life-saving device in Miami, winter scenes at the Detroit Zoo, the flight to Hawaii and a burlesqued golf match in Del Mar, Cal., in which Bob Burns, Bing Crosby, Lawson Little, Guy Kibbee and an unnamed Scotchman play. The personality mentioned before is the youth who was adopted by a Chinese and brought up in Canton. He does not speak English and after being photographed at the railroad terminal and in his foster-father's shop he says a brief piece in Chinese. It is novel but it seems artificial and stagy.

Running time, 9 mins. P.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 236

(M-G-M)

In no wise extraordinary, this reel manages to maintain a reasonable degree of general interest, by reason of diversification of material. Good camera reporting has gone into the clip on the Quebec fire which gutted a boys' school and cost nearly 50 lives, showing clearly the complete destruction of the building and the search for bodies in sub-zero weather.

President Roosevelt's enrollment in the infantile paralysis campaign is pictured, and Mrs. Roosevelt is seen on a visit to the children in a paralysis ward of a Washington hospital. The overseas news shows the arrival of a new Italian viceroy in Ethiopia, amid expected pageantry, and the tribute of French war veterans to their hero, the one-armed General Gouraud.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 53

(RKO)

Shots of the Sacred Heart College fire at St. Hyacinthe, Que., which took the lives of many pupils and instructors occupies the feature spot in this release.

Other material consists of the award of the Poor Richard Club's gold medal of achievement to Will H. Hays at Philadelphia; the War Department's new type dredge in operation in New York harbor; machine instruction in reading demonstrated at N. Y. U.; a gift day for traffic cops in Rome; a visit by Mrs. Roosevelt to the Langdon School for Infantile Paralysis victims: the marriage of a midget to an Amazon, probably with the intention of publicizing Miami Beach; the return of an American-born youth to his Chinese foster-father in New York, and Benny Goodman's swing band in a concert at Carnegie Hall.

The subjects, although numerous, are not of much moment, but with each cut to a minimum footage none is on the screen long enough to weary a paying customer. The net impression, in fact, is one of variety, however inconsequential.

Running time, 8 minutes. K.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 634

(Universal)

Average material is lucidly presented, interesting and diversified. The subjects range from the tragic to the mildly amusing.

The recent fire in St. Hyacinthe opens the reel. The shots made by Associated Screen News give glimpses of ruined buildings, smoking ruins and the recovery of bodies. The President signs with an organization that combats infantile paralysis and Mrs. Roosevelt is seen visiting disease-crippled children. Cameraman Smith filmed a number of excellent iceboating shots at Damariscotte, Me. Will Hays is seen at the Poor Richard Club, the occasion being the presentation of a gold medal for his work in the film industry. A rail-testing machine is shown in work. The capture of the Ross kidnapper is documented with stills and shots of the Santa Anita racetrack and J. Edgar Hoover. In Miami an Olympic diving champion shows his stuff by diving at a target. This clip has a number of interesting angle shots. Also at the winter resort a new life-saving belt is demonstrated by a number of attractive girls. The reel concludes with scenes of the opening of a new ski-bowl at Hyak, Wash.

Columbus Stations In Union Contract

COLUMBUS, Jan. 20.—Approximately $23,000 annually for the next two years will be paid union staff musicians by the three local radio stations under contract with Local 103, as part of the nation wide settlement agreement between the A. F. of M. and network affiliated stations.

The scale is $7 per hour of commercial or sustaining broadcasting; $5 per half-hour and $3 per quarter-hour, with double pay for the leader. All musicians required by stations in addition to their staff men will be paid on this scale.

The total annual expenditure of each station for live music is based on a rate of five and one-half per cent of the station's gross business in 1937. WBNS will employ 11 men with a total expenditure of approximately $15,000 a year, WHKC, four musicians at a total of $5,300, and WCOL, three men at $2,700. WCOL is employing staff musicians.

Warner Calls 'Time' Issue Pro-Nazi; Reel in Denial

Harry M. Warner, president of Warners, characterized the March of Time release, "Inside Nazi Germany—1938," as "pro-Nazi propaganda," in a statement yesterday explaining why the Warner theatres had refused to book the release in the circuit. He declared, "We do not intend to make our screens a medium for the dissemination of propaganda for Germany, no matter how thinly veiled that purpose may be."

Shortly following the issuing of the Warner statement, Time, Inc., through Louis de Rochemont, producer of March of Time, replied with a denial of the Warner charges, pointing out not only that the reel has been recommended by notable personages prominent for their opposition to Nazi doctrines but also that various German consuls have requested that it be withdrawn from exhibition.

Warner in his statement said:

"Considerable confusion among public and press appears to have followed our action in not showing 'Inside Nazi Germany—1938,' the current issue of March of Time. At the time our decision was made it did not seem necessary for us to make any explanation, but since we have been asked for our reasons we feel no hesitancy in making our position clear.

Review Board Hits Political Censoring

A resolution condemning political censorship in all its forms was adopted without a dissenting vote at the second day's sessions of the 14th annual conference of the National Board of Review at the Hotel Pennsylvania. In previous years it has happened that such resolutions have met with some opposition. Between 350 and 400 attended yesterday's meetings.

The conference decided to take under advisement a proposal for a "national motion picture week" proposed by Mrs. Richard M. McClure, head of the Better Films Council of Chicago and formerly film chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It is her thought that this would be sponsored by local film groups, similar to National Book Week.

Allied Legal Group In Talks at Capitol

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Members of the legislative committee appointed yesterday at the board meeting of Allied States today spent most of their time at the Capitol, conferring with friendly members of Congress, among them Majority Leader Rayburn of Texas.

Following the Capitol meetings, the committee went to the Department of Justice where they had an interview of more than an hour's duration with Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, in charge of the anti-trust division.

Members of the committee are now returning to their homes but are expected to come back to Washington in about two weeks for further consideration of the legislation which the board yesterday determined to frame for introduction in Congress.

RKO Circuit Takes March of Time Reel

The RKO circuit yesterday decided to book the controversial March of Time release, "Inside Nazi Germany—1938," into the entire circuit. It will open in the RKO houses in the metropolitan area probably on Tuesday. Out of town it opened yesterday at the RKO Boston and in the circuit's theatre in Washington.

Other circuits were expected to use the film. It was pointed out at Loew's that the circuit does not generally run the March of Time releases in any but a few situations, and that the circuit's houses are for the most competitive to those of RKO, which takes the reel.

The Embassy on Broadway, where the reel opened Thursday, reported stand-out business at all performances yesterday. There were a few fist fights

Chertok Discussing Justice Dep't Films

Production of films dealing with the activities of the U. S. Department of Justice is the subject of current conferences in Washington between Jack Chertok, head of M-G-M shorts production, and department officials.

Chertok, who arrived earlier this week from the coast, went to the capital yesterday at the request of the department, which has been in correspondence with him for some time about production possibilities. The department has no film unit, as some other Government departments have, and depends on the industry to dramatize its doings.

Robert Benchley accompanied Chertok to Washington for script conferences on Benchley's next, which will deal with the intricacies of the income tax. Another Benchley subject to be made in New York is "How to Entertain a Blind Date." The scheduled short on "How to Raise a Baby" may not be made.

Chertok is due to return here by Tuesday.

Australia Outlook Is Bright for '38

By CLIFF HOLT

Sydney, Dec. 30 (By Air Mail via ndon).—Distributors, circuits and dependent prospects for 1938 instills thing but the greatest confidence. nployment has returned to pre-desion levels and taxation has been stantially reduced. Building acity is widespread and savings and mmercial banks are reporting recd figures, all of which is clearly dicative of excellent film business.

Theatre owners are looking forard to a big year in 1938, with every dication that the current prosperity end in Australia will be maintained.

The spirit of optimism concerning e prospects for 1938 is uniformly rerated by the managers in Australia the major American distributing mpanies.

The most important development of e year, potentially, for American mpanies was the recent passage in ew South Wales of legislation lowing the quota percentage to three r cent, but tightening the law with e elimination of all loopholes. The ssibility exists that similar legislaon may be enacted by other states in e Commonwealth. Likewise the imnding break between Hoyts and reater Union Theatres, the two leadg circuits in the country, throws e theatre situation wide open in ustralia.

Threaten Closing on Planned Polish Tax

Warsaw, Jan. 21.—American disibution interests here have threatied to close their offices and disconnue the importation of pictures if a roposed levy on foreign product is acted.

There has been agitation from time time for such an increase in rates, it in each instance the legislation was ot enacted.

The new tax would be 20 cents per eter on all films passed by the censor. Distributors contend the tax ould be too burdensome. Foreign lms in Poland already pay one of the ghest tariffs in the world, $17 per logram, or approximately $500 for ie average length film. For comarison it is pointed out that the zechoslovakian tariff is 50 cents per logram.

In addition, the Government tax on dmissions amounts to 37 per cent on ieatres showing foreign films, and ly 4½ per cent for the showing of olish films. The proposed new taxion, it is contended, would amount irtually to a ban on foreign product.

the opinion of the large number of company officials who have seen it, may be interpreted as pro-Nazi propaganda. I am informed that most of the portion of this film showing Nazi activities within Germany was made in the form of silent motion pictures with the consent and necessarily with the approval of Dr. Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda—as indeed must all motion pictures be that are made in Germany. It is true that the remarks of the commentator, added to this silent film in this country, tend to counteract to some extent the effect of the silent film. But the effect and appeal of a motion picture is to the eye primarily.

"Careful analysis has proven that the words of commentators when used in connection with motion pictures have but a small effect as against the great effect of what is shown on the screen. In our opinion the film remains pro-Nazi propaganda. This film has already been shown in several motion picture theatres where portions of the audience have hissed and jeered the picture and others have applauded it. We do not intend to make our screens a medium for the dissemination of propaganda for Germany, no matter how thinly veiled that purpose may be. Our screens are reserved for the presentation of entertainment of the highest quality."

De Rochemont Cites Cases

De Rochemont's rebuttal, which was issued late last night, pointed out that:

"It is difficult to believe that Mr. Harry Warner authorized a statement which explained why his theatres did not run March of Time's 'Inside Nazi Germany—1938' by saying that the picture is pro-Nazi propaganda. This statement was signed by his publicity representative.

"A great many people besides Warner Bros. officials have seen this picture in theatres and at previews during the past week. Without a single exception they differ with the alleged statement of Mr. Warner and his associates. During the past 24 hours the German consuls in San Francisco and Buffalo have lodged protests with city officials asking that it be withdrawn from the screen because of its lack of sympathy with their political ideals. In New York City, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Father John LaFarge, associate editor of the Catholic weekly, America, and Rev. Guy Emery Shipler, editor of the Churchman, have praised it as an honest piece of pictorial journalism.

Says Pittman Approved

"The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Key Pittman, saw the picture yesterday and said: 'It is the kind of picture that shows aspects of life unknown in this country and exactly what happens when a dictator takes control of a nation. Every man, woman and child in this country should see it.'

"Ex-ambassador Dodd who returned from Germany less than two weeks ago said of this picture: 'The members of every American family, young and old, who believe in liberty and democracy should by all means see this issue of March of Time.' "

atres in South Africa, which were contingent upon his obtaining a 10-year United Artists product franchise, have not materialized and indications are that nothing definite will occur in connection with those plans at this time. While Doyle said he had abandoned an earlier intention of discussing the matter further with Dr. A. H. Giannini, United Artists president, in Hollywood, he insisted that the theatre building plans were not "dead" but merely will be held in abeyance.

He plans to spend about a week in Hollywood before sailing for Australia. His planned production activities there will be for British and Australian firms only and result from the recent adoption of the New South Wales quota law, he said.

Plan Warner Studio Film

Hollywood, Jan. 21.—Warners is planning a short subject on the evolution of a screen story from the idea stage to a completed production, using its studio writers as actors. Scenes from a number of Warner features will be used.

current release, "Inside Nazi Germany—1938," followed a showing of the film at the New School for Social Research last night. Paramount's film on newsreel highlights of the last five years also was screened, as part of a session on documentary films. Edgar Anstey, March of Time's British producer, spoke.

At yesterday afternoon's session, Gilbert Seldes, author and critic, and Dr. Mortimer J. Adler of the U. of Chicago, insisted that the film is art when it is great entertainment.

Joseph M. Price, a member of the Board's executive committee, will be toastmaster at the 23rd annual luncheon today, and among the speakers scheduled are: Robert Edmond Jones, scenic expert who handled the color on "Becky Sharpe"; Paul Rotha, English documentary film producer; Mrs. Mary M. Simkhovich of Greenwich House, who will discuss films and the masses; Wallace Ford, actor; Dr. A. A. Brill, psychiatrist; Dr. Russell Potter of Columbia U.; Dr. Mortimer J. Adler.

F.C.C. Orders Hearings on Crosley Power

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Investigation by the Federal Communications Commission of the operations of the Crosley Radio Corp. Station WLW, under its 500,000-watt experimental license was started today with issuance of an order by Commissioner George H. Payne for a hearing on the station's application for extension of its license.

This will be the first time the Crosley company has been required to defend itself in the almost four years it has been operating with super-power, the original authorization for which also was secured without public hearing.

Back of the order is seen the quarrel between Payne and Crosley over the latter's refusal to furnish data regarding the financial results of the station's super-power operation and the charge of the commissioner that it has violated the regulations operating commercially on an experimental license.

Labor Also Dissatisfied

Organized labor, dissatisfied with the station for its attitude on labor questions, also has been seeking an investigation.

Some fifteen other applications for super-power are pending, all of which were set for hearing months ago but on which the hearings have never been held.

Members of the commission are represented as not convinced that super-power is good for the industry, Commissioner T. A. M. Craven voicing his doubts recently at hearings before the House Appropriations Committee, and the hearing on WLW may possibly result in revocation of its super-power license.

Kalmar & Ruby to Publish

Kalmar & Ruby, songsters, have gone into the music publishing business and have opened an office in New York with Jim Durkin, professional manager, assisted by Al Friedman, formerly with Hollywood Songs and E. B. Marks, respectively. First song in the catalogue is "Moon Over Manakoora," featured in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Hurricane."

refused to sign the national musicians' agreement. WWL was the only local station to sign.

Weber is at present attending the A.F.M. conference in Miami, and it is believed he will attempt personally to negotiate a favorable settlement with the recalcitrant stations following the close of the Miami meeting.

WDSU and WSMB have agreed to the wage and hour provisions, but have balked at the closed shop. Harold Wheelahan, manager of WSMB, said the national union had not asked for a closed shop, that it was a local request that would take the control of programs out of the station's hands. Joseph Uhalt of WDSU declared that in asking for the closed shop, the local union "attempts to run our station when they demand that none but union men broadcast from our station."

Copyright by—

Among the tales that may now be told is the following: Recently Fortune devoted considerable space to a story on Toscanini, NBC's newest throb. Network executives were thrilled with the story, but shuddered when, underneath each photograph illustrating the story, they read the line: "Copyright Columbia Broadcasting System."

Photographs of Toscanini are rare; the only suitable ones available were Columbia's, where Toscanini had conducted a symphonic series for some seasons. That is the explanation for the CBS credit lines in an NBC story.

This week NBC finally received permission from Toscanini to make some new pictures. NBC has applied for a copyright on them, but the rules say the photographs must first be submitted for sale before the copyright can be granted. They are now on sale in the book shop in the lobby of the RCA Building.

Super-Power Attacked in F.C.C. Study

Investigation Urged for Newspaper Stations

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Proposals for licensing super-power stations are opposed by the engineering department of the Federal Communications Commission in a report on the social and economic aspects of broadcasting made public tonight by Chairman Frank R. McNinch.

The report, prepared by Commissioner T. A. M. Craven while still chief engineer of the commission, was completed last June, but publication was postponed until after the North American Radio Conference at Havana, held last month, because of the uncertainties and implications involved in that meeting, it was explained.

The "American system" of privately owned competitive broadcasting is the best in the world, the report held, and should be maintained, but standards as strict as may be necessary should be adopted to insure its operation in the public interest.

Ascap Florida Suit Papers to Be Filed

Ascap attorneys will leave today for Tallahassee where they will file the music licensing organization's action attacking the constitutionality of the Florida statute preventing the society from operating within the state.

The action, which will be filed late tomorrow or on Wednesday, is patterned after the one which won the society a court order in Nebraska restraining officials of that state from enforcing a like statute. The Florida case is the fourth to be brought, actions having been heard by Federal courts in Montana and Washington, as well as Nebraska, months ago. No decisions have been made yet in the Montana and Washington cases.

Tennessee also has an anti-Ascap law, but Schwartz & Frohlich, attorneys for the society, have no immediate plans for contesting the law in that state, although ultimately that will be done.

New Year Week Key Takes Increase to $1,852,759

New Year week grosses in first runs of 24 key cities hit a high spot that has been touched only once since the current exhibition season began Labor Day, completely reversing the downward trend that had been under way since early in November.

The total was $1,852,759 for 150 theatres. This was the largest number of first runs in operation, with one exception, since mid-September. During the week of Nov. 19-20 there were 152 first run houses open.

A new low for the season was set Christmas week when the total of first run houses went down to 136 and the gross was only $1,076,657. The following week the total gross went up to $1,597,409.

MPTOA Drops Plan to Hold Spring Meet

No Decision Reached Yet On Autumn Session

The M. P. T. O. A. has abandoned plans for holding an annual convention in the spring. If a convention is held this year, it will not be until the late fall, it was learned from officials of the organization over the week-end.

Earlier plans to hold the convention in March, as has been customary for the past several years, have been shelved. Chicago was favored as the convention city this year, due to the fact that the south and California have had the meetings for the last five years. It has not yet been decided whether there will be a convention in the fall, although some officials of the organization believe there may be. A decision on this probably will be made during the current visit in the east of Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president.

A meeting of the board of directors of the national exhibitor organization is planned for the near future, probably within the next six weeks. The date and place of the meeting will be set by Kuykendall before he returns to his Columbus, Miss., home.

Lack of urgent organization business, the pressure of other affairs commanding the attention of M. P. T. O. A. leaders and current business conditions are among the reasons given for the abandonment of convention plans.

Loew's Stockholders To Act on Contracts

Guild and Four A's Seek to End Breach

Plans for healing a breach between the Screen Actors' Guild and other member unions of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America over inter-organizational disagreements on policies and procedure were under discussion over the weekend.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, and Mrs. Florence Marston, the guild's eastern representative, held meetings on Saturday and yesterday with officers of the Four A's and heads of the individual member unions. Truce plans were still in work at a late hour yesterday.

The guild, generally dissatisfied with the progress of reorganization of the Four A's into a closely knit entertainers' union, rather than an association of numerous unions encroaching from time to time on each other's domains, threatened an outright break with the parent A. F. of L. performers' organization unless its demands for a "cooperative front" were met.

Thomson stated over the weekend that unless harmony and complete understanding of the guild's objectives for the Four A's could be worked out within the organization a complete break would be unavoidable.

"A Yank at Oxford"
(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Definite entertainment qualities and the appearance in the leading role of Robert Taylor offer considerable ammunition for the exhibitor in this first of the new group of pictures to be produced by M-G-M in England.

The theme of "A Yank at Oxford," with the English university as the locale, is a typical collegiate yarn. The chief supporting roles are handled capably by Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan, Vivien Leigh, Edmund Gwenn, Griffith Jones, C. V. Frank and Edward Rigby.

Taylor plays a star track and crew man, with a cocky personality. He comes into contact with Jones, aristocratic and very English schoolmate, when he falls in love with Jones' sister, Miss O'Sullivan. Miss Leigh, playing the campus vamp, creates a situation which threatens an abrupt and unpleasant termination of Taylor's Oxford career. But Barrymore, his father, causes both Miss Leigh and Jones to realize the injustice they are doing, and Taylor and Jones become close friends, to the delight of Miss O'Sullivan. The two boys, with Gwenn and Rigby in the boat, row the Oxford crew to victory over Cambridge.

Certain of the incidents may appear a bit incongruous to the average American audience, however true they are to the story's setting. Malcolm Stuart Boylan, Walter Ferris and George Oppenheimer did well with the screenplay from the original by Leon Gordon, Sidney Gilliatt and Michael Hogan, and Jack Conway, director, showed Taylor to full advantage, which should be sufficient to arouse audience interest.

Running time, 100 minutes. "G."

"Arsene Lupin Returns"
(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—This is a slick crook and detective story with a new slant introduced into this popular form of entertainment.

Melvyn Douglas and Warren William appear as suavely fascinating characters, ably abetted by Virginia Bruce, John Halliday, Nat Pendleton, E. E. Clive and George Zucco in featured roles. It is full of novelty in story treatment and situations despite the fact that considerable talking is necessary.

Not content to follow in familiar ruts, James K. McGuinness, Howard E. Rogers and George H. Coxe, the authors of the original screenplay, gave a comparatively simple plot a dramatic treatment that should confuse and baffle the minds of the most rabid amateur sleuths. The situations are contrived to make it appear that Lupin, played by Douglas, has resumed a crime career when a valuable gem is stolen, and William, as a former G-Man who is now an insurance detective, picks up the trail. As the scene shifts from New York to Paris all of Douglas' actions convince the audience that he is implicated. Even his erstwhile henchmen, Pendleton and Clive, are sure that Douglas is double-crossing them.

Douglas creates the impression he is going straight and is solely interested in winning Miss Bruce's favor. William is similarly interested. The mystery deepens and the film develops a surprise twist at the finish.

The work of both the authors and players is smart and that desirable quality also distinguishes George Fitzmaurice's direction. It is the kind of film that demands that audiences pay close attention.

Running time, 86 minutes. "G."

"The Kid Comes Back"
(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Careful direction, a good cast and good production values, plus several sequences in the ring, make "The Kid Comes Back" a lively and entertaining, if unpretentious, attraction.

It is a romantic comedy drama of the ring, with each element coming in for a fair share of attention, and without too much emphasis on any one. Wayne Morris, Barton MacLane, June Travis and the child, Dickie Jones, have leads in a group of competent performances.

B. Reeves Eason, in his direction from a story by E. J. Flanagan and screenplay by George Bricker, has maintained a satisfactory pace and combined comedy and the human interest element.

MacLane, a trial horse of the ring, takes on young Morris as his protege and grooms him for the ring. The boy achieves an enviable strikeout record, and meanwhile falls in love with MacLane's sister, Miss Travis. They plan that he will quit the ring and that they will take a ranch in Texas, with the youngster, Jones, but she makes him promise that he will not fight MacLane. The latter's cherished dream is a crack at the title, and he succeeds, with the aid of a sports reporter, in forcing Morris into a fight with him.

In an effective slugfest, Morris leaves an opening and MacLane knocks him out, which produces the desired result for all concerned.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Exemption Increase Sought by Vincent

Allied States and independent exhibitors generally.

A moderate increase in the exemption, he told the committee, would encourage the further growth of the film theatre industry, would greatly increase the corporation income tax of film theatres and would not materially decrease the revenue now being derived from admissions.

"The artificial ceiling on admission scales imposed by the federal tax on admissions of 41 cents or over tends to hold the top admission charge at 40 cents as against the natural economic and competitive factors that would cause the theatre management to charge 50 cents, for the simple reason that ordinarily out of the ten cents difference in admission charge five cents would go to the government as tax, three and one-half cents to the distributor for film rental, always based on gross receipts, leaving but one and one-half cents for the theatre management," he explained.

"A change in the exemption figure would not only affect all theatres now charging 40 cents admission, on which no tax is now levied, but all of the subsequent run theatres who follow 40 cents prior or first runs, as well as higher admission first runs who have 40 cents matinee scales," he said.

A.F.L. to Consider IATSE Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The proposed extension of the jurisdiction of the IATSE to take in screen actors is expected to come up for consideration at the meeting in Miami this week of the executive council of the federation of labor.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, was in Washington last week to discuss the matter with federation officials, and is understood to have been informed that neither they nor the executive council had authority to give more jurisdiction to the IATSE, but that such a matter, particularly if opposition was expressed by any union which would be affected or absorbed, must be dealt with by the annual convention of the organization.

Papers Completed in North Dakota Action

Papers in Paramount's action to enjoin North Dakota officials from enforcing the state's circuit theatre "divorce" law after March 15, when the measure goes into effect, were completed here on Saturday and were taken to St. Paul over the week-end by Joseph Finley, resident attorney there for the company.

The injunction is being sought to bar enforcement of the "divorce" law pending the trial of Paramount's action to prove the statute unconstitutional. Although that trial may get under way in March the case may not be decided before late spring.

Finley plans to file the injunction papers in Fargo about Feb. 4, but due to the illness of Judge Andrew Miller, who is convalescing in Florida and is the only Federal judge in the Fargo district, the hearing on the application probably will be held in St. Paul. A special Federal statutory court of three judges will hear the application on or about Feb. 15. A decision is expected within a week or 10 days thereafter.

phases of the situation should be undertaken before any policy is adopted with respect to the licensing of newspaper-owned stations, Craven held, pointing out that broadcasting has already affected newspapers and will affect other means of communication, possibly affecting the film industry in the future just as the latter has affected the legitimate stage.

Network operation performs an essential service, but studies should be made of programs with a view to their improvement and studies should also be conducted into the contractual relations between the chain companies and their affiliated stations to insure preservation of competition between networks, individual stations, sponsors, performing talent and others.

Seek Profits Probe

Inquiries into the profits of broadcasting stations of all classes were also suggested, toward which it was proposed the commission require stations to file more complete financial statements than now submitted. Such a demand for adequate statements, however, it was explained, should not be the basis for fears that it was a step in the direction of rate regulation.

"We know of no reason for changing the doctrine of fair competition, both local and national, among individuals as well as among organizations, and we believe that adherence to the diversification doctrine of licensing stations in any community or region, as well as in the nation as a whole, is a sound public policy," the report said in discussing the American system.

"In effecting a preservation of the existing American system of broadcasting," it pointed out, "it may be necessary to establish standards of public service and to take such steps as are necessary to insure their being complied with."

Super Power Important

Considerable attention was paid in the report to the question of superpower, a major factor in which, the commission was warned, is the fact that a small group of licensees would have control of radio facilities capable of reaching the entire nation.

"Unless care were exercised in the regulation of these licensees, the possibility exists of having granted to a few people, from natural resources of the Federal Government, the control of a system of mass communication having untold potentialities of being utilized to influence public opinion," Craven said, adding that "the evidence is not conclusive of the immediate general need for super-power."

Adoption of super-power, the report contended, should be surrounded by restrictions to insure that the smaller stations are not adversely affected.

fusal of the Warner circuit to book the issue.

Luce's statement said: "Mr. Warner's assertion that the March of Time is 'pro-Nazi propaganda' is ridiculous.

"Mr. Warner also says that movie audiences pay little or no attention to the sound that comes from the screen. This is an amazing observation to come from the man generally credited with introducing the talking picture.

"According to the Warner statement, the Warner screens are reserved for entertainment only. Evidently Mr. Warner does not believe the movie industry capable of any honest pictorial treatment of any matter of importance.

"Fortunately Mr. Warner does not control the entire motion picture industry."

Jackson Non-Committal on Talk Of Industry Anti-Trust Action

Washington, Jan. 24.—Revived reports that the Department of Justice was about to engage in an anti-trust campaign against the major film companies today were neither denied nor affirmed by Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, in charge of anti-trust enforcement.

Jackson said it would "be unfair to single out an industry" for discussion before the department was ready to make an announcement, but in other quarters it was said no general campaign against the film companies was under consideration at this time.

Jackson today visited the White House to confer with President Roosevelt, it is believed, on the subject of the latter's plans for new anti-trust legislation. Questioned following the conference as to whether the decision in favor of the Government in the Madison Oil case, the largest suit the Government has conducted in a number of years, had caused him to change his mind regarding the enforceability of the present statutes, he said he still believed the laws should be modernized.

Delay on RKO Setup to Fall Now Foreseen

Postponement to Feb. 28 Irks Judge Bondy

Completion of RKO's reorganization before next fall appears highly unlikely at this time as a result of another lengthy postponement yesterday of the start of hearings on the reorganization plan for the company.

Although acceding to the request of H. C. Rickaby, attorney for the proponents of the reorganization plan, for a postponement of the initial hearing to Feb. 28, Federal Judge William Bondy for the first time displayed impatience over the repeated delays and the failure to make progress in the reorganizing of the company.

"RKO has been reorganizing for five years now," Judge Bondy reminded Rickaby when the request for a new postponement was made. "In that time, creditors of the company have died, stockholders have changed and, I suppose, something has happened to the lawyers, too. It seems to me that this reorganization ought to be disposed of soon. If you can't agree among yourselves, perhaps you ought to let matters take their own course."

Rickaby interposed that there are "some things" which remain to be done, to which Judge Bondy replied, "So if this reorganization isn't completed this year, it will be the court's fault, I suppose."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned that there is no certainty that the reorganizers will be prepared to go forward with the hearings on Feb. 28,

"International Settlement"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Jan. 24.—Double dyed in the wool melodrama is the entertainment and commercial substance of "International Settlement." The plot is developed against backgrounds of warfare which raged around the locale which gave the film its title. Skillful insertion of newsreel clip shots constitute a production backing which, for realism, would hardly be possible or as impressive had they been studio made. Yet practically all the action, intrigue, danger, romance which is both dramatic and lightly comic, and blood and thunder goings-on, occur in Shanghai's native Chinese sections.

The theme focuses attention on adventures of George Sanders, who assumes the identity of a dead man, Pedro de Cordoba, to whom he had been entrusted to deliver $1,000,000 to be used by one of the warring factions for the purchase and smuggling of munitions. As bombing, and shelling roar loudly, Sanders becomes involved with an arms hijacker, Leon Ames; with John Carradine and Harold Huber, ammunition traders, and Dolores Del Rio, a cafe entertainer, who initially is his enemy, but becomes his loving friend and saves him from the vengeance of the plotters and the perils of war. Running along in counterpoint to the main theme is the light romantic story of Dick Baldwin, a newsreel cameraman and June Lang.

The topical story, which accents production realism and makes possible strong characterizations, is an original by Lynn Root and Frank Fenton. The screenplay was prepared by Lou Breslow and John Patrick. In directing, Eugene Forde stressed action nicely.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"The Spy Ring"

(Universal)

Hollywood, Jan. 24.—Fast action characterizes this Trem Carr production for Universal, "The Spy Ring," which has as backgrounds the machinations of an international spy plot and fierce playing on Army polo fields. Classified in the crime melodrama category, "The Spy Ring" will satisfy those fans for whom it is intended by virtue of its gripping suspense tempered with plausibility. Joseph H. Lewis' direction upholds the elements of the screenplay of George Waggner who adapted the story of Frank Van Wyck Mason.

The cast has as its top names William Hall, Jane Wyman, borrowed from Warners, and Jane Carleton, whom some fans will recognize as Esther Ralston, all of whom acquit themselves well.

Following the mysterious death of the army inventor of a device which transforms a machine gun into an effective anti-aircraft weapon, Hall is given the commission to develop it further. Three spies are offered $2,000,000 by a foreign country to steal the invention, and trail Hall to his new assignment at Monterey, where he leads the Army polo players to victory over their opponents, led by one of the spies. After the game, the spies argue among themselves and one of them is killed. Hall is kidnapped with his sweetheart, the daughter of the colonel, by the remaining two, but is rescued by his friends.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Kuykendall's Hopes Rise on 10-Point Plan meetings, indicated that it would not participate in the administration of the local conciliation boards, which are regarded as the backbone of the 10-point program.

Officials of the two companies said they had nothing to say concerning their present attitude toward the program for self-regulation of distribution and exhibition.

Kuykendall also reiterated his charges that the 10-point program "would be in effect today if it had had the cooperation of certain so-called exhibitor leaders who for reasons beyond my understanding have consistently used every possible means to discourage its enactment."

His statement was aimed at Allied States which, at its annual board meeting in Washington last week, declined to participate in a joint exhibitor move to further a trade practice program in order to continue its moves to obtain legislative regulation of the industry.

Referring to Motion Picture Daily's story of yesterday that the M.P.T.O.A. would not hold a spring convention and had no definite plans for any national meeting this year, Kuykendall said, "If a 1938 convention is held, it will probably be in the fall. However, no decision has been made yet." He also stated that no decision on the holding of a board meeting had been made, but that both questions might be answered soon.

Kuykendall will leave tomorrow to attend the Virginia M.P.T.O. meeting at Richmond on Thursday, and will return to his Columbus, Miss., home from there by way of Birmingham.

Old Biograph Plant Is Put Up for Sale

but no definite bids have been made, according to the bank.

A representative recently offered the studio to Monogram, it is learned, but that company was not interested since it has no production in the east and plans none here.

H. J. Yates, head of Consolidated, has been renting the studio to independent producers of shorts and commercial films and used it for musical sequences for Republic's "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" last summer. At that time Yates said he planned to shoot musicals in the east to some extent, believing this was practical because of the talent available here.

Consolidated took a five-year lease on the studio in 1933 on terms calling for a percentage to the Empire Trust on the basis of rentals from sub-leases and occasional producers, according to the bank. The property is held in the name of Actinograph Co., a subsidiary of Empire Trust, which acquired it in a foreclosure from the old American Biograph Co. In 1930 the bank spent $200,000 to modernize the studio and install Western Electric recording equipment.

When Biograph built the studio in 1912 the cost was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

So careful have the grind houses become that they are observing the Louise Hovick billing for Gypsy Rose Lee.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—Four thousand residents of this city received telephone calls from girls in the local Curtis Publishing Co. office and were asked if they had read "Hurricane" in the Saturday Evening Post. If the answer was "yes," the girls recommended seeing the film, which was showing at Loew's, and if those questioned said "no," they were asked to go to the theatre to see what they had missed by not reading the story. The tieup cost the theatre a pass each to the 10 girls making the calls.

Census Survey Begun By Liberties Union

Information on film and stage censorship and on radio is being gathered in a nationwide survey being made by the American Civil Liberties Union in 1,000 cities of 10,000 population or more.

A questionnaire has been sent to public officials and others familiar with local conditions, to determine the relative standing of cities "in the practice of civil liberties." The union will present an emblem of recognition annually to the city receiving the highest rating.

Questions concerning 32 issues are asked in the survey, including the following:

1. Are films controlled otherwise than by court action. If so, how?
2. Can theatre licenses be revoked without awaiting a conviction or an injunction?
3. Do any local radio stations carry regular open forum programs on public issues? If so, what?

A committee headed by Richard S. Childs, president of the City Club of New York and a member of the union's board of directors, will rate the cities on the basis of the questionnaire returns.

Beaver, Pa., Jan. 24.—District Attorney Robert E. McCreary of Beaver County has stated here that all cash and merchandise giveaways will be barred after Feb. 7. McCreary included in his ban on gambling all Bingo games and merchandise promotion contests, but said he would permit charity contests if without cash awards. He declared that Bank Night violates the state gambling laws.

He termed the theatre promotions as "another gambling situation which is being imposed on the people by outside owners of copyrighted, protected schemes of promotion."

"The district attorney's office," McCreary added, "did not make the laws against gambling. We must enforce the law as it is. If the people of Beaver County are not in favor of a ban on Bingo and other games, they will have to look to the legislature to make a change."

Last Canada Single Stronghold Succumbs

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—The last stronghold of single-feature programs has succumbed to the dual bill policy with the adoption of double attractions by the first-run theatres of London, Ontario. Practically simultaneously the Capitol, Loew's and Patricia there announced duals, with program changes twice weekly.

Occasional attractions are being presented on a solo basis in the ace houses of Toronto and Montreal but even in Canada's two largest cities twin bills are the general rule. London, Ontario, held out against doubles for years but the pressure was too great.

"Everybody Sing" in Big Miami Opening of the picture, was the house guest of Nicholas M. Schenck at the time the picture was ready for release. So with one thing and another, it seems opportune just before Mr. Rapf took off for a South American vacation, to give his picture special attention—especially since advance reports from the studio were so promising.

Judy Garland and Deanna Durbin were signed by Metro at the same time and early in their careers with the company appeared together in a sort of buildup short. Somehow Miss Durbin was not contractually retained. It appears that the company is making special efforts to see that Miss Garland will be.

The picture in which Judy appeared tonight is in line with her previous work considered so promising by the studio, in "Broadway Melody" and "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." The opening here tonight therefore might apply to the strategy of Hollywood and plans for tomorrow, especially as concerns exhibition, here and otherwise.

W. R. Lynch Supervised

The premiere at the Sheridan, Paramount's Miami Beach first run house, erected in the space of 51-one days in January of 1937—a not unusual proceeding for the Miami sector—was under the supervision of Will R. Lynch, brother of the famed S. A. Lynch and head of the local Paramount theatres. Cooperating with Mr. Lynch were W. R. Ferguson, Metro's exploitation head man, directly represented by E. B. Coleman, southern exploiter for the company, who went to town directly and often with Jonus "Perly" Perlberg, publicity chieftain for Mr. Lynch.

There was much excitement, flashlights, sun arc batteries and microphones, all in the best Hollywood manner. Miss Garland, who accompanied a band to the station to meet the visiting New York deputation, and wondered audibly about it, began to discover she was a star when called upon to make a personal appearance. By the second show, she was more at home about it.

Actors Will Submit Four A Law Changes

The Screen Actors' Guild notified the board of directors of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America at a meeting yesterday that it would submit a program of proposed changes in the bylaws of the parent A. F. of L. entertainers' organization at a meeting of the board on Friday.

The changes in the bylaws are incident to a pending reorganization of the Four A's and will be calculated to advance the guild's ideas for simple and inexpensive interchangeability of union cards and a strong central jurisdiction for actors' organizations within the Four A's, it was indicated.

The decision to submit the guild's proposals for immediate consideration followed weekend conferences between Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, and Burgess Meredith, acting president of Actors' Equity Ass'n. Thomson stated earlier that a break between the guild and the Four A's would be inevitable unless prompt consideration was given the guild's views.

The American Federation of Actors renewed its claim to jurisdiction over night club and presentation fields at yesterday's meeting of the Four A's board, and action on the claim was postponed to Friday for further consideration. Pending a decision, the A. F. A. and Chorus Equity Ass'n agreed to suspend their organizing activities in those fields.

Whether or not the I. A.'s jurisdictional claim will be pressed at the Miami meeting, where it is now on the agenda, is uncertain at this time. If it is, however, Thomson, who plans to remain in New York for about a week, will be notified in time to go to Miami to answer the claim.

Expect Withdrawal Of Tampa Trust Suit

The anti-trust suit filed by the Rivoli, Tampa, Fla., against United Artists and other major distributors is expected to be withdrawn in the near future as a result of a preliminary investigation completed in Tampa last week by Ed Raftery of United Artists counsel, which indicated that the 1931 closing of the theatre was due to other causes than inability to obtain product, as charged in the theatre's action.

The suit was scheduled to go to trial in Federal court at Tampa yesterday, but has been marked off the court's calendar and probably will be withdrawn formally.

Radio Fee Increase Stirs Canadian Ire

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—Radio users and dealers are in an uproar over the announced decision of C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport, that the Canadian radio license fee will be raised from $2.00 to $2.50 effective April 1.

This jump will add a net revenue of $650,000 to the annual fee total of almost $2,000,000 and the additional money from this source will be used for expansion purposes by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

A drastic change in the fee system means a much larger increase for licenses for many owners of receiving sets than the mere boost of 50 cents in the individual fee because the Government has now decided that a license will be required for every receiving set and not for the owner of one or more sets. The rule now in effect is that a householder requires only one certificate for all the sets of which he is the actual owner. This, it is feared, will tend to cut the sale of motorcar radios and extra instruments for the household.

In announcing the fee increase, Howe declared that it was the problem of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. to bring broadcasting service to all parts of Canada and to increase the hours of Government programs which were recently jumped from six to 12 hours daily. The Government also intended to reduce commercial programs.

WTHT then refused a similar request for air time on the ground that the assertions made in the speech were too specific.

The theatres involved, all owned by the Shuberts, are the Morosco, Broadhurst, Golden, Winter Garden, Imperial, Majestic, Ritz, Barrymore and Plymouth.

Loew Stockholders Approve New Pacts

Profit-Sharing for Eleven Of Executives Wins Overwhelmingly

By a vote of 1,080,883 shares for and 5,390 against, stockholders of Loew's, Inc., at their annual meeting yesterday ratified profit-sharing contracts for 12 executives. About 150 persons attended.

The aggregate value of these contracts and the present employment contract held by Nicholas M. Schenck, president, is $4,788,000 annually in salaries and percentages of the net profits, David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of the company, told the meeting.

Considerable cross - fire between minority stockholders and Loew executives marked the meeting. The criticisms and explanations of the terms of the agreements consumed most of the two and a half hours required for the meeting.

The only other business was the choice of directors, all of whom were reelected unanimously. The directors are due to meet this afternoon to elect officers. No changes are expected.

Directors reelected were: George N.

"Fargo" Gets 4th Week in Denver Shift

DENVER, Jan. 25.—"Wells Fargo" continued to stand them even in its third week at the Denham, and was stopped to make way for the Mae West film. Fox Intermountain promptly grabbed "Wells Fargo" and used it for a fourth week at the Aladdin. This is probably the first time in the history of Denver a film has continued first run in an opposition house. The National Western Stock Show, breaking records of its own with sell-outs, has continued interest in the film, and Fox figured it might as well cash in on it. Other first run houses were from fair to good.

Total first run business was $38,500. Average is $33,250.

Estimated takings for the week ending Jan. 20:

"LOVE AND HISSES" (20th-Fox)

Ask Free Admission Of Education Films

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—Appearing before the Rowell Commission on Tariffs and Taxation, which is investigating the excise situation in Canada, J. W. Noseworthy of Toronto, representing the Canadian Federation of Teachers, entered a formal request for the free importation from the United States of films of any width which could be classed as strictly educational. Pointing to the advantages of visual education and the increasing value of films in school work, Noseworthy made a plea for consideration of this type of film whether it is intended for schools or theatres.

The teachers' spokesman also pressed for the expansion of the Canadian Government's own Motion Picture Bureau to include the production of suitable films of Canadian life for presentation in schools.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 39
(20th Century-Fox)

Warfare in Spain and China, comprising some good material, makes this issue interesting. The ruined city of Teruel is shown as the Franco forces launch an offensive and the Loyalists hold on grimly, while refugees and wounded are evacuated. Some of the scenes are harrowing.

The Japanese troops are shown pushing forward in North China, capturing Tsinan, while at Hong Kong, to the south, the British colonial and Indian defenders train for eventualities. The release also has: The Maine sport of harness racing on ice; Jim Braddock trying painfully to smile for the camera, while Tommy Farr acknowledges defeat; William and Mrs. White of Washington, with their 17 children; Jeanne Kavanagh, who is authorized to sign the President's name; 48-passenger plane built for the Soviet; a baby Giant Panda; film cuties at Santa Anita race track; baseball players in golf driving competition; Lew Lehr going nuts over a Florida men's "bathing beauty" contest and winter bathing up north.

Running time, 10½ mins. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 237
(M-G-M)

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is proved a vigorous orator in this release showing him addressing an audience in defense of New Deal policies. His tone and delivery are much like his father's. Representative Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana presents the other side of the debate and, in the newsreel, comes off second best.

Scenes of Japan's push in China and the Hong Kong defenses are duplicates of Fox Movietone's, with a touch or two that are different. The rest is run-of-the-mill: Spectacular parachute jumping; doubles of famous men; a men's "bathing beauty" contest in Miami; Washington's White family of 17 offspring; winter bathing by people who seem to enjoy it; racing at Hialeah.

Running time, 9½ mins. F.

Paramount News
No. 50
(Paramount)

With the possible approach of the Japanese armed forces to Canton, leading city of south China, as the reason, Paramount's reel presents views indicating its size and activity, and showing the construction of extra roofs on many buildings to absorb the shock of possible bombing attacks. Pictured also are U. S. and British gunboats.

New York's new snow-clearing equipment is shown in action at Floyd Bennett Airport, and a Coast Guard cutter is seen ploughing a path through the ice of the Hudson River. A group of motor manufacturing executives are shown on their arrival for conferences with President Roosevelt, and, also in Washington, is pictured William and Mrs. White and their 17 children, the capital's record family.

Seattle authorities are pictured arresting one man and uncovering the dynamite satchel, fitted with a time arrangement, which was planned to blow up a Japanese liner in the harbor. Lifeguards in Miami compete in a "beauty" contest, which is amusing material, and gives Miami its weekly turn in the newsreels. Mrs. Harkness returns from Hong Kong with her second giant panda, while the first cavorts before the camera at Brookfield, Ill. A reel of average interest.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 635
(Universal)

Eleven subjects lend variety to this release and make up for lack of pictorial news. Under the heading of news the China Clipper is shown at anchor at Los Angeles, the Augusta quits Shanghai and Admiral Yarnell transfers to a smaller craft, automobile makers leave the White House, and Lawrin winning the Hialeah handicap is presented.

A girl wrestler from Venice, Cal., furnishes a human interest topic good for a few laughs by throwing young men over her shoulders. Wild ducks spending the winter with tame ones in Central Park are mildly interesting. Florida's active publicity bureau makes the grade as usual with two subjects—one a night fashion show and the other a beauty contest for men lifeguards.

Shots of a recent banquet with the guests of honor doubling for famous men are interesting. Two other subjects are a demonstration of a new parachute that can be guided in its descent by the user and the 17 children of a Treasury Department employe. Neither adds much to the entertainment value of the total.

Running time, 9 minutes.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 54
(RKO)

The mobilization of China's manpower at Canton is the most important clip in this reel, which otherwise is of routine interest.

James Roosevelt reads to an audience a defense of his father against charges that he is exercising dictatorial powers as President. At a novel dinner in New York, amazing likenesses to famous men affords a moment of amusement.

Routine news coverage offers pictures of the chiefs of the automobile industry at the White House, and shown is the Government clerk who is the father of 17 children. The speeding up of coin production is pictured at the Philadelphia Mint, with interesting camera recording of the process of manufacture.

Maribel Vinson makes an attractive picture under falling snow as she exhibits her skill in fancy skating at Lake Placid and the reel closes with the testing of a new type of parachute, adaptable to low-altitude jumps, by two Washington college boys.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Plan Brooklyn Theatre

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—"Rosalie," in a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, and "Tovarich," in a like situation at the Metropolitan, were the bright spots of an unimpressive week. The Powell-Eddy musical took $4,700 to better par by $1,100; "Tovarich" garnered $5,000, which is over the top by $700.

Short Subjects

"The Lone Ranger"

(Republic)

With "The Lone Ranger" the exhibitor has a 15-episode serial that will probably be a prominent factor when an accounting of profits is taken. The film, based on the popular radio serial, has been produced with an eye to providing thrills. If the initial installment gives an idea of what is to come, bookers should be busy.

The basic story deals with terrorism in Texas at the close of the Civil War which is spread by a self-constituted dictator. The Lone Ranger, so named because he is the sole survivor of a troop of his fellows who have been ambushed, vows to wipe out the murderer and his ilk.

With the aid of Tonto, an Indian friend, and the victimized settlers, he sets out to bring a close to the dark state of affairs. He is ruthless in his determination. The character who plays the Lone Ranger has been robed in mystery. There are five men who seem to take the part. This angle is part of the attraction.

The picture uses fine outdoor settings. William Nobles has done a handsome job with the photography. The well chosen cast includes Lynn Roberts, Hal Taliaferro, Herman Brix, Lee Powell, Lane Chandler, George Letz, Chief Thundercloud, Sammy McKim, Stanley Andrews and Tom London. Silver Chief, a splendid Arab horse, is a striking photographic subject as the hero's mount. William Witney and John English have done well with the direction.

The first chapter runs 26 minutes, the remaining 14 run 18 minutes each. "G."

"What Do You Think No. 2"

(M-G-M)

Another interesting cinematic venture into the realm of the supernatural. The film should have good reception where the audience found the initial number of interest. The slight plot, narrated by Carey Wilson, concerns the near commission of murder by a young and jealous husband who saw a woman resembling his wife in a doctor's arms. The narrative is shrewdly ended with a deduction that leaves the conclusion hanging in midair. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Jungle Jitters"

(Vitaphone)

This Merrie Melody is interestingly developed and played for its utmost in laughs, but it follows a routine course. The color and animation are good and ingenious, respectively. The plot sets a comical salesman down amid cannibals. Unsuccessful at peddling his wares to the savages, he resigns himself to the cook-pot rather than marry their homely white queen. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Deviled Ham"

(RKO)

Here the lower depths are the setting for a number of interesting acts. Gus Van is the Satanic master of ceremonies. There is a clever dance routine by Toy and Wing, a Chinese dance team; music by Erskine Hawkins and his colored band and interpretive dancing by Moya Engele. It is the usual sort of thing made more interesting by Van's humorous antics and singing. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Popular Science J 7-3"

(Paramount)

The usual collection of interesting developments in the application of science to the household and industry. The color is not always as good as it might be. The best sequence is a bit of research on the microscopic examination of valuable furs. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Bolted Door"

(Vitaphone)

Another Floyd Gibbons' "Your True Adventures" that will set the patrons' hearts pounding to its realistic drama. The story enacted here concerns the plight of a young mother whose baby almost drowns in a filling bathtub. The film creates a thrilling tension and there is no letdown until the conclusion. Running time, 13 mins. "G."

"New Audioscopiks"

(M-G-M)

Here is one that must be played. It has all the novelty that had audiences squirming and ducking in their seats last year, but with better and more effective stunts. Not only should there be billing on the marquee but the exhibitor had better lay in a big supply of colored eye-pieces. This issue is done with two colors. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Radio City Revels"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—There is plenty for exploitation in title and cast names in "Radio City Revels" and this should have a pronounced effect on the drawing power of the picture. The title itself has a connotation of lively, entertaining fare, with the always popular radio background and a fair share of music. The film bears out that promise.

In addition, there is a real selling opportunity in Bob Burns, Kenny Baker, Jack Oakie, Victor Moore, Helen Broderick, Milton Berle, a flash of Don Wilson, Buster West and Melissa Mason, an excellent eccentric dance team, Anne Miller, a clever and attractive tap dancer, and Jane Froman in a featured song. To these borrowings from radio are added several songs from Herb Magidson and Allie Wrubel, spectacular dance sequences and an entertaining story in which comedy is dominant, even with respect to the romantic aspect.

Ben Stoloff directed with emphasis on the amusing moments, which are well-spaced and serve to keep the entertainment pitch high. It is a story of success attained through a pattern of failure, radio stardom attained after a struggle. Oakie and his assistant, Berle, are failures as song writers, while Oakie continues to promise Miss Miller he will get her a real chance. She meets Baker and he falls in love with her.

Burns, their hill-billy song writing "pupil," comes from Arkansas to take his lessons in person, but without money. They are about to toss him out, while Miss Miller's sister, Miss Broderick, makes a play for him, when they discover that he composes hit tunes, words and music, in his sleep, but can remember nothing when he awakens. Their attempts to put him to sleep and keep him awake as needed provide the highlight comedy of the picture.

Finally recognition comes to Burns, Miss Broderick gets him, Miss Miller gets Baker, and Oakie has money—and still has Berle.

Running time, 88 minutes. "G."

"Double Danger"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—RKO's "Double Danger" should satisfy patrons in virtually any house with its comedy, suspense, romance and other elements. It brings together two master crooks—one an author who robs to get plots for his novels, and the other a pretty girl who poses as a society figure. The comedy situations are more or less a burlesque of master mind crook dramas.

Lew Landers has done a good directorial job. The screenplay was written by Arthur T. Horman and J. Robert Bren, from Horman's original story. Maury Cohen produced. The capable cast consists of Preston Foster, Whitney Bourne, Donald Meek, Samuel S. Hinds in one of his best roles in some time; Paul Guilfoyle; Cecil Kellaway, the studio's Australian importation, who registered a definite hit; June Johnson, daughter of Chic Johnson, and others.

Foster, crook author, foils Miss Bourne, society thief, in a jewel robbery. Hinds, police commissioner, believes one of the pair is "The Gentleman," who for years has eluded him. So he invites them to a house party. Hinds sets a trap to catch "The Gentleman," but the windup is that five claim to be that person. However, Guilfoyle is caught with the jewels, and Hinds permits Foster and Miss Bourne to leave—for a honeymoon and permanent stay on the Riviera.

Stockholders Approve Loew Profit Pacts

Armsby, David Bernstein, Isidor Frey, Leopold Friedman, John R. Hazel, Al Lichtman, Charles C. Moskowitz, William A. Parker, William A. Phillips, J. Robert Rubin, Nicholas M. Schenck and David Warfield.

Isidor Frey of Loew's legal staff acted as chairman, with Leopold Friedman, general counsel, as secretary. Others representing the management were Bernstein and J. Robert Rubin, vice-president and general counsel.

Objections to the personal service contracts were raised by several speakers, most of them attorneys representing small stockholders. Some of the larger stockholders were forceful in favor of the proposals.

Minneapolis Unit Objects

The only written protest was filed by Carl H. Fowler, attorney, who said he represented Charles M. Drew of Minneapolis, owner of 700 common shares. Fowler termed the agreements "improvident and extravagant" and served notice that the directors and officers of the company who participated in making them "will be held personally responsible for injury to the company and the stockholders." Another attorney pointed out that contracts, when declared improvident in a legal action, have been held by the U. S. Supreme Court to be illegal.

Pat Casey, defending the proposal, said, "If M-G-M doesn't want the deal, give it to me. I will guarantee I will go out and make more with it than they could."

Walter Reade, circuit operator, called the contract proposals "the greatest piece of strategy in the history of the industry."

Under the agreements, instead of three executives and producers, Louis B. Mayer, J. Robert Rubin and the late Irving G. Thalberg, 11 will share in the same aggregate percentage of the profits. The new contracts cover periods of from four to seven years, beginning Jan. 1, 1939. Those who share profits under the new pacts are Mayer, Rubin, Al Lichtman, Edgar J. Mannix, Sam Katz, Harry Rapf, Bernard H. Hyman, Hunt Stromberg, Lawrence A. Weingarten, Benjamin Thau and Mervyn LeRoy.

Bernstein Contract Extended

In addition, the stockholders approved a five-year extension of David Bernstein's personal service contract at his present rate of compensation, $2,000 weekly plus 1½ per cent of the profits.

LeRoy's present contract, which runs for three years from the date he reports to the studio, to be no later than March 15, calls for a weekly salary of $3,500, plus $29,500 quarterly. Beginning Jan. 1, 1939, under the new agreement, he will receive 7/10ths of one per cent of the profits, this percentage to be no less than his present quarterly compensation.

The other contracts are: Mayer, executive and managing director of production, contract extended to Dec. 31, 1942, at $3,000 weekly, plus 6.77 per cent of the profits; Lichtman, executive, contract extended to Dec. 31, 1945, at $3,000 weekly, plus 1.05 per cent of the profits; Rubin, executive, extended to Dec. 31, 1943, $2,000 weekly, plus 1.4 per cent of the profits and additional compensation at the termination of employment, and the stock option agreement made Dec. 15, 1932, is unaffected; Mannix, production executive and supervisor, extended to Dec. 31, 1945, $3,000 weekly including expenses, plus 1.4 per cent of the profits; Katz, executive and production supervisor, extended to Dec. 31, 1945, $3,000 weekly, plus 1.4 per cent of the profits; Rapf, production supervisor, contract extended to April 8, 1943, $2,200 weekly, plus 35/100ths of one per cent of the profits; Hyman, production supervisor, extended to Dec. 31, 1945, $3,250 weekly, plus 7/10ths of one per cent of the profits; Stromberg, production supervisor, extended to Dec. 5, 1944, $5,000 weekly, plus 1.05 per cent of the profits, with the provision that his present bonus of $15,000 for each picture over eight produced by him in any one year is canceled, effective Jan. 1, 1939; Weingarten, production supervisor, extended to Dec. 30, 1943, at $3,250 weekly, plus 35/100ths of one per cent of the profits; Thau, executive, extended to Dec. 31, 1945, $1,750 weekly, plus 7/10ths of one per cent of the profits.

"She Loved a Fireman"

(Warners)

This is frankly unpretentious, melodramatic action material, with its usual romantic complications. It is satisfactory for its type. The youngsters, especially, will appreciate the spectacular fire scenes, and the rescue which results in friendship for the two rivals and a clear field for the romance. Where audiences like simple action material, they will like "She Loved a Fireman."

Dick Foran is the egotistical political hanger-on who decides to join the fire department, which he thinks is a soft berth, much to the annoyance of Robert Armstrong, company captain. Foran at the same time falls in love with Ann Sheridan, not knowing she is Armstrong's sister. He goes through the department training school, is assigned to Armstrong's company, and the feud is on.

Foran resents any command from Armstrong, until finally, when a man is injured through his negligence, he is transferred. The climax comes in a roaring fire, accompanied by gasoline explosions, when Foran goes to the rescue of Armstrong, saves his life, and brings about the happy conclusion. John Farrow directed from a screenplay by Carlton Sand and Morton Grant.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"My Old Kentucky Home"

(Monogram)

This is standard dramatic fare. The story has no connection with the song of the same name. The production is in good taste, but the action drags.

In the beginning Grant Richards is introduced as somewhat of a playboy. He is in New York and is about to marry Evelyn Venable and terminate a friendship with Bernadene Hayes. He is the scion of an old and wealthy Kentucky family. He and Miss Hayes say farewell, but as he is leaving her apartment Miss Hayes drinks poison. While attempting to thwart her Richards is blinded by the stuff. Clara Blandick, who plays the role of grandmother, takes him home to Kentucky, her purpose being to reconcile him with Miss Venable. Richards is threatened with blindness. Miss Blandick eventually gets things settled. The story concludes with Richards recovering his sight and happily reconciled with Miss Venable. The Hall-Johnson Choir in their finished style sing a few well known Stephen Collins Foster numbers.

Effective support is contributed by J. Farrell MacDonald, Mildred Gover, Margaret Marquis, Cornelius Keefe and Kitty McHugh. It is a Crescent production. Lambert Hillyer directed.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Autry and Republic In Contract Dispute

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—Gene Autry and Republic are definitely at odds over salary and other matters, it was disclosed here today. Autry, first ranking western star in the poll of Motion Picture Herald and who is now on a personal appearance tour in the South, is unwilling to return to the studio for his scheduled picture, "Washington Cowboy," until his pay is raised from $5,000 to $15,000 per picture and he is guaranteed that Smiley Burnette be featured with him in all films.

While rumors are current here that Republic is seeking court action, the files fail to disclose the record of such eventuality. Sam Wolf, attorney for Autry, said the star claims contract breach by the studio by not having the picture ready to start for him on time.

'Bad Man' Portland SRO

PORTLAND, Jan. 25.—"Bad Man of Brimstone" played to standing room only at the Broadway here during the first two days of its run. "The Life of Emile Zola" is also showing sustained strength, having returned to the Music Box with a draw heavier by 10 per cent than its first run.

Withdraw "Hotel" Suit

The motion for a temporary injunction to restrain Warners from using the title "Hollywood Hotel" in the suit brought by the Hollywood Hotel Revue, Inc., was withdrawn before Justice Peter A. The plaintiff produces stage presentations for film houses.

Permits Asked For Three New Air Stations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Construction permits for three new broadcasting stations have been asked of the Federal Communications Commission.

Applications disclosed that the Eastern Carolina Broadcasting Co. proposes a 1,370-kilocycle, 100-watt station at Goldsboro, N. C.; Edward Breen and Allen R. An amended application filed by WRTD, Richmond, asked a change of frequency from 1,050 to 590 kilocycles, following request for a change from 1,500 to 1,050 kilocycles and increase power from 100 to 500 watts, and an application filed by KTEM, Temple, Tex., asked for extension of time from day to unlimited with 100 watts power night, 250 watts day.

List Two Dismissals

The commission has dismissed, at the request of the applicants, petitions of Jonas Weiland for a new 1,500- kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station at Kinston, N. C., and Scripps-Howard Radio, Inc., for a 630-kilocycle, 1,000-watt station at Denver.

New York Stations Joined In Helping Lost Airplane

Local radio stations played a dramatic part in hunting for the Newark-to-Washington airliner lost in a storm during the early morning hours yesterday.

WOR remained on the air until 3:30 A. M., broadcasting a series of appeals asking anyone who had heard a plane to phone the station. Dave Driscoll of WOR's special features division was at the mike.

WMCA kept its transmitter open until 3:34, hours beyond its usual closing time, on the same mission. Also, WMCA, through short wave equipment, maintained contact between the pilot and the plane and Newark airport officials.

WNEW, which maintains a 24-hour broadcasting schedule, devoted most of its late night and early morning hours to the search for the plane. NBC and CBS had closed their transmitters at the usual time, 1 A. M., a half hour before the first flash of the lost plane was received.

Wayne King Program Renewed

Wayne King's music will continue to be broadcast over CBS under the sponsorship of Lady Esther Co., Mondays from 10 to 10:30 P. M. through a contract renewal effective Feb. 21. Lord & Thomas is the agency. King's music was also recently renewed on NBC.

Ken Sisson has received a renewal of his contract as musical director of "Canada, 1938" and will continue in that capacity until May. The program is heard Fridays at 10 P. M., E. S. T., over the Canadian network.

Power Failure

The first power failure in more than six years shut WEAF off the air yesterday from 1:45 to 3:11 P. M. NBC reports that 520 telephone calls were received from listeners asking the cause.

The power failure was caused when a circuit breaker in a power sub-station in Belmore, L. I., broke off and fell across the high voltage line, causing a short circuit.

To Form New Firm On Tape Disc Method

Contracts were signed yesterday between the Miller Film Corp. and the Jean V. Grombach interests for the formation of a company to introduce here the "tape method" of transcribing programs. This system, it is said, is already being used extensively in Europe, particularly by the British Broadcasting Co. in England.

The "tape" process is for high fidelity transmission. The recordings are placed on a reel of tape, similar to a film. One of its chief advantages, according to James A. Miller, is in production. In waxing a program, the entire disc is rendered useless when an error is made. By the tape method, the error is sheared from the roll, and the correction inserted. Another advantage, Miller claims, is clearer reception than is possible on wax. Miller established the tape transmission method in Europe.

Studios to provide for tape transmission are now being equipped in the Grombach studios in the Steinway Building.

Miller formerly was associated with Warners in audio engineering capacities. The Grombach interests include Grombach Productions, Inc.; Jean V. Grombach, Inc. and Advertisers Recording Service, Inc.

New Shows on the Air

"Barbasol Program"

Arthur Godfrey, that ingratiating redheaded southern gentleman from the banks of the Potomac in Washington, began a new series of stints for the Barbasol Co. over CBS Tuesday, and if Barsasol sales don't leap quickly we're out on a limb.

The lad is dynamite, and that last word should be emphasized. His informal, scriptless chats are delightful to listen to, and while his singing voice will never bring a blush of satisfaction to the cheek of a lover of vocal artistry, it has an infectious quality that is well-nigh irresistible. His numbers included "Swing Is Here to Sway," "If It's the Last Thing I Do," "Go to Sleep," "Here Comes the Sandman" and "They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree." In closing, one must not forget to tender orchids to John Selb for organ support that sparkles. The Barbasol program is presented Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:15 to 7:30 P. M. over the CBS network, and emanates from the studios of WJSV in Washington.

Tino Rossi

Tino Rossi, who in France is a film and recording rage, began a new series of sustaining programs over the NBC-Blue Tuesday evening, with results that only partly substantiated the critical opinion of his people.

Rossi has a nice tenor voice, and he sings with much expression and feeling, but while we're positive that network listeners will like his singing, we're equally positive that he will not be the rage here that he is in his native country. His numbers included "Bie Mir Bist du Shoen," a tone poem, "Sing My Guitar," "Vieni, Vieni" and several native tunes. His schedule is Tuesdays and Fridays from 7:45 to 8 P. M. on the Blue.

Garber Auditions for B & A

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 25.—Jan Garber, here for a stage engagement, today made a recorded audition for a spot on the Burns and Allen program. The recording was comedy patter. He added, however, that he feels the deal will be completed about Apr. 1.

will be for a limited time only, as he will continue to take personal charge of production for the immediate future.

Numerous candidates for the theatre operating post at RKO are in the field but it is learned definitely that no definite decision has been made by Spitz, nor is likely to be until he has conferred with those in line for the post and home office officials.

No RKO Development on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—Clarification of the executive setup at RKO seems no nearer a solution than when Samuel Briskin resigned his production post several weeks ago, it became known today with the departure of Leo Spitz for New York for further conferences. Peter Rathvon, Andrew Christiansen and O. C. Doering, Jr., left town yesterday.

It is definitely known here that no successor to Briskin has been named nor has any compromise been reached between the various factions interested in the company. It has been determined, however, that the announcement concerning future plans will be made only when the company is out of receivership.

Pandro S. Berman will be in charge of the studio during the absence of Spitz.

Films Furnished 44 Song Hits in 1937

Hollywood and 23 of the first 50 "hits" were written for the screen.

The song, "Did I Remember?," from "Suzy," led the list of 132 "hits" with 30,442 air performances. "Melody from the Sky," from "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was second with 29,425 performances. "Popular" sources are credited with the next two songs on the list, which are "Is It True What They Say About Dixie" and "Goody, Goody." Fifth and sixth places go to "You," from "The Great Ziegfeld," and "When I'm With You" from "Poor Little Rich Girl." In eighth place is "When Did You Leave Heaven?" from "Sing, Baby, Sing," while "popular" sources contributed the other three songs in the first 10.

Of the 44 film songs on the list, 16 were played more than 20,000 times. The entire 132 songs on the list compares with 85 "hits" recorded in 1935. Total performances for 1936 aggregated 2,237,929, compared with 1,255,269 performances for the "hit" list of the preceding year.

Delay Exchange Contract

Another meeting will be held here next Tuesday between representatives of the major distributors and the I.A.T.S.E. on a master contract for exchange workers. "Sailing Along"

London, Jan. 25.——The new G. B. musical, "Sailing Along," starring Jessie Matthews, which was previewed here tonight, teams her with Jack Whiting in a lively story of a London waif whose one night of stardom is sponsored by an eccentric soup millionaire.

The romantic element and character comedy is enhanced by tuneful song and dance scenes and spectacular staging. The Thames River backgrounds are effective. Sonnie Hale's direction is an improvement over his earlier efforts, despite a comparatively weak story.

"Goldwyn Follies"

[United Artists]

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—Not since Eddie Cantor was his star as Samuel Goldwyn essayed a musical film. His first color, "The Goldwyn Follies," blends all the elements that are common to the song nd dance embellished Hollywood success story. Produced at a reputed cost of $2,000,000, two hours in running time, the film is notable s the first featured screen appearance of Charlie McCarthy. It also introduces the promising Zorina nd proves that Andrea Leeds' exceptional work in "Stage Door" was not a flash in the pan.

Elaborately staged, the picture is punctuated intelligently by Charlie McCarthy's ventriloquistic antics, the Ritz Brothers' comedy specialties, Helen Jepson's classical swingings, Phil Baker's running gags and Zorina's dancing, en solo and with the American Ballet. The story tells of unknown Kenny Baker's rise to stardom under the secret sponsorship of Miss Leeds. Producer Adolphe Menjou discovers Miss Leeds is gifted with an unerring ability to predict what is suitable in pictures, particularly human interest content. She finds Baker singing while frying hamburgers in a restaurant and slyly brings him to the attention of Menjou, who gives him an opportunity to attain screen greatness, although realizing his ascendency means the blasting of his own romantic dream and the loss of Miss Leeds as a guiding influence.

As in most musicals, the plot is only a framework upon which to hang the specialty numbers of the featured players. Thus McCarthy s permitted to amuse in the same way he does on the radio and the Ritz brothers are characteristically comic as in other screen appearances. Helen Jepson is featured in operatic numbers as well as topical tunes. Zorina is given ample opportunity to display her talents as a ballet dancer with her conception of "The Water Nymph Ballet" in which she is supported by a chorus. This sequence, done in blue and gold, is the film's outstanding pic-

Para. '37 Net Estimated at $6,030,000

Fourth Quarter Profit Totals $754,000

Paramount Pictures, Inc., estimates its consolidated earnings for 1937 at $6,030,00 after all charges including taxes. The estimate does not include $620,000 of undistributed earnings of partially owned subsidiaries, nor does it include $1,650,000 received during the year from the settlement of litigation instituted during the company's reorganization, or $150,000 profit from the sale of a parcel of real estate during the year.

The last two items, representing non-recurring income of $1,800,000, was credited to a general reserve account established as of Jan. 1, 1935.

This non-recurring income, together with combined consolidated earnings

If the picture should go a fourth week, it will be the first to be held for that period at the Music Hall.

Cost Was $27,225,000 in 37 States East of the Rocky Mountains

A total of 885 theatres was constructed or substantially remodeled in 1937 at an aggregate cost of $27,225,000 in 37 states east of the Rockies, it was reported yesterday by the F. W. Dodge Corp., a construction news service. These figures do not include equipment installations or replacements.

This is a six-year peak and indicates progressive improvement in the industry, the Dodge service said, adding that the expenditure was nearly $10,000,000 more than that reported to the Dodge Corp. for 1936, covering the same states and same character of construction work. The large increase in 1937 was due to the greater number of new theatres built.

After the construction slump of 1932 and 1933, activity spurted in 1934. Dodge figures for the 37 eastern states, referring to new construction and substantial remodeling, were $8,250,000 in 1934, $14,000,000 in 1935 and $17,500,000 in 1936.

This information is based on data gathered by the Dodge staff of several hundred correspondents in the field and was obtained from various sources including building commissioners, construction companies, subcontractors, architects and supply houses.

It was explained that the figures may be greater than actually reported because where theatres are built in combination with office buildings or

Red Kann Gets into Center Of Wide Industry Round-Up

By J. M. JERAULD

There was a round-up and barbecue for Red Kann in the Belvedere Room of the Astor Hotel last night. They called it that because Red paid a visit to the Big-Bar-H ranch near Palm Springs last year and donned a plaid shirt, chaps and a wide cowboy hat. Nobody was allowed to wear spurs last night, and nobody tried.

It was a round-up all right. The Times Square cowboys turned out 350 strong. It may even have been a barbecue, but if it was Mrs. Astor staged it behind the scenes and added some effete eastern touches to the menu. There was also some oratorical sharpshooting led by Jack Alicoate, but nobody bit the dust.

In other words it was party and a good time was had by all—even Red, who is considerably more at ease in front of a typewriter than in front of a microphone.

Alicoate Reminisces

A gilded box-office with a flashing red light behind the microphone and 15-minute deliveries of Box-Office Flashes reminded the diners that the guest of honor had moved over to Fifth Avenue from the 30th floor of the RKO Building where MOTION PICTURE DAILY is located. Alicoate mentioned that he had broken Red into the film business, so even the late comers like Jay C. Flippen knew Red had received his editorial start on the Film Daily. Paper guns and red cowboy hats supplied the western atmosphere, and red and green goggles furnished by M-G-M made it possible for those who closed their left eye to keep the color scheme in mind.

Alicoate stepped behind the microphone at 10:40 and pointed out there was no dais, no guest table, no speakers and no toastmaster. There were even no guests, he said, because he had paid $7.50 and had "drank a good dinner." He then confided he wanted to introduce a man with high-priced principles.

A voice from the north end of the room boomed: "Louis Neezer." Alicoate corrected the anonymous announcer by saying "Nizer," with the emphasis on the "I."

Nizer in Rebuttal

"As a lawyer who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow-beats, I must reply," Nizer began. "Even lawyers are affected by the law of supply and demand, and if principles are scarce the price must be high."

He became serious. "The fourth estate," he said, "is an integral part of this industry. Red is a part of this fourth estate. He expresses himself in headlines. He is like a sponge in that he absorbs information. He sees details and maintains perspective; he is aggressive without being offensive; he is firm and he is kindly."

Nizer reached an effective peroration, but Alicoate checked the trend toward seriousness by remarking: "Nizer has the face of a Madonna and soul of a house detective." The western gaiety returned.

Red confided to the microphone that he had not expected a call for a speech and that as a result he was "abashed."

Flippen took over the speaking honors and introduced a number of acts appearing at Loew's State, including Vince Barnett.

Among those present were: C. C. Moskowitz, E. W. Hammons, W. G. Van Schmus, Gus Eyssell, Arthur W. Kelly, Harry Buckley, Ed Kuykendall, Ned E. Depinet, Gradwell Sears, A. W. Smith, Jr., E. J. Regents Board to Review on Appeal controversy over the rejection of the latter film still rages, with the American Committee on Maternal Welfare, Inc., headed by Vice-chairman Dr. George W. Kosmak, submitting a new appeal to the board of regents. Dr. Kosmak is chairman of the medical board of the N. Y. Maternity Center Association.

Learning of Dr. Kosmak's appeal, a representative of Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves stated, "In this country the birth of a baby is regarded generally as a biological experience to be accomplished in the privacy of the home or in a hospital and should not be exposed to the public gaze."

Comment here is to the effect that today's move may preage a new policy with regard to film censorship.

torial highlight. In addition to sharing the romantic content with Miss Leeds, Baker contributes two or three song numbers. With Menjou, these are the central figures in the show, although Phil Baker, Bobby Clark, Jerome Cowan, Ella Logan and Nydia Westman contribute to the comedy content.

The film is based on a story and screenplay by Ben Hecht, with additional comedy sequences by Sam Perrin and Arthur Phillips and specialty songs for the Ritz Brothers by Sid Kuller and Ray Golden. The master score was started by the late George Gershwin and completed by Ira Gershwin, who also did the lyrics. In directing, George Marshall was careful to give proper attention to the ballet numbers staged by George Ballanchine and to allow Zorina full opportunity to exhibit her dancing ability as well as to show she has a personality auguring future screen activity.

Combining tuneful, rhythmic and light amusement elements and presenting them against picturesque settings for which the public has demonstrated its appreciation, "The Goldwyn Follies" is entertainment worthy of a place in the series of quality pictures which Goldwyn has produced during the past season.

Pizor Hits Cantor Benefit Appearance

PHILADELPHIA Jan. 26.—Lewen Pizor, president of the United M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, has addressed a telegram to Eddie Cantor, protesting his scheduled appearance in a benefit show of the Artisans, fraternal organization, on March 16, at the Convention Hall here.

The show, according to Pizor's wire to the comedian, is one of nine, for which admission is sold in coupon book form, with the admission for each performance amounting to 28 cents. Pizor pointed out that the non-theatrical showings are in direct competition with theatres charging from 30 to 75 cents, and "who show your pictures at rentals demanded by 20th Century-Fox of 30 to 40 per cent." Pizor characterized Cantor's appearance as "unfair and harmful to the industry" and protested the appearance of headline names for non-theatrical shows in "direct competition with legitimate motion picture theatres."

Hollywood Preview

"Midnight Intruder"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—If, for this or that reason, Hollywood producers ever decide to give the upper bracket stars a good long rest and open the marquee and newspaper ad space to plain merchandising copy —possibly an unthinkable thought—there will be a rush for sound story material and writers like Channing Pollock, represented by pictures like "Midnight Intruder," will be in hot demand. This is the type of picture that made films popular before the gold-lined personality became the essence of screen salesmanship, an honest job of story-telling with wide and satisfying appeal, genuine bread-and-butter amusement.

The persons engaged in this Pollock narrative, prepared for the screen by George Waggner and Lester Cole, are Louis Hayward as a young man without funds, J. C. Nugent as his middle-aged comrade in penury, Eric Linden, as a son of wealth who has been hiding out from his family, and Barbara Read, as the indispensable girl in the case. Hayward and Nugent, caught in a rainstorm, enter a supposedly deserted country house to spend the night, are mistaken by returning servants as the homing scion of the absentee capitalist and, carrying on in these mistaken roles of necessity, work out happy family readjustments and the solution of a murder mystery by the time the picture is over. Like all Pollock plots, this one is too complex and many-sided, to be synopsized briefly, although it is never confusing.

Production by Trem Carr is adequate without over-emphasis, and Arthur Lubin's direction is of the well tempered, reasonable sort that gives a story a break. A preview audience at the Hollywood Pantages enjoyed the picture immensely.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

Ehrlich Defends His New Admissions Bill

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—The supplementary "theatre admission" bill of Assemblyman Harold B. Ehrlich will cause no further restrictions, but on the other hand is intended to legitimatize a measure passed in 1937 allowing children over eight and under 16 to enter theatres without parents or guardians, the Erie County legislator told MOTION PICTURE DAILY today. His "chaperone" bill of 1937 permitted theatres to hire official guardians so that children might attend daytime performances, and it set up a new section, 121-B, in the General Municipal Law, allowing cities and villages to pass ordinances to this effect.

The Ehrlich bill was signed by Governor Lehman and became law, but a contradictory statute on the books makes it illegal for children under 16 to enter theatres without their parents, guardian or an authorized person. Assemblyman Ehrlich, who re-introduced his second bill last Thursday, stated he had put this measure into the hoppers last year, but it remained dormant in Codes Committee, with the industry opposing it.

Miss Fazenda will be a White House guest at luncheon in Washington Saturday, and that night will appear at the President's birthday parties in eight Washington hotels. She will also make personal appearances at the Earle and Capitol midnight shows there.

Time Reel Figures In ITOA Discussion

Exhibitors who have March of Time under contract will be obligated to pay for the current reel, "Inside Nazi Germany—1938," whether they play it or not, it was pointed out in a discussion at a meeting of the I. T. O. A. at the Hotel Astor yesterday.

It was further pointed out that no blanket exhibitor policy on the reel could be adopted since patron reaction differs.

There was some discussion of reports that RKO is asking 50 per cent of the gross for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and is insisting on its billing without a second feature.

Maurice Fleischman, chairman of the board, presided in the absence of Harry Brandt, president. A meeting is scheduled for next Wednesday.

THE UNION LABEL

MOTION PICTURE

With more than forty organizations holding, or seeking, bargaining contracts with the makers and sellers of screen entertainment, union organization of the industry now extends from the genesis of the story idea to fruition in the theatre in which the production is exhibited. The heterogeneity of film unionism is shown for the first time in a chart translating into union terms the progress of a motion picture through five stages, Pre-Production, Production, Post-Production, Distribution and Exhibition.

Ramsdell Declares Television Far Off and share of undistributed earnings of partially owned subsidiaries aggregates $8,450,000.

The consolidated earnings of $6,030,000 for 1937 compare with earnings of $6,012,00 for the preceding year. The 1936 net, however, included a credit of $2,000,000 applied from a special inventory reserve set up by the company on Dec. 28, 1935, but did not include a $331,000 equity in the undistributed earnings of partially owned subsidiaries.

Estimated consolidated earnings for the fourth quarter of 1937 were $754,000 after all charges, including taxes. The net for the quarter is attributable to theatre earnings exclusively, which provided dividends which were $800,000 in excess of Paramount's direct and indirect net interest as a stockholder in the combined undistributed earnings for the quarter of partially owned theatre subsidiaries. The excess represents a partial distribution of the company's share of theatre subsidiary earnings of previous quarters. The combined estimated consolidated earnings and share of earnings of partially owned subsidiaries for the quarter result in a loss of $46,000.

Earnings per common share for 1937 are estimated by the company at $1.96, exclusive of the company's share in undistributed earnings of subsidiaries and exclusive of the $1,800,000 of non-recurring income.

New Theatres Totaled 885 During 1937

other projects, specific data on theatres may not be supplied.

An analysis of the figures by states and cities is not available, except for the New York metropolitan area, where 60 theatres were reported as built or remodeled in 1937, according to Dodge. No figures are available for the Far Western states.

There was a falling off in construction in the latter part of last year, and this is explained by the steady rise in such projects over a period of more than the years during which the number of units built and rejuvenated caught up with the depression slack.

Construction costs, which have risen because of labor and material increases, are believed by the Dodge service to be an important factor in determining the rate of theatre construction activity in 1938. The chief boost has been in lumber, which has shown a 40 per cent increase. Some classes of theatre equipment now cost from 10 to about 40 per cent more than a year ago, while others have remained at approximately the same price level. Labor increases have varied, ranging to 20 and 30 per cent in some sections, while in other localities wages have remained about the same.

large attendance not alone to the film but to the fact that "Disney has always been consistent in what he had done and we always took his product seriously."

Bob Weitman, manager, said that all opening day records under the present combination policy were broken. Paramount reported a waiting line as early as 5 A. M., three hours before the theatre opened. Beginning today the theatre will open at 7:30 A. M., it was said at the theatre.

Theatre Union Will Move in Film Field

Demands for a basic agreement and recognition as the collective bargaining agency will shortly be made to film theatres in New York by the Theatrical Managers, Agents and Treasurers Union, it was said yesterday by Jack McNevin, business agent. The union has been in the field nine years and is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The union also has jurisdiction over all types of publicity workers in Hollywood and intends to submit demands to the studios, McNevin said.

Managers, assistant managers, press agents, box-office cashiers and home office publicity department workers are members of the union in the east, according to the union. McNevin refused to divulge the union's numerical strength in the film field, but said it had "more than the required 50 per cent" necessary to be declared the agent.

More Attention to Films

The union has been active in the legitimate theatre field, but with recognition granted by the League of N. Y. Theatres Tuesday night, which settled a strike at nine Shubert houses, it will now give more attention to film theatre, home office and studio organizations.

The agreement signed with the League provides that the union will be recognized as the sole collective bargaining agent for treasurers, press agents and some of the managers, effective Feb. 1. Theatres are to negotiate wage scales and working conditions individually, and the new terms are to go into effect on the same date.

The New York Theatrical Press Agents, a factor in the dispute, signed an agreement with the T. M. A. T. recognizing it as their bargaining agent. Members of the press agent group will be admitted individually to the union, while the organization may retain its identity.

"Kathleen"

(J. H. Hoffberg)

The exhibitor located where there is an Irish population should profit reasonably with "Kathleen." It was produced in Ireland, has an all-Irish cast, Irish humor, plenty of brogue and serves to re-introduce Sally O'Neil. But at its best it is amateurish and stagy. Much dependence is placed on the musical content for entertainment.

The scenario is based of the well known "Kathleen Mavourneen" story. Miss O'Neil is the Liverpool orphan who supports her young brother and sister. Michael Rooney, who loves her, arranges to send her back to Ireland to her aunt. He tells her that he will follow shortly. Back on the "Ould Sod" Miss O'Neil falls in love with the young lord of the manor and gets into difficulties with his stern aunt who would place the young ones in an orphanage. This twist comes out all right later on. Meanwhile Michael comes over from England and soon discovers the romantic state of affairs. But Miss O'Neil's new lover gets a musical impresario interested in Michael and so craftily removes him from the field into a successful singing career. There is a bit of melodramatic excitement at the conclusion and the piece ends with Miss O'Neil wed to her true love.

There are a number of acts in the picture which will be familiar to Irish audiences. Except for Miss O'Neil the cast is comparatively unknown here.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

I. A. Claim Not Yet Presented to Green

Miami, Jan. 26.—The I.A.T.S.E.'s claim to jurisdiction over all film industry workers, including actors, has not been submitted to William Green, A. F. of L. president, yet and cannot be acted upon by the executive council in session here until it is presented in written form, Green stated today at a press conference.

However, there appears to be little doubt in organization circles that George Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president, is prepared to press his organization's claim and will have the subject in the required form before the meeting adjourns.

Frank Gillmore, president of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America, the A. F. of L. entertainers' union with jurisdiction over screen actors, is here observing developments.

Opening Is Delayed By Salary Dispute

Superior, Wis., Jan. 26.—The opening of the $100,000 Beacon here, scheduled for last week, has been held up as the result of a wage controversy between Roy McMinn, owner and manager, and Local 457 of the operators' union.

The union is seeking a wage scale of $160 per week in booth costs. On the night of the scheduled opening, McMinn read a statement from the stage announcing that he has been and is willing to make a fair compromise of the wage dispute.

M-G-M Does Novel Short

Hollywood, Jan. 26.—M-G-M has completed a film without a living object—human, animal or plant—in it. It is called "Color Poem," and is an animated picture of moving objects in color paraphrasing Franz Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody." The picture took six months to make and was done by Oscar Frischinger, continental artist.

David Snell, M-G-M conductor, was in charge of the 52-piece orchestra which furnished the music.

Talent Ranks Cut to 9,000, Says Thomson

Hollywood talent ranks have been reduced from the 23,000 who worked through Central Casting Bureau during the 12 months preceding the signing of the Screen Actors' Guild contracts with producers, to the 9,000 now included in the guild's membership fold, Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, said yesterday.

Thomson declared that it was the guild's intention further to reduce the total, with an ultimate goal of 6,000 being regarded as desirable. The guild's current membership includes 2,000 senior members and approximately 7,000 junior guild members. There are approximately 350 guild members in the New York area.

Says Earnings Rose

Thomson estimated that reduction of the players' ranks had resulted in earning increases averaging about 25 per cent per year for guild members. He pointed out that approximately $2,250,000 was paid in salaries to the 23,000 who worked through Central Casting formerly; that the guild contract called for a 10 per cent wage increase and that all of the resultant salary expenditure now goes to guild members exclusively, accounting for the 25 per cent increases in earnings through increased work per person.

The maximum membership of the guild was 13,000, Thomson said.

Declaring the oral agreement entered into between the guild and March of Time here to be working out "satisfactorily" Thomson indicated that the current arrangement may be permitted to stand indefinitely. March of Time is fulfilling all guild requirements under the oral agreement, he said.

Thomson is remaining in New York pending the outcome of the A. F. of L. executive council meetings now under way in Miami, which are scheduled to hear the I.A.T.S.E.'s claim to jurisdiction over Hollywood actors. In the event the matter is argued before the council, Thomson has been assured that he will be given notice in time to reply to the I. A.'s contentions.

Milwaukee Theatres Cut Scales 5 Cent

Another factor in the probable request for lower projectionists' wage is the possibility of an opinion by th state attorney general outlawing Hollywood, Bank Night and simila games, which exhibitors contend hav helped business.

Hollywood, Jan. 26.—Twentieth Century-Fox has started "Mister Moto's Chance," an added picture in this year's "Moto" series. Original plans had called for only three Peter Lorre vehicles, but the calling off of "Charlie Chan at the Ringside" is believed responsible for the added "Moto."

Study Legal Means to Ban Chicago Duals

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Further developments in the double bill controversy here are expected to depend on what happens to the move to end duals by ordinance. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes is studying Alderman Arthur G. Lindell's proposal that duals be banned as a menace to the health of children.

Hodes says he will report soon on how this can be done. The problem then will be up to the Aldermen. Lindell is chairman of the council subcommittee appointed to study the problem.

Hodes expects to have the information ready for the council within a few weeks, and it is anticipated that the independent theatre operators, who had threatened a monopoly action against Balaban & Katz as a means of causing the circuit to abandon duals, will take no action pending consideration by the council of dual bill legislation.

It is said that thousands of protests against double bills received by vari-

Increase 6,000,000 Feet In 1937 Reported

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Sharp expansion of the film export trade of the United States, despite barriers erected by many foreign countries, was reported today by Nathan D. Golden, chief of the Motion Picture Division of the Department of Commerce.

Preliminary figures compiled by Golden show a 6,000,000-foot increase in 1937 to a total of 215,721,956 linear feet of negative and positive, sound and silent film, valued at $4,797,641, which compares with 209,651,404 feet, valued at $4,531,639, the totals for the preceding year.

Industry's Ad Technique Wasteful, Says Nathanson

By A-MIKE VOGEL

MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 27. — N. L. Nathanson, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., charges the industry with gross and wasteful extravagance in selling to the public.

The industry, in Nathanson's opinion, is spending far too much in advertising individual shows and much too little, or in fact nothing, in selling the screen in behalf of the permanent prosperity of the theatre.

Over the cocktails in his Pine Creek Drive winter home here today, Nathanson was decided in his opinion that the usual six to eight per cent of gross devoted to newspaper and other theatre advertising of changes

Worker Group Hits Alternative Quota

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The National Association of Theatrical Kine Employes, representing workers in theatres and engaged in general studio labor, has criticized the alternative quota plan of Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, in a reply to Stanley's request for reactions to the proposal.

The group declared its belief that the plan would aggravate present production difficulties unless it was accompanied by a drastic increase in the quota percentages. The organization also supported the demand of the technicians that the British labor cost minimum in production be increased to 85 per cent.

With Madison Square Garden completely sold out for last night and tonight for Sonja Henie's skating show, Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, head of the corporation, said he was little worried yesterday by the strike of 14 box-office treasurers, called by the Theatrical Managers, Agents and Treasurers Union. Seven treasurers remained on the job while pickets patrolled on the sidewalk. The union demands recognition.

Steffes Silent on Allied Meet Plans

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 27.—W. A. Steffes, president of Allied Theatres Owners of the Northwest, refuses to predict what action will be taken by the 150 exhibitors who will meet here in their 25th anniversary convention for three days starting Jan. 31.

"I never make predictions in reference to what a convention of theatre owners will do," Steffes said.

It is certain that block booking, improved methods of merchandising, relations with producers and similar matters will come before the convention for discussion and possible action.

Also of importance will be a discussion of the North Dakota divorcement bill, the constitutionality of which is now being challenged by the Minnesota Amusement Co., Paramount affiliate.

Abram F. Myers will attend and will consult with former Chief Justice of Minnesota John P. Devaney, an Allied attorney, on the North Dakota statute litigation.

Sally Rand Critical Of Exploitation Men

Sally Rand stole the show at the Ampa luncheon at the International Casino yesterday with an exposition of what is wrong with home office exploitation.

The advertising and publicity men sitting in New York, she said, direct their efforts too much in behalf of Broadway and the large key city theatres, paying too little attention to the smaller towns. Sales campaigns are too stereotyped, she charged, and they should be planned to suit individual pictures. At the conclusion of her 15-minute talk, she was accorded a vote of thanks for "the most constructive talk" Ampa has heard in a long time.

Edward G. Robinson indulged in a bit of kidding, "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien made a lusty talk on the manly art of self-defense, and other things, and Norman Thorpe, a seven-year-old Canadian, entertained with a dramatic song routine. Paul Lazarus, Jr., presided.

The M-G-M program, which was postponed some time ago, is now scheduled for some time in March. There will be no meeting next week.

"Happy Landing" Is $52,000 Hit at Roxy

"Happy Landing" ended its first week at the Roxy last night with a take of $52,000, which was the biggest in some time. Irving Lesser, manager of the Roxy, said Sonja Henie's personal appearances this week at Madison Square Garden are proving a great help to the theatre.

While the opening last Friday was no record-breaker, it was big, and business began building last Sunday, and has maintained an upward trend since. Wednesday was reported to have given the Roxy the biggest week-day gross in its history. Matinee shows this week have been sellouts.

The Roxy, and the Music Hall, with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," are doing the best business on Broadway. At the Capitol, "Mannequin" wound up its first stanza with about $30,000. The Rialto was considerably off with a take of $5,000 on "She Loved a Fireman."

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 40
(20th Century-Fox)

A regulation assortment of interest-holding material went into the makeup of this reel. It moves along breezily; it is serious when the occasion arises and it spices the whole with a few laughs. The items are not necessarily vivid news, but they are treated with live comment and edited for their utmost.

Niagara Falls takes first place with the ice threatening the nearby Falls View Bridge. It is followed with shots of the Samoan Clipper at Auckland on one of its last flights. The recent harrowing experience of the two passengers on a Washington-bound plane which landed in Hartford is re-enacted and comes off well, with sighs of relief breathed by all concerned. Names in the News offers the Princess Baba and her wrestler-husband being greeted by the Ranee of Sarawak, King Ghazi of Iraq making an airplane flight, King Farouk of Egypt about to be married and Bruno Mussolini preparing for his flight to South America. Ed Thorgersen vividly describes the Golden Gloves tryouts, vocally grows mellow with fine scenes of yachting in Australia and pulls a few nifties as Southern California bathing girls fool around with bowling balls and get themselves photographed from many interesting angles. Lew Lehr has a lot of laughs for a good finish. Two chimpanzees are the butt of his dialect. They play with various musical instruments and supply hilarious sound effects.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 238
(M-G-M)

An average issue. The material involved is currently interesting and the personalities and events pictured get deserved attention. The clips are nicely varied. In the case of the sailing of the Leviathan for the Scotch scrap heap they are tastefully handled.

The "lost" transport 'plane provides a theme for the re-enactment of the plight of the passengers and crew while they were buffeted by a storm. The sequence is a good bit of documentation in spite of the dramatics. News Snapshots offers glimpses of the kidnapper of Charles Ross in the custody of G-men and shots of Chinese troops and civilians in preparation for military invasion. The Leviathan sequence follows. The ship is seen in a number of fine camera compositions against the background of lower Manhattan and standing off down the bay. The library was combed for war-time scenes which are blended into the footage. The Woman's Page offers the well known Olga Celeste and her wild animals and the Princess Baba and her wrestler-husband arriving on the Manhattan. The sporting end offers the Golden Gloves three-ring slugfest and a thrilling ski-meet in the Italian Alps.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

Paramount uses the technique of reenactment effectively in presenting a visualization of the plane lost in the air during the big blow last Monday night. The dramatization is very effective. A Douglas airliner is shown in flight, the two passengers sit beside each other and converse, radio announcers ask for information, listeners respond, a switchboard gets busy, the plane comes down to Hartford and the pilot and passengers tell how glad they are to have landed.

Gabriel Heatter waxes eloquent over a description of the work of fortifying Hong Kong. Some subjects just don't lend themselves to this type of vocal effort.

Shots of the departure of the Leviathan are good. Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's proposal for uniting Ireland and Ulster is timely. The arraignment of John Henry Seadlund in the Ross kidnapping case and the arrival of the Princess Baba with her wrestler husband are human interest news.

Some excellent cutting has been done in presenting views of Georgia's new prison, with Governor Rivers explaining the abolition of chain gangs, and the introduction of closeup shots of prisoners, one of whom sings. The narration by Joseph Boley is handled effectively.

Running time, 9 mins. J.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 55
(RKO)

There is a combination of routine news coverage, a clip of the feature type and a sporting thrill in this issue of the reel.

The first category includes the transfer to Chicago of John Sealund, confessed murderer of Charles Ross, whom he kidnapped; the departure of the Leviathan from New York on its final voyage; Justice Reed expressing appreciation of the Senate's action in confirming his Supreme Court appointment; the ice jam which destroyed the Falls View Bridge over Niagara, with excellent pictorial results; Chinese girls in Canton, training for war as nurses and soldiers; Bruno Mussolini's takeoff on a Rome-to-Rio Janeiro flight.

The second group includes the Milwaukee ex-engineer who says he "is still going strong" at the age of 100, after 83 years of service with the railroad; typical scenes in the coal mining town of Dakota, W. Va., indicative of the major problem which faces the country in the coal mining industry, and the Maine University students who live in a cabin colony to cut expenses.

The thrill lies in a fast dirt track automobile race in California, with skids and danger much in evidence.

Universal News
Vol. 10, No. 636
(Universal)

The opportunity for beautiful scenic effects afforded by the ice jam about Niagara Falls, which destroyed the Falls View Bridge, results in unusually effective pictorial material. The rest of reel is routine coverage, showing the Leviathan leaving New York on its voyage to the junk yard; the capture of the Ross kidnapper and his transportation to Chicago; small children in their own "night club" in Miami; the honoring of the unknown soldier at Arlington by a women's group.

Mussolini's son is seen on the takeoff of a flight across the ocean to Brazil, and the central figures in the most recent French Cabinet crisis are shown chatting with reporters in Paris, that being the extent of the foreign material. The Sarawak Princess Baba arrives in New York with her English wrestler husband, to be greeted by her mother, but he should have rehearsed his speech. The sp[illegible]ing division is handled actively with pictures of the Golden Gloves preliminary bouts in New York, and an exciting moment on the bobsled run at Lake Placid.

and, among other things, included the adoption by New South Wales and Victoria of a quota system which in five years was to raise from four to 15 per cent the ratio of Australian films to be shown with imported pictures. Due to the inability of the Australian industry to produce its quota, the premier of New South Wales last month announced that the ratio for 1938 and 1939 would be three per cent.

However, since in 1936 domestic studios produced only six features while 453 were imported, it is not believed that even this percentage will be reached.

The quota regulations do not allocate imports by countries and in 1936 the United States accounted for 76 per cent of the films shown in Australia, according to figures of Nathan D. Golden, chief of the Motion Picture Division of the Department of Commerce.

Doyle Predicts Gain In Australian Films

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27.—The new Australian quota act will triple Anzac feature production, Stuart Doyle said here today upon his arrival to sign Hollywood writers and directors for his contemplated six features for 1938. Denying that he was seeking technicians, Doyle said the real need in the Australian industry was writers and directors.

Since quitting direct theatre affiliations last year Doyle has turned to radio, and one of the objects of his trip here is to look into the local radio field for ideas and possible transcription deals. He recently closed a reciprocal deal between Atlas and his Fidelity Radio for transcriptions, Atlas to supply American platters for distribution in Australia and Fidelity to supply Anzac waxes for distribution in America. Atlas platters have already been set for the Commonwealth Broadcasting network composed of 16 stations.

Doyle also will confer with film industry leaders concerning general problems. He denied he contemplated building theatres, saying that his only theatre interest was in a house now under construction in London.

valued at $4,025,767 in 1936, while silent films amounted to 2,851,039 feet, valued at $87,363, gainst 1,695,980 feet, valued at $51,670.

Argentina was the best market in point of footage, taking a total of 17,213,406 feet of sound film valued at $337,638, but the United Kingdom was our best revenue-producing market, taking 15,432,385 feet of film with a value of $396,627.

Equipment exports also continued to rise, Golden reported. Shipments of sound recording and reproducing equipment reached a total of $2,280,000, against $2,105,288 in 1936.

of program could be cut in half without impairing admissions. Proof of this is offered, he said, by recent experiments at one of the circuit's Toronto first-run houses, when the usual large advance advertising was reduced to mere announcement copy, without resulting in any falling off in grosses.

"What is as important as the selling of single attractions, if not more so, is the merchandising of pictures as entertainment," Nathanson contended. "We are neglecting to tell the large film audience of the high merit of our regular programs, the moderate prices charged, the comfort and convenience of the modern theatre."

They should be told, he said, of the fact that pictures offer more in wholesomeness and pleasure for the entire family than any other institution today.

To sell the screen on behalf of the 200 theatres of his circuit extending from coast to coast, the Canadian executive, in discussing the selling with J. J. Fitzgibbons, vice-president and general manager, set aside $3,000 weekly from the circuit advertising budget for this purpose. Nathanson hopes that the major concerns will participate in the movement to the same amount, since he feels the campaign will benefit them as well. Other industries, notably insurance, railroads and steel, find good reason to use advertising of this nature in addition to copy devoted to direct selling, he said.

There is every reason why the film industry should so sell itself, Nathanson concluded.

Postoffice Concludes Bank Night Hearing ground that it was operating a lottery.

Formal proceedings were initiated by the department last October, with issuance of a citation charging that the company was violating the lottery prohibition of the postal laws.

Representatives of Affiliated Enterprises appeared before postal officials several times to defend their methods, it being contended by Emmet Thurman, general counsel for the company, in final argument today, that it was a legitimate advertising medium for theatres.

In the past, the Postoffice Department has invoked the lottery prohibition against newspapers carrying exhibitor advertising of Bank Night. In the case now under consideration, however, the issuance of an order would, it was said, put the company out of business for all practical purposes, since it would not be permitted to send or receive mail concerned in any way whatever with Bank Night.

Canada Moves For Fee Boost Meet Attack

Montreal, Jan. 27.—Incensed at the move of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. in boosting radio receiving licenses 50 per cent this year, Jacques N. Cartier, member during the Bennett regime of the then Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, yesterday declared the corporation was forcing an "intolerable" policy on Canadians and Canadian business.

Cartier insisted CBC must either live on its advertising revenues and abolish all radio license taxation or quit the advertising field and go back to the original idea of state radio wholly for entertainment and education paid for by radio licenses.

Because the CBC is competing with private stations which up to the present have been self-supporting there is no justification for the increase in the radio license fee, he said.

Charges Link with NBC

He accused CBC of being a "little brother of NBC, shortly to become a full-fledged member of the RCA family." Already, he said, 15 per cent of the CBC transmitting time is made up of programs and American production piped across the line and this soon will be boosted to 50 per cent, he added.

Private Canadian stations, he said, have been refused permission to increase power and to organize into regional chains, yet, had this been allowed they would have given all the coverage Canada needed at no cost to the Canadian listener. Today, he said, these private stations find themselves stripped of revenue to meet unfair competition from a state-owned radio chain which "apparently cannot run its business and balance its budget on advertising, but also has to reach into Canadian listeners' pockets for more taxation."

Cartier suggested as "an easy way out" the appointment by the Government of a supervisor or "czar" to see that all parts of the country get proper radio entertainment, to see that due attention is given Canadian talent and to make certain that programs are not objectionable or advertising off color.

Order Inquiry Into Industry in Canada

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The Tariff Board has been instructed by Finance Minister Dunning to make a complete investigation of the radio industry in Canada.

The investigation, which will take months, will embrace production, distribution and sale of receiving sets, radio tubes and parts of sets. In addition the board will study the bearing of the patent law upon the manufacture, use and importation of radio tubes and sets, and particularly the effect upon the importation, cost and use of radios in Canada of the alleged pooled control of patent rights.

The pooling of patent rights has been the subject of Parliamentary debates several times in the past. It has been charged that Canadians were prevented from importing radios not made here because Canadian manufacturers held the patents and threatened to take action for patent infringement.

New Season's Selling Gets Earlier Start

Obtain Commitments on Past Performances

Selling of contracts for 1938-'39 product has been under way since last month, which is considerably earlier than usual and intensifies a trend that has been apparent in recent years, it was learned yesterday.

Some of the major companies have been obtaining commitments for next season on the basis of past performance, this particularly applying in cases where circuits and exhibitors have made purchases of 1937-'38 product several months after the season started. In such instances the deals also may include contracts covering the new season.

Indicative of the trend is that 20th

Expect Action On RKO Posts In a Few Days

Spitz Favors Berman for Studio Head, He Says

RKO theatre and studio management appointments are expected to be decided during conferences here within the next 10 days or two weeks, Leo Spitz, president of the company, said yesterday on his arrival in New York after two months of studio supervisory work and four weeks of conferences with financial and Federal court associates of the company on the coast.

Spitz indicated that Pandro S. Berman, who is in charge of the studio in Spitz's absence, is favored for production head of the company, and that "someone from within RKO theatre ranks" is preferred for the post of operating head of the circuit. He made it clear, however, that no decision on appointments to either post has been made yet and that the designations are subject to the results of the conferences which have been transferred from the coast to New York.

Official sources other than Spitz indicated that Berman continues to be

Detroit First Runs Reduce Price Scale

Detroit, Jan. 28.—Four local first run houses, the Fox, Madison, United Artists and Michigan, have lowered their evening prices by 10 cents, from a 75-cent top to 65 cents. The State and Adams are retaining their top of 50 cents. Business has been generally weak here for some weeks.

The higher prices were adopted about three months ago, but in view of the number of automobile workers out of employment here, it was decided to lower the admission in an effort to stimulate business. It was indicated that a number of subsequent run houses, which followed the first runs in raising admissions five to 10 cents, will be forced to return to the former levels.

Board of Censors for Omaha to Be Named

OMAHA, Jan. 28.—A city welfare board for censorship of films, books and stage plays will be appointed soon by Mayor Dan Butler, who has been in the spotlight the past year for his active censoring of pictures, literature and shows.

Butler said he would revive the welfare board after he clashed with prominent club members over a marihuana picture at Augie Herman's Muse Theatre. The club approved the film, but Butler ordered it not shown. Later welfare officials approved the film and it was shown.

In an announcement in newspapers, Butler said, "Theatre ads had better be more circumspect or I can extend my censor powers to them, too."

Century-Fox has been selling in advance of next season and that it has set its national sales convention for around April 1, more than a month earlier than is customary with the company. The meeting will be held in Kansas City. This company has been holding its national conventions late in May.

John D. Clark, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox in charge of distribution, said yesterday that the company has no set season for selling, that this activity is always under way and that early selling has been a practice with the company for the last five years.

"There is no particular reason, except our reputation with exhibitors on the basis of their experience with us in prior years," Clark asserted. He said that details of the new season program would not be divulged prior to the convention. The company is expected to schedule 57 features, the same as currently, in addition to a program of one-reelers, probably 52. Educational's releasing contract with 20th Century-Fox will expire next August and the distributing company will have its own shorts.

Franchises, 2 to 5 Years

W. J. Kupper, 20th Century-Fox western division manager, said product franchises are being made for periods of from two to five years.

Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Radio, said that while his company has not launched any selling for next season, he could see a definite reason why some companies would be inclined to do so at this time.

"When business is off, the distributors like to assure themselves of sales for next season," he said. "When conditions are good, they are more disposed to wait, feeling that the business will be obtained anyway."

Depinet did not think that the companies selling early, such as 20th Century-Fox, would have a great advantage over the others, for the reason, he said, that comparatively few exhibitors switch their playing time to companies other than those with which they have dealt in previous seasons. The exhibitors who switch do so because of some dissatisfaction with their deals or because they are "disgruntled," he said.

Depinet Cites Early Selling

"The trend in recent years has been to sell early," Depinet continued, "And why not? If an exhibitor is satisfied with a company's product performance, why should he not make early commitments for the next year?"

He pointed out that exhibitors can buy with a certain degree of assurance since each company knows pretty much in advance the numerical strength of its new season program, this ordinarily changing little from year to year.

Depinet also said that in cases where exhibitors hold off buying until late in the season, the tendency has been to sell them the future year's program as well as the current one. program in addition to the current one.

Commons Committee To Resume Thursday

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The House of Commons Committee on the Films Bill will reconvene next Thursday, at which time a decision is expected on the controversial alternative quota plan as proposed by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade. The proposal is believed virtually dead alr[illegible] as a result of the coolness of the pro[illegible] toward it, and the strongly voiced opposition from many quarters.

Grahame White has proposed a tax on foreign films which would vary in accordance with the number of showings of the films. Awaiting approval by the Commons committee are clauses determining the labor costs of films produced, specifying the legal commitments of distributors, defining the terminology of the act, and the like.

It is understood that the Board of Trade has expressed a willingness to consider representations made as a result of the present film shortage and the inability of distributors to meet their present quota requirements. It is suggested the difficulty might be met if the quota is reckoned for 12 months, instead of six months of the first year of the act as stipulated.

a preferred choice for the studio post, but that his own unwillingness to assume the added responsibilities in addition to his personal production work remains a barrier. Berman's views are reported to have sympathetic support in official quarters which feel that his production commitments require his undivided attention.

All Candidates Considered

The coast conferences which were participated in by Floyd B. Odlum, head of Atlas Corp.; Peter N. Rathvon, financial associate of Atlas; John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros.; Andrew C. Christensen, representative of Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee; O. C. Doering, Jr., of counsel to the trustee; Edwin Weisl, Atlas attorney, and Spitz, canvassed the entire field of available possibilities for the studio post and narrowed the list of eligibles down to the smallest possible number. The choice will be made from those remaining on the list.

Because of the general nature of the discussions in exploring all possible candidates for the post, no decision was possible during the coast sessions, it was stated.

Of the theatre operating appointment, Spitz said only that several candidates were under consideration and that, other factors permitting, he preferred an appointee from the ranks.

To Discuss Reorganization

Reorganization affairs will also be discussed here. Spitz said that the reorganization of RKO appeared at this time as though it would be "a long-drawn-out affair," but declined to predict a date for its completion. He said that reports that J. R. McDonough would assume a studio post were news to him and applied the same phrase to other reports that he contemplated withdrawing from RKO to resume his law practice in Chicago.

Spitz was met at Grand Central station by Barney Balaban, president of Paramount; Spyros Skouras, and Abe Lastvogel of the William Morris office.

It Never Rains . . .

It all happened to Larry Menkin, the CBS writer-director on the "Tish" program, based on the Mary Roberts Rinehart stories.

Menkin had ptomaine; orchestra leader Leith Stevens was ill; the arranger had a conflicting schedule and worked another program, which meant that the second violinist led the band, and cast changes were effected an hour before air-time because an actor got the jitters and went up in his lines continuously. By the time they went on the air, there was more than ptomaine disturbing Menkin.

Film Duties Will Figure in Canada Trade Treaty Talks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Films and theatre equipment will be included in discussions of a new reciprocal trade agreement with Canada on which public hearings are scheduled to begin April 4.

Negotiation of a trade treaty between the United States and Great Britain makes necessary a revision of the Canadian treaty which has been in effect for the past two years. Briefs and requests to be heard must be filed in Washington by March 12.

The present Canadian trade treaty did not affect the three-cent-per-foot tariff on film sent into Canada, which has been in effect for many years. The Canadian tariff on film brought in from the United Kingdom is only one and one-half cents per foot. Due to the fact that it has been possible to have prints made in Canada, the three-cent tax has not been an undue burden on American film companies in the past, but the increasing number of color productions, the prints of which must be made in the U. S. due to the lack of Canadian color printing facilities, is making the three-cent tariff increasingly costly.

The present treaty reduced the former 30 per cent Canadian ad valorem tariff on raw stock to 25 per cent. The old tariff on theatre equipment varied according to specific items. The trade treaty set a uniform 15 per cent tariff, effecting a total reduction of about 29 per cent. The Canadian tariff on advertising and printed matter formerly was 15 per cent, then was reduced to 12½ per cent, on the basis of pounds sterling, by the trade agreement.

All or most of these items may be involved in readjustments in the negotiation of a new treaty with the Dominion Government. Canada does not have a quota law on films.

Four A Board Meets Today on Guild Tilt

The board of directors of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America will convene again today in an effort to resolve internal strife which threatens the continued affiliation with it of both the Screen Actors' Guild and the American Federation of Actors.

The guild, on the point of settling its differences with the parent organization last week, found them renewed and intensified after an eight-hour meeting of the board last Friday. The same meeting brought to a head recent jurisdictional problems of the A. F. A. and ended with the disclosure that that organization is prepared to withdraw from the Four A's and seek an I. A. T. S. E. affiliation if its claims to jurisdiction over night club and presentation house entertainers do not receive what it regards as fair treatment within the Four A ranks. Cho-

While in London Kent will confer with Robert T. Kane, head of New World Productions, on the British pictures to be released through 20th Century-Fox.

Warners Plan To Refinance Next Summer

Debentures and Part of Preferred Included

Warners plan to make application to the Securities and Exchange Commission next summer for approval of a refinancing program which will include the outstanding $30,700,000 of optional six per cent convertible debentures and a substantial part of the preferred stock.

The debentures, according to the plan, will be replaced by an issue of new debentures and the holders of the preferred stock will be offered common stock in return for the redemption value of their holdings, plus the accumulated dividend.

Details of the plan will not be made known until shortly before the application is submitted to the S.E.C., the company said Saturday. The 10-year debentures were issued in 1929 and will mature Sept. 1, 1939. They were issued in denominations of $500 and $1,000.

The exchange of common stock for preferred will be to meet arrears in dividends on the preferred, which totaled $22.13¾ per share on Dec. 1, 1937. There were 103,107 shares of they receive, store or ship 27,000 fe of film daily.

Estimates of the fire losses in e changes are based on records whi show that the major company e changes handled an average of 400 fe tures annually for the past 12 yea and that an average of 200 prints each feature were in use or a tot of 80,000 prints annually. At an a erage print cost of $175, the tot print value averaged $14,000,000 p year, or $168,000,000 for the peri covered by the report. In the sar period, the print value of shorts, new reels and all other productions handl by the major exchanges is estimat at $50,000,000. Thus, of the $21 000,000 aggregate value of the prin handled, there was a loss of on $4,447 attributable to film exchan fires.

List Losses by Years

The fire loss record for the 1 year period is as follows—1926, o fire, $3,000 loss; 1927, none; 192 one fire, $25 loss; 1929, one fire, $1 200 loss; 1930, one fire, $15 los 1931, none; 1932, three fires, $ loss; 1933, none; 1934, one fire, $1 loss; 1935, two fires, $8.00 loss; 193 none; 1937, one fire, $10 loss.

Hollywood Preview

"Start Cheering"

(Columbia)

Hollywood, Jan. 30.—A quick way to describe this picture is as the one in which Jimmy Durante comes back with a bang. It may also be called a college comedy or, more accurately, another highlighting of what must by now be coming to be known as movie madness, but perhaps the easy way is to bill it as a musical comedy about a screen star who insists upon going to college, which certainly is novel and might prove provocative. Any billing selected for use may be decked out with positive adjectives.

Durante is the star of the picture, although playing what would be a minor role as a dimwitted assistant to Walter Connolly, agent of Charles Starrett, a Hollywood hero who tries to hide from his public and acquire a spot of education in a jerkwater college. Joan Perry is the lovely daughter of Dean Raymond Walburn and Gertrude Niesen a singing co-ed. Louis Prima and his band, Johnny Green and his orchestra, Hal LeRoy, Jimmy Wallington, Charlie Chase, Professor Quiz, Ernest Truex and the Three Stooges are among the merchandisable many who spread their stuff before the camera and microphone before everything comes out even.

Eugene Solow, Philip Rapp and Richard E. Wormser cooked up the screenplay from a story by Corey Ford, who is tops in the frisky fiction field, and Albert S. Rogell directed the production with a stopwatch in one hand and an applause meter in the other. Consequently it flows along like a hasty mountain brook to what is likely to be the immense amusement of the peasantry. It didn't cost a million dollars, but many pictures half as entertaining have cost twice as much. People ought to like it a lot.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Other applications filed with the commission included requests of KATE, Albert Lea, Minn., for extension of time from day to unlimited with 100 watts power night, 250 watts day, and KFSO, San Francisco, for increase of night power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts.

Half of Canadian Programs from US

on Saturday when eight and one-half hours out of the total of 16 hours are devoted to programs which are "piped" from the United States. This represents 53.1 per cent of the total time that the big Canadian stations are operating on that day. The lowest percentage of U. S. commercials is found on Wednesday when the schedule includes five and three-fourth hours of American programs. This represents 35.9 per cent of the 16-hour schedule for that day.

The interesting aspect of the situations, to many Canadians, is that the avowed purpose of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is to encourage Canadian programs of a non-commercial nature, but listeners are getting U. S. commercial programs during the best hours for which they pay a license fee each year while the same programs are available in the United States without such a levy.

Mutual Gives 22% of Time For Cultural Broadcasts

According to a breakdown prepared by the Mutual network's statistical department, 22.3 per cent of all programs offered over that network are devoted to educational and serious musical programs. Out of a total of 102¼ network hours a week, 22¾ hours are devoted to programs on literature, education, public affairs and serious music.

Programs listed under these classifications originate from 11 Mutual stations, WOR, WGN, WLW, WFIL, WIRE, WHKC, WHK - WCLE, WAAB, WCAE and KHJ, thus giving listeners a cross-section of the nation's cultural and educational tastes, rather than confining these broadcasts to a few major cities.

The statistics outlined above do not include programs devoted to religious music or religious talks. Many are presented in cooperation with educational and civic groups, including universities, the Government and various educational and cultural groups.

Among the network's outstanding programs fitting into the above classifications are "Sinfonietta," the Chicago, Indianapolis and Bamberger symphonies; Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, Dr. Charles M. Courbein, "Epic of America," "This Wonderful World," Hancock Ensemble, Forum Hour, Raymond Gram Swing, Theatre Digest, International House, New Poetry Hour, Wallenstein's "Impressions," Radio Garden Club, Gotham String Quartet, "World Neighbors" and others.

CBS Studies Radio Habits of Students

A study of radio in the nation's colleges and of the listening habits of the undergraduates has been completed by CBS and the results placed between covers in a book titled "Radio Goes to College."

CBS covered 18 colleges, 14 of them coeducational, in 16 states. The studies were made in the name of "Radio Research Bureau" New York.

Interviews obtained numbered 2,487. Asked if they had a radio set in their own rooms, 66.6 per cent of all students interviewed reported in the affirmative. The study revealed that 64.4 per cent of all men have radios in their rooms; 54.3 per cent of all women have radios in their rooms, and 95.8 per cent of the students reported having regular access to radio.

The men average three hours of listening per day, the women, two hours, 57 minutes daily. The students showed that they believe in "balanced" listening, the report showing 65.3 per cent listening "frequently" to light programs, 25.5 "occasionally," 7.2 "seldom," and 1.0 "never." Listening "frequently" to serious programs were 33.5 per cent; "occasionally," 40.9; "seldom," 19.3, and "never," 6.3 per cent. The normal network schedules divided approximately into 35 per cent for "serious" programs, and 65 per cent for "light" programs.

The 2,487 students named more than 700 different programs as "favorites." Of the first 25 favorite college programs, 15 are on CBS.

preferred outstanding on Nov. 27, last. On this basis the accumulated preferred dividends amounted to about $2,300,000.

The preferred stock has no par value, but a liquidating value of $55 a share and is entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of $3.85 a share.

That portion of the common offered and not taken by the preferred stockholders will be underwritten for a public issue by Hayden Stone & Co.

There is a possibility that there may be a bonus above the value of the preferred in order to make the issue attractive, but it was said at Warners that this has not been decided. Details of the refinancing plan depend on a number of factors, it was said.

The debentures were issued for a number of purposes. The first lot of $19,000,000 was offered Sept. 1, 1929, to meet bank loans and provide working capital. Another offering later was made to acquire properties, including $12,000,000 for the purpose of acquiring the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co.

film will be held for a fourth week, the first time any film has played longer than three weeks in the history of the theatre.

Saturday noon there was a line, two and three abreast, extending from the box-office around on 50th St. to Rockefeller Plaza and around on 51st St. Morning and matinee business was bigger than any day since the start of "Snow White." Children accompanied by parents were much in evidence.

New York Preview

"The Purple Vigilantes"

(Republic)

The Three Mesquiteers, Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune, take a turn for serious drama in this western. The story soft pedals their usual tongue-in-cheek brand of humor. Western fans should nevertheless find it highly enjoyable. Excitement, in the form of shooting, spectacular riding and the mysterious activities of a secret society are well tried elements and should not fail here. However, the producers should build some new scenery and props. They are being filmed too often and are easily recognizable.

The town of Trail's End is terrorized by an underworld element. A vigilante band is formed and cleans up the place. But a few unscrupulous members decide to keep the outfit alive for racketeering purposes. This eventually frames an innocent man who is accused of murder and faces hanging. Much activity by the Mesquiteers as they pursue various angles takes place and eventually the gang is unmasked. There is the usual thwarted romantic fadeout in which Livingston is made the butt of his companions' harmless teasing.

Joan Barclay supplies a sketchy romantic lead. Earl Dwire, Earle Hodgins, Francis Sayle, George Chesebro, Robert Fiske and Ernie Adams supply the support. George Sherman directed. Ernest Miller turned in a fine photographic job.

Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"Wife of General Ling"

(G. B.)

Perennially satisfying melodrama is again offered in "Wife of General Ling." It is an Oriental spy drama produced in England. There are modern touches to give relation to the present Chinese situation. Inkijinoff, a well known continental player, has a featured role. The film has been given a colorful production background with much pictorial and atmospheric appeal.

The general drift of the story concerns the efforts of the British intelligence staff in Hong Kong to track down smugglers of arms to a war lord on the mainland. They manage to veil their activities with the aid of the colonial government. Griffith Jones, an operative, gets a number of leads on Inkijinoff, the war lord, who also runs a business in Hong Kong under a different name. There is considerable killing, undercover conversation, slinking Chinese and display of the British character in the ensuing developments. Eventually, after his most valuable contact has been killed, Jones, with the aid of Adrienne Renn, Inkijinoff's wife, manages to conclude the career of her husband. They, it seems, are old sweethearts, and the film ends with the pair sailing for home.

The direction was smartly handled by Ladislaus Vadja to keep the action interesting. The dialogue attempts to be sparkling. The supporting cast offers Alan Napier, Anthony Eustrel, Jino Soneya, Hugh McDermott, Gibson Howland, Lotus Fragrance and Marion Spencer.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"Voice of India"

(J. H. Hoffberg)

The usual collection of scenes of Indian life, architecture, customs and a tiger hunt are offered here. There is a semblance of a story that concerns Paul Hoeffler, the leader of an Asiatic expedition, who is after scenes of a colorful revue that is to be put on by a native prince. The photography seems to have suffered from the effects of the heat.

From Bombay Hoeffler motors to Rajputana, where he gets his shots of elephants on parade, sacred crocodiles, religious customs, a tiger hunt and various natives and architecture. The climax arrives when a native and one of Hoeffler's assistants are attacked by a tiger. This stuff may be the real thing, but the sequence is blurred and jerkily presented. The picture concludes when Hoeffler gets a cable from his company telling him to hurry back with his negative because two other companies are planning a similar film.

Running time, 40 minutes. "G."

"Snow White" Pace Beating 1st Week

The first four days of the third week of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the Music Hall exceeded the corresponding periods in the first two weeks, it was reported yesterday. Indicative of the building power of the Disney film is that it grossed $72,000 from Thursday to Sunday, inclusive, while the same period in the first week tallied $65,000 and the first half of the second week $68,000.

The picture will enter a fourth stanza on Thursday and will not be moved thereafter to the Center, as has been reported. No other film has played four weeks at the Music Hall.

The two-a-day run of "In Old Chicago" garnered $17,000 in its third full week at the Astor, ending Sunday night. A gross of more than $9,000 was reported for the picture from its opening Thursday night to Sunday night at the Apollo, Chicago.

A fourth week is assured for "The Hurricane" at the Rivoli, where it grossed $13,000 on Saturday and Sunday, which topped the second weekend figure.

"Chicago" Test Runs To Determine Policy

The extent to which in "In Old Chicago" will be roadshown nationally depends on the results from present two-a-day engagements and those to start in a few days, it was said by 20th Century-Fox yesterday.

In addition to the New York, Los Angeles and Chicago engagements, the picture will start an indefinite run on Feb. 10 at the Erlanger, Philadelphia. On Feb. 13 it will open for two weeks at the Nixon, Pittsburgh, and the following day will start at the Colonial, Boston, for four weeks. The Astor run here has been set for eight weeks, with three already played.

The suit originally was brought in advance of the Loew's stockholders' meeting, it was disclosed, but was adjourned by consent of both sides. Named as defendants in the action are Nicholas M. Skouras Authorizes New Colorado House

Despite an economy wave now under way in National Theatres, Spyros Skouras, who heads the circuit, has approved an appropriation of $100,000 for construction of a theatre in Sterling, Col. The budget was set in conferences here last week with Rick Ricketson, Intermountain division manager with headquarters in Denver. Skouras left yesterday for the coast. He is expected back the middle of next week.

Ricketson, who operates about 100 theatres, left Saturday night and planned to stop off in North Platte, Neb., to meet Ray Davis, district manager. The two will inspect theatres in neighboring towns. Ricketson plans to return here in May.

The current economy program is aimed to eliminate unnecessary expense in theatre operation. Personnel is not affected.

"Monastery"

(World Film)

Much in the fashion that "Cloistered," released some time ago, pictured the lives of cloistered nuns, "Monastery," produced also by Robert Alexander, and presented by George Kraska and World Film, details pictorially and by commentary the ordered and circumscribed existence of monks. It is at once an enlightening and intensely interesting study of devotion to an ideal of peace and humility, rare enough in today's civilization.

The production, which is said to have been inspired by the poem, "The Monks," by Emil Verhaeren, includes an interesting and informative introduction by Rev. Michael J. Ahern, who also is responsible for the narration. An appropriate musical score adds to the effectiveness of the scenes. As is explained by Father Ahern, the film depicts two types of monastic order within the Catholic Church, the active and the contemplative.

For typical examples of each phase the producers have used the famed Great St. Bernard Monastery in Switzerland, wherein the "active" monastic work is carried on, and a Trappist Monastery in France. A brief word-history of each order precedes each sequence, after which the camera records in detail the daily lives of the monks. There is dramatic value in the picturization of the St. Bernard monks, responding to an alarm, hurrying on skiis to the rescue of a traveler buried under an avalanche on the St. Bernard Pass. Perhaps too graphic is the scene in the underground mortuary where the bodies of dead travelers are kept until they can be claimed by relatives in the spring.

Still more interesting by reason of the extreme austerity and utter simplicity of their "contemplative" lives, are the scenes of the Trappist monks, whose order is perhaps the most rigorous and trying of all within the framework of the Catholic Church. Their lives, as readily may be seen, are composed of simple subsistence tasks and prayer, with the latter phase playing the dominant part. Their self-contained community is virtually without contact with the outside world.

Intelligently produced and edited, "Monastery" is documentary material of a high order.

Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

"Walking Down Broadway"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Jan. 31.—It was in the nature of things—and probably should not be construed as more than a coincidence meriting mention as exhibitor information—that there would, and no doubt should, be another picture in the successful format of "Stage Door." "Walking Down Broadway" is that picture, a screen play by Robert Chapin and Karen DeWolf, from a story by Mark Hellinger, and it has many if not mighty names for marquee use and much entertainment for the patrons such billing may attract. It is a Sol M. Wurtzel production directed by Norman Foster and a thoroughly screenworthy offering in spite of its generic handicap.

The six "stars of tomorrow" featured on the distaff side are Claire Trevor, Phyllis Brooks, Leah Ray, Dixie Dunbar, Lynn Bari and Jane Regan. Opposite them in various relationships, principally romantic, are Michael Whalen, Thomas Beck, Douglas Fowley, Walter Woolf King, Robert Kellard and Leon Ames. Prominence is pretty evenly distributed among the dozen, with Miss Trevor and Whalen getting a slight edge, while little Joan Carol and Jed Prouty also figure in the proceedings.

The story, like that of "Stage Door," is a weaving together of several boy-and-girl romances of varying conclusion. Six chorus girls pledge themselves on New Year's Eve to meet again a year later. One is killed in a traffic accident, one plunges to death from an apartment veranda, another goes to the penitentiary for murder, another to South America with an absconding sweetheart, and two find themselves aboard ship bound for Europe with the men of their choice. A considerable variety of comedy, melodrama and not too much confusion slips down the screen between beginning and end of the picture.

Two songs by Sidney Clare and Harry Akst are worked into the film, without making it a musical comedy, and the dialogue is for the most part brisk, without becoming talky.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Cold Delays Start of N.W. Allied Meeting were: Nominating committee, committee on percentage pictures, committee to confer with Abram F. Myers and H. M. Richey regarding National Allied's plans for the year, committee on increased film costs to find out why distributors announced the curtailment of plans for million-dollar pictures after the selling season was over without giving theatre men reductions, committee to present a resolution criticising Universal for selling films picturing the sinking of the Panay as they did.

No other business was transacted today, the proceedings being very informal. Steffes tomorrow will tell exhibitors to avoid any violation of their contracts which he claims were obtained through misrepresentation of product in some cases. He will say that the exhibitor has a good chance to sue distributors in district courts, to seek redress.

Myers and Richey will arrive tonight, also Harry Sherman, George Dembow and others. Tonight delegates will see "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at a midnight preview.

Picks Art Directors

Hollywood, Jan. 31.—Frank Capra, president of the Academy, has named members of the art direction award committee which will select the production to receive the art direction award. The committee consists of Roland Anderson, Lionel Banks, William A. Horning, Mark-Leo Kirk, John Hughes, W. B. Ihnon, Jack Otterson, Carroll Clark and A. Toluboff.

They must view each of the 10 nominated productions at a series of showings to be held during the next four weeks.

Vote Down Walkout

Minneapolis, Jan. 31.—A motion to stage an immediate walkout was defeated by operators here by a margin of seven votes. The vote was taken following their failure to obtain salary increases of from 15 to 20 per cent. The suggested contract has been in negotiation since November. Theatre owners not only are refusing the demands but are insisting that a reduction in salaries is necessary.

New Shows On the Air

"Busy Line, 4142"

Proving in notable fashion that good dramatic fare can be produced at an independent studio despite the manifold handicaps faced by local stations in the presentation of "live" dramatic programs, WHN on Sunday presented "Busy Line, 4142," the first in a series of weekly plays. In production, treatment and presentation, it compared favorably with what the major networks have to offer.

The setting of "Busy Line, 4142" was in a telephone booth. Through conversations over the phone the author cleverly wove an exciting, melodramatic story involving murder. The story and dialogue was crisp and full of punch, and the actors were excellent.

The new dramatic presentations will be heard each Sunday from 5:30 to 6 P. M. over WHN.

which have been in progress since Grainger resigned from Universal with the election of Nate J. Blumberg as president and the appointment of W. A. Scully as distribution head. Yates today said the possibility of Grainger's joining Republic had been discussed "for months."

Yates, who heads Consolidated Film Industries, expects to be here about two more weeks lining up production for 1938-'39. He said the program would be increased by 10 features over the current schedule of 30 features, 24 westerns and four serials.

Republic has scheduled its national sales convention for the coast, May 3, 4 and 5. Franchise holders as well as home office executives, sales supervisors and field staffs will attend. Yates plans to have three or four pictures completed in time to screen at the meeting.

Republic Meeting Feb. 8

Grover C. Schaefer, Republic comptroller, yesterday said that the next directors' meeting at which Grainger is to be elected president and a director probably will be scheduled for Feb. 8 and will be held in New York.

Republic Pictures Corp. of New York, which Grainger will head, is the distributing company. It has had no president. Walter Vincent is chairman of the board. Republic has been without a sales head since the resignation of J. J. Milstein several weeks ago.

Grainger will bring to Republic a background of wide experience in distribution gained with various companies. At one time he was vice-president and sales manager of the old Goldwyn Co., resigning to become general sales manager of Fox Film Corp. in 1924. He remained with Fox nine years. After leaving that company he was made general sales manager of Universal.

Raps Quebec Censors

Toronto, Jan. 31.—The Quebec censors have been handed a severe rap from an entirely new quarter because of their decisions which are frequently quite different from those handed down by the censors of other Canadian provinces. Criticism this time is from Prof. H. D. Brunt, director of the Department of English, Macdonald College, Montreal, who publicly condemned Quebec film censorship as "illogical, inconsistent and unintelligent."

The Professor declared that the wholesale deletion of scenes and other alterations frequently destroyed the whole sense of a story on the screen.

Cinematone Varieties Corp., whose officers are W. P. Falkenberg, president of Rayolite Distributing Co., and Dr. Gordon Keith Woodard, inventor of the projection device, who has taken three years to perfect it.

The plans call for the production of 20 shorts weekly, to run two and one-half minutes each, and the manufacture of 500 machines within 60 days at Chicago and Davenport, Ia. An experimental machine already has been installed at Lindy's cafe in Los Angeles, and currently is using a cut-down Paramount short starring Bing Crosby, which was released to the 16 mm. field, and several animated cartoons in reduced length.

Eight Feet in Height

The machine is eight feet high, in modern design, projecting images with sound to a screen four feet square. Victor Animatograph sound projection equipment is used with a continuous projection attachment. Novelty and variety acts and "name" bands will be used in the shorts.

Falkenberg declared 5,000 machines will be turned out this year at a cost of $2,500,000, while the production budget for the year is placed at $750,000. The company estimates 200,000 cocktail lounges as potential customers. Under the patents applied for, the machines will offer a choice of 20 subjects and a dime will operate the apparatus.

Through Hank Levy, director of publicity, Falkenberg indicated that he feared to anger the film industry, and consequently will not attempt to use film personalities. Production craft union rules will be observed, and the union scale will be maintained at all times, he said.

Film Board to Install

Officers of the N. Y. Film Board of Trade for 1938 will be installed at the board's offices in the Paramount Building tomorrow, and a party at the Casa Manana will follow. Writer from Germany Backs Warner Stand on Time Reel

Harry M. Warner's decision against the showing in Warner theatres of the current issue of "The March of Time," entitled "Inside Nazi Germany —1938," returned to the spotlight yesterday with the publication in the New York Post of an article by Martin Proctor.

Proctor's article discusses "Inside Nazi Germany" from a viewpoint based on intimate knowledge of Hitler's Germany. He arrived in this country only three months ago and had previously been a newspaperman in Germany as well as a scenario writer for UFA.

Proctor denies that the film contains "inside information" and declares that it avoids showing anything which accurately depicts prevailing conditions in Germany, leaving with the observer only that kind of an impression which the Propaganda Office wishes to have conveyed.

Proctor's article follows:

"After seeing the newest March of Time film, the so-called inside story of Germany of 1938, I was deeply surprised by the methods of advance promotion of the movie. One of the blurbs was printed even in your paper.

"After reading the blurbs, there was no other impression possible for the average reader than to imagine that this newsreel was an unbiased piece of pictorial inside information made recently with great cunning and personal risks. In one notice I read that these films were smuggled out of Germany by way of Latvia.

"Now I have seen the film. I can only say that most of the footage is material cut from the official German

Reject Only 397 Ads from 14,033 Total

1937 Results Are Shown In Council Report

Less than 400 film advertisements out of a total of more than 14,000 which were submitted to the Advertising Advisory Council during 1937 were rejected or revised, it was revealed in a survey made public yesterday by the M. P. P. D. A.

Similarly, only 824 stills of a total of 129,456 submitted by major companies during the year were rejected or revised. The discarded or revised stills were equivalent to one-half of one per cent of the total number submitted. In 1936, 752 out of a total of 108,718 stills were rejected or revised.

In 1936, 353 ads out of a total of 16,196 were discarded or revised. Last year, the number was 397 of a total of 14,033.

The survey showed a similar minimum representation of objectionable material in other phases of advertising, publicity and exploitation work passed upon by the council. For example, only six publicity stories out of a total of 15,547 were discarded or theatres in southern California cited two causes of action; first, breach of contract and, second, violation of the anti-trust laws. They asked $70,000 damages in the first cause and $140,000 in the second. In his opinion Judge Yankwich said:

"The party having the right of selection can be charged with breach of alternative obligations only when he fails to perform both. Where the obligation indicates clearly that it contemplates performance of one only of two acts, in alternative, no fraud can exist unless both promises were made without intention to perform."

Dismissal of the action without prejudice permits the plaintiffs to file a new complaint amending causes of the action.

Cohen, Para. Talk Dispute Settlement

Cohen will be "satisfactorily" compensated for the last film with Mae West and for the most recent Bing Crosby film, "Dr. Rhythm," which had been completed but not edited at the time of the break. With regard to Cohen's players, it is said that Crosby is under direct contract to Paramount, with an option for one outside picture annually, accounted for by "Pennies from Heaven" and "Dr. Rhythm" for Cohen.

Miss West is not under Paramount contract and her last three pictures completed her contract with Cohen. The producer could not be reached for comment tonight.

St. Louis Action on Ordinance Continued

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 1.—Circuit Judge William S. O'Connor today, with the consent of counsel, continued until Feb. 28 the hearing on the injunction sought by local theatre owners to restrain the city from enforcement of a new theatre safety ordinance. The case will be tried on its merits on the date set.

Nine additional local theatres have joined the action as plaintiffs, aligning themselves with the 29 operators who filed the original action. Officers and members of the local projectionists' union were allowed to intervene in defense of the ordinance, which pertains to the installation and operation of projection booths, and was passed under the sponsorship of the I.A.T.S.E. The contention of the theatre owners is that the ordinance is unconstitutional in that it will deprive them of property without due process of law. The show cause order on the injunction action was returnable today.

To Bring Loew Suit To Immediate Trial

An application for a temporary injunction to restrain Loew's, Inc., from putting into effect profit-sharing contracts with company executives was withdrawn at a hearing yesterday before Justice Peter A. Schmuck when it was agreed to bring to immediate trial a suit to test the company's right to enter into the contracts.

Joseph M. Proskauer, attorney for Loew's, agreed for the company to an immediate trial of the issues on their merits. Justice Schmuck will set a trial date within the next few days. Indications are that the trial date will be early in March.

The action to have the contracts set aside was brought by Bernard Epstein, holder of 10 shares of Loew's preferred and 13 shares of common.

To Examine Gordon and Revel

The examination before trial in Los Angeles of Mack Gordon and Harry Revel was ordered by Judge Alfred C. Coxe in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. Gordon and Revel, together with 20th Century-Fox and Robbins Music Corp., were named as defendants in an infringement suit brought by Charles McCord, a songwriter. McCord claims plagiarism of his song "I'll Always Remember Ronkonkoma" in the Gordon and Revel song "Good Night My Love" which was heard in the picture "Stowaway." A permanent injunction, $50,000 damages and an accounting of the profits is sought.

"TAKE A LETTER!"

DEAR MR. EXHIBITOR:

Life is a beautiful thing . . . check us up if we're wrong! You've got a showshop and all around you are Mamas, Papas and Juniors who patiently wait to swap their dough for your show. That brings us right up to the purpose of this letter!

If Mr. and Mrs. Public and Offspring had sat down to describe for you the kind of picture they wanted to see Robert Taylor in, they would have asked for all the happy ingredients that went into the making of "A Yank At Oxford." What an entertainment that is! Two-fisted stuff with real characters playing real parts and Bob in the most human, most winning role he ever had. For the gals there's heart-throb and very interesting catch-as-catch-can . . . for the men there's sockeroo! To put it conservatively, "A Yank At Oxford" is the business!

Pardon us for pointing, but we've got a studioful of hits right now that will make you very happy indeed for months to come!

Sincerely yours,
M-G-M

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 41

(20th Century-Fox)

A fairly interesting newsreel has been assembled in this issue. Taken as a whole it is a satisfactory pictorial record of the big news of the past week which lent itself to pictorial reproduction.

The lead offers scenes of the various festivities held in connection with the celebration of the President's birthday for the support of an infantile paralysis foundation. The President gives his thanks, too. The exclusive scenes of the collapse of the Falls View Bridge at Niagara Falls, which went out last week as a supplementary and exclusive clip, are given an adequate follow up with more shots of the ice jams and general destruction on the banks of the river.

There are a number of clever compositions offering spring styles in women's hats. Here Vyvyan Donner got a novel camera effect with a revolving mirror. There are brief scenes of the airplane show in Chicago, and the change of command of the Navy, and Ed Thorgersen applies his vocal comment to an indoor roller-skating derby in Miami where there are many vivid spills. The crew teams of California and Washington universities working out and the remarkable ice skating prowess of a cute five-year-old miss in St. Paul. Lew Lehr comically garbles his dialect with thrillingly filmed scenes of "Lucky" Teeter, the automobile smasher upper, doing just that. Running time, 9 mins. P.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 239

(M-G-M)

A familiar assemblage of wintry weather, aviation, national affairs and sport are found in this number which manages to be interesting. There seems to have been a scarcity of dramatic pictorial news.

The snowed-in condition of various middle west states opens the celluloid journalism. It is the usual stuff with snowed under cars and the other incidental scenes. There is however, a fine shot of a railway snow plow doing its spectacular stuff. Next comes Admiral Hepburn's retiring ceremonies and Admiral Bloch, his successor, tells the assembled service men that they are ready to fight when it is necessary. Residents of San Francisco's Chinatown are seen contributing money for the relief of war sufferers on the other side of the Pacific. The President's Ball at the Waldorf Astoria follows and then there is to be seen an aviation show in Chicago, a new British seaplane taking off, Pompoon winning a race at Arcadia, Cal.; the Washington Huskies rowing their shells and a roller skating race in Miami. Running time, 8 mins. P.

Paramount News

(Paramount)

High spots of the news of the week-end are covered in an interesting and entertaining manner in this release. Subjects of more than usual screen worth are numerous. They include the Niagara ice jam and the resulting destruction of "Honeymoon Bridge" and shore line property; ceremonies aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania at San Pedro as the Navy's new commander, Admiral Bloch, assumes his post, and the fleet's war games which follow; the birth of a new princess to the Royal Family of the Netherlands, and the President's birthday celebrations in Washington.

Some good sports subjects complete the reel. Indoor track events at Boston and an exhibition by five-year-old Irene Davidson, St. Paul figure skater, share top honors. Practice sessions of the Washington and California crews and a 2,000-mile roller skating marathon under way at Miami are of less popular interest. Running time, 9 mins. K.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 56

(RKO)

A variety of subject matter, terse treatment and good narration give this release an excellent rating both on coverage and editing.

Observances of the President's 56th birthday in Washington and New York, together with renewed efforts in his crusade against infantile paralysis, hold the lead position in the reel. Following, in order, are scenes of the damage resulting from the ice jam in the Niagara River; San Francisco's Chinatown foregoing its New Year's celebrations to donate the money saved to war relief funds for the homeland; the International Air Show at Chicago; induction of Admiral Bloch as commander-in-chief of the Navy, succeeding Admiral Hepburn; scenes in Michigan towns marooned by blizzards; winter construction work on the new International Bridge across the St. Lawrence River; St. Paul's winter carnival and its feature—five-year old Irene Davidson, the world's youngest figure skater, and indo track events at the K. of C. games i Boston.

The material is well photographe and entertainingly described. Runnin time, 8 mins. K.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 637

(Universal)

North and south get the regulatio mid-winter attention in this issu Residents of Munising and Marquett Mich., are shown plowing and diggin themselves out of huge snowdrifts, an farmers about Prophetstown, Ill., ar pictured chopping themselves out o the icy aftermath of a flood. To balance the shivers induced by thes scenes a Miami roller skating derb is presented. It looks pretty much lik a six-day bike race, and the assorte spills furnish both thrills and laughs

Another warm weather scene is a series of shots of Lucky Teeter doin odd things in an automobile at Paln Beach.

Varied angles are presented on th President's birthday ball at Washington and the one at the Waldorf-Astoria. A crew of girls opening envelopes containing dimes also is shown.

No Universal cameraman was present when the Niagara bridge fell, s air shots of the falls and the ice jan and the broken bridge lying on the ic are presented.

Admiral Block takes over comman of the U. S. fleet at San Pedro in a snappy ceremony accompanied by band music, but what the admiral says int a CBS microphone is lost behind th voice of the commentator.

Boys and adult air enthusiasts will enjoy a few fleeting shots of the International Air Show at Chicago. Running time, 9½ mins. J.

newsreels. To show such type of film in the United States, nobody would have to risk his life in Germany. The mere writing of a letter to the UFA, Doenhoffsplatz, Berlin, inclosing the necessary dollars for the negatives, would bring the whole "inside information" by the next boat from Hamburg.

"Or most probably the UFA Films, Inc., 279 Seventh Avenue, New York City, will have most of this stuff in stock at cut-rate prices because parts of the newsreel were made from negatives of Reichsparteitag festivals and other official gatherings in Germany.

"The only scenes probably made in Germany for the especial purposes of this film were the scenes showing the street signs, "No Jews admitted here," etc. I know that generally the photographing of these signs was forbidden. But because the signs are not constantly guarded they can be snapped quite easily with a hand camera during a safe hour.

"How can the March of Time offer this newsreel as "inside information"? Can any one visiting Germany on a short trip see less than the parading as shown in this strip? Can any one see from this film how Germany's anti-Hitler citizens are suffering?

The Sound and the Fuehrer

"The whole is a flaming pro-Nazi story, if there ever was one. What do you really see? Youth marching, singing and working. Iron factories and other plants going full blast. Babies cared for, people fed, soldiers and brown-shirts well clad and well fed, marching happily. And dictators orating and people cheering.

"Where is the real "inside story"? Where is the picture showing how many million marks were stolen from the workers' unions, and how the unions themselves were ruthlessly penalized and abolished?

"Where is the "inside story" of how strikers have been beaten cruelly, jailed and shot, because they dared ask for better wages? Where do I see the courageous pastors and priests chased from the pulpits and thrown into jail?

"Where is the story of how the Fuehrers themselves are living, spending money without any serious control, and the story of how they and their underlings are keeping large "personal staffs," which are really harems of male or female favorites, according to individual taste?

"Where is the story of the SS leader, one of the biggest sadists who ever lived, and the story of his villa, heavily guarded by marksmen of his blackshirted staff? And what about Hitler's Praetorians, the few men officially almost unknown, but whose deeds are grape-vined in terrified whisper throughout the country?

Bestowing a Medal

"Where is the picture of the numerous young, clean girls forced to join the BDM, a young girls' group, and often seduced in the camps by the young Bund leaders?

"What about the simple workmen who were so foolishly brave as to refuse membership in the "Labor Front" and who are now rotting in a concentration camp and are sure never to find work again?

"And what about the unfortunate Socialist and Communist members of the former Parliament, kept behind barbed wire in mud and mire for five years and without hope of pardon?

"I must stop this list of questions because the March of Time people, least of all, can answer them.

"This time they have fooled the public. They have abused the wide interest of the democratic people of America in behalf of this badly composed and dishonest news strip.

"The March of Time editor has done his modest bit for Nazi Germany. And by order of Herr Goebbels himself, I herewith bestow upon the editor the "Clubfoot medal" made of hollow tin, to be worn with a swastika on a ribbon festooned with a blurb."

parent at the session, the atmosphere appeared charged with a note of skepticism. The problem of grading films as to quality and the use of two so-called "A" features on one program were the main objectives of the discussion today. A joint subcommittee of five distributors and five exhibitors was appointed to investigate the situation.

D. E. Griffiths, president of the K.R.S., claimed the grading of films was designed to bring a halt to theatre programs of excessive length. Charles P. Metcalfe, C.E.A. president, on the other hand, replied that the distributor plan had not accomplished that purpose, but had served to increase rentals. The exhibitors contend that if the grading idea has any merit, they should be represented on the committee which is concerned with the classification of product.

PETTIJOHN MAKES ARBITRATION PLEA

Tells Northwest Allied Present Methods Are "Disgusting"

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 2.—Present methods of handling industry disputes are "disgusting," declared Charles C. Pettijohn today before the Northwest Allied convention.

He made a fiery plea for establishment of arbitration boards, and the settlement of industry problems through discussion "so that the legal Pied Pipers can't eventually take over the picture business."

"We have lost our right to discuss and adjust difficulties," he declared. "We sell our commodities cheaper than any other business considering the amounts invested. The greatest fault today lies in the inability of those in this business to get together through boards of arbitration and settle differences."

ITOA to Join Fight Against Charity Games

Aligned to Bronx Drive On Bingo Parties

The I. T. O. A. has started a drive to enlist the interest of law enforcement officials in the metropolitan area toward banning Bingo and similar games sponsored by churches, charitable organizations and fraternal clubs.

The campaign is in line with the moves of District Attorney Foley in the Bronx, who has declared that games of chance will not be tolerated. Foley's campaign has been commended by church leaders.

The I. T. O. A. believes that the large crowds drawn by the Bingo parties are competition to theatres, especially at night. Harry Brandt, president said yesterday that he had appointments with the district attorneys in counties other than the Bronx to discuss the situation. Brandt said the Bingo games are in part to blame for the falling off in business in the neighborhoods, which he says is at a

The Exhibitor's Screen— How Shall It Be Used?

By Martin Quigley

IN keeping with predictions recorded in various quarters in the industry, the current issue of "The March of Time," entitled "Inside Nazi Germany," is creating a condition which borders on chaos in many theatres throughout the country. Meanwhile it is hastening the day upon which organized opinion in the industry must decide what position, if any, material of this character is to be given in programs of motion picture theatres.

The Editors of "The March of Time" have developed for their medium a distinct form and treatment which have received widespread approval. They have in many instances made valuable contributions to the interest of the screen, frequently compelling the attention of persons who are not ordinarily regular patrons of motion picture theatres. Exhibitors have registered their approval of these contributions by giving the medium generous and widespread support.

The Editors of "The March of Time," however, pursuant to their professed delusion that as fabricators of this subject they are at the same time publishers of it to the world, have allowed themselves on occasion to adopt material which has been useful to their purposes but not commonly helpful to the best interests of the theatres, which are in reality the publishers and the factors of immediate responsibility on everything that reaches the public via the screen.

Pointed up by the repercussions incidental to "Inside Nazi Germany" and the sensationalism to which "The March of Time" and its associated publications are so heartily devoted, there is provided a situation which requires the thought-

French Delay Start Of New Theatre Tax

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The French Government today postponed indefinitely the effective date of the new theatre tax law, which was to have gone into effect today, and which aroused a storm of opposition from all branches of the industry.

The legislation called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the state tax on theatres using vaudeville in conjunction with film programs, and employing orchestras, but increased the state tax by 25 per cent on all theatres which did not show vaudeville or use orchestras, whose monthly receipts exceed $6,700.

The organized industry opposition reached the point where the exhibitors,

We hold that the motion picture theatre is and should remain devoted to the mission of providing entertainment. Entertainment in the sense used here must of course be accorded a latitudinous definition but certainly not one that may be stretched to include controversial political material. It might be argued that Nazism is not or should not be a controversial political issue in the United States. Unfortunately this is not so. The political theory of totalitarianism which lies at the root of Nazism is not—it is gravely to be regretted—without adherents in this country. But even though it were, there still remain in the press, the platform and elsewhere ample facilities for exposition and argument without resort to the one place where millions of the public come regularly and pay an admission fee in their quest for entertainment and relaxation.

"The March of Time" and its associated publications regularly give evidence of an irreverent disrespect for many traditions, conventions and principles. It may well be that these interests hold that the industry's policy of entertainment only is just another idol which they are ordained to demolish. If so, the industry ought to make quick realization of it and should be equally quick and sufficiently emphatic in making its answer. That answer must necessarily be that the industry has accumulated experience over the years which teaches it that it has no intention whatsoever of allowing its theatres to be converted into bedlams of turmoil and dissension.

"Inside Nazi Germany" is a subject well-calculated to provoke bitter friction among audiences everywhere. To certain giddy minds that might look like a great idea. As a matter of fact this subject is susceptible of causing this result even among people who are in agreement on either their hatred or their love of Nazism for the obvious reason that it set out to be one thing and in its process of fabrication tried to become something else and in the end became, in so far as its argument is concerned, a hodge-podge.

Plainly the photographic material showing, with the exception of a few shots, a healthy, happy and prospering Germany was official bureaucratic propaganda. To this was added a monologue which attempted not altogether successfully to present a critical argument. The overall effect in this writer's opinion is a screen document of some service and satisfaction to Hitlerism. We do not believe that the editors intended this. They obviously made an effort at impartiality—for which they will be damned by millions of Americans—or else they imagined they had compiled an adverse report. As to the latter there are other millions who will remain unconvinced.

The Editors of "The March of Time" very likely are right now quite contented about it all. They may reason that they have put on a provocative screen document and that according to design it has gone right ahead and produced a world of controversy. But these gentlemen are reminded that they have started a fire in a neighbor's house and that while they may be sitting across the street contentedly licking their chops the neighbor is having a bad time of it and the house which is in disorder is one in which he intends to go right on living for years to come.

The Editors of "The March of Time" are not alone in the enjoyment of perverted ideas as to what constitutes proper screen material. There are thousands throughout this country who in a headlong rush for a change in political, social and economic order are in a fever of covetousness to gain the screens of the nation for their stump speeches. Our precious constitutional guarantees give to all of these abundant opportunities for every conceivable freedom of expression. An indulgent government even gives to some of them a grant of money from the Federal Theatre Project to help them along. But these constitutional guarantees do not mean that they can use my home or my office for their speeches. Neither do they mean that these propagandists may commandeer the exhibitor's screen for their purposes.

But the Editors of "The March of Time" are accepted and in fact cordially welcomed factors in the motion picture industry. They should know better. They should know that there is a great difference for theatrical purposes between a subject which provokes discussion and legitimate controversy and one which kindles the embers of violence. It is quite all right to have the villain on the screen hissed. But it is not all right to foment a condition in a theatre in which members of the audience hiss each other. Personal insults are not normally far-removed from personal violence. Theatre patrons are supposed to be seated in comfortable opera chairs and not crouched behind barricades.

The exhibitors of the country ought to tell "The March of Time" that it is welcomed when it behave itself but only then. They shoul tell it that they want the subjec in all of the pleasing virility an graphicness which has so ofte characterized it. They should tel it, however, that they expect it t be mindful of the proprieties of theatrical presentation—that they d not want controversial political material which is calculated to destro the theatre as the public's escap from the bitter realities, the anguishes and the turmoil of life.

acting as a unit, threatened to close all the theatres in the country unless the tax was repealed, and the organized distributors supported the move, with every indication that if the threat were carried out, the other branches of the industry would take similar action, potentially resulting in a complete shutdown of the industry.

The official reason for the postponement was that the French Department of Finance must first study the application of the law, which was described as having been enacted hastily by the Chamber of Deputies under pressure of a strike of musicians last Christmas.

Informed industry circles are of the opinion, however, that the real reason behind the postponement is the threat of an industry lockout.

Negotiations already have been opened among the Government, the film industry, and the musicians' syndicate seeking a settlement of the problem. Moreover, it is expected that the Cinema Commission of the Senate will press the Department of Finance for the abolition of the new controversial tax measure as a move to forestall industry action for a general reduction of all existing entertainment taxes.

New Shows on the Air

"Musical Klass"

Kay Kyser's "Musical Klass," new series on Mutual for the American Tobacco Co., is a sparkling newcomer to the ranks of audience participation shows, this one testing the musical knowledge of contestants and listeners. The idea, built by Kyser in his early morning sustaining dance spots, is somewhat similar to another American Tobacco Co. show, "Melody Puzzles," but the "Klass" is a much more entertaining show than its predecessor.

The questions are tricky and diversified, including biographical notes of the various radio bandleaders, identification of their various theme songs, guessing the titles of songs after a few identifying bars have been played, and the like. Kyser acts as quizzer and "em cee," and he handles the assignment smoothly. The "Klass" is a good buy for Lucky Strike cigarettes.

"Musical Klass" is a Tuesday feature, from 8 to 8:45 P. M. Lord & Thomas is the agency.

Chicago Women Carry Protests On Double Bills to City Hall

Chicago, Feb. 3.—The double bill controversy here took a more vigorous turn today when scores of clubwomen and teachers, said to represent 150,000 school children and 50,000 homes, trooped to the City Hall to protest against double features to Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundeson.

Later they cornered Aldermen Terrell and Lindell in the chambers of the City Council and repeated their protest. Bundeson and the council members said that a public hearing would be held within 10 days. The women were armed with resolutions from 260 district associations of the Parent-Teachers' Association demanding the abolition of double features on the ground that they are injurious to the health of children in that they keep them in theatres too long.

The club leaders said they will demand an ordinance prohibiting film shows in excess of two and one-half hours. The demonstration was one of the most unusual of its kind here and definite action of some sort is expected to result. It is known that the independent theatre owners and operators of small circuits are in favor of the elimination of duals.

Triples Worry Toledo Spots, States Smith

Exhibitors in Toledo are quite concerned over triple features which made their appearance for the first time in that city the other day. They are watching the outcome carefully, said Martin G. Smith, president of the I.T.O. of Ohio, here yesterday.

Toledo has been a stronghold of double bills, as is the rest of Ohio with the exception of Cleveland, but three features on one program are an innovation in that section. The policy has been inaugurated by Jack O'Connell at the Ohio, a neighborhood house with a large Polish patronage. The admission price is 20 cents.

A possible explanation for the move is that the recession has affected employment in that particular neighborhood and the theatre went to triple features in an effort to bolster business, according to Smith. The house operates only at night.

Use Believed Limited

"The other exhibitors in the town are pretty level-headed and I don't believe triples will spread," Smith said. The opening program on the new policy consisted of "Dr. Syn," "Boots and Saddles" and "The Jones Family."

Up to two weeks ago, business was good in Toledo and Smith explained this by the fact that the city's industries are diversified. In Akron, he pointed out, where tires are the big industry, theatre business has been affected since early last December by a reduction in factory payrolls. Smith could ascribe no particular reason for the recent box-office slump in Toledo except general conditions.

The theatre map has been changing considerably in Ohio because of the rapid expansions of the M. A. Shea and Schine circuits, Smith reported. These circuits, which centered originally in upper New York state, have been limiting their acquisitions in towns up to 60,000 population, he said, and have not gone into the same situations.

Independents Are Hit

"They have been able to make advantageous deals for product and are rapidly replacing individual operators," Smith asserted. "You can't blame the film companies because the circuit managers are aggressive showmen and run up the grosses to a point where the revenue to the distributors is higher than they received before."

In this connection, Smith observed that individual exhibitors with little or no opposition in the smaller towns have not been as progressive as they might have been, that they let their theatres "run down" and permit their operations to become automatic. This, he said, invites opposition from more aggressive quarters.

In some cases exhibitors who sell out to the Shea and Schine circuits are retained as house managers, Smith said.

Smith comes to New York once a year for a meeting of the advisory committees of Affiliated Underwriters, an insurance organization. He is a member of the theatre underwriters committee, the other member of which is J. D. Eagan of the Wilmer & Vincent Circuit.

Theatre Underwriters, which has a membership of 300 exhibitors, contemplates extending its coverage to casualty liability, Smith said. It now covers fire, tornado, windstorm and boiler explosion.

Court Again Refuses To Bar New Theatre

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Bernard L. Shientag yesterday refused to reverse his former ruling which directed License Commissioner Paul Moss to grant Minnie Cohen a license to erect a theatre at Kings Highway and East 29th St., Brooklyn.

Issuance of a license was opposed by the Kingsway Jewish Center on the grounds that the erection of a synagogue had started on an adjacent lot. Commissioner Moss denied the application after a hearing.

Justice Shientag pointed out that there was no law which prevented the erection of a theatre next to a synagogue. He ruled, however, that it was "extremely bad taste and so undesirable that if the synagogue involved was in the process of construction," the petition would have been denied. Construction on the synagogue stopped two years ago.

Royce-Diamond Make Deal with Macfadden

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3. — Arthur I. Royce and Dave Diamond have signed a five-year contract with Bernarr Macfadden for exploitation and have formed a partnership to produce two features a year and a series of 13 to 26 shorts to be known as Liberty shorts.

Six of the features will be adapted from True Detective stories and the shorts will be based on Liberty short stories.

Macfadden will have no financial interest in the company, but will receive a percentage of the gross in return for exploitation similar to that given by Hearst to Cosmopolitan.

Diamond has been with Universal and Grand National as a producer. Royce has been art director for Universal. He had been retired from the industry for some time, but recently returned to assist in the art direction of Hal Roach's "Topper." Distribution details have not been set.

Nathanson's Ideas on Ads Stir Up Varied Reactions

opinion, MOTION PICTURE DAILY interviewed executives in exhibition, distribution and advertising. Though there was no flat denial of advertising waste, a majority of those who commented tended to the belief that extravagance was caused by misdirection of advertising rather than the amounts spent.

This view was general among exhibition executives such as J. R. Vogel, Loew circuit theatre executive; Joseph Bernhard, general manager, Warner Theatres, and George P. Skouras, head of Skouras Theatres.

"In many cases, theatremen follow the wrong path by paying too much attention to what the opposition is doing," said Vogel. "If one manager takes a large ad, others try to top him, some in the erroneous belief that a large ad is necessarily a good ad."

Asks More Exploitation

The Loew executive also felt that since amusement rates are high and papers devote large space to Hollywood news, theatremen could profitably cut down on their advertising. He also recommended more extensive exploitation from the viewpoint that "$200 expended on effective exploitation often would return more than the same amount used in excess of normal newspaper expenditure."

As concerns institutional promotion, Vogel found the best returns obtained from children's contacts, which the circuit develops through the cooperation of schools and other civic institutions. He also indicated the advantages of campaigns to increase grosses from among those not regular theatre goers.

Bernhard did not care to comment extensively on waste in advertising. He thought that the adequacy of campaigns was to be judged by the needs of individual situations. On the subject of institutional advertising, the Warner Theatre general manager spoke more freely, pointing to a message he had issued in 1936, addressed to the circuit's personnel and headed "Let's Go to the Movies," which said in part:

"Earn Good Will"

"To bring your patrons into your theatre more times in the new season should be your principal aim. . . . To earn the good-will which will create repeat patronage, you must support the new season's superior product with superior service and utmost efficiency in projection and sound."

Concentration on certain advertising mediums was adjudged faulty by George Skouras in his reaction to the Nathanson analysis. It was the New York theatre operator's belief that exhibitors were too much in a rut in publicizing their attractions and tended to use the same outlets week in and week out without sufficient check on box-office returns. Skouras felt it was up to the exhibitor to determine the amount of advertising necessary for individual attractions, pointing out that certain stars and pictures need only be advertised by announcement copy while other features with similar or even stronger potential selling appeal required far larger display. Skouras said that institutional advertising was not profitable in neighborhood locations.

In the opinion of S. Charles Einfeld, Warner Pictures advertising and publicity director, no advertising yardstick can be applied to theatre advertising. The quality of individual showmanship determines the handling of individual situations, he found, with advertising waste forthcoming as a result of insufficient planning. Rigidity of budgets for theatre advertising was another cause of misdirected campaigning, said Einfeld. He felt that managers should vary their approach in selling changes of program.

Smith Stresses Direct Selling

Theatre promotion does not necessarily mean extra advertising expenditures, indicated the Warner executive. He mentioned a term of service in a New York theatre where regular patronage was built up by personal contact and service.

The lack of intelligent showmanship in selling changes of program caused waste in advertising, said A. W. Smith, Jr., United Artists sales manager. Smith declared direct selling was highly important, giving his opinion that it was unwise to set down any arbitrary amount for advertising single attractions.

Smith vouchsafed that while the reputation of a hit producer is not to be discounted in the advertising appeal, it was well to keep in mind that many patrons are interested first in the title of a picture and the stars appearing in it.

Fox for Individualization

Finding the basic point-of-sale in advertising individual pictures was deemed of most importance by Matthew Fox, executive assistant to Nate J. Blumberg, Universal Pictures president. Fox was another of the distribution heads interviewed who concluded that the cause of advertising waste was misdirection. In proving his point he mentioned a neighborhood situation under his former operation where an analysis proved that window card advertising brought the best returns. Immediate discarding of newspaper advertising and other long-used media and concentration on the proven form of promotion was brought about with a definite saving in advertising, he said.

Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 42

(20th Century-Fox)

This issue of the reel contains only two clips which may be accurately designated as spot news material, yet the reel manages to attain a reasonably high degree of interest, chiefly by reason of wide diversification of subject matter and good camera work.

There is color and interest in the scenes of the wedding of King Farouk of Egypt at Cairo, and excellent photography in the picturing of the feeding of a herd of elk which comes down from the mountains of Wyoming to Jackson Hole for the winter. A new and enormous British passenger plane, seating 42, is shown in a trial flight for Imperial Airways, with 14 others planned.

The fashioning of new feminine hair styles after models are worked in clay, features the fashion division, and should please the women, while fill-in material includes Jane Withers “dining” with a deer and dog on the coast, and the Roxy stage group dancing the modern, maniacal contortions. Lew Lehr supplies the usual handful of laughs, the scene a playground in New York, while the sports department covers the training of St. Bernard dogs on Mt. Hood, a fast trotting race in Paris and an iceboat race in Wisconsin.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 240

(M-G-M)

News of the Day editors apparently went out of their way in this issue to take a slap at the conference of “little business men” at Washington. Whether or not that attitude is justified is beyond the point, but actually, by filming the remarks of certain of the members of the group, who appear to the audience as almost witless, a definite impression of the futility and lack of value of the conference is made to prevail.

The reel presents a satisfactory coverage of the wedding of King Farouk of Egypt at Cairo and of Ambassador Bullitt honored at Nancy during a tour of France. The “Women's Page” records the remarks of Lady Astor, member of Parliament, concerning today's problem of peace at a luncheon for her in this country. A Washington style show of materials other than silk, as part of an anti-Japanese movement, is answered by a parade past the White House of silk workers who feel their jobs endangered.

Striking air views picture part of the American battle fleet in maneuvers off San Pedro, in the Pacific, offering a sharp impression of naval strength, and the reel closes with a cowboy rodeo at Palm Springs, Cal.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Paramount News

(Paramount)

This issue, well balanced and diversified in subject matter, holds interest throughout. It opens on thousands of wild elk in Wyoming, said to be the largest herd in existence, snowbound and without food. They are saved from starvation by an expedition which brings loads of hay.

The aftermath of the explosion of 6,000 grenades seized from the Cagoulards in France is caught by the camera. There is a shot of the sculpture models entered in a competition sponsored by Uncle Sam, and of the winner. Admiral Sellers speaks his farewell to Annapolis on his retirement as commandant of the Academy. In the sports division, there is Bill De Correvont, a likely gridiron star, whom the sports writers refer to as “the next Red Grange”; Jimmy Braddock hangs up his gloves to become a fight manager, and Lou Gehrig, on location in Hollywood for the western in which he is cast, proves that as a screen cowboy he is a fine baseball player, all in fun, of course.

Then, excitement and terror in Barcelona following the most disastrous air raid of the Civil War; bodies strewn in the streets and mothers herding their children to safety. In contrast, the reel ends on a joyous note, the wedding of King Farouk and the celebration in Cairo.

Running time, 9 mins. F.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 57

(RKO)

The recent wedding of 17-year-old King Farouk of Egypt, which was performed according to Moslem ritual without the bride being present is the lead subject in this release and is interestingly presented. Glimpses of the 16-year-old bride as she joins her husband after the ceremony are included.

The protest of silk workers against the boycott of Japanese silk which imperils the jobs of 500,000 Americans; a new motor sled-boat which travels on ice, snow or water; an international spelling bee held by radio between British and American teams; a pirates' fete at Tampa; Wyoming elk herds and winter sports in the Alps complete the release. The reel is of better than average interest and production value. Narration, editing and photography are good.

Running time, 9 mins. K.

Universal News

Vol. 10, No. 638

(Universal)

Fleet maneuvers in the Pacific as the Navy unlimbers en masse in war games occupies the feature spot in this midweek release. Other subjects include a plea to British and American women to use the ballot to prevent war, the plea being made by Lady Astor during her recent visit to Washington; a ground hog clip that is amusing; a WPA sculptor who was awarded $40,000 in work commissions on the merits of his work done on Government art projects; the perennial six-dav bike race; Washington demonstrations against a silk boycott by American workers; the training of St. Bernard dogs for rescue work in Oregon; winter feeding of elk herds in Wyoming and the launching of the rodeo season at Palm Springs.

The reel makes up in livelv and amusing narration and entertaining feature material whatever it lacks in news significance. Subjects are well photographed and edited.

Running time, 9 mins. K.

“A Slight Case of Murder”

(First National)

Hollywood, Feb. 3.—With this unprecedented conquest of melodrama in behalf of humor, a season distinguished for the tipping over of established entertainment order hits a new high which the more sensitive may or may not regard as a new low. The play by Damon Runyon and Howard Lindsay is in the general style of Runyon's “Little Miss Marker,” but far more forthright in manner and daring in subject matter. It deals hilariously with a quadruple murder robbery of an armored car, bootlegging banking, police dignity and the care of incorrigible young. It rolled a sophisticated preview audience in the aisles and probably will give similar account of itself in the big towns and theatres, although it is conceivable that certain less hardy audiences may find some of it a little strong for tender stomachs.

Edward G. Robinson is a racketeer who turns brewer with repeal and makes house servants of his mobsters, Allen Jenkins, Edward Brophy and Harold Huber. Four years later he is on the brink of bankruptcy when four former enemy gangsters who have robbed a money car of half a million dollars are slain in his home by a fifth. Their bodies are gleefully distributed among unwitting acquaintances and then brought back without Robinson's knowledge when reward is offered for them dead or alive. Robinson uses the half million to convince his bankers he is still solvent and then cajoles a rookie policeman into shooting through a closet door into the dead bodies stacked therein so as to make it seem he killed the bandits in line of duty. A stray bullet also kills the original killer and the rookie is in line to marry Robinson's daughter, Jane Bryan.

This seemingly gruesome material is handled for laugh purposes exclusively and with emphasis on the calloused gangsters' point of view. Dialogue is funny by reason of this viewpoint. It kept its first audience in stitches.

The working out of the plot is full of surprises, and Ruth Donnelly, John Litel, Paul Harvey, Joe Downing and Harry Seymour portray important roles excellently, while Bobby Jordan's performance of a juvenile roughneck is such as the screen has not seen before.

The screenplay is by Earl Baldwin and Joseph Schrank. Associate Producer Sam Bischoff and Director Lloyd Bacon took full advantage of the extraordinary material provided and preserved the Runyon flavor throughout.

Running time, 85 minutes. “A.”

"Penitentiary"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—"Penitentiary" is a grim story of grim men. As the title connotes, it is a prison picture. The starkness of the theme predominates in a biting, forceful style to the almost complete exclusion of anything that might arouse tender sentiments. The film has a human interest quality that is certain to stir the emotions of adult audiences. It was adapted from Martin Flavin's story by Seton I. Miller and Fred Niblo, Jr. John Brahm directed. Walter Connolly, John Howard, Marc Lawrence, Arthur Hohl, Robert Barrat and Jean Parker are featured.

Appearing as characters, not personalities, the players are instruments in the exposition of the convict theory that the criminals' code must prevail over any man-made law or custom. Howard, prosecuted by Connolly, is sentenced to the penitentiary of which Connolly later becomes warden. Feeling himself the victim of a miscarriage of justice, Howard falls in with Hohl and Lawrence, a pair of felons. Eventually he is made a trusty and becomes romantically attached to Connolly's daughter, Miss Parker. Hohl is killed in an attempted break. Howard is left in a room with Paul Fix, a squealer, who is killed by Lawrence. Refusing to name the killer, Howard is put into a dungeon. Though parole is at hand, he keeps his mouth shut and is idolized by the convicts. However, he is saved from a life sentence by Lawrence who kills Barrat, a guard, after he admits the murder of Fix.

The film is practically devoid of comedy. The romance is effected more by illusion than reality. It is an adult show in its subject matter, should strengthen any program and be a leading feature on many.

Running time, 75 minutes. "A."

"The Dybbuk"

(Foreign Cinema Arts)

The increasing number of theatres that have recently and successfully been playing films to Jewish audiences have in this version of the famous Yiddish folk play a picture that should register with excellent results. It was produced in Poland. The English sub-titling is one of the best examples of translating a foreign language. It is an exceptional film.

The production, camera work, musical scoring, direction and acting are in a fine European style. Throughout the film there is an air of sincerity. The dramatic content moves slowly, even ponderously; the concluding touches are built with firm strokes and provide an emotional experience.

The story is too lengthy to be treated here but it can be said that it is a somber drama of religious mysticism. The enactment involves the religious superstitions of simple central European Jews with their ultimate results.

The original stage play by S. Ansky is 18 years old and has been performed in many parts of the world. This no doubt has created widespread interest in the story and those interested should be greatly satisfied with the film version.

Running time, 122 minutes. "A."

Sennett Says He Has 400 Stories on Hand

With about 400 stories in his bag, Mack Sennett, veteran producer, will arrive in Hollywood from New York next week to line up a production organization or affiliation with nationwide distribution, he said yesterday.

Sennett said the stories represent properties he has been accumulating for years, both produced and unproduced plays, all comedies. He plans to become active in production through Sennett Pictures Corp., a Delaware corporation.

Sennett believes these stories can be utilized since the trend, he said, seems to be toward comedy.

A few months ago Sennett set up a distributing organization here to handle two-reelers which he made several years ago for Paramount release but the rights to which have reverted to him.

Currently being released are "Blue of the Night" and "Sing, Bing, Sing," both with Bing Crosby, and three Donald Novis shorts, "Sing, Plumber," "Sing, Boxer" and "Ma's Pride and Joy." He has about 30 others, made with W. C. Fields and others now in the feature class, which will be released at intervals.

Sennett has named Guaranteed Pictures as his distributor for the United States and foreign territories. A number of independent exchanges are handling his product and Monogram branches on the coast, in Atlanta, Dallas, Des Moines and Minneapolis are representing him.

Add Quality Provision to British Bill

the clause merely permitted the procedure, but did not actually establish it.

The committee defeated an amendment offered by Sir William Layland that the minimum labor cost be increased to £20,000. Its defeat followed the protest of Stanley that reciprocity is of real importance, and that an increase of the minimum labor cost would tend to force reciprocity, rather than assist it.

Only two other clauses await consideration by the committee when it reassembles next Tuesday.

The deliberations of the Parliamentary body were preceded by a demonstration in which 200 unemployed film workers participated. They gathered in the House of Commons building and engaged in vigorous lobbying among members. A meeting had been planned for an outdoor site, but it was prevented by the police on the ground that no meeting is permitted within one mile of the Commons building while Parliament is sitting.

The group demanded increased quota percentages and fair wages, claiming that there are 8,000 unemployed in the film industry. It was suggested that between 60 and 70 per cent of the American films imported last year were less than second rate.

Omaha Stations and Musicians in a Row

OMAHA, Feb. 3.—The musicians' union here has notified station owners of a ban on remote pickups from ballrooms, night clubs and other places of entertainment, effective immediately.

Because of the union's action, WOW and the Central States Broadcasting Network have cancelled their agreements with the union to use the house orchestras recently employed as a result of the I.R.N.A. pact just declared operative. WOW had signed a two-year agreement for a new 12-piece orchestra at $21,000 a year, and Central States had agreed to hire a studio orchestra at $30,000 a year.

No break in the deadlock is in sight, although Ernest Nordeen, A. F. of M. head here, is trying to work out some solution with Jimmy Douglas, Central States program director, and John Gillin, manager of WOW.

"Snow White" Gets Fifth Week at M.H.

For the first time in the history of the Music Hall, the world's largest film house, it will hold a picture five weeks. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which built consistently during the first three weeks of the run, will conclude a five-week engagement on Feb. 16.

The Music Hall made the decision on the strength of the gross yesterday, the first day of the fourth week. Attendance for the first three weeks reached 525,000 admissions, an average of 175,000 per week. Should the pace continue, the Music Hall anticipates the total for the five weeks to hit 800,000, the greatest in the history of the industry for a similar period at one theatre. The Music Hall seats 6,200.

The building power of the film is shown in the increase in grosses in successive weeks. The first week's

Kleckner in Group Heard by Roosevelt

Washington, Feb. 4.—Government cooperation with business was asked of President Roosevelt today by a committee of "little business men," following a two-day conference at the Department of Commerce on the recovery problems of the small industries.

Joseph C. Kleckner, president of the Motiograph Corp., Chicago, who served as secretary of the loans-to-business group of the conference, was one of the 12 men constituting the committee, which visited the White House.

The group offered a 23-point program outlining what it thought the Government should do for the minor industries of the country, including repeal of the undistributed profits tax, development of machinery for the making of loans to small concerns, legislation to make labor unions as well

Boys, Girls Are Invited To Miss Humanity's Place

By J. M. JERAULD

A few days ago United Artists sent out deckled edged cards reading as follows: "You are cordially invited to attend a cocktail party and press preview of the Miss Humanity Home at 162 East 33rd St., Manhattan, Friday, February 4th, at 4 P. M."

As is usual in cases of this kind the interior decoration editor of Motion Picture Daily set forth in search of this new star. He had met Miss Atlantic City and Miss Miami and Miss America, but Miss Humanity had escaped.

She still has. A taxicab ride to 162 East 33rd St. and a two-stair-at-a-time climb up to Miss Humanity's quarters revealed several things that were surprising and several that were not.

The surprising things were a birdseye maple dining room table in front of a big mirror, so that a man having dinner with his wife, or vice versa, immediately got the idea he was at a banquet; a radio at the end of a davenport that looked like a white fireless cooker with black knobs; inverted lights that looked like illuminated soup plates; lights that shone out of recesses in the walls and revealed when the women's noses were shiny; beds that had yellow satin covers; dressers that didn't look like dressers; doors that were set flush with the walls and had only doorknobs to prove they were doors; kitchens with illuminated ice boxes; electric ranges that didn't look like electric ranges; bathrooms; vacuum cleaners that sprayed Larvex to keep the moths out of the carpets.

The women "oh'd and ah'd" and

Fleischer to Construct Big Miami Studio

New $300,000 Plant to Be Ready Oct. 1

Fleischer Studios, Inc., producers of animated cartoons for Paramount release, has signed a contract with the Delaware Housing Co. of Miami for a studio to cost $300,000 in Miami and will complete its moving to Florida by Oct. 1.

The deal was set this week by Max and Dave Fleischer, who returned yesterday from Miami. The studio force of 200 has been asked whether they want to make the move, and 70 per cent have already signed up, according to the studio.

Concessions were made by the city of Miami, Dade County and the Delaware Housing Co., the major factor being that the studio ground and building will be tax free for 15 years. Also, a substantial part of the cost of the studio and ground will be absorbed locally, it was intimated. The city of Miami has pledged itself to build a road to cost $100,000 which will run in front of the building and connect with the Hialeah road leading to the racetrack.

Fleischer will establish his own

Hollywood Preview

"Of Human Hearts"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 4.—This production takes the lately super-modernized motion picture back to first principles and proves them sounder, surer and more satisfying than any that have been developed, fabricated or imported since the camera took up story telling.

Honore Morrow's book, "Benefits Forgot," is honest drama of the old school in which men were what they might be and women knew how to weep. As produced by John W. Considine, Jr., and directed by Clarence Brown—he waited 18 years for the chance—it packs the wholesome wallop of Town Hall Tonight melodrama with none of the spurious emotionalism of shoddy theatrics of the road company. It has what it takes to please every audience in the nation.

Walter Huston achieves another stirring portrayal of ministerial sternness in the principal role, with Beulah Bondi and James Stewart matching his performance perfectly as wife and son. Guy Kibbee, Charles Coburn, Charley Grapewin, Clem Bevans, Gene Lockhart, John Carradine, Leatrice Joy Gilbert, Gene Reynolds and the late Robert McWade supply faultless support. Bradbury Foote's screenplay is a triumph of coherence and balance with just about the most workmanlike dialogue heard this year.

Huston is a circuit riding minister in a small Ohio town before the Civil War. His son rebels against parental rule and goes away to become a doctor. After Huston's death the son's requests for money force his mother to sell her small treasures and she is destitute when she writes President Lincoln a letter which results in his summoning the boy, now a successful army surgeon, and sending him home.

On that simple narrative is hung as fine a motion picture as ever struck a screen—a clean, strong story told with directness and power. It came like a breath of fresh air to ventilate a season bogged down in soggy sophistication.

Running time, 105 minutes. "G."

"Livewires" Are Beating Recession, RKO Men Told

Ned E. Depinet

"Livewire exhibitors are licking the recession," declared Walter Branson leader of the Ned E. Depinet drive for RKO's sales forces, at a meeting called yesterday in one of the big rehearsal halls of the Music Hall.

It was one of the first meetings of the kind ever held by a major company. Instead of confining it to the exchange staffs Depinet summoned more than 300 employees of the home office and told them what had been done to date in steaming up bookings and what he expected to do.

Branson has just returned from a four-week cross-croountry tour during which he visited 38 RKO branches. The drive began Jan. 29 and will end May 13. Downstairs in the same building, he pointed out, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is establishing new records for receipts and length of run. Other product to be pushed during the drive, he said, included "Radio City Revels," "Bringing Up Baby," "Vivacious Lady," "The Joy of Living" and "Hawaii Calls."

Branson was accompanied on his tour by Harry Gittleson, editor of Flash, the house organ retitled for the drive, which has been issued weekly during his trip from Detroit, San Francisco and Kansas City. He was met at different points by E. L. McEvoy, eastern district manager; Nat Levy, eastern central district manager; and H. C. Cohen, J. H. MacIntyre and L. M. Devaney, district managers.

Branson will be in New York for 10 days.

tion agreed at an Albany meeting in December to accord full backing to the measure. Meany expressed the opinion the measure would be introduced in both houses, although a Senate sponsor is not yet forthcoming.

The bill applies to first class cities, affecting New York and Buffalo. It was referred to the Cities Committee, of which Assemblyman Harold Armstrong of Schenectady is chairman.

Another bill of interest to the industry was introduced today by Assemblyman Bernard Moran, Brooklyn Democrat, providing for an amendment to Chapter 62 of the tax law. If enacted, it would add five mills per foot on film to be reviewed by the state censor, plus $1 for a certificate showing the payment of the tax. Moran sponsored similar legislation last year in an effort to break the taxation jam caused by the early refusal of the Republican Assembly to pass Governor Lehman's four-cent gasoline tax bill.

Burt confided that the apartment had been adapted from a set in "Goldwyn Follies." Miss Humanity was the—was the ideal person for whom the decorations had been designed. It was nice to have that cleared up. Miss Jones and Miss Smith and Miss Cohen were having trouble being nonchalant.

ciation earlier in the week. Dismissal of the guild's charge gives Chorus Equity continued jurisdiction in the night club and presentation house fields, claimed by the American Federation of Actors. The latter organization reportedly was maneuvering for I.A.T.S.E. support in an effort to extend its jurisdiction. Whether it will pursue such a move as a result of the rebuff yesterday by the Four A's board was not disclosed in the absence of Ralph Whitehead, A.F.A. head.

The Screen Actors' Guild, which had shown some inclination to support the A.F.A.'s claim earlier, voted with the majority of other Four A unions, indicating that a truce with the parent organization exists insofar as the guild is concerned. Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, left for Hollywood following yesterday's meeting.

Leo Fischer, executive secretary of the American Guild of Musical Artists, was elected treasurer of the Four A's, succeeding Otto Steinert, resigned.

Hearings Ordered on KEEN, KFRU Pleas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Federal Communications Commission has ordered hearings on the applications of KEEN, Seattle, for change of frequency from 1,370 to 1,420 kilocycles and increase of power from 100 to 250 watts, and Station KFRU, Columbia, Mo., for increase of power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, to 5,000 watts.

Va., and WFBR, Baltimore, for increase of power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day.

Selznick Agency Barred by Schenck

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6.—Barring of the Myron Selznick agency from the 20th Century-Fox studios has been ordered by Joseph M. Schenck, the company's board chairman. Schenck accused the agency of being "out of sympathy with constructive activities of the film industry."

Schenck issued a statement which said the Selznick agency sought to pyramid salaries of players they handle to where it would be ruinous to the studio and the industry. He invited players represented by Selznick to do business direct with the company.

In reply, Selznick labeled the Schenck statement "farcical" and said the perspective of Schenck was distorted. Selznick said he took pride in increasing the salaries of his clients.

Naming of Regents Affects Censorship

ALBANY, Feb. 6.—Interest along Capitol Hill will center on the Board of Regents this week, with two vacancies to be filled Tuesday by the Legislature and a meeting scheduled Friday and Saturday, with controversy over "The Birth of a Baby" likely to come to a head.

Assembly Republicans, Democrats and American Laborites will hold separate caucuses after Monday's session to choose candidates for the two vacancies. Similarly both parties will hold individual pow-wows after the Senate adjourns. On Tuesday, the Legislature will meet in joint session with the Republicans holding the upper hand, having 106 votes to 90 for the Democrats and five for the American Labor bloc.

Producers Studying Animated Features

The success of Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" has started other cartoon producers thinking about production of feature-length cartoons. The Fleischer Studios have the matter under consideration, a spokesman said, and if this company goes in for features they will be released through Paramount.

Leon Schlesinger, who produces cartoons for Warners, has a plan for a feature-length subject to cost about $700,000. A decision may be made after he returns from his present Mediterranean cruise.

Seek Changes To Speed RKO Reorganizing

Aim Is to Offset Present Security Market Sag

RKO's principal creditors will convene this week in an effort to agree upon and draft amendments to the company's reorganization plan which would make possible an RKO reorganization within the next few months, it was learned on good authority over the weekend.

Amendments regarded by major creditors of the company as vital to an early reorganization include a reduction of the fixed charges applicable to the reorganized company and the drafting of terms for the projected $1,600,000 underwriting for the new company on a basis which would make subscription to the new securities sufficiently attractive to creditors and investors to offset the current unfavorable market conditions.

The success of the effort to hasten the reorganization of the company depends entirely upon the ability of the creditors to agree among themselves on the required amendments to the plan and, secondly, upon the approval of the amendments by the Federal court within a reasonable

Legion Approves 13 Of 14 New Pictures

The National Legion of Decency, in its list of 14 new pictures reviewed and classified for the current week, has approved 13 of the 14, eight for general patronage and five for adults, and classified one as objectionable in part. The new films and their classification follow:

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"Forbidden Valley," "Gold Is Where You Find It," "Monastery," "Radio City Revels," "Scandal Street," "Squadron of Honor," "Where the West Begins," "A Yank at Oxford." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Double Danger," "Der Katzenteg" (German), "The Midnight Intruder," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Wenn du Eine Schwiegermutter hast" (German). Class B, Objectionable in Part—"Helene" (French).

length of time following their submission. Failure of the creditors to agree upon the desired amendments would necessitate the re-submission of an amended plan for new assents, which, even if a sufficient number were obtained, would delay consummation of the reorganization. An early reorganization might also be frustrated if court approval of the amended plan was withheld for any length of time.

However, it is predicted that if both a creditors' agreement on the amendments and prompt court confirmation materialized, approval of RKO's reorganization plan might be had by May or early June. The efforts to agree upon and draft amendments to the plan are expected to continue throughout the month with the intent of having them ready for submission to Federal Judge William Bondy by Feb. 28, the date of the next scheduled hearing on the reorganization.

Studio Head a Consideration

Whether the creditors' move for an immediate reorganization of the company would arrest the current deliberations of the Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, over the appointment of new management executives is uncertain. One official source, however, indicating that it would not, pointed to the immediate necessity of designating a studio head for the impending planning of new season production. Unofficially, it is believed that no designation of a new studio head would be made without consultation with the principal creditors, both because the trustee is said to prefer a choice mutually agreeable and because a studio head designated over the protests of the major creditors would be unlikely to receive the support of the creditors three months from now if their efforts to complete the reorganization within that time met with success.

Artcinema Associates, Inc., has signed contracts for the distribution of 10 features and seven shorts with Affiliated Producers, Inc., Atlanta; Pyramid Exchange, Buffalo; Monarch Pictures Corp., Detroit; American Films, Indianapolis; Celebrated Film Exchange, Minneapolis; American Distributing Corp., Omaha; Monarch Pictures Corp., Pittsburgh, and Jack Roher and Emanuel Stein for Canada.

More Lincoln Scales Cut

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 6.—Two more theatres in this territory have cut prices. They are the Majestic, Grand Island and the Sun Holdrege, both lopping off nickels to become 10c-15c houses.

Hats Come Off

Loew's theatres here are asking women customers to "please remove your hats." Each house shows a short trailer reproducing a letter from a patron in the borough in which the theatre is located. The letter explains why the wearing of headgear interferes with the enjoyment of the picture.

Since the request comes from a patron and not the management, it is believed offense is avoided.

Condor Sales Shown In Buckman Hearing

MADISON, Feb. 6.—Bankruptcy hearings on B. E. Buckman & Co. here before Miles C. Riley, special master, reveal that the company, underwriters of the stock of Condor Pictures, Inc., has sold approximately 300,000 shares of the stock at $3.25 a share, much of it to Wisconsin residents.

It has been testified that Buchman owns a substantial block of stock in Condor, which is now undergoing financial reorganization under 77B of the Federal Bankruptcy act. Testimony indicated that one subsidiary of the Hollywood company would pay up enough to satisfy all creditors, but little hope was held out for the investors.

The subsidiary, according to testimony, owns 600,000 feet of unused film of Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive." The hearing is scheduled to be resumed Tuesday.

French Films Show Gain, Says Sussman

French product is making inroads on American distribution, due to improved quality of pictures made over there, it was said by William Sussman, 20th Century-Fox eastern division manager, who returned from Europe last week.

French product is better than in the past, he said. He found theatre business in France "fair."

England is enjoying great prosperity, this admittedly being due to the British armament program, he reported.

Business for American companies in Italy "is good depending on the pictures that you can get through the censors," Sussman said. Exhibitors in Italy have sufficient advance knowledge about American pictures so that they take only the better product, he found.

Rossi's Film Bills Will Go in Tonight

ALBANY, Feb. 6.—Two film bills are scheduled for introduction in the House tomorrow night by Assemblyman Nicholas A. Rossi. One aims to prevent sale of tickets when no seats are available and the other would require a matron for every 35 children. Both will be referred to the Codes Committee. The bills have been introduced at previous sessions.

Assemblyman Harold B. Ehrlich's bill aimed to clear up conflicts in existing laws and permit admission of children from eight to 16 years old when accompanied by a guardian or chaperone is slated to come up on third reading.

Hollywood Preview

“The Rangers' Roundup”

(Spectrum Pictures)

Hollywood, Feb. 6.—Designed directly to earn the favor of juvenile audiences, “The Rangers' Roundup” is crowded with elements that excite the enthusiasm of youngsters. The film includes much shooting, wild riding and plenty of individual and mass combat. Dialogue is held to a minimum as the camera tells the story. For grownups, in addition to action and a well done if not altogether new theme, the picture offers an exceptionally worthy musical content. With Fred Scott doing the singing, in addition to being the hero, the numbers are well spotted in the story and one song, “Just A Spanish Shawl,” drew hearty applause from adults who attended the preview.

Introducing several new twists, the story follows the approved outdoor action adventure formula, which is amplified with romance and comedy. Suspicious that a traveling medicine show is harboring a gang of outlaws, Scott joins the troupe. Ensuing action has him dividing his time between tracking down the desperados, meeting and falling in love with Christine McIntyre, and striving to rescue her weakling brother from the clutches of the gang. Eventually getting sufficient evidence on Karl Hackett, he turns him over to officers, meanwhile identifying himself as an undercover Texas Ranger.

In addition to his singing, Scott does a thorough job as a western hero, capably supported by Miss McIntyre, Al St. John, Hackett and a worthy group of riding actors.

It is the first Stan Laurel production. It was produced by Jed Buell and directed by Sam Newfield.

Running time, 55 minutes. “G.”

“Karl Fredrik Reigns”

(F. O. Renard)

A fair offering for a theatre with a Swedish patronage. There are English titles, but the dramatic content fails to strike a note that enhances its entertainment value. The story follows a routine course, utilizes routine devices and arrives at a routine conclusion. There are a number of political theories voiced in the action and scattered playing and singing of “The Internationale,” which has been identified with Communist and Socialist activities.

Basically the story concerns a young girl and her father, newspaperwoman and government official, respectively. The girl writes revealing stories of her childhood home from which she and her family were driven because of their labor theories. Her father legislates for better farm-worker conditions. The girl meets the young heir to her childhood dwelling place and falls in love with him, unaware of his identity. Meanwhile the estate has gone broke and an effort to get a government loan is made. This angle brings the owners to the mercy of the former worker who is now Minister of Agriculture. And in due course the girl discovers who her lover is, renounces him, is reconciled and finally becomes engaged. Her father negotiates to save the estate, the boy's mother, an aristocrat, is made to see the true state of affairs and he film concludes on a happy note.

A scattered few at the Belmont Theatre found merriment in the comedy antics of Dagmar Ebbesen as a housekeeper. The rest of the cast, probably unknown here, give standard performances.

Sutro Asserts Korda Asking More Revenue

to determine just what our future course will be," Sutro said.

Asked about insistent reports that Korda has been trying to negotiate a deal with Paramount or M-G-M, Sutro said there were no definite developments on this score.

"Korda's contract with United Artists excludes his affiliation with any other company, and that's what makes the situation difficult," Sutro said. "The whole matter is very intricate and will require a lot of study. We will stay with U. A. if the company can obtain for us the revenue that we should get from this market. Otherwise, we will try to get another affiliation."

Sutro said Korda's $9,000,000 production program for 1938, calling for 15 features to cost $600,000 each, is expected to increase London Films' acceptance in this country. He said the American market was very much in Korda's mind in planning the program.

Sutro Not Korda Lawyer

A decision on the company's course may not be made during Sutro's stay here, which he expects will be about two weeks. He said he would report his findings to Korda and the company's directorate, and future plans would then be made. While Sutro is a barrister, he said he was not representing Korda in a legal capacity and denied reports that Korda contemplated suit against U. A.

Sutro also denied that he was here to seek finances for London Films' production program. He said the money would come entirely from London sources, including the Prudential Assurance Co., which is Korda's chief backer.

He said Korda had no intention of seeking to reopen the negotiations for purchase jointly with Samuel Goldwyn of control in U. A., which had collapsed. He indicated that as far as Korda is concerned, this matter is "dead."

Sutro may go to Hollywood, in which event he would extend his visit to a month, he said.

Seeking Time Extension in FCC Requests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Special experimental authorization to operate full time on their present powers of 25,000 and 5,000 watts, respectively, using directional antennas after sunset, has been asked of the Federal Communications Commission by KVOO, Tulsa, and WAPI, Birmingham.

The two stations now share time on the 1,140-kilocycle frequency and are desirous of making experiments to see whether simultaneous operation can be made possible through the use of directional antennas, it was explained.

Other applications filed with the commission included a new petition from the Laredo Broadcasting Co., Inc., for a 630-kilocycle, 500-watt station at Laredo, Tex., and request from WSFA, Montgomery, Ala., for an increase in night power from 500 to 1,000 watts. Midwest Broadcasting Corp., which has an application for a new 100-watt station at Provo, Utah, amended its petition to change the requested frequency from 1,370 to 1,210 kilocycles.

Fresno Plea Granted

An operating license has been issued to George Harm for a new station, KARM, at Fresno, Cal., on the 1,310-kilocycle frequency, using 100 watts power.

The commission also authorized KALB, Alexandria, La., to increase its day power from 100 to 250 watts; WBRC, Birmingham, to increase day power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts, and WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., to increase power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day.

in commenting on the 25 new high frequency broadcasting channels allotted by the Federal Communications Commission for exclusive use of education. He declared his belief that the designation of these educational channels will result in radio towers being built beside most American schools in the "not too distant future."

Radio may be used to stimulate the interest of pupils in subjects which they are not too eager to learn, in Dr. Studebaker's opinion. Adult education may be expected to receive a new impetus from the use of radio, he said. Manufacturers are expected to build radio sets specifically for school use, he pointed out.

same number of pictures as this year, 52 on the regular program. In addition, 12 more were scheduled, including four in the "Outdoor" series and two in the "Tarzan" series, both produced by Sol Lesser, four Will Rogers reissues and two Eddie Cantor specials. The Lesser affiliation will be dropped at the end of the current season, it was said.

The company will also make its own shorts, planning 52 one-reelers, to be released on the basis of one a week. They will be produced by Truman Talley in New York. Plans have been completed for the construction of a shorts studio adjacent to the Movietone News Building at 54th St. and 10th Ave. Educational, which has released through 20th Century-Fox, is negotiating for another major outlet.

S. R. Kent, president; Walter J. Hutchinson, foreign manager, and probably Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, and a studio representative will attend the Paris meeting, which will be held at the Hotel George V. Whether the annual sales convention of the British organization will precede or follow that of the continental organization has not been decided. This will depend on the schedule of the American officials and the date when they arrive on the other side. Separate meetings will be held for the two divisions, however.

This year's meeting in Kansas City will be held nearly two months prior to the company's customary convention date, this giving 20th Century-Fox an early start in officially launching its new selling season. Selling for 1938-'39 has been under way for some time, however. John D. Clark, general sales manager, will not hold a district managers' conference this year.

If the Gracie Fields-Victor-McLaglen-Brian Donlevy production tentatively titled "He Was Her Man" is released this season, the regular program will be increased to 53. Although two Eddie Cantors were scheduled, there will be no second Cantor starring vehicle available, but a second special of equal magnitude may be produced and released to those who purchased the specials contracts.

Report 4,000 Film Exhibits Going Out

Approximately 4,000 school, college and public librarians now are receiving research exhibits linked with current pictures of outstanding literary, historical or social significance, the M. P. P. D. A. reported on Saturday. The present number of cooperating librarians represents a gain of more than 100 per cent over those participating one year ago. The activity was inaugurated only 18 months ago and in that time has aided in the exploitation of more than 100 features.

Research exhibits on individual pictures are sent by company home offices to all librarians requesting them. The Hays office clears approved stills and displays to the participating libraries with which local exhibitors, thereafter, are free to effect tieups coincident with their bookings of the pictures.

Research cards on "The Buccaneer" and "Tom Sawyer" are now being distributed to the 4,000 participating libraries.

total amount of the claims is about $100,000 less than in 1936, but this is no indication of any diminution in the number of disputes, since where a circuit is in default, one claim may cover a large amount, Nizer said.

The disputes chiefly involved nonfulfillment of contract, balances due and lost film. Claims were filed by all member companies of the Film Board with the exception of Monogram, which did not start distribution until the current selling season and therefore, it was explained, had no claims covering this year's contracts.

C. E. A. Invites Kennedy to Be Honor Guest at Annual Banquet

London, Feb. 7.—Joseph P. Kennedy, newly appointed United States Ambassador to Great Britain, has received an invitation to attend the annual banquet of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, as guest of honor.

The banquet, to be held on March 8, is generally considered the outstanding social event of the year in the British film industry. American interests here are enthusiastic about the invitation, believing that it will have considerable influence in assisting Anglo-American trade relations. It is pointed out that the banquet is particularly timely, in view of the current consideration of the new British Films Bill.

Kennedy is scheduled to sail for England from New York on the Manhattan, on Feb. 23, to assume his post. Should he accept the invitation, it will mark one of his first public appearances in England. Ernest Brown, British Minister of Labor, will attend the banquet.

RKO Appointments Not to Be Delayed

The designation of new management officials for RKO will not be deferred as a result of the current efforts of principal creditors of the company to agree on amendments to the RKO reorganization plans which, the creditors hope, would make possible completion of the reorganization within the next three months, it was learned on good authority yesterday.

Conferences on the management appointments have been continuing daily and indications are that decisions will be made within the next week or 10 days at the most. At present it appears that the appointments will include an operating executive and an administrative officer in addition to production and theatre operating heads. However, no final decisions have been made yet and, consequently, it is not definite that all four appoint-

Schaefer Resigns "U" Foreign Post

Gus Schaefer, former export manager for Universal, formally resigned from the company yesterday immediately upon reaching an agreement with Universal officials on the settlement of his contract. The pact carried a 52-week cancellation clause and, it is understood, payment in full for the one-year period will be made to Schaefer in accordance with the settlement.

Schaefer, who had been continental European manager for Paramount for many years prior to joining Universal last summer, plans to leave at the end of the week for a four-week fishing trip either to the Gulf of Mexico or Florida. He has concluded no definite arrangements for a new association thereafter. Schaefer was replaced at Universal last month by Joseph Seidelman and since that time has been without assignment from the company.

Mexico Troubles for Film Men Gain, Says Seidelman

Despite improvement in revenue, operating conditions in Mexico are becoming increasingly difficult and some of the American distributors are contemplating closing their offices in Mexico City, it was said yesterday by Sam Seidelman, United Artists sales manager for that territory.

A record gross of 5,000,000 pesos, equivalent to $1,300,000, was done by the eight major companies in Mexico in 1937 with a total distribution of 420 features. However, labor's control of industry, censorship problems and mounting taxes make the continuance of business precarious, Seidelman said, stressing that despite the fact the American companies had their best year in Mexico last year, this does not mean that they made money.

There is an ever-present threat of Government confiscation of property, said Seidelman. Business men fear that the land confiscation which is well under way will spread and that, under pressure from radicals and labor unions, various types of business will be affected, he declared.

No Sales Convention Is Set, Says Lichtman

For 1938-'39 M-G-M will schedule the same number of pictures as the current season in which the company will release a maximum of 52 and a minimum of 44, Al Lichtman, executive assistant to Nicholas M. Schenck, president, disclosed on his arrival yesterday from an extended stay on the coast. He does not plan to return soon, he said.

The company will have no national sales convention this year, regional conferences to be conducted by William F. Rodgers, general sales manager, and other distribution executives, being planned instead, Lichtman said.

"We don't need a sales convention," Lichtman observed, indicating that the company's policies and sales methods will be carried over without great change. The studio is making plans for next year and has lined up stories

Theatre Help Aim Of Sirovich Bill

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Feb. 7.—Plans of actors' organizations to make Representative Sirovich's proposed Department of Science, Art and Literature a vehicle for a Government subsidy to revive the legitimate theatre at the expense of other forms of dramatic art were revealed here today by witnesses before the New York Congressman's Patents Committee at the opening of new hearings on the legislation.

Except for critical comment, witnesses before the committee paid no

RKO Undisturbed by "Snow White" Rating

RKO officials yesterday expressed no concern over the fact that the British censor board has refused a "universal" certificate to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," but has given the film an "A" classification, which prohibits children from seeing the film unless accompanied by adults. It is understood the British censor action was based on the belief that the scenes in the haunted woods in the film are too exciting for children.

However, it was pointed out at the

More Declare No Yardstick Can Be Put on Advertising

By A-MIKE VOGEL

Further reactions sought by Motion Picture Daily on N. L. Nathanson's opinions on advertising, published here recently, tend to add to the expressed belief that no yardstick can be applied to the theatre advertising budget. Nathanson said much advertising was wasted. He favored cutting down on individual attractions and spending more upon selling the screen in behalf of the permanent prosperity of the theatre.

It was the opinion of Neil F. Agnew, Paramount's vice-president in charge of sales, that concentration of advertising should be applied to the advantage of individual dates when currently played. The Paramount vice-president and general sales manager held of greatest importance point-of-sale advertising on single attractions up to the point of saturation. Institutional promotion should be secondary to this, he thought.

Robert W. Gillham, Paramount advertising and publicity director, was another of those interviewed who felt that where waste in advertising was encountered it could be blamed on misdirection. Gillham advocated a varying selling attack, according to the needs of individual situations, and pointed out the advantages of repetitive advertising.

Replies Differ

Exhibition executives in the field questioned, replied variously:

"We have done some institutional advertising for the various houses operated by the United Detroit Theatres," said Earl J. Hudson, advertising director, "but we found, even with institutional appeals in full sway, that our grosses suffered when we lacked Class A pictures as attractions.

"Perhaps an ideal combination, where institutional advertising is felt to be desirable, is to let the show dominate the ad space with a good-sized display panel as part of each layout, in which the institutional angle is stressed in copy."

In accord with Nathanson was Samuel Goldstein, head of Western Massachusetts Theatres, who said 75 per cent of the amount now spent on theatre advertising "can be saved by every real showman."

Goldstein felt that exhibitors were depending too much upon methods in vogue 20 years ago when there was little publicity given films. In the "horse and buggy" days of the industry, he said, lack of information sources on pictures made it necessary for theatremen to expend large amounts in digging up selling copy. With the wide publicity given pictures today by newspapers, radio and magazines, Goldstein contended that expensive advertising campaigns on individual attractions were no longer necessary.

Meyer Shows Exceptions

While agreeing in principle with the Nathanson viewpoint, Sidney Meyer pointed out recent exceptions. The general manager of the Wometco Circuit, in Miami, referred to two recent pictures. One had received tremendous word-of-mouth buildup due to the popularity of the star and entertainment value of the story and for these reasons, he pointed out, required only a substantial ad on opening day to accomplish maximum business. The second, without names though possessing selling appeal, was given a much stronger and expensive advance, and due to the big campaign brought in grosses which otherwise could not possibly have been obtained, Meyer declared.

He found that while "too much is being spent in advertising pictures, there can be no steadfast rule laid down," which concurred with the views of E. C. Beatty, president, W. S. Butterfield Theatres, Inc. Beatty was in accord with Nathanson on institutional advertising and had found campaigns of this nature brought good results. As with advertising on individual attractions, Beatty favored adapting schedules to local conditions.

Fleischer Moving No Benefit, Says Union

The projected transfer of the Fleischer cartoon studios to Miami by Oct. 1 last night brought a statement from the Commercial Artists and Designers Union, C.I.O., that the move "will be of no ultimate benefit to the employes."

The studio termed this statement "a surprise, in view of the cordial relations existing with our employes." Of the 200 Fleischer employes, 64 are members of the union, the studio said. At a conference in the offices of Phillips and Nizer, Fleischer attorneys, the studio agreed to accept without reservation the demands made by the union. These demands were that wages be not reduced in Florida; guarantee of one full year's employment and maintenance of hours, vacations, sick leaves and other benefits. Fleischer volunteered to pay the employes' traveling expenses to Florida, their hotel accommodations there for a month and traveling expenses to any employe who decides to return to New York within a year.

Union Pleased, Says Studio

"These terms appeared so fair to the union representatives that they openly conceded our good faith," the studio said, adding that "They stated that they had no suspicion that any labor advantage was the reason for moving to Florida and accepted our explanation for moving."

The "vast majority of the employes" have indicated their willingness to tion on the guild. Kennedy upheld the guild contention that no evidence by the plaintiff shows that the letter caused damage or membershp loss.

Playwrights-Guild Suit Is Dismissed

Los Angeles, Feb. 7.—Superior Judge Robert Kenney today dismissed without leave to amend the suit for $200,000 libel damages brought by Screen Playwrights, Inc., against the Screen Writers Guild over an alleged defamatory letter written to a playwright member by a guild member in the recent membership drive of the rival writer organizations. The letter written by Philip Dunne to P. G. Wodehouse, asserted that Screen Playwrights, Inc., was formed by producers to break up the guild and that the organization was a company union.

In dismissing the action Judge Kenney sustained a demurrer of the guild brought by Attorney Leonard Janofsky in which he claimed the Dunne letter was not defamatory nor libelous and was written by Dunne in response to a Wodehouse request for information on the Guild. Kenney upheld the guild contention that no evidence by the plaintiff shows the letter caused damage or membership loss.

M-G-M to Hold Its Total to 52 Next Year for the new season, Lichtman added.

M-G-M's plans for production in England do not include Alexander Korda, Lichtman said in response to a query in connection with reports the London Films head had discussed this possibility while here.

The company's British production plans will proceed as originally planned, Lichtman declared, regardless of other companies' decisions to defer their production over there until adoption of the new British quota. The second British production, "Citadel," based on the novel by Dr. A. J. Cronin, will go into work in April, with King Vidor directing, he disclosed. This will leave four more to be made by M-G-M in London under the supervision of Ben Goetz, the first, "A Yank at Oxford," having been set for release this month.

Kenneth MacKenna, M-G-M story editor, who returned with Lichtman, reported that the studio had purchased two stories during his stay of a month there. That Lichtman himself is taking more than a casual interest in the selection of stories was indicated by the fact that he alighted from the train with a script under his arm.

Judy Garland Sings On Train Platform

Judy Garland, M-G-M's 15-year-old prodigy, arrived on the Century from the coast yesterday morning. Mel Heymann, Milt Weiss and others of the publicity staff and Ernest Emerling of Loew's were on hand with a small piano and a piano player.

"You've got to sing something," Weiss told her as the newspaper photographers got their cameras ready.

Judy began singing "How Dry I Am." Emerling tried to have the red caps chime in. But they weren't dry, apparently. "Sing 'Carry Me Back to Old Virginny'," Emerling suggested, motioning to the red caps to form a quartet. By that time the photographers had their pictures taken.

Depositions Ordered In Rose-M-G-M Suit

Depositions before trial of David O. Selznick, Frank Dolan, Lucien Hubbard and Edward L. Marin were ordered taken in Los Angeles before March 4 by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in the U. S. District Court here yesterday.

The testimony is required in connection with the infringement suit brought by Henry Rose, a playwright, against M-G-M, Loew's, Inc., and Frank Dolan. Rose claims plagiarism of his play, "Burrow, Burrow," in "A Man of the People."

Davilla Verdict Is Cut

A $5,000 judgement in favor of Joseph J. Davilla, a songwriter, against the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. of New York was reduced to $1,057 by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday. Davilla alleged that his song, "You Made Me Like It, Daddy," was infringed when the defendant allegedly manufactured recordings of the song for broadcast and home use under the title "You Made Me Like It, Baby." The Apellate Court ruled that Davilla was entitled only to profits actually proven. Attorney's fees of $2,000 were reduced to $1,000.

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., Warner Brothers Enterprises, Inc., Brunswick Radio Corp., Brunswick Record Corp., and Tony Parenti were originally named as defendants in the suit, but no judgment against them was recovered.

Hollywood Previews

"Scandal Street"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Feb. 7.—Outside of showing that Lew Ayres and Louise Campbell are in love, most of "Scandal Street's" first reel is meaningless. The second, third and fourth, which picture analysts probably will be quick to note have been included for padding purposes, are a collection of incidents and character specialties. Humorous for the most part, they show Edgar Kennedy doing a series of slow turns as his wife, family and neighbors get on his nerves; a neighborhood bridge party with all its polite, if catty, small talk; Jan Duggan rehearsing her juvenile dancing pupils for a recital; Virginia Weidler indulging in her penchant for telling tall tales; Roscoe Karns amorously inclined toward Miss Campbell and becoming involved in a shady business deal with Porter Hall.

Along about the fifth reel, the film gets around to its plot. Neighborhood gossip, which in small towns means scandal, has linked Karns and Miss Campbell. When he is found dead, she is accused of his murder. Circumstantial evidence, developed by biased feminine testimony, draws a tight web about her. The returning Ayres finds himself facing a tough problem to unearth evidence that will clear his fiancee. It is then that little Miss Weidler, actually the show's star, gives vent to another bit of wild imagination that so shocks Hall that he confesses the killing. Of course all the women are quick to let Miss Campbell know that, despite their testimony, they knew she had nothing to do with the murder.

Concentrating on small town characters, "Scandal Street" undoubtedly will find its field in smaller town and neighborhood theatres.

Bertram Millhauser and Eddie Welch adapted Vera Caspary's story and James Hogan directed.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"Cassidy of Bar 20"

(Sherman-Paramount)

Hollywood, Feb. 7.—Spectators in the gallery of the preview theatre indicated by appropriate noises, for and against, pattern approval of this item in the Hopalong Cassidy series. The creation is not the greatest in the series, nor yet the least, ranging, perhaps, about midway between those points. It is, in any event, another appearance of durable Bill Boyd in the name role with guns popping and virtue triumphant, which appears to be what is wanted by a great many worshipers of right and might in happy unity.

This time Boyd, accompanied by Russell Hayden and Frank Darien, rides to the relief of Nora Lane, whose ranch is coveted by black-hearted Robert Fiske, "as tough an hombre as ever etc." There's some gunpowder argument about fence lines and a lot of shooting takes place before Boyd puts everybody in his proper place and rides away, still accompanied by his trusty companions, to further adventure.

Produced by Harry Sherman and directed by Lesley Selander, the film moves deliberately through familar grooves with ample time allowance for the jeering of the villain and the cheering of the hero. All in all, it's about par for the Cassidy course.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

Equipment Exhibit Plans Are Dropped

Plans for an equipment exhibit to be held in connection with an M.P.T.O.A. convention have been abandoned for this year due to lack of support for the project among equipment companies, it was learned yesterday.

The M.P.T.O.A. still has made no final decision on whether or not i will hold a 1938 convention, altho it is definite that earlier plans to hold one in Chicago this spring have been abandoned. Despite the fact that the organization customarily holds its conventions in the late winter or early spring, M.P.T.O.A. officials still insist that there is a possibility of a convention being held this year, in which case the meeting would be slated for next fall.

Arrangements for an equipment exhibit were not being promoted by the M.P.T.O.A. The national exhibitor organization merely agreed to cooperate to the extent of holding its convention simultaneously with the exhibition in the event the equipment companies succeeded in arranging such a show. The failure of the equipment companies to complete arrangements is understood to have resulted in the abandonment of the plans for a spring convention in Chicago, however.

Sunday Situation in Charlotte Uncertain

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 7.—The question of Sunday opening here is in the air since City Attorney Basil M. Boyd has declared illegal the action of the City Council in permitting Sunday operation. Boyd based his decision on the fact that the vote was less than two-thirds of the membership.

Church organizations are preparing to oppose any further movement for operation on Sundays. Rev. Willis G. Clark, chairman of a committee named to prevent liberalization of the Sunday laws, has declared his intention to call a joint meeting of church officials and laymen to fight any changes in the law.

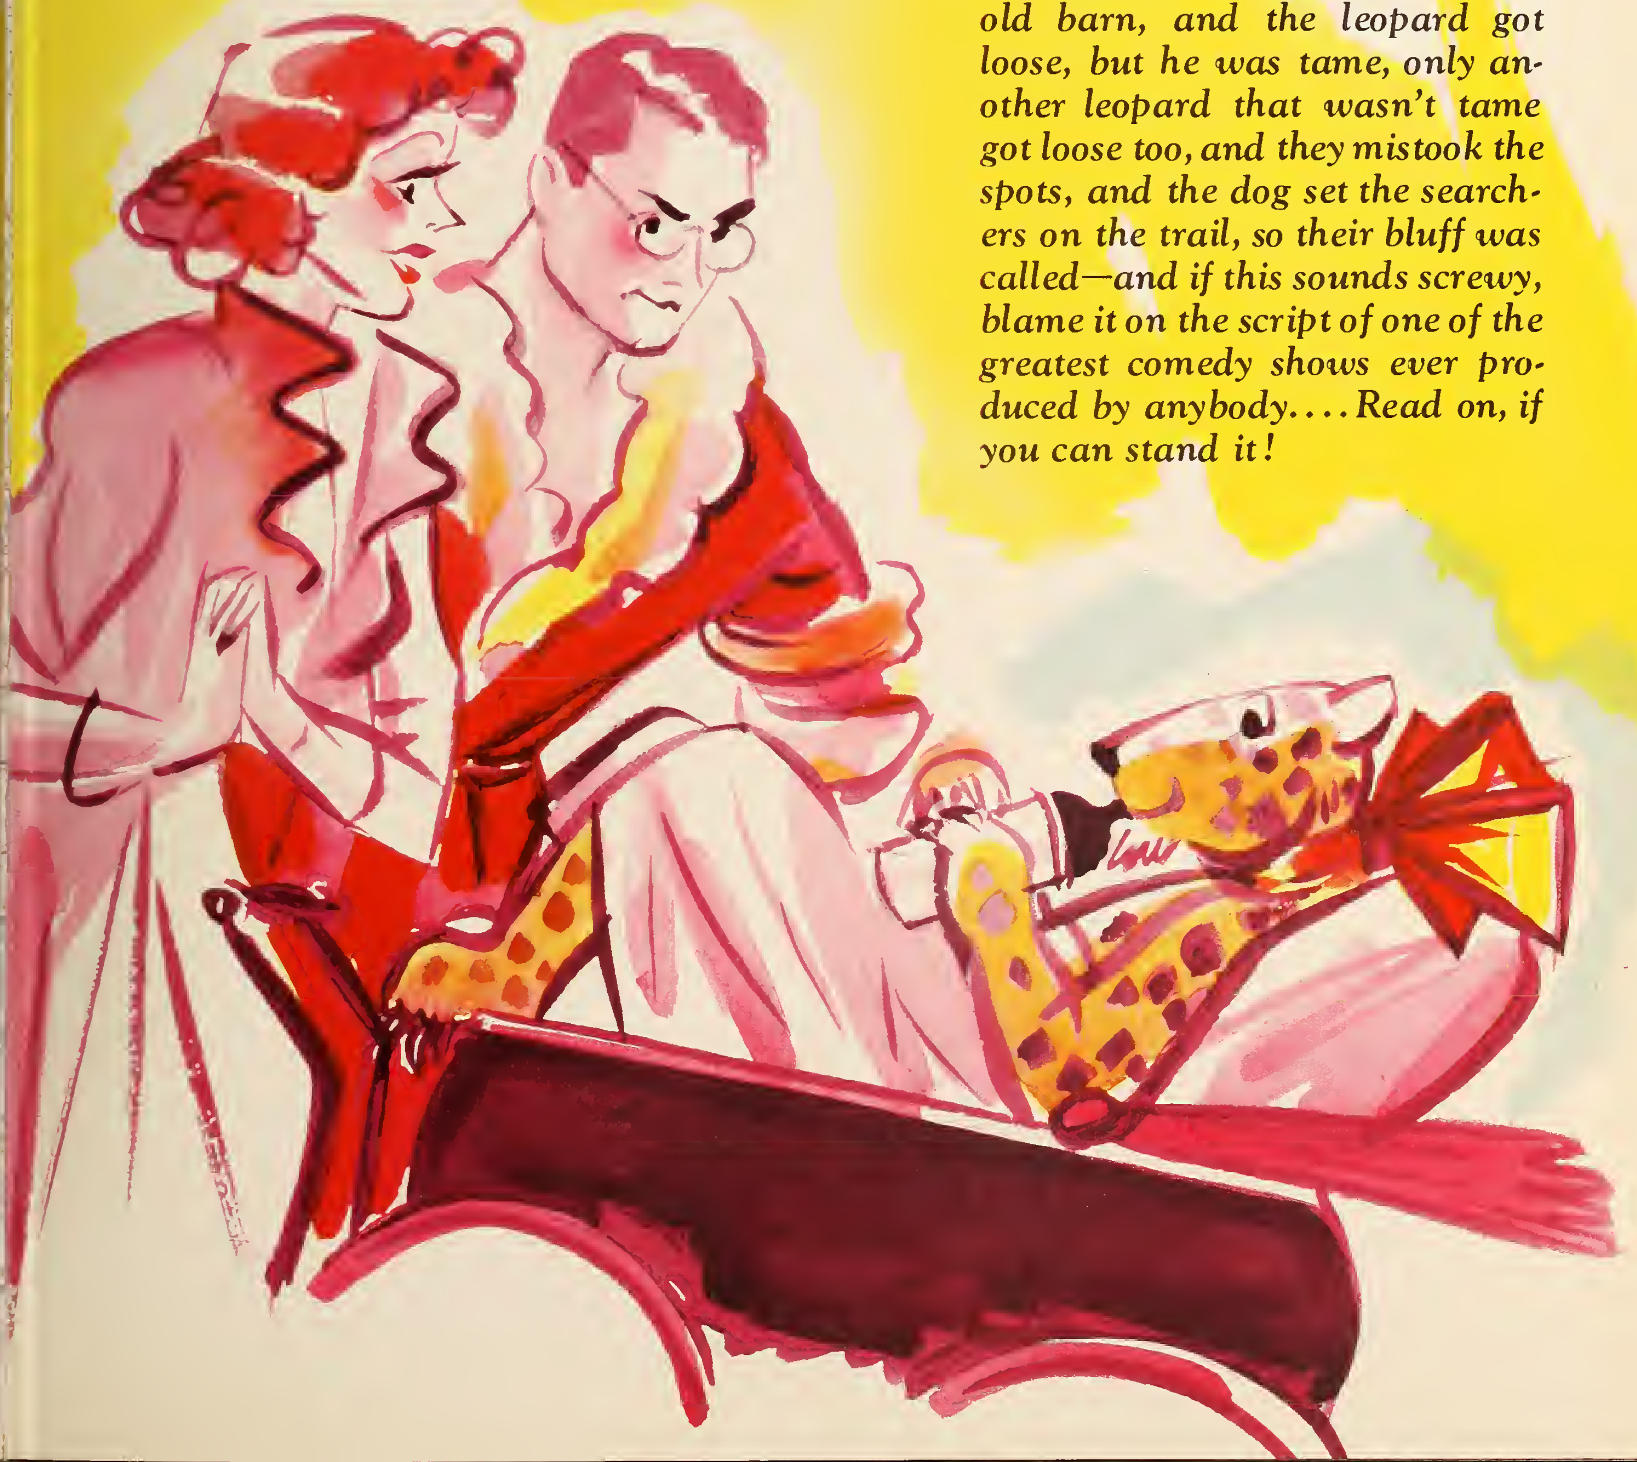
Love, Honor and Oh Baby!

They had to have a "baby" in a hurry—this timid college Prof. and the dizzy society dame . . . . Never mind why! . . . And the skeleton of the prehistoric monster was being researched in the old barn, and the leopard got loose, but he was tame, only another leopard that wasn't tame got loose too, and they mistook the spots, and the dog set the searchers on the trail, so their bluff was called—and if this sounds screwy, blame it on the script of one of the greatest comedy shows ever produced by anybody. . . . Read on, if you can stand it!



"Stage Door" Hepburn in a knockout comedy role!... "Awful Truth" Grant topping all past performances! . . . A supporting cast of name comics—and the leopard and the dog—in one of the grandest big-time shows that ever started a ripple that grew to a roar as crowds kept piling in.

Child Admission Bill Is Set Back 10 Days

ALBANY, Feb. 7.—Legislation intended to remove the contradiction in the existing statutes on the subject of admission of children over eight and under sixteen, sponsored by Assemblyman Harold B. Ehrlich of Erie county tonight was set back ten days by the introducer.

Ehrlich told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that his bill might unintentionally work a hardship on small exhibitors in outlying communities in forcing them to hire matrons during the daytime. He further stated that he will change his bill and effect a clarification of the existing penal law by the elimination of certain words. When the bill has been amended, he said, he is confident that no further opposition will be shown.

attention to motion pictures or radio, discussing them only when questioned by Chairman Sirovich.

The Sirovich resolution would enable the Government to carry on the theatre project started under the WPA, which now is in a very unsatisfactory condition and due for further curtailment, the committee was told.

Motion pictures and radio have taken most of their outstanding personalities from the stage; television may take what are left, and the Government should subsidize the legitimate drama, it was declared.

The measure provides for creation of a new department to be headed by a member of the President's cabinet. It would cost approximately $4,000,000 to start, with several times that much required for the construction of the "appropriate building" which Representative Sirovich visualized for the department on Capitol Hill.

Hearings were held on the legislation during last Congress, Sirovich explained, but due to the pressure of other business no action was taken on the measure. The current hearings, which are scheduled to run all week, are designed to bring up to date the information then gathered by the committee, and the bill is to be turned over to a sub-committee for such revision as may be found necessary before it is reported to the House.

distributors in Mexico City increased 150 per cent in the last 14 months, this being accounted for by higher salaries and larger staffs brought about by compulsion from the highly-organized labor unions, he reported.

Censorship is becoming more strict, he said. While officially there is no film censorship in Mexico, the authorities point out what deletions they would like to have made and if the distributors or exhibitors do not comply they are penalized in various, and devious, ways, according to Seidelman.

There are 428 wired theatres in the country and not more than 12 which still play silent pictures, or, rather, sound pictures without the sound track, Seidelman said. Twenty-five theatres were built in Mexico in 1936 and four large houses are under construction now in the capital city, with seating capacities ranging from 4,200 to 5,500. No further theatre construction is in sight, however, he added.

Seidelman cited "Aya El Rancho Grande," made in Mexico City with Tito Guizar, to show that domestic product is making headway. The picture cost a little more than $20,000. U. A. is distributing the film in Latin America, exclusive of Mexico, and has already turned over 250 per cent more than the cost of the picture to the producer, in addition to U. A.'s distribution charges. The success of this film has boomed production in Mexico City, with the result that studio costs have increased, Seidelman said. The picture has met with success also in Spanish-speaking localities in the United States.

U. A. will distribute "Refugees in the Embassy of Madrid." This was made by the Fama company.

Seidelman will remain here for conferences with Arthur Kelly, U. A. foreign manager, who is expected to return from a cruise in two weeks. This is his first visit here in a year and nine months. In addition to Mexico, Seidelman supervises sales in Central America and northern South America.

Picketing 6 Months

Hartford, Feb. 7.—A. F. of L. union pickets have completed six solid months of picketing the E. M. Loew Theatre. An injunction against the pickets was denied the company, which is now suing for $5,000 damages.

RKO Undisturbed by "Snow White" Rating

ments will materialize. Moreover, it is possible that the designation of an administrative officer, if made at this time, would be in the nature of a temporary appointment for the duration of the reorganization. Presumably such a post would be in conn tion with Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp., the parent company which is in reorganization, and not with any of the operating subsidiaries which are not in reorganization, and as such the appointee would be an aide of the Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee.

The current efforts of the principal creditors to agree on amendments to the RKO reorganization plan which, if successful, would advance the company's reorganization from fall to late spring, are unrelated to the current deliberations over the designation of new management. Proponents of the reorganization plan, other principal creditors and the Federal court all are agreed upon the desirability of early reorganization for RKO. The trustee and its counsel, Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, are equally convinced of the immediate need of filling management vacancies, particularly the post of production head.

The RKO reorganization plan admittedly is not feasible in its present form. The current efforts of the principal creditors are aimed at revisions in the plan which would make it so. If the creditors are able to agree on amendments prior to Feb. 28, the next scheduled hearing date on the plan, it is assumed that they may go before Federal Judge William Bondy at that time and request that the plan be returned to Special Master George Alger for hearings on the amendments.

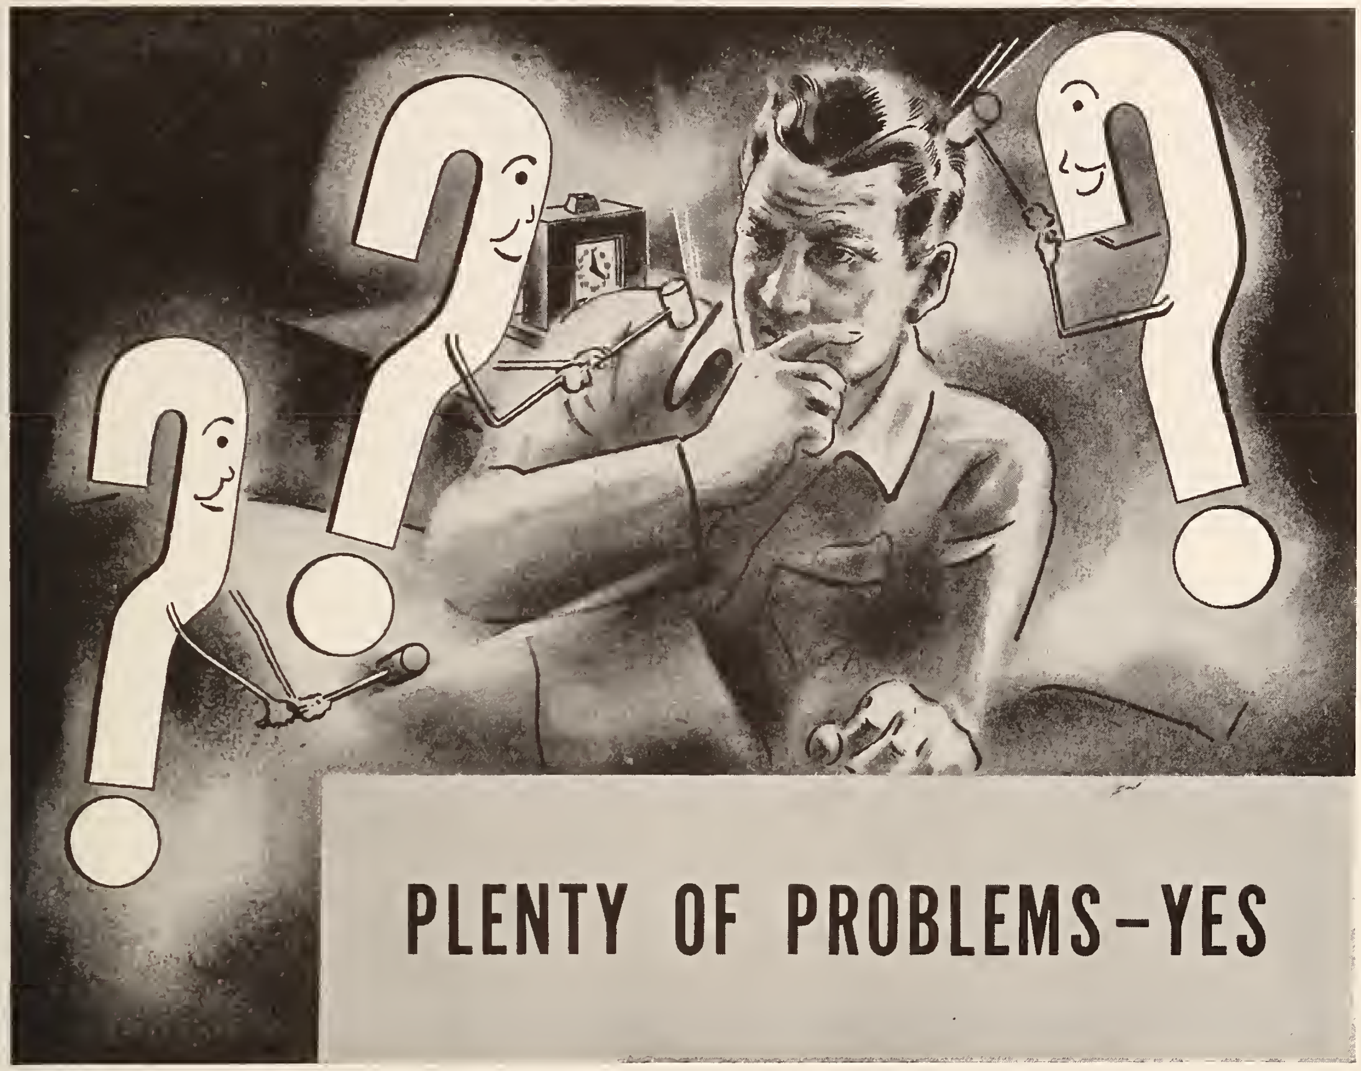
Look for $500,000 On "Snow" Run Here

With attendance holding up strongly, the Music Hall management yesterday estimated that the five-week gross on "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" would exceed $500,000 and the attendance would be higher than 800,000. The picture grossed $64,800 in the first four days of the fourth week, Thursday to Sunday, inclusive, which was as good as the corresponding days of the first week, it was said.

On the strength of the staying powers of the picture, the Music Hall had been contemplating holding it beyond a fifth week, which will start Thursday, but film commitments will prevent this, it was said at the theatre. United Artists pressed for a date for "Tom Sawyer," which has been set to follow "Snow White."

"In Old Chicago" in a fourth week at the Astor, grossed $14,785. "Hurricane," at the Rivoli, has shown consistency as a draw, garnering $25,000 in the third week. This week, the fourth, looks promising for the Goldwyn film since the Saturday and Sunday take was $12,000.

The last three days of the 10-day run of "Swing Your Lady" gave the Strand $6,000, but the theatre will do an estimated $20,000 with "The Kid Comes Back." "Boy of the Street" did $9,300 in its second week at the Globe, which is good for the house. Commitments with the RKO circuit prevented extending the run, according to Monogram.



PLENTY OF PROBLEMS—YES

. . . but the big problem, how to increase public interest in motion pictures, is easy to solve. Here's the answer. Simplified High Intensity projection that puts picture quality on the screen, makes every picture seem a better picture, whether it is black and white or color.

When you install Simplified High Intensity projection you put your theater in line for successful competition with the best houses. You are giving patrons as much for their money as they get anywhere.

Yet this modern projection is not expensive. It gives two to three times as much light on the screen, but at so much less cost per light unit, that one admission per show will cover it.

More than 3500 theaters have installed Simplified High Intensity projection during the past four years. Theaters accounting for a majority of the nation's seating capacity now offer modern high intensity projection. So should you.

Claims Television System Cuts Costs

A new "image emitting" system of television, which is expected to reduce manufacturing costs greatly on the home television receiver, has been invented by Allen B. DuMont, president of the DuMont Laboratories of Upper Montclair, N. J. According to the inventor, the new system is also expected, through the use of a narrower radio band for television broadcasting, to make it possible for two or three stations to operate where only one may now send.

The system will receive any type of picture regardless of what definition or image size is sent out, according to DuMont. Using his system, he says, all that will be necessary is to turn on a set and tune it to the required wave length, as in sound broadcasting reception. Because the number of tubes in a television receiver operating on his principle may be reduced by six or seven, the manufacturing costs will be pared by 25 to 35 per cent, he says.

Planning Removal of WDEL in Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Feb. 7.—Application for the removal of a portion of a tract of land from the city map for contemplated building purposes has been filed with city officials by Station WDEL, Inc., NBC red network outlet here. WDEL was high bidder for the land from the city recently and asks the removal from the city map of portions of the tract laid out as extensions of several streets.

In event the proposed street extensions are not removed from the official map of Wilmington the city later would be able to take over the laid out street sections through condemnation proceedings and extend the streets through the WDEL tract. Filing of the application is in line with the reported plans of WDEL to transfer its transmitter and antenna from a downtown office building to the new location. While officials of the station could not be reached The Federal Communications Commission has issued permits for the change.

Talk Wage Deal for Central States Men

OMAHA, Feb. 7.—Don Searle, general manager for Central States Broadcasting System, and representatives of the Association of Broadcasting Technicians will meet this week to iron out details of a wage increase agreement for the 23 technicians employed by Central States.

Represented by Ray McGrath, Omaha lawyer, and D. J. Dunlop of Chicago, A.B.T. business agent, the technicians delivered an ultimatum to Searle that unless higher wages were paid, union members would walk out. Searle averted shutting down the stations late Saturday afternoon by approving a tentative agreement.

All C.S.B.S. technicians are union members, Dunlop said. WOW and WAAW, both Omaha, are being organized at present, but the union has made no move for negotiations.

Under the tentative agreement technicians will receive starting salary of $130 to $216.66 for a five-year man. Supervisors will receive $216.66 to $238.33 for a three-year man and senior supervisors $238.33 to $260 top.

Stanley Drops His Scheme on English Quota

Industry Had Rejected Alternative Plan

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

London, Feb. 8.—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, declared today at the meeting of the House of Commons Committee on the Films Bill that he would take no further action on his alternative quota proposal, following general rejection of the plan by the various organized branches of the film industry.

At the same time he rebuked producers for the roundabout manner of rejecting the proposal, instead of replying to Stanley's request for reactions with a frank "yes" or "no" as he had asked. He said he had worked out the various proposals and the measure must stand or fall as a whole.

A new proposal to regulate wages and hours, presented today by Tom Williams, Socialist member, was ruled out of order by Stanley, but he accepted the principle embodied in the proposal and said he would assist in

WPA Officials Laud Work But Dodge Sirovich Bill

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Feb. 8.—Seven WPA officials called to testify before the House Patents Committee in support of the Sirovich resolution for a Department of Fine Arts, today presented prepared statements totaling more than 18,000 words, discussing what the theatre, arts, writers and other projects were accomplishing, but absolutely without mention of the Sirovich legislation.

Most important of the WPA witnesses was Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, national director of the theatre project, who reported that appropriated funds spent in two years by that project totaled $25,000,000, in addition to contributions from non-government sources of radio time, cash and services exceeding $2,500,000. May Act on A.F.A.'s Support of IA Claim

Action on complaints that the American Federation of Actors, an affiliate of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America, is giving support to the I.A.T.S.E. claim to jurisdiction over the entertainment field may be taken following the report of an investigating committee which is scheduled to make known its findings to a board meeting of the Four A's next Monday.

Actors' Equity Association, also an affiliate of the Four A's, deferred action yesterday on proposals for its absorption of Chorus Equity Association. Chorus Equity recently won uncontested jurisdiction over night club and presentation house performers, which had been claimed by the American Federation of Actors. Rejection of the latter's claim is believed to have led to the organization's sympathetic flight in the direction of the I.A.T.S.E. The council of Actors Equity will consider the Chorus Equity amalgamation plan at a special meeting tomorrow.

Action on the proposal of the League of N. Y. Theatres to curb theatre ticket speculation by means of an Equity contract favoring producers who subscribed to the regulatory proposals was also deferred by Equity's council yesterday. The council recommended that the producers designate a committee to explain the plan in greater detail at a future meeting of the council.

Report I. A. Plans Jurisdiction Fight

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8.—Unverified reports here today were to the effect that George Browne, I. A. T. S. E. president, and his assistant, William Bioff, would arrive here over the weekend to push the fight to extend jurisdiction over all production crafts including actors, writers and directors. Browne and Bioff, as well as other members of the I. A. T. S. E. executive council, will meet Thursday in San Antonio. Harland Holmden, international vice-president in charge of the Hollywood locals, left today to attend the conclave.

Harold Smith, in charge of four I. A. T. S. E. studio locals here in the absence of Holmden, could not verify the report and said he knew nothing of the plans of either Browne or Bioff.

Gather for San Antonio Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8.—Officials of the I. A. T. S. E. arrived here today for the union's semi-anual executive board meeting which will get under way Thursday. Waterbury, Feb. 8.—Loew's Poli here had a lobby display consisting of an aquarium in which was suspended a hoop. "Landing" Will Run Four Weeks at Roxy

"Happy Landing" will start a fourth week at the Roxy on Friday, the first picture to be held that long since Shirley Temple's "Baby, Take a Bow," also distributed by 20th Century-Fox, played the house in 1934.

The Sonja Henie film is the fifth to earn four weeks at the Roxy since the house opened 11 years ago, and all came from the same company. Grosses around the country on the current picture, according to the distributor, are 23.5 per cent higher than on the star's first two films, "One In a Million" and "Thin Ice."

Including "Happy Landing," four of the eight regular first runs on Broadway are holdovers. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the Music Hall tonight will conclude four weeks of a five-week run; "Every Day's a Holiday" will enter a third and final week at the Paramount today, to be followed by "Buccaneer," and "Hurricane" will go four weeks and four days at the Rivoli. In addition, "Bad Man of Brimstone" will be held for a second week at the Capitol. "In Old Chicago," Broadway's only two-a-day attraction, is completing a fifth week and will go three more.

Hollywood Preview

"The Big Broadcast of 1938"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Feb. 8.—Paramount long ago discovered the proper ingredients and the right amount of each to stir into its annual "Big Broadcast" extravaganzas. The successful past efforts, besides giving the title exceptional commercial value, have created the popular impression that the yearly feature stands for crisp, swift-moving and melodic entertainment. The 1938 edition makes no departure from that rule. Rather, judged by the preview audience reaction, it is a much better blending of the same elements than any of its predecessors. Its prospects as a money-maker are limited only by the individual exhibitors' capacity to whip up interest. It should click alike in big cities and small towns.

Headlong comedy is the base. Stirred up with it are varying quantities of music, dancing, specialties, romance and picturesque spectacle. There is not much story, but there is enough for the five writers who had a hand in the preparation to hang the whole with a pageant of funny gags, situations and episodes.

It has to do with a Transatlantic race between a pair of ultra-scientific liners with W. C. Fields making a stop at a golf course en route. But what the authors concocted serves as a happy background for the musical numbers, the dance ensembles, singing and orchestrations. Featured in the aforementioned are Tito Guizar, Shep Fields and his orchestra and Kirsten Flagstad. The "Waltz Lives On" feature is something pleasingly new and different in solo song and dance spectacle.

As in earlier "Broadcasts" the new version parades a platoon of familiar names with Fields up to his old tricks, doing them in a way provoking general amusement. There is also Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Lynne Overman, Ben Blue and Lief Ericson holding to the established pace.

Grace Bradley, Patricia Wilder, Lionel Pape, Dorothy Howe and Russell Hicks also figure prominently in the merriment. True to its tradition, the film introduces Bob Hope who seems to have potentialities, particularly women appeal, to follow in the footsteps of others who went to fame from their appearance in "Broadcasts."

On the whole the film is a laughfest decorated with liberal eye and ear appeal. Several dialogue lines, however, and the lyrics of "Thanks for the Memory," have high double entendre significance and stand a strong chance of being subject to censorship attention in certain localities. Save for this, the show should be accepted by general audiences as smart amusement. Showmen who like to exercise their imaginations should find its presentation an occasion to indulge in a vivid exploitation carnival.

The production is based on a story by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan. It was adapted by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse. The scenario was written by Walter De Leon, Francis Martin and Ken Englund. The music is by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. LeRoy Prinz created the dances.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 43

(20th Century-Fox)

The cameras roamed the world to produce an issue that holds topical interest. The highlight is a clip of Il Duce at the wedding of his niece. Madame Mussolini, rarely seen in public, marches behind him. By contrast with Rome's usual military display in the newsreels, this is a relief.

Admiral Leahy's testimony before the House Naval Committee is a routine opener, followed by the Japanese capture of Tsingtao. Air views of the 1939 World's Fair site show that the structures are going up rapidly, and Grover Whalen promises that the big show will open on schedule. The start of the annual Moslem pilgrimage from Cairo to Mecca is picturesque. There is a real thrill as "Daredevil" Frakes, for the 50th time, crashes a plane through a house.

Lowell Thomas' "Names in the News" include: Birth of the royal princess in Holland as the nation rejoices; King George VI inspects air force cadets and uses a plane for the trip; Justice McReynolds on his 76th birthday; Japanese Ambassador Sugimura shows how he throws 'em by jui-jitsu. Lew Lehr becomes confused in describing entries in a dog competition. The sports section includes a high diving exhibition; bobsledding and racing at Hialeah.

Running time, 9½ mins. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 241

(M-G-M)

There is authentic drama as the Coast Guard rescues a citizen of Lowell, Mass., marooned in the Merrimac River. His numb form dangles almost lifeless as he is brought to safety on a breeches buoy.

Eric Mayell's shots of the Japanese seizure of Tsingtoa are varied in treatment by M-G-M, to their probable advantage. The day and night celebration following the birth of the Netherlands princess royal is effectively filmed. Those who like cute youngsters will enjoy a little girls' beauty contest at which their boy playmates are the judges.

As for the rest, "Daredevil" Frakes repeats his stunt of crashing a plane through a house for the edification of onlookers and makes work for the doctors; Admiral Leahy speaks for the mike at the House Naval Affairs hearing; Glen Cunningham retains his laurels in the Millrose Games; Patty Berg wins another cup in golf competition, and Jimmy Braddock, turning referee, handles a kids' slugfest.

Running time, 9 mins. F.

Paramount News
Issue No. 54

(Paramount)

Staging newsreel scenes without appearing to have had them staged is quite a feat. Paramount did a smart job of it in gathering scenes of Hollanders celebrating the birth of a Princess. The crowd scenes are spontaneous, closeups of smaller groups are handled smartly. The clip is so well done and the people are so picturesque that the feeling of gaiety is communicated to the audience.

Another highlight of the reel from the audience entertainment standpoint is some footage devoted to Jimmy Walker being interviewed about his new radio job and his wife, Betty Compton, in her new Madison Avenue flower shop. Both have camera personalities.

The customary winter stuff is taken care of by shots of a shovel crane relieving ice pressure on a power house below Niagara Falls. The camera shots fail to justify Gregory Abbott's commentary.

In Washington some of the men who attended the "small business" conference speak out. They're good, but Gabriel Heatter's preliminary commentary tries and fails to create the impression that it is an epoch-making event.

Some interesting air shots made in England, including King George, are used to discuss the armament race and these precede Admiral Leahy's testimony before a Congressional committee. Both are timely. Running time, 9 mins. J.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 58

(RKO)

Admiral Leahy's recent naval statements which made national headlines provide a good lead for this issue. It is real newsy and the background is intelligently built up to relate to the live material. The rest of the makeup is more or less current. The reel has been given the usual first rate editorial and caption treatment.

The King of England is briefly seen visiting the Royal Air Force at Cranwell. Secretary of State Hull selects Davis Cup Pairings for 1938. King Farouk and his bride review a parade of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. The ill-fated navy bomber that crashed in California is shown before the accident and also three injured survivors. Retired Champion Braddock referees a boys' club boxing match. Italian troops parade in Rome and the reel concludes with shots of the outstanding events at the Millrose indoor track meet in New York. Running time, 8 mins.

Universal Newsreel
No. 639

(Universal)

A well rounded assortment of material including styles, sport, foreign news and novelty is offered in this issue. The result is an average issue. The items are well presented, edited and photographed.

Lavengro winning the Bahamas Handicap at Hialeah opens the reel. It is followed by scenes of auto workers holding a mass meeting in Cadillac Square, Detroit; James E. West talks briefly on Boy Scout activities; King George VI visits his 1918 flying school; James Braddock, former heavyweight champion, referees a juvenile bout; spring styles in women's wear are shown on attractive models in Chicago; Italian cadets practise the goosestep; Boston offers a dog show; Tampa is represented with daredevil stunts by aviators and the reel closes with a number of good shots of the recent Millrose track meet at Madison Square Garden. Running time, 8 mins. P.

Criterion Stressing "Special" Picture

Limited in its selection of first r features, which go to other Broadw theatres, the Criterion is seeking o special films of various types and plugging them.

This week the house is billing "T River," Government documenta three-reeler, above the feature, "Sca dal Street." Critical notices on film, which is about flood control, good, and the theatre reports intere so great that it has decided to ho the picture a second week. The bool ing cost the Criterion nothing, Paramount is handling the distributic for the Resettlement Administration no rental cost.

While "The Girl Was Young" wi be the theatre's feature attraction b ginning Friday, the Criterion is devo ing its advance advertising to th start of "The Lone Ranger," a 1 episode Republic serial based on th radio program of the same name.

A policy of full-week single feature with stage shows is contemplated b the Brooklyn Strand, as a result o the success of the theatre's weeken vaudeville which has been in effec eight weeks.

M-G-M to Try New Shor

M-G-M will launch a series of one-reel shorts on a current topic wit factual background and commentary if a test film to be made in April obtains favorable reaction. The "feeler" will be on the Japanese invasion of China, with narration by John Booth Nesbit, who conducted the "Passing Parade" radio program. Booth has been signed to make 10 one-reelers under that title and if M-G-M decides to make the topical shorts, he will be switched to the new series, which will be in black and white.

MPTOA May Decide On Oklahoma Meet

to the board of directors, who decide the matter, it looks as though a national conference of theatre owners will be held by M. P. T. O. A. in the early autumn of this year, possibly in Oklahoma City."

Earlier plans of the organization to hold the convention in the spring, as has been customary in the past, were discarded recently when equipment companies failed to support a projected plan to stage a large equipment exhibit in Chicago in conjunction with the exhibitor meeting.

Kuykendall's bulletin reiterates the M. P. T. O. A.'s stand against a policy of trade practice regulation by legislation and litigation and devotes considerable space to an explanation of the functions of the conciliation boards which the M. P. T. O. A.'s 10-point plan proposes to establish for the handling of trade practice complaints.

"Obstacles Insurmountable"

Admitting the greater effectiveness of arbitration over conciliation, the bulletin describes the former as requiring conditions which are "usually impossible to secure from one or the other of the parties involved" and declares that these "obstacles seem insurmountable." The bulletin points out, however, that where parties to a dispute can agree on the principles of arbitration and the enforcement of findings, the proposed conciliation boards could act as arbitrators "if requested to do so."

The bulletin reiterates the M. P. T. O. A. complaint that the only obstacle to the adoption of its 10-point trade practice program continues to be the failure of the distributors to give it their active cooperation. Renewal of the exhibitors' complaint against the music tax is also made in the bulletin, and while "excessive percentage terms" are referred to Kuykendall relates that the M. P. T. O. A. has no established policy on film buying, regarding the problems arising therefrom as applying solely to the individual exhibitor.

Kill Mass. Curfew Bill

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—By a rising vote of 47 to 40, the Legislature today refused to substitute for an adverse report issued by the Committee on Legal Affairs the bill of Representative Francis X. Coyne providing for a curfew law under which all children under 17 years of age would have to be off the streets by 9 P. M. Fines of $5 would be imposed on parents or guardians for third and subsequent offenses. Such a bill would have worked serious injury to the industry.

Coyne is the author of the bill now pending to forbid the billing of screen stars by other than their legal names.

rights last fall and previous patent agreements with RCA, which has brought International into the sound equipment manufacturing field.

During the next six months the company also will enter the 16 millimeter sound-on-film market, Hines divulged.

"This will not be marketed among theatres, but rather as an equipment for the extension of screen uses in the field of industry and education," he said. When asked if in the event that exhibitor developments should bring demands for the new 16mm machine, would theatres be permitted to buy it, he answered in the affirmative.

Won't Make 16mm Film

The General Theatres head was emphatic in his assertion that the company would not participate in the manufacture or distribution of 16mm or other film. "That is an industry of its own, not a part of the equipment business," he said.

The projector mechanism is of entirely new design, said Hines. The projector, labeled Simplex model E-7, is already in production and will be demonstrated from Feb. 21, at all branches of National Theatres Supply Co., distributors of Internatnonal's Simplex equipment, he said.

The new model was demonstrated after the luncheon by Herbert Griffin, International vice-president, who pointed out the highlights. These include synchronated front and rear shutters, automatic fire shutter safety trip, so-called "one-shot" oiling system, removable film gate, improved film gate design, illuminated white interior, demountable film trap, studio type guides and gyroscopic shutter governor. Griffin stressed improvement in intermittent movement and arrangement to permit ready removal and safer lubrication.

Also at the luncheon were Walter Greene of National Theatres Supply Co.; Ed Hartley, A. E. Meyer, George Friedl, Jr., P. A. McGuire of International Projector; Terry Ramsaye, editor, Motion Picture Herald; A-Mike Vogel, editor MOTION PICTURE DAILY, in addition to other members of the trade press.

Albany Bill Would Restrict Air Libel

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—Assemblyman Phelps Phelps, Manhattan Democrat, today introduced into the legislature an amendment to the libel law, designed to restrict actions for libel against radio stations as a result of allegedly slanderous remarks made in the course of uncensored speeches.

These sums are to be turned over to KFEL to reimburse the station for the cost involved in obtaining the air rights to the games, and to pay for commentators' fees. Joe Meyers and Bill Welch of the KFEL staff will describe the games.

Deliberations on the designation of new management in RKO are nearing a conclusion, with no official indications up to this time that the company's executive setup will be disturbed in any vital respect, it was learned on excellent authority yesterday.

With final decisions still likely to be delayed for a matter of days, no authoritative statement on what the results of the deliberations will be can be reported without qualifications, even at this advanced stage of the discussions. COMMERCE UNIT FAVORS NEELY BILL

Group in Senate Orders Block Booking Statute Reported to Body

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The first step in this year's legislative campaign against the major producers was taken today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which ordered the Neely anti-Block booking bill favorably reported to the Senate.

Proponents of film legislation indicated that the committee's action will be followed in quick succession by a number of other steps to bring about prompt consideration of both pending and new measures.

While no details of the contemplated campaign are available, it is understood that Allied States will have ready for introduction in the House in the near future the bill which, it was announced at its board meeting here last month, would be drafted without delay.

Also a possible vehicle against the film industry, the Borah-O'Mahoney bill to require corporations engaging in interstate commerce to obtain Federal licenses, may be given consideration before the end of the session.

Decision to report the Neely bill was reached by the committee without the holding of hearings, it being said that the lengthy hearings in 1936 afforded all the information needed for action. The bill was reported as a result of those hearings, in June of that year, but was not further acted upon.

The Neely bill prohibits compulsory

"To the Victor"

(Gaumont British)

In several respects "To the Victor" is one of the finest pictures to come out of England in a long period. It is a simple story, of sheep dogs and sheep men in Scotland, but it is told with such beauty of scenery, human warmth and fidelity of atmosphere that it emerges as a film work of rare distinction.

Perhaps it may be found that the considerable Scotch accent which studs the dialogue throughout, and which incidentally is a delight to the ear, may offer a problem to the selling of the film in this country. If that be true, it is most unfortunate, because the film offers far too much in compensation for that to be considered an obstacle to selling.

One performance alone stands out as a superlative piece of film characterization, one of the best this reviewer has happened upon. It is that of Will Fyffe as a dour Scotchman, who loves his dog, but who is not loved by his neighbors. He is a mean man, whose dog is believed to be a sheep killer, and who has earned the hatred of the glen. In admirable support are John Loder, as the new sheep man in the district; Margaret Lockwood, as Fyffe's daughter, and all those who play the simple, earnest sheep men and villagers.

All credit for careful, detailed direction must go to Robert Stevenson, who filmed the story, "Owd Bob," by Alfred Ollivant, from a screenplay by J. B. Williams.

Interwoven in the story of Fyffe's fight to protect himself and his beautiful black dog from the justified attacks of his neighbors is the romance of Loder and Miss Lockwood. There is a thrill of suspense and an exhibition of remarkable canine intelligence in the field trial competition of the sheep dogs, centering in the rivalry of Fyffe's dog and that of Loder. The trials are the picture's highlight, and something to make dog lovers return to see the picture again. The revelation that Fyffe's and not Loder's dog is the culprit and a reformation in the old man's character bring a final reconciliation.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Bringing Up Baby"

(RKO)

Hollywood, Feb. 9.—A high note of hilarity is struck early and maintained throughout in this nonsensical romantic farce, and it has all the earmarks of the kind of laugh show that should spread a broad grin on the faces of exhibitors—for box-office reasons.

With a high quality cast which obviously enjoyed itself hugely in the making thereof, "Bringing Up Baby" stars Cary Grant, whose work in this role should make him stronger than ever; Katharine Hepburn, who, as the apparently unbalanced wealthy girl, displays an unexpected flair for comedy, and "Baby," a tame leopard which responds perfectly to its cues and opens the way for lively exploitation. In support are Charles Ruggles, May Robson, Walter Catlett and Barry Fitzgerald.

Howard Hawks, who directed, worked for the laughs, and succeeded in lining them up one after the other. He had plenty to work with, besides a strong cast, for Dudley Nichols and Hagar Wilde, who did the screenplay, provided him with a rollicking yarn, replete with ridiculously amusing situations and smartly entertaining dialogue.

Grant, timid, scholarly zoologist, whose only interest is in his museum of prehistoric monsters, literally runs into Miss Hepburn, and she decides she is going to marry him. Her efforts to remain close to him cause one hilarious mishap after another, complicated by the arrival of a pet leopard, which she uses as a decoy to keep him always in sight and hearing. They arrive at the home of her wealthy aunt, Miss Robson, and the misadventures come thick and fast, involving a frantic leopard hunt over the Connecticut countryside, an equally frantic hunt for a prehistoric bone which the dog has buried, and a jail episode with Catlett as the constable. She gets her man eventually, when Grant's resistance collapses—and so does he.

Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

face real hardship for two years, when the quota, under the present plan, will reach 25 per cent, and American companies launch expensive British productions.

The fear was expressed generally that American companies would supply most of the quota, Jack Prendergast declaring that this country probably would be unable to supply the money. The C. E. A. quota committee was asked to watch the progress of the bill, and attempt to obtain changes during the third reading in the House of Commons. The council's report expressed satisfaction with the inclusion of the quality clause in the bill, and appeared undisturbed over the prospect of additional labor safeguards in the measure.

I. T. O. A. Seeks to Revive Trade Meet

The I. T. O. A. is seeking to revive the plan for a trade practice conference of exhibitor organization heads which was halted recently when the national Allied directors rejected the idea. The plan is to have the presidents of the M. P. T. O. A., Allied and the New York group agree on a "united front" of exhibitors to work out a program which would be submitted to the distributors.

In response to a telegram from Harry Brandt, I. T. O. A. head, Nathan Yamins, Allied president, advised him: "The resolution adopted by the board of directors of Allied is self-explanatory. I concur with the resolution and fail to see what good purpose could be served by conferences while we are in the midst of a legislative campaign. It is a favorite practice of the Big Eight to suggest conferences when threatened with legislative action."

The I. T. O. A. will reply to Yamins in a statement signed by the board of directors to be published in The Independent, the organization's organ, this week. The statement takes exception to the linking of the local organization with the major distributors, and indicates that it will not halt its efforts for a conference.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—The Academy Awards Committee, headed by Frank Capra today rejected a recommendation of short subject producers that a special classification for documentary and educational films be established in the short subjects division for the Tenth Annual Awards.
